WILSON HOLDS SILENCE

Eight Vessels are Reported Sunk

BRITISH ENTER FOE LINES AT GAUDECOURT SECTOR

Lively Artillery in Many Sectors of Franco-Belgian Front, Particularly Between Ancre and Somme.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

BERLIN, Feb. 2. — Artillery and reconnoitering activity of a lively sort are reported in today's official statement in many sectors of the Franco-Belgian front. An artillery duel is particularly sharp between the Ancre and the Somme, while in Gaudecoure sector on the Somme front an operation by a British force resulted in the German lines being entered.

FORTY LIVES ARE LOST

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

....CHICAGO, Feb. 2. — It is believed that forty persons lost their lives and that many others were injured early today by an explosion of gas which wrecked a three-storey apartment house in the heart of the foreign district on th west side.

OUTLINE OF THE PLAN TO SECURE MORE RECRUITS FOR 247TH BATTALION

O.C. Has Talk With the Soldiers' Parents at the Armories.

The formation of the 500 Club will be formally launched at the meeting in the Opera House on Sunday night. Lt.-Col. Ackerman outlined his plan to a number of the citizens at the recreation rooms of the Armories last night, and everyone was very favorably impressed with the idea.

For some time the officers and men of the 247th Batt. have been engaged in compiling a list of the eligible men of the city and they find that there are over 1,400 of them, married and single. The number of single men will number considerably over 500 and a card index was prepared and the men interviewed by the recruiting officers with the object of finding out why they had not enlisted. Quite a number had no reason; one man did not know the cause of the war; another was working on munitions; "his mother would not let him enlist." These were only a few of the excuses read out by the O.C. last evening. No names were mentioned. The cards have been arranged into five sets, comprising the five districts into which the city has been divided for the purposes of the club. When the organization is complete a captain and committee will be appointed in each sector and to them will be handed the list of names. Then a week's recruiting campaign will be started and every effort put forth by the members of the club to bring these men to the Armories for examination by the doctors.

That the idea is a popular one needs no further recommendation than the willingness with which the most prominent citizens of the city have signified their wish to help the work along. An invitation is extended to all parents, sisters, relatives or friends of the boys now overseas to be one of the 500.

The Speakers' Patriotic League, the Womans Auxiliary to the Patriotic League and all organizations having the welfare of Canada at heart will be asked to lend assistance to the club.

The details will be explained thoroughly by speakers at the Opera House on Sunday night.

An outside speaker, as well as local men, will address the meeting and the 247th band will be on hand to assist in the program.

Rev. R. G. Peever, B.D., Adjt. McElhiney, Messrs. G. O. Cameron, Joe. Wearing and F. J. Voaden offered suggestions whereby all the citizens will co-operate in the matter

Mrs. J. Knox, president of the Canadian Kitchener League, has received among other letters the following: I wish to thank you for the two boxes containing 100 pairs of socks which your league was so kind to send for the men. They arrived last night in excellent shape. I am distributing them to the men today and asking them to write to you themselves, which I am sure they will do, as socks are what they most need and appreciate here. I may say that now that winter is here we are getting better supplies of socks both from official and patriotic sources than we were earlier in the fall, but, as you know, it is very difficult to keep the supply up to the demand under the conditions we have here in the winter months, and I am sure that the men would only be too pleased to accept your offer to send more. Wishing your league every success in its good work during the New Year.—M. Dunsford, Lt., 18th Canadian Batt.

The following separation allowances have been granted:

Mrs. Dorothy Lomax, 421 London St.

Mrs. E. J. Pymer, Cordova Mines, Ont.

Ptes. D. Ross Sutherland, of Bancroft, and Leslie W. Bristow of Millbrook are the two latest additions to the strength of the 247th Batt.

Battalion Orders

Orders by Lt.-Col. Ackerman, O.C. 247th Batt. Jan. 2, 1917.

Duties—

Orderly officer for today—Lieut. J. F. Strickland.

Next for duty—Lieut. H. M. Latimer.

A. E. BRITTAIN, Lt.
Adjutant.

Recruiting for the past two weeks in the 3rd Military District has broken all records and no doubt will lead the Dominion as in the first two weeks of this year. The total number of recruits is 1317 as compared with 1003 for the first part of January, which in itself was an increase of nearly four hundred over the last two weeks in December. The 247th Battalion is well up in the list with 23 recruits, making a total strength of 161.

VESSELS LOST ONLY HALF OF ONE PERCENT

FRENCH MINISTER OF MARINE DECLARES GERMANY CANNOT WIN.

VICTORY FOR ALLIES.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

PARIS, Feb. 2.—Rear-admiral Lacase, minister of marine, speaking in the Senate, declared that only half of one per cent. of all tonnage which entered French ports during the last eleven months has been sunk by German submarines.

He said the percentage might be a little higher in the future, but no efforts of the Germans could prevent the final victory of the Allies.

STONE OF 8 TONS FOR MONUMENT

ARCHIE BARBEAU SUPERINTENDED DIFFICULT TASK.

The largest block of stone ever hauled over George St. was teamed from the station to the Coughlin Monumental Works yesterday afternoon by the Peterborough Fuel and Transfer Co., superintended by Mr. A. Barbeau. The rock was from the granite quarries of Barre, Vermont. It contains about 75 cubic feet and weighs about 8 tons.

At the Coughlin Monumental Works it will form the main body of a monument for the late Frank Brownton of Brownton.

Request to Raise Blockade of Greece

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

LONDON, Feb. 2.—A request is being made for the raising of the Greek blockade on the ground that the demands of the Entente Allies in the transfer of troops to the south has been complied with.

AMERICANS HURRYING HOME

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

LONDON, Feb. 2. — The German note has resulted in a rush of Americans to procure passage to New York on the first available boats. Large numbers who expected to sail within a fortnight decided to leave on Saturday, and before noon all first-class accommodation on the steamers was booked.

ASK COUNCIL'S SUPPORT FOR BATHING HOUSES

Petitions Will be Presented on Monday.

A large deputation of citizens interested in the introduction of municipal bathing houses in Peterborough will wait on the City Council Monday night to ask for support from the Council. The Mayor will be asked to allot to each speaker a time limit. The following petitions will be presented:

1—Requests on Behalf of Organizations—

(a) Playgrounds Association, Mr. W. G. Morrow, president—5 min.

(b) Ministerial Association, Rev. R. A. Whattam, secretary—2 min.

(c) Mothers Clubs and Circles (one petition)—5 min. Mrs. Meserve, pres. Y.M.C.A. Mothers Club. Mrs. Adair, pres. Mothers Circle, Queen Mary School; Mrs Sabine, pres. Mothers Circle, King Edward School; Mrs. Hay, pres. Mothers Circle, King George School; Mrs. Scadding pres. Mothers Circle, South Central School.

(d) Y.W.C.A., Miss Martha Dickson, president—2 min.

(e) Y.M.C.A., G. A. Gillespie, M.L.A., president—2 min.

(f) Salvation Army, Adj. J. A. McElhiney—2 min.

2—Citizens in General—

(a) Petition of 800 names, Mr. M. E. Ketcheson—5 min.

(b) Citizens' letters, Mrs. W. R. Morris—5 min.

3—Discussion

(a) What other cities are doing and a sugested policy for Peterborough, Mr. C. N. Meserve—5 min.

(b) The danger of delay; life is at stake, Dr. F. C. Neal—5 min.

It is also expected that members of the Health Association will be present to lend their moral support.

Other organization should be represented and citizens in general should be present.

Turks have surrounded the entire region of Lebanon with a military cordon, thus preventing any food from getting through, with the result that about half the Christians and Druse tribesmen have died of starvation.

MORE LAW BREAKERS

OTTAWA, Feb. 2. — More law breakers were admitted into the county jail during the month of January than during the corresponding period a year ago. The last mnoth saw 66 men and 6 women admitted to the jail for various offences, the most predominant of which were infractions of the Ontario Temperance Act. In January, 1916, a total of 61 were admitted to the jail, of which number eight were women.

JACK FROST IS HARD ON TRAIL OF EARS AND NOSES

20 Degress Below and Bear Declines to Remain Out.

The temperature this morning was 20 below zero. This low figure was accompanied with a strong wind, and the cold was intense. At noon it was 10 below, and at 2 o'clock 12 below. This day last year the ground was practically bare of snow, and the weather mild. Two years ago all trains were blocked by a heavy snow storm; temperature that day, two below. This is the day on which Bruin takes his mid-winter survey, and decides whether he had better go back and hibernate or stay out. As he could see his shadow today, he has gone back for another six weeks.—W. P.

While Peterborough is situated in a section that lies in the path of many of the cold waves that come from the north and north-west, it is somewhat south of a line that receives the full effects of the rigors of Jack Frost. This city is 725 feet above sea level. Lindsay is over 150 feet higher, while Kinmount is at an altitude of 920 feet. Just now by way of digression it may be stated that Kinmount has the unenviable honor of being one of the coldest

ANOTHER DAY OF WAITING FOR DECISION OF STATES ON SUBMARINE WARFARE

GENERAL HINDENBURG.
German Chief of the General Staff, who is said to have conceived the latest Hun effort on the sea.

Officials Are Convinced That Nothing Less Than Break in Diplomatic Relations is Ultimate Development.

PRESIDENT MAINTAINS SILENCE

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2. — The new submarine crisis seems to have resolved itself into another day of waiting. Tonight or tomorrow the American people may know what course the government has decided upon to answer Germany's declaration of unrestricted submarine warfare.

President Wilson and a limited few who know his plans continued their silence today, but it was expected that this afternoon the cabinet would be informed of what steps have been taken or are proposed.

On every hand officials are convinced that nothing less than a break in diplomatic relations is the ultimate development. It may be delayed, but they all expect it to come, unless there is some wholly unexpected development in the situation. There seems to be doubt, however, that some communication had gone to Ambassador Gerard, probably warning him of the steps the United States felt compelled to take and giving him an opportunity, however limited, to make some arrangements to alleviate possible hardships of Americans in Germany.

BOMBS DROP[illegible] ON DUNKIRK; NO VICTIMS

GERMANS FAIL IN ATTACK ON TRENCHES SOUTH OF LEINTREY.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

PARIS, Feb. 2. — (Official Statement.) — "Trenches south of Leintrey, in Lorraine, were attacked last evening by the Germans. The attacks failed, the war office announced today.

"There were artillery actions last night at Louvemont, north of Verdun, and at Metzeral, in the Vosges.

"A German aviator dropped five bombs yesterday on Dunkirk. A war office statement reports the damage small and that there were no victims.

CITY CAN TAKE OVER RAILWAY AND GAS PLANT WHEN READY

Both Concerns Are Producing Profits

Sir Adam Beck, chairman of the Hydro-Electric Commission of Ontario, met Mayor Duffus and some of the aldermen and city officials in Toronto yesterday and discussed with them the handing over of the Peterborough Radial Railway and the Peterborough gas plant to the Utilities Commission.

For over two hours the question of the amount of money that the transfer would involve and how it would be best financed by the city was discussed. It was pointed out that the Commission would not hand one over without the other and it was shown that the concerns were both paying investments, figuring that the city could borrow the money at five and a fifth per scent.

While all the members of the commission were not present, Sir Adam Beck gave the civic deputation every hope that the Commission would transfer the properties at any time the municipality was ready to receive them. The distributing plant of the Otonabee Power Co. will also be sold to the city if they require it.

The Commission will operate the plants themselves until such time as Peterborough decides to take them over.

Mayor Duffus and the aldermen were delighted with the interview, which had been arranged by Sir Adam Beck, and also with the result of it.

Itemized Statement

The itemized statement of cost for each plant was not given as the commission will not give them until the time comes for the tracsfer, but the amount involved in the taking over of the three properties would be about $420,000.

The Commission will hold all the power plants and sell the necessary electricity to the Utilities Commission as under the present agreement.

The price of the Otonabee Power distributing plant was fixed at $7612.

50,000 AMERICANS FIGHT WITH ARMIES OF ALLIES

Hundreds of Uncle Sam's Sons Have Given Lives.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

With British Armies in France, Feb. 2—Nearly 50,000 Americans, it is estimated, are fighting for the Allies, and four-fifths of these are in the British army under Sir Douglas Haig. Hundreds have given their lives, and hundreds of others bear permanent scars of the shock of battle. Each group of new reinforcements brings numbers of their fellow-countrymen to fill their places. Canadian regiments naturally attracted the greatest number of Americans, but they are found among the English, Australians and South Africans and in different staff departments.

PETERBOROUGH, FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 2, 1917

DR. AMYS EXPLAINS.

DR. AMYS EXPLAINS to The Review why he is in favor of having the secretary of the Automobile Association issue the licenses to the owners of cars. That work, he says, has no relation to that of the inspector who examines the professional chauffeur. If the secretary of the association issues the licenses, he will receive twenty-five cents for each one granted, and this is an inducement to him to fill a position to which there is no other compensation attached. It also gives him an opportunity to induce the applicants for the licenses to join the association.

It was the local association that first induced the Government, through the Ontario Motor League, to allow the licenses to be issued here. Last year there was no fee allowed to the issuer, the entire $10 charged for a license going to the Government. The local association appointed the issuer, who received an honorarium from the society's treasury. This year the twenty-five-cent fee is restored, and Dr. Amys feels that the license issuer should be a member of the association. He does not believe that political patronage should figure in this matter. If the issuer of licenses is to be given any new authority to inquire into the fitness of an owner to drive a car, then the position should go to an expert autoist.

PRESIDENT WILSON AND THE WAR.

AS AN EX-PRESIDENT of the United States, Colonel Roosevelt is familiar with the limitations of the powers of that official. He probably remembers many a difference between his opinions and those held by Congress, and how, during the closing months of his second term of office, he was in a constant snarl with the elected representatives of the people. Message after message that he sent to the House was ignored and suggestion after suggestion was rejected.

The Colonel is hardly fair to the present incumbent of the office when he makes it appear in his published interviews that the question of war or peace with Germany lies with President Wilson. Congress alone has the right to declare war. The President has no control over the armed forces except in the case of domestic difficulties. If the people of the United States had been anxious for the war with Germany and could have impressed that fact upon their representatives, the latter could have declared hostilities with Germany, and the President would have had no alternative but to carry out their injunctions. President Madison regarded the War of 1812 as foolish and unwarranted and did all that he could to prevent it. Another President was, against his counsel, forced into a war with Mexico in 1847. President McKinley always held that the trouble with Spain could have been settled by cool-headed diplomacy. To the very last he strove to head off the trouble, but Congress declared war, and he was obliged to accept the mandate.

President Cleveland, in 1895, when the British refused to arbitrate the Venezuelan boundary dispute, sent a message to Congress, in which he said that "the time had come when the United States should, for its own satisfaction, ascertain the correct dividing line between Venezuela and British Guiana. In less than half an hour's time Congress voted him control of the army and navy and unlimited means to carry out his program. The world regarded war as inevitable, but the coolness of Lord Salisbury prevailed to prevent an outbreak, and arbitration was agreed to, only to result in a finding that vindicated the position taken by the British.

If the people of the United States wish to redeem their national honor and avenge the murder of their helpless citizens, it is for Congress, and not the President, to give the word. All he can do is to offer advice, which they are free to accept or reject as they deem best. Unfortunately for the nation and for the cause of civilization, Mr. Wilson has always been disposed to surrender the dignity that is supposed to belong to a world power, and to submt to snubs, insults and injury from the nation that is defying all the laws, human and divine, ever enacted.

THE NEW FRIGHTFULNESS.

"THE SITUATION is indeed serious, but the Navy can deal with it," says ex-Premier Asquith, with reference to Germany's announced intention to carry on unrestricted submarine warfare.

It may be that Germany has issued the threat for one reason—to induce the Allies to listen to terms of peace and to enlist the co-operation of the neutral nations in bringing the war to an end. If this is the real object, then it is likely to fail. The British Navy can deal with the situation, and the neutral nations have the choice of two misfortunes—war with Germany ir quiet submission to her new frightfulness.

RECONSTRUCTING THE COMMONS.

EVEN THE STAID OLD London Times is becoming imbued with the spirit of radicalism, perhaps on account of the war, which is levelling all social distinctions and reforming everything in England. Instead of the present plan of geographical representation, The Times suggests that trades, industries and professions be represented in Parliament.

Let us consider how this proposed change would work if introduced in Canada. The one saving grace of the Canadian Senate, the one outstanding excuse for its existence, past and prospective, is that to some extent at least, an attempt has been made to give all classes representation in the Upper House. The membership is more truly representative of the country than is that of the elected House, where the number of lawyers predominate. The professions, the trades, the manufacturers and the farmers have members in the Senate, and only a short time ago the right of organised labor was recognized when a leader in the Telegraphers' Union was vested with a senatorial toga.

There will be party government in the world so long as the minds of men take different views on public questions, but party government would be less dangerous under such a system as that proposed by The London Times. No class would be able to secure a majority of the members and legislate for their own interests regardless of the rights of others. What the manufacturer in the East wants in the way of a fiscal policy is not likely to suit the farmer of the West, and there is sure to be friction between them until some other form of representation is devised.

REFORMING THE SENATE.

THE LIBERALS were fifteen years in power and did nothing in the way of reforming the Senate. They have been in Opposition for five years, and it is only now, when they are about to lose control of the Upper House, that they awake to the necessity of changing the conditions of membership, notice of a bill to that effect ahving been given by one of the Opposition.

The Senate now stands 39 Conservatives to 40 Liberals, and there are eight vacancies to fill. This will give the Government a safe working majority and will render the members in the Rd Chamber powerless to block important legislation at the dictates of the otherwise ineffective Opposition in Parliament.

THE DOMINION BANK.

THE ANNUAL REPORT of the Dominion Bank, dated December 30, 1916, presented at the annual meeting in Toronto on January 31, is a very satisfactory document both for depositors and shareholders, and must have afforded much gratification to the directors and head office officials of the bank.

At the end of 1914 the total assets amounted to $80,457,000, the next year they had risen to $87,475,000, and during 1916 they further expanded to $92,866,000, being an increase in the two years since the war began of no less than $12,409,000. This growth is the result of a duly proportioned increase in all classes of the bank's dealings with the public. Note circulation in 1916 increased by more than $2,000,000 to a total of $7,118,000. Deposits by the public are greater by $4,500,000.

The most notable change in the assets side of the balance sheet is in the item of "Canadian municipal securities and British, foreign and colonial public securities other than Canadian," which has risen from $1,167,000 in 1915 to $7,500,000 at the present time. This increase is understood to be largely due to the bank's participation in the financing of British munitions business in Canada by the purchase of British treasury bills, an operation which provides the bank with a liquid security yielding a good rate of interest, and at the same time confers a benefit upon Canada and the Empire. The total of cash and quickly available assets is now $37,625,060, which gives the very sound proportion of 47.4 per cent. of liabilities to the public.

As is well known, there has been a marked reduction of indebtedness to the banks by many large industrial and commercial corporations all over Canada. In spite of this fact, the Dominion Bank's current loans and discounts in Canada show an increase of a million and a half to $48,976,000, an indication of the general business activity in the country.

The profits of the bank amounted to $969,068 before deduction for taxes, the usual contribution to the officers' pension fund, and generous donations to patriotic causes. After payment of the regular 12 per cent. dividend, the directors were able to devote $100,000 to the writing down of bank premises account.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

JUST LEAVE IT to the British Navy.

• • • •

SURELY THE TIME for writing notes is past.

• • • •

IT IS NOW squarely up to the United States and the other neutral nations.

• • • •

THE POLITICAL HARP with one string left is useful only for playing a requiem.

THE MAN who is considered old enough to fight for his country is surely old enough to vote.

WHAT SORT of a spectacle do statesmen squabbling in Parliament present to the soldiers fighting in the trenches?

• • • •

THE PUBLIC will be at least pleased to learn that in spite of its faults, the street car system is a paying proposition.

• • • •

WHILE DIPLOMATS are groping for peace, Famine is likely to take a hand and accomplish more than all the rest of them.

AS SPECIMENS of natural history, some of our members of Parliament, meeting in the temporary quarters, have found their proper environments.

OPINIONS OF OTHER EDITORS.

Cheap Living.

(Ottawa Journal.)

The cheapest way to live is to buy a magazine for 15 cents telling you exactly how to eat three big meals on 17 or 18 cents per day. Going at that rate, the initial investment in the magazine is soon paid for and the rest is clear profit.

Rural Rivalry.

(Hamilton Spectator.)

The London Free Press refers to its home town, of half a hundred thousand or so, as "this splendid metropolis of the garden of Canada and the centre of the [illegible] one-eighth of Canada's population"—just like [illegible] vegetable garden, possibly. But when the object is fruits and flowers, all acknowledge the Niagara Peninsula as making the rest of the country look like "the rocky road to Dublin."

GIVE WOMEN OVER 30 THE VOTE

(Toronto World.)

A report has been issued by the electoral reform committee of parliament in Great Britain which has come to the startling conclusion that women over thirty should have votes. This concession to the comic papers, which will all remark that women over thirty are undiscoverable, is characteristic. Males acting on parliamentary committee are not anxious to have the accusing eyes of women intruding upon their political business, and it is evident that politicians as a mass are afraid of the shrewd, intuitive, pentrating qualities of women who by training and character are fitted to take up public life. These women as a rule have a higher standard of political morality than men have, they are more persistent and uncompromising and they are fully as able with equal experience.

The suffrage for women is coming, however, and it is merely an effort to stop the flood, this suggestion of debarring women under thirty. The legislators might as well say that women under thirty should not be permitted to marry and bear children. Legislation for children is one of the things women have most to say about, but a mother under thirty is not fit to vote, these learned bachelors would say.

Women under thirty should not be allowed to go as Red Cross nurses or work in munition factories either. The men who have been at the front will have a more chivalrous idea of what is due to the women of Britain after the war and as they have fought the battle of the down-trodden nations of Europe they will fight the battle of their down-trodden sisters when they return.

OVERHEARD AT THE BOX OFFICE

"Two dollars, one-fifty, one dollar and seventy-five cents," said the man in the box office, mechanically. His right hand lay ready to take the patron's money through the barred window; his left hesitated between the green and blue cards in the ticket rack.

The young woman in the long heliotrope coat and the high black hat reflected. The line behind her shifted to the other foot.

"Are your balcony seats good?" she inquired.

"As good as any in the house. How many?"

"I mean, can I see from them? I don't want to sit back of a post, or——"

"No posts in this theatre. How many?"

"Well, let me see. What have you?"

"Give you two in the third, next the aisle; seventh row, middle; two in the first row balcony, toward the end; two in the sixth and ninth; put you in the back of the house if you wish."

He drew two balcony tickets from the case, folded their ends over quickly, flipped them on the window counter, and opened the cash drawer.

"Oh, just one," said the young woman. "Sister couldn't go, you know."

"Too bad," commented the young man, effusively, like an adding machine.

"Just a minute, please. What date is that for—tonight?"

"Certainly, tonight. Isn't that what you wanted?"

"Well, I was thinking of going to the matinee. Are they playing a matinee?"

The ticket seller recovered the ticket and reached for another.

"Tomorrow afternoon. Dollar'n-a-half."

"After all, I think I will go tonight. Would you?"

The man in the box office opened his mouth to speak, then closed it again. He smiled faintly. His right hand fingered a dollar bill.

"I think I should," he said finally.

"And where did you say this was?"

"Fourteenth row, right side."

"That's not extra good, is it? Usually I sit at the left, about the fourth or fifth row, you know, just this side of the loges. Cornelia likes to be close up. But, of course, tonight, being alone, it doesn't matter so much; that is, if you think this is really a good seat."

The sixth man in the line opened his watch and snapped it shut again. His bank closed at 3. Without a word he dropped out of line and sped through the double doors.

"That's the best seat I can give you," said the box office man, emphatically. "Dollar'n-a-half. Thank you," he added, expectantly, like a tennis fan.

The young woman in the long heliotrope coat was opening her handbag. Second man in the line came to attention from his position against the radiator. The third man stopped looking at the touched-up photographs of celebrities playing at other houses. Auspiciously the lady paid.

"Next, please," said the young man, leaning forward, as if possessed of an astigmatism.

"Oh, just a minute, please! In case I liked it, could I get tickets for Saturday matinee, do you think? Sister could go then. What would you do?"

The man in the box office was already answering the code signals of the person next in line. The young woman turned to the third man.

"What would you do?" she asked, searchingly.

"I'd quit the farm and move into town," he replied, unfeelingly. "Two in the fifth, please."

EDITOR'S MAIL

Editor Review: I do not wish to enter into any newspaper controversy, but I feel that I cant let your editorial that appeared in last night's Review pass without correcting the misrepresentations contained therein.

Let me first state that Mr. Wm. Lytle's appointment is perfectly satisfactory to me, and as far as I know to every member of the local Automobile Association.

I moved a protest at the meeting, because the local Association were originally instrumental in having the Government allow us to issue the licenses here, and last year, when there was no remuneration paid by the Government for the issuing of the licenses the local association paid for the same out of the local treasury.

This year, in spite of the above facts and quite unknown to any member of the executive, who were looking for a man at the time, an appointment was made of a license issuer.

Your editorial of yesterday would lead a person who does not know to conclude that the auto license was given after an examination. I wish to state that all that is required of anybody to procure an auto license is that the applicant own a car and has the fee to pay for a license. The driver may be deaf, blind, maimed or insane.

I am under the impression you have confused the "chauffeurs' licenses," which requires an examination, etc., with that of a "motor car license."

A DAILY NOVELETTE

"Ah hah!" said Sherluck Bones, the great detective, briefly.

All during his trip on the trolley car he had noticed the furtive actions of the conductor, his guilty expression, and, above all, the way his hand surreptitiously felt at a protuberance in the inside pocket of his uniform.

Then, when he stopped the car at a lonely spot and jumped off, the great detective had followed him, had seen him drop a flat package into a water filled ditch and board his car again looking ten years younger.

"Ah hah!" said the great detective briefly, as above reported. And he took the conductor's number. For seven days the great detective, without a clue, had been working on the mysterious disappearance of a $50,000 cherry stone necklace from the home of Lafcadio Sloot, president of the Interouter-Trolley lines.

Later that night armed with a crabnet grappling hook, the great detective, with his marvellous sense of direction, found the ditch and for two hours fished for the discarded package. At last patience received its reward.

Inside the package was a green and yellow necktie and a Merry Christmas card. On the card, in feminine handwriting, he read: "For Henry, from his loving wife."

With a muttered imprecation and a foolish feeling the great detective made a bonfire of the dreadful present and spent the rest of the night in a near-by nut tree.

Every man would soon become wealthy if he could liquidate his financial obligations by paying compliments.

Wit and Wisdom

A short time ago in a certain town a lecture was being given on the evils of drink. The hall was packed with ardent supporters, but a few malcontents had managed to slip in at the back.

"Yes," thundered the lecturer, "alcohol has ruined our country, and has slain its thousands; but when has bright, clear water caused the death of anyone, I ask you; when?"

Then, as he sat down, from the back of the audience a gruff voice answered:

"When he couldn't swim, guvnor."

He happened to be the twenty-fifth passenger. The conductor took his nickel and pulled the cord of the fare register. The new passenger stared at the register a moment and then nudged the man next him.

"Did you see phwat he did?"

"No, what?"

"Ot gave him a nickel an' he rung up 15 cints."

German-American Press On the Huns' Last Hope

EW YORK, Feb. 2.—Following the views of German-American wspapers:

ew York German Herald— For German-Americans there comes a critical period. It is the duty every German-American to ex- without shrinking his belief a war between America and Ger- would be the greatest calamity ch the U.S. could experience. It our duty to convince the leading of this, so that such a war may be possible at all. Especially must gress be worked on, for in the ite House, we fear, England will uppermost.

.Y. Staats Zeitung—This declara- has come quite unexpectedly. It be expected that President son will hold to the position on ch he has maintained up to this . One must wait and see how practical execution of the rules ch have been announced will e itself.

Advice to Wilson

incinnati Volksblatt—The note the German Government is pain- in view of unpleasant possibili- that may result from it. The proper policy for the President o warn American citizens from d vessels. This will have them harm and relieve the U.S. from reproach of one-sided neutrality.

incinnati Frie Presse—Germany a right to wage an unrestricted ersea warfare—the right of self- nce. Germany's duty toward the rals is fulfilled in warning them ships of belligerents, and her toward the U.S. in particular adding directions as to how ican passenger steamers must in order to reach their des- tion without danger.

Let U. S. Co-operate

Chicago Staats Zeitung— Germany is forced to transfer its activity to the point at which it can deal the death blow to England, the responsible instigator of the war and master of the Entente powers. It is the Nemesis for England's decree (of starvation blockade) against the seventy millions in Germany. Further to serve the cause of humanity, the Government of the United States could do nothing better than to co-operate to bring this bloody war to an end, possibly by a rigorous blockade of England.

Louisville Anzeiger—Germany declares herself in accordance with the principles of Wilson's address in the Senate. The note in which Germany declares a "barred zone" around Great Britain, France and Italy, will be a great surprise to the public, but the assumption, that there were beforehand confidential negotiations between Berlin and Washington is not so unlikely.

The "Laws of Humanity."

Baltimore German Correspondent — The announcement by Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg that Germany will now resort to unrestricted warfare on sea cannot surprise us, if we remember the final sentence of the German note of May, 1916, promising to obey the rules of the law of humanity. Germany said then if the Government of the United States did not succeed in compelling England also to obey the law of humanity a situation might arise for which Germany must reserve its freedom of action. It seems that that situation has come about now, and the name is privation of the women and children of Germany.

DOES THIS MEAN MILITIA ACT IS TO BE INVOKED?

Premier Borden Tells House Government Has Plan to Release 60,000 Enlisted Men, Now Held as Home Guard, for Overseas.

OTTAWA, Feb 2.—Replying to a question about home defence, Sir Robert Borden told Parliament that a plan was under consideration respecting the same which would soon release for overseas service the 60,000 men now in training in Canada.

The House put through the committee stage the interim supply bill and Sir Thomas White's resolution authorizing the Government to borrow one hundred million dollars for other than military purposes, and made some progress with the Prime Minister's resolution authorizing a war credit of five hundred milion dollars. The debate upon the war credit rambled far afield, but mainly concerned itself with the marked falling off in recruiting. Hon. Frank Oliver was inclined to place the blame upon the national service cards, which he said should never have been issued at all if the Government lacked the nerve to follow them up by conscription.

Capt. J. H. Burnham startled the House by declaring that it was the little things that were holding back recruiting

Delay in granting pensions and other grievances were touched upon, but few members had any constructive program for stimulating enlisting. Hon. George P. Graham suggested a national government, while Mr. Loggie (Northumberland, N.B.) favored putting into force the Militia Act.

At the opening of the House the Prime Minister read a despatch from the British ambassador at Washington announcing that the German ambassador had notified the United States Government that Germany withdrew all her pledges in respect to restrictions upon submarine warfare.

New Job for Gen. Lessard

Sir Robert Borden said that Gen. Lessard had rendered important service since the commencement of the war and intimated that he would be given the opportunity of rendering even still more important service.

Sir Sam Hughes said General Lessard twice merited dismissal from the service. Once was in connection with a court of inquiry into the affairs of the field regiment. According to Sir Sam, General Lessard had misrepresented the findings of the court and had written a letter stating that the Minister of Militia, being an Orangeman, would side with a certain faction of the regiment because they were Orangement. He also declared that Gen. Lessard had disobeyed orders in calling out the Toronto militia without giving notice through the daily papers that no German raid was imminent.

TWO DANGEROUS DRUGS WHEN THEY ARE PROCURED AND HOW THEY ARE USED

Poppy Plant Important Industry in Macedonia

THE control of the opium industry is a subject that is given wide publicity, and much has recently been written of the persistence of the Chinese opium producers in cultivating their broad fields of white poppies and the measures taken by the Chinese Government to prohibit the raising of poppies, and also the measures which have been taken by that Government in utilizing the services of the soldiery in destroying the crops of poppies grown in spite of official prohibition.

In the popular mind, China and India have been the great sources of the world's opium supply, but a late American consular report shows that the cultivation of the poppy plant is an important industry in Macedonia, an industry that brings excellent returns to the growers. It is said that besides the opium extracted from the flowers, an oil is made from the seeds which is superior to Russian sunflower oil and to American cottonseed oil. The residium after the oil has been extracted is pressed into cakes and used as a food for cattle. Even in this time of war, it is said that this year's poppy crop in Macedonia is abundant, and that the exportation of the opium obtained from the flowers is being carried on with little or no interruption.

Two physicians to the Tombs prison, in New York city, Drs. Frank A. McGuire and Perry M. Lichtenstein, who have written extensively of the drug habit among men and women, have expressed the opinion that the drugs most often used are opium and its derivatives, with cocaine a good second, or a bad second. Opium is the concrete milky exudation obtained from the unripe capsules of "papaver somniferum" by incision and evaporation.

It is usually put on the market in subglobular, flattened, irregular cakes chestnut brown or dark shades of brown in color. The mass is described as plastic, but if kept for some time a hard crust is formed. The cakes of commerce weigh from four ounces to two pounds. Opium has a heavy, sweetish odor and a bitter taste that is by no means agreeable to those who have not contracted the opium habit.

Much is heard at present of the increase in the cocaine habit. There is no relation between opium and cocaine, though the person addicted to one may easily become an addict to the other. A plant grows in South America, the leaves of which yield a remarkable alkaloid known as cocaine. This coca plant has nothing to do with cocoa nor with the coconut and their numerous products. The local reputation of the plant is that of a pleasing and soothing intoxicant, and this effect is had by chewing the leaves mixed with clay or ashes. In modern medicine and surgery cocaine and its derivatives have acquired valuable uses and are considered a daily blessing to countless patients of the medical practitioners.

Cocaine is a white crystalline powder, without odor, and which has a slight acid reaction and is bitter to the taste. It is said that when it is placed on the tongue it produces a tingling sensation, which is followed by numbness. The action of cocaine on the nervous system differs from that of opium or morphine.

The use of cocaine, like that of opium, is no new thing in this world, and its evil effects have long been inveighed again. Nearly half a century ago a British medical writer in the British Medical Journal called attention to the symptoms of cocainism. "Here is something," he wrote, "which quickly relieves hunger by deadening the gastric nerves upon which sense of hunger largely depends, and which has a most pleasing and rapid effort upon discomfort in the mouth and nose and throat. It locally relieves congestion and offers itself as an incomparable boon to singers or speakers who have sore throats and colds and who must somehow fulfill an engagement.

"Many such admirable artists have it conveyed to lunatic asylums. The course of cocaine can scarcely be overstated. In many instances the victim of morphine has used cocaine to enable him to rid himself of the morphine habit. This is to take seven devils as the remedy for one."

A Night Out.

Before the opening of the Allies bazaar in New York last year Mrs. B bought many tickets. She gave two to her faithful negro servant, and, accompanied by a friend whose color and ample proportions matched her own, Maggie sallied forth one evening to take in the sights of the big show. The following morning Mrs. B. asked her if they had enjoyed themselves "Yas, ma'am, Miss Mary," said Maggie. "Liza an' me cert'n'y did have one gran' time at that there b'zaar. Ah ain't never been no better treated anywhere. Folks acted jes' like we was white, askin' us to buy things an' invitin us in the side shows and to take trip aroun' de worl' and everything. We cert'n'y is oblige' to you for the pleasure of them tickets." "Did you spend any money for the Allies, Maggie?" "Yas'm, Ah spent two dollars an' Liza she spent two." "That was a good deal for you and Liza to spend. What did you get?" "Liza she had a gen'leman draw her silly-ette, an' Ah took a chance on a airyplane."

OBITUARY

WALTER SMITH.

Mr. Walter Smith, town engineer for Lindsay, died yesterday at the Ross Memorial Hospital. Mr. Smith was taken ill only a few days ago, but alarming symptoms and complications developed [illegible] the start, to which he succumbed yesterday morning

The late Mr. Smith was born at Beaverton and educated in Lindsay and Toronto University, where he secured his Ontario land surveyor's diploma. For a number of years he was in business for himself in Sudbury, following his profession.

Two years ago, on the death of his father, the late George Smith, he went to Lindsay and joined in business with his brother, Mr. Oliver Smith, under the firm name of Smith & Smith. He was town engineer for Lindsay, and also acted as engineer for the County of Victoria.

CHRISTINA McNAUGHTON

There passed away about four o'clock on Thursday afternoon the widow of the lates James Alexander McNaughton, aged 87 years and 6 months.

The maiden name of the late Mrs. McNaughton was Christina Wright. Her father was David Wright of Cobourg. She was born in Airdrie, Scotland, Aug. 9. 1830. For some years she had made her home with her daughter, Mrs. J. P. Cunningham, 508 Stewart St. The other daughters are Mrs. Wm. Montgomery, 705 Water St., and Mrs. J. Hobbs, of Cleveland, Ohio. The sons are David Jas. of Ohio. John Alexander of Boston, Mass., and William Edward and Francis Glen of New York City. Mr. John Wright of Preston, Ont., is a surviving brother.

While of recent years Mrs. McNaughton's infirm condition made it impossible for her to be much away from her home, she retained all of her faculties until almost the hour of her death, and her cheerful disposition and Christian faith made it a pleasure for her friends to visit her.

The funeral will leave the home of her son-in-law, Mr. J. P. Cunningham on Saturday afternoon at 2.30. The service, which will be of a private character, will be conducted by Rev. J. R. Webb, pastor of Murray St. Baptist Church. It is requested that friends omit flowers.

SONG BIRDS TO HAVE UNION

The feminists have caught Sallie Fisher, one of the musical comedy prima donna, in their net. The lovely Miss Fisher is no longer content to be merely lovely—she yearns to be useful as well. Miss Fisher aims to fully organize what she calls "The Prima Donnas' Association." "Our club," says Miss Fisher, "will seek to further the artistic and financial interests of singers, and it will give financial aid to all young singers who have talent, but no money. Only singers who have starred will be admissable to the prima donnas' club."

French military records show that 417 German machines were shot down by aviators last year; that 195 other machines were brought down, having been badly injured if not destroyed, and that 29 captive balloons were blown up.

The thousands of airplanes now in use by the French armies for scouting and bombardment purposes will be converted into "peace doves" as soon as hostilities end, carrying mail along carefully-planned aerial routes all over Europe and the colonies.

AUDITORS' REPORT TO SHAREHOLDERS

We have compared the above Balance Sheet with the books and accounts at the Chief Office of The Dominion Bank, and with the certified returns received from its Branches, and after checking the cash and verifying the securities at the Chief Office and certain of the principal Branches on December 30th, 1916, we certify that, in our opinion, such Balance Sheet exhibits a true and correct view of the state of the Bank's affairs, according to the best of our information, the explanations given to us and as shown by the books of the Bank.

In addition to the examinations mentioned, the cash and securities at the Chief Office and certain of the principal Branches were checked and verified by us at another time during the year and found to be in accord with the books of the Bank.

All information and explanations required have been given to us and all transactions of the Bank which have come under our notice have, in our opinion, been within the powers of the Bank.

FOOD-PRICE-AND-HEALTH

That there may be an increase in pellagra during the coming year on account of the rise in the cost of foodstuffs is the fear expressed in a statement issued by the United States public health service.

As a result of government researches it was found that pellagra is produced by an insufficient, poorly balanced diet, and that it can both be prevented and cured by the use of food containing elements in the proportion required by the body. The application of this knowledge greatly reduced pellagra in 1916 as compared with previous years.

This reduction is believed by experts of the public health service to have been due to improved economic conditions which enabled wage-earners to provide themselves with a better and more varied diet and to a wider dissemination of the knowledge of how the disease may be prevented.

It is feared, however, that pellagra may increase in 1917 by reason of an increase in food cost out of proportion to the prosperity now enjoyed by this country. The great rise in the cost of forage, particularly cotton seed meal and hulls, is causing the people in many localities to sell their cows, and thus there is danger that they will deprive themselves of milk, one of the most valuable pellagra preventing foods.

The high cost of living has further served to bring about a reduction in many families in the amount of meat, eggs, beans and peas consumed, all of which are pellagra prophylactics.

In effecting economies of this nature the general public should bear in mind the importance of a properly balanced diet and refrain from excluding, if possible, such valuable disease-preventing foods. It is believed that unless this is done there will be a greater incidence of pellagra next spring.

PURE FOOD ASSURED

If the price of food is high, the consumer is assured of good quality if the laws bearing on the question of pure food are carefully carried out. The purchaser of any article in a grocer store can invest with full confidence that he is not being imposed upon, and that the goods are not adulterated with either harmless or injurious substances. If he buys maple syrup, for example, he has every reason to believe that the chief ingredient in the article so represented was really drawn from a maple tree.

The same care is exercised by the authorities over every article of diet in daily use. Time was when diseased meat was offered for sale, when the carcasses of animals that died a natural death were found in the meat stalls. That day is, fortunately, past, thanks to a rigid system of meat inspection.

Over no article of food is there a closer supervision maintained than milk. The consumer is surrounded by every safeguard, and the milk itself is not only inspected, but the animals from which it is obtained and the premises in which it is handled are made the subject of official care.

Of course, it is the manufacturers of food stuffs who are responsible for the purity of the products. But the retailer cannot always escape if he has any impure or spurious goods on his shelves. When he makes a purchase from the wholesaler and obtains from the latter a certificate, he cannot be prosecuted if it turns out that the goods are not up to standard. It is only when he fails to do this that he can be fined if the inspector succeeds in convicting him of selling goods not as represented or containig any substance injurious to health.

SUGGESTIONS ABOUT FOOD

Q.—What is "curd," as the term is employed by butter manufacturers?—E. C.

The curd of genuine butter consists of the milk proteins which are not soluble in water and which for this reason pass into the cream through the hand separator. When butter-fat from the creamery is melted this curd clots.

In renovated butter, manufactured from packing stock, the curd is derived from skim milk, used for the purpose of replacing the natural curd, which is refined out of the decomposed stuff from which renovated butter is made. This curd is granular and flaky. It does not clot.

The butter maker does not pay for his curd. He pays only for his butter fat. By skilfully regulating the water content of his butter and his salt content he gets in combination with his curd content what he calls his "overrun," which consists of from 22 to 25 per cent. of the total composition of the butter.

The law allows him to introduce 16 per cent. of well water, river water or any other kind of water in the making of butter, and with an average of 4 to 6 per cent. of curd and 2 to 4 per cent. of salt, he finds no difficulty in obtaining a handsome profit from his finished product.

It is curious that when the wholesale market price "creamery extras" is 30 cents a pound the butter mak is paying the farmer 30 cents a pound for butter-fat. it were not for the "overrun" that the butter ma obtains, he would have to change his system of buyi butter-fat.

We need not be interested in any content of butt at the present time except its germ content. The wh butter industry needs reformation. The law should permit any butter to be manufactured except from p teurized cream in which the germs of disease are stroyed, particularly the germs of tuberculosis, se sore throat, scarlet fever, typhoid fever and diphthe all of which diseases are transmissable to childr through infected butter.

Pasteurization would prevent the spread of such fection. The butter makers themselves admit this. though they have frequently adopted resolutions in th conventions, urging the butter making states to p pasteurization laws, they strangle the bills that grow of their recommendations.

The reason they do ths is because the people kn little or nothing of what is going on.

MISS MINNIE GUERIN

A GOOD RULE.

A good rule is to avoid serving a food which gives its pronounced character to a dish twice in the same meal, even in different forms. How often we see tomato soup, tomato catsup and tomato salad on the same dinner table. Or find soup, meat and salad flavored with onions, and perhaps onions served as a vegetable also. Care should be taken in cookery to develop the natural flavor of each kind of food, and to add extra flavors sparingly, so that they may be fully enjoyed when they are used.

Good Morning Madam!

What can we do for you this morning?

What? Can't afford anything? Cost of living too high?

Why, you have not been to our store, or you wouldn't say that.

A FUEL SUGGESTION.

Old newspapers rolled very tight make good "firewood" when used with a few dry sticks. Start rolling the paper on a fine knitting needle, roll tight, then bend the roll into four and give a twist across.

Potatoes that are to be French fried should be pared, cut into strips and soaked in cold water for two hours before frying. They should then be wiped very dry before putting into the hot fat.

To clean white paint, wring a cloth out of very hot water, then dip it in bran and rub the paint. Sponge off with cold water and polish.

DON'T FORGET TO SETTLE WITH YOUR GROCER.

Times are good in Peterborough, better, perhaps, than they have ever been at this season of the year. There is work and good wages for everyone but the shirkers. In their prosperity the people should not forget those who befriended them in darker days, especially the grocers and other dealers, who extended them credit when it was needed. The majority of the merchants are doing business on limited capital and narrow margins. The settlement of the accounts on their books every pay day is essential to their continuing in business. They should not be forgotten by their customers to whom they have extended accommodation. The present good times may not continue indefinitely, and the generosity of the merchants may once more be invoked. The man who settles his bills promptly is the one who preserves his credit.

A darning-needle point is a good ice-cracker. If the point of a darning-needle or a fine wire nail is pressed on the ice and a sharp tap given with a tack hammer, the ice breaks instantly. This is a useful ice-box hint for next summer.

If meat gets just slightly tainted before it is cooked, cut off the tainted part and wash the remainder of the joint in strong vinegar and water, sponging it all over with it. Such a joint should always be roasted. Boiling or stewing accentuates the tainted flavor.

MAKING SAUCE.

A traveller in Italy was taught by one of the countrymen there to make a sauce to be used with any of the macaroni family. What she did was to put a few tablespoonfuls of olive oil in a skillet, then she added a trifle of finely chopped soup vegetables and some chopped meat. When these were cooked she added a can of tomato paste. All hot she poured in over a mound of cooked spaghetti, and the dish was complete.

A piece of old velvet is good for polishing brass or silver.

Citric acid, iron, and other minerals, unite in the charming rosy cranberry to make it a winter tonic, and a stimulant for the liver; and as that organ's duty is to cleanse the body of wastes, anything that helps it in its work is of value in promoting health.

To rub kerosene on black iron and leave it on is often advised, but if the intention is to prevent rust, lard is better to use than kerosene. It will not evaporate and can easily be removed by the use of hot water and soap. This is the advice of a plumber and stove dealer.

PRESERVING PARSLEY.

To preserve parsley, wash it and place in boiling, slightly salted water for two or three minutes, then take out, drain and place on a sieve in in front of the fire. Dry as quickly as possible. Then place the bottles and store in a very dry place. When required, pour a little warm water over the parsley and allow it to stand for five minutes.

A different dish in which a food is served is oftentimes enough to give variety. An experiment was made recently in a certain school, where the girls were tiring of a certain dish. The same food was served in another kind of dish, and the girls ate it as though they had never touched it before.

WHEN MAKING ICE.

If the refrigerator is to be kept in use through the winter, and ice for that purpose is made by setting out vessels filled with water to freeze, they may cause trouble by bursting. To prevent this, when the freezing has just begun, thrust a clean stick into the middle of the soft mass and mishaps will be prevented

A sloping shelf securely fastened to the wall over the kitchen table to hold the cook book is very convenient. Fasten a strip of half-inch elastic across it to hold the book open at the recipe. No frolicsome breeze can "turn over a new leaf" to the cook's annoyance.

Kerosene should not be used on the works of a clock as a lubricant. Instead, buy a little watch-oil from a jeweler, if the clock needs oiling, and apply with a feather.

Frozen fish should be placed in cold water to thaw and when thawed should be cooked immediately. Fish is cooked by nearly all methods but retains more nourishment when broiled or baked. It should be thoroughly cooked, being both indigestible and unpalatable when underdone.

Baked Fish.— Select a perfectly fresh, properly dressed fish. Rinse thoroughly and wipe dry. Fold it together and place in a dripping pan with a cup of boiling water. Cook slowly and steadily until tender. A fish weighing three or four pounds will require at least two hours. If desired the fish may be lightly dredged with flour toward the last as it begins to brown.

COOKING WATERY VEGETABLES.

Is there any way to cook our watery potatoes and turnips so that they will be a little more dry? — Mrs. R. S.

Ans.—To have drier, more mealy potatoes, have you tried letting the boiled potatoes stand in the pot after you have poured the water off? Boil them quickly, using no more water than is needed. Pour off the water immediately they are done, shake the pot well, cover with a towel, and let stand for a few minutes in a warm place on the stove, shaking several times. As to the turnips, boil them in the same way, then mash and let stand in the pot on a warm part of stove, but where they will not burn, stirring them occasionally.

One of the prettiest table centrepieces seen in a farm house was made from a bunch of wheat gathered in the fall. This was tied up in several little bouquets, leaving the stems about two inches long. These were put into glass vases filled with water and set away in a dark, dry closet to sprout. Then when all the autumn flowers had gone they were brought out into the sunlight and allowed to grow.

VINEGAR PIE.

One cup of sugar, half a cup vinegar, two teaspoonfuls of flou one of butter, one of cinnamon a two cups of water. Boil all toget till thick, and use as you would f a custard pie.

THE CHILDREN'S FOOD

"I don't want to eat that pudding," grumpily said a little boy of 4. The pudding in question was an undistinguishable smeary mass of yellow which his mother was dipping in large spoonfuls into his saucer. The little boy didn't eat the pudding in spite of the fact that his mother urged that it was "good for him." And the story ended in a scene of tears and trouble.

We hear a good deal about psychology these days and perhaps it is an overused word, but I believe strongly in the psychology of food, and by that I mean the appearance of food when it is offered to us, and no class of people are so affected by the appearance of food as our children. To eat is indeed one of the chief joys of childhood, and with their keen and exaggerated sense of color, taste and effect, the appearance of their food means much to them.

Many mothers do not realize this, and mistakenly insist on a child's eating anything, or forcing it to gulp down unattractive, sloppy and mushy looking foods on a plate. If the mother of the little boy above had heeded advice, she would have done this: She would have taken the same yellow pudding (of a very nutritious material) and, instead of serving it from a big dish, she would have put it into a little custard cup, inverted it on an individual plate, stuck a berry or a cherry or a raisin on top or around it and called it a "fort." Then she would have asked the little boy to eat the fort, or eat the guns out of the fort, or something of the kind, and I know positively that here wouldn't have been one gunhole of that fort left!

All children love foods served in individual mol Who does not remember the joy of having "a cake all myself," or "my very own pie"? I seem to feel t modern mothers forget all the fairy background of chi hood, and I am glad to say it is one thing I can cre the old-fashioned mother with. She did take trou to bake pies and little cakes for Susanna and Tob Many children, quite naturally, have strong aversions certain kinds of food; eggs, for instance, or rice or c tain vegetables. The only reason the child doesn't them is because he isn't used to them, and it is so times necessary to encourage him to learn to eat th because he needs them in his diet. To do this, we "pretend." We pretend that something or other fort or a castle or a fairy or a pudding like Jack Giant Killer's, or Cobweb Dew or something which the food up to the story or background the child h Above all, foods should not be served to him in a mus unattractive way. As soon as possible the child sho be taught to eat his food like an adult and not allow to stay playing at food in a baby, sloppy way unne sarily long.

All sorts of simple little dishes make children's co ing easy. Little custard cups cost only five cents; co cutters the same; small tin dishes perhaps one c apiece, and so on. It may take a moment more to pou jelly into individual patty pans, or to cook a separ little pudding, or to mound mashed potatoes into a "hi but it will pay. It will tempt the delicate child to it will teach him new tastes; and it will help him l to eat carefully and not in baby fashion. Have moth thought of this?

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—Following the views of German-American wspapers:

ew York German Herald— For German-Americans there comes y a critical period. It is the duty every German-American to exs without shrinking his belief t a war between America and Gery would be the greatest calamity ch the U.S. could experience. It our duty to convince the leading of this, so that such a war may be possible at all. Especially must gress be worked on, for in the ite House, we fear, England will ppermost.

.Y. Staats Zeitung—This declara- has come quite unexpectedly. It be expected that President son will hold to the position on ch he has maintained up to this . One must wait and see how practical execution of the rules ch have been announced will e itself.

Advice to Wilson

incinnati Volksblatt—The note he German Government is pain- in view of unpleasant possibili- that may result from it. The proper policy for the President o warn American citizens from d vessels. This will have them harm and relieve the U.S. from reproach of one-sided neutrality.

incinnati Frie Presse—Germany a right to wage an unrestricted ersea warfare—the right of self- nce. Germany's duty toward the trals is fulfilled in warning them ships of belligerents, and her toward the U.S. in particular adding directions as to how ican passenger steamers must d in order to reach their des- tion without danger.

Let U. S. Co-operate

Chicago Staats Zeitung— Germany is forced to transfer its activity to the point at which it can deal the death blow to England, the responsible instigator of the war and master of the Entente powers. It is the Nemesis for England's decree (of starvation blockade) against the seventy millions in Germany. Further to serve the cause of humanity, the Government of the United States could do nothing better than to co-operate to bring this bloody war to an end, possibly by a rigorous blockade of England.

Louisville Anzeiger—Germany declares herself in accordance with the principles of Wilson's address in the Senate. The note in which Germany declares a "barred zone" around Great Britain, France and Italy, will be a great surprise to the public, but the assumption that there were beforehand confidential negotiations between Berlin and Washington is not so unlikely.

The "Laws of Humanity."

Baltimore German Correspondent — The announcement by Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg that Germany will now resort to unrestricted warfare on sea cannot surprise us, if we remember the final sentence of the German note of May, 1916, promising to obey the rules of the law of humanity. Germany said then if the Government of the United States did not succeed in compelling England also to obey the law of humanity a situation might arise for which Germany must reserve its freedom of action. It seems that that situation has come about now, and the name is privation of the women and children of Germany.

DOES THIS MEAN MILITIA ACT IS TO BE INVOKED?

Premier Borden Tells House Government Has Plan to Release 60,000 Enlisted Men, Now Held as Home Guard, for Overseas.

OTTAWA, Feb 2.—Replying to a question about home defence, Sir Robert Borden told Parliament that a plan was under consideration respecting the same which would soon release for overseas service the 60,000 men now in training in Canada.

The House put through the committee stage the interim supply bill and Sir Thomas White's resolution authorizing the Government to borrow one hundred million dollars for other than military purposes, and made some progress with the Prime Minister's resolution authorizing a war credit of five hundred million dollars. The debate upon the war credit rambled far afield, but mainly concerned itself with the marked falling off in recruiting. Hon. Frank Oliver was inclined to place the blame upon the national service cards, which he said should never have been issued at all if the Government lacked the nerve to follow them up by conscription.

Capt. J. H. Burnham startled the House by declaring that it was the little things that were holding back recruiting.

Delay in granting pensions and other grievances were touched upon, but few members had any constructive program for stimulating enlisting. Hon. George P. Graham suggested a national government, while Mr. Loggie (Northumberland, N.B.) favored putting into force the Militia Act.

At the opening of the House the Prime Minister read a despatch from the British ambassador at Washington announcing that the German ambassador had notified the United States Government that Germany withdrew all her pledges in respect to restrictions upon submarine warfare.

New Job for Gen. Lessard

Sir Robert Borden said that Gen. Lessard had rendered important service since the commencement of the war and intimated that he would be given the opportunity of rendering even still more important service.

Sir Sam Hughes said General Lessard twice merited dismissal from the service. Once was in connection with a court of inquiry into the affairs of the field regiment. According to Sir Sam, General Lessard had misrepresented the findings of the court and had written a letter stating that the Minister of Militia, being an Orangeman, would side with a certain faction of the regiment, because they were Orangement. He also declared that Gen. Lessard had disobeyed orders in calling out the Toronto militia without giving notice through the daily papers that no German raid was imminent.

TWO DANGEROUS DRUGS WHEN THEY ARE PROCURED AND HOW THEY ARE USED

Poppy Plant Important Industry in Macedonia

THE control of the opium industry is a subject that is given wide publicity, and much has recently been written of the persistence of the Chinese opium producers in cultivating their broad fields of white poppies and the measures taken by the Chinese Government to prohibit the raising of poppies, and also the measures which have been taken by that Government in utilising the services of the soldiery in destroying the crops of poppies grown in spite of official prohibition.

In the popular mind, China and India have been the great sources of the world's opium supply, but a late American consular report shows that the cultivation of the poppy plant is an important industry in Macedonia, an industry that brings excellent returns to the growers. It is said that besides the opium extracted from the flowers, an oil is made from the seeds which is superior to Russian sunflower oil and to American cottonseed oil. The residium after the oil has been extracted is pressed into cakes and used as a food for cattle. Even in this time of war, it is said that this year's poppy crop in Macedonia is abundant, and that the exportation of the opium obtained from the flowers is being carried on with little or no interruption.

Two physicians to the Tombs prison, in New York city, Drs. Frank A. McGuire and Perry M. Lichtenstein, who have written extensively of the drug habit among men and women, have expressed the opinion that the drugs most often used are opium and its derivatives, with cocaine a good second, or a bad second. Opium is the concrete milky exudation obtained from the unripe capsules of "papaver somniferum" by incision and evaporation.

It is usually put on the market in subglobular, flattened, irregular cakes chestnut brown or dark shades of brown in color. The mass is described as plastic, but if kept for some time a hard crust is formed. The cakes of commerce weigh from four ounces to two pounds. Opium has a heavy, sweetish odor and a bitter taste that is by no means agreeable to those who have not contracted the opium habit.

Much is heard at present of the increase in the cocaine habit. There is no relation between opium and cocaine, though the person addicted to one may easily become an addict to the other. A plant grows in South America, the leaves of which yield a remarkable alkaloid known as cocaine. This coca plant has nothing to do with cocoa nor with the cocoanut and their numerous products. The local reputation of the plant is that of a pleasing and soothing intoxicant, and this effect is had by chewing the leaves mixed with clay or ashes. In modern medicine and surgery cocaine and its derivatives have acquired valuable uses and are considered a daily blessing to countless patients of the medical practitioners.

Cocaine is a white crystalline powder, without odor, and which has a slight acid reaction and is bitter to the taste. It is said that when it is placed on the tongue it produces a tingling sensation, which is followed by numbness. The action of cocaine on the nervous system differs from that of opium or morphine.

The use of cocaine, like that of opium, is no new thing in this world, and its evil effects have long been inveighed again. Nearly half a century ago a British medical writer in the British Medical Journal called attention to the symptoms of cocainism. "Here is something," he wrote, "which quickly relieves hunger by deadening the gastric nerves upon which sense of hunger largely depends, and which has a most pleasing and rapid effort upon discomfort in the mouth and nose and throat, it locally relieves congestion and offers itself as an incomparable boon to singers or speakers who have sore throats and colds and who must somehow fulfill an engagement.

"Many such admirable artists has it conveyed to lunatic asylums. The course of cocaine can scarcely be overstated. In many instances the victim of morphine has used cocaine to enable him to rid himself of the morphine habit. This is to take seven devils as the remedy for one."

Before the opening of the Allies bazaar in New York last year Mrs. B bought many tickets. She gave two to her faithful negro servant, and, accompanied by a friend whose color and ample proportions matched her own, Maggie sallied forth one evening to take in the sights of the big show. The following morning Mrs. B. asked her if they had enjoyed themselves "Yas, ma'am, Miss Mary," said Maggie. "Liza an' me cert'n'y did have one gran' time at that there b'zaar. OBITUARY

WALTER SMITH.

Mr. Walter Smith, town engineer for Lindsay, died yesterday at the Ross Memorial Hospital. Mr. Smith was taken ill only a few days ago, but alarming symptoms and complications developed [illegible] the start, to which he succumbed yesterday morning.

The late Mr. Smith was born at Beaverton and educated in Lindsay and Toronto University, where he secured his Ontario land surveyor's diploma. For a number of years he was in business for himself in Sudbury, following his profession.

Two years ago, on the death of his father, the late George Smith, he went to Lindsay and joined in business with his brother, Mr. Oliver Smith, under the firm name of Smith & Smith. He was town engineer for Lindsay, and also acted as engineer for the County of Victoria.

CHRISTINA McNAUGHTON

There passed away about four o'clock on Thursday afternoon the widow of the lates James Alexander McNaughton, aged 87 years and 6 months.

The maiden name of the late Mrs. McNaughton was Christina Wright. Her father was David Wright of Cobourg. She was born in Airdrie, Scotland, Aug. 9, 1830. For some years she had made her home with her daughter, Mrs. J. P. Cunningham, 508 Stewart St. The other daughters are Mrs. Wm. Montgomery, 705 Water St., and Mrs. J. Hobbs, of Cleveland, Ohio. The sons are David Jas. of Ohio, John Alexander of Boston, Mass., and William Edward and Francis Glen of New York City. Mr. John Wright of Preston, Ont., is a surviving brother.

While of recent years Mrs. McNaughton's infirm condition made it impossible for her to be much away from her home, she retained all of her faculties until almost the hour of her death, and her cheerful disposition and Christian faith made it a pleasure for her friends to visit her.

The funeral will leave the home of her son-in-law, Mr. J. P. Cunningham on Saturday afternoon at 2.30. The service, which will be of a private character, will be conducted by Rev. J. R. Webb, pastor of Murray St. Baptist Church. It is requested that friends omit flowers.

SONG BIRDS TO HAVE UNION

The feminists have caught Sallie Fisher, one-time musical comedy prima donna, in their net. The lovely Miss Fisher is no longer content to be merely lovely—she yearns to be useful as well. Miss Fisher aims to fully organize what she calls "The Prima Donnas' Association." "Our club," says Miss Fisher, "will seek to further the artistic and financial interests of singers, and it will give financial aid to all young singers who have talent, but no money. Only singers who have starred will be admissable to the prima donnas' club."

French military records show that 417 German machines were shot down by aviators last year; that 195 other machines were brought down, having been badly injured if not destroyed, and that 29 captive balloons were blown up.

The thousands of airplanes now in use by the French armies for scouting and bombardment purposes will be converted into "peace doves" as soon as hostilities end, carrying mail along carefully-planned aerial routes all over Europe and the colonies.

AUDITORS' REPORT TO SHAREHOLDERS

We have compared the above Balance Sheet with the books and accounts at the Chief Office of The Dominion Bank, and with the certified returns received from its Branches, and after checking the cash and verifying the securities at the Chief Office and certain of the principal Branches on December 30th, 1916, we certify that, in our opinion, such Balance Sheet exhibits a true and correct view of the state of the Bank's affairs, according to the best of our information, the explanations given to us and as shown by the books of the Bank.

In addition to the examinations mentioned, the cash and securities at the Chief Office and certain of the principal Branches were checked and verified by us at another time during the year and found to be in accord with the books of the Bank.

All information and explanations required have been given to us and all transactions of the Bank which have come under our notice have, in our opinion, been within the powers of the Bank.

Summer Wash Materials Have Arrived---They Await Your Coming

With all their delightfulness the summer wash materials have arrayed themselves on our shelves. You may think it early to select, but there will be a dearth of materials later on. Behold a range of voiles, gorgeous with the myriads of colors contained in Persian designs. In some, blue is th dominant color; others green and greys, etc. Double fold, and can be had for, yard 49c

For those who like only a sprinkling of color, these handsome voiles will surely appeal. They might be called basting stripes, for the long intermittent dashes of color here and there resemble threads. A series of assorted color combinations. Price, yard 75c

The middle-aged woman has oft' felt isolated when selecting materials; nothing seems to have been designed particularly for her. Plenty of gay things, yes, and an abundance of black or black and white. But where are the in-between shades? We have made it our problem this season. We ask you to inspect now while the ranges are unbroken.

Dress Goods Department Replete With Spring Materials

BLACK AND WHITE CHECKS.—Many are the people who will again welcome the arrival of black and white checks, "for suits" on the fashion calendar. We have them in stock now; shown in a wide and varied range of sizes, widths and spaced checks. Prices from ..... 50c to $1.75

OTHER MATERIALS.—The checks are not unrivalled in popularity—Broadcloths, Serges and Gabardines all stand out prominently from the rank and file. A medley of colors contributes materially to the charm of the above-mentioned weaves.
Broadcloths ..... $2.50 Gabardines ..... $2.25 Serges ..... 75c to $3.00

SILK AND MOHAIR TAFFETAS.—The position of these two fabrics is indeed enviable. The latter is an adaptation from the old mohair, "known for such stellar wearing qualities." This new material, though somewhat different from the parent cloth, retains this commnedable feature, but has acquired more style. Mohair Taffeta, yard $1.50

We must not let this opoprtunity pass without speaking a word in favor of velvets for early spring wear. They are approved of in the Centres of Fashion. Prices, yard ..... 75c to $4.40

DONEGAL TWEEDS.—The type of material that accentuates the smartness of the separate coat. We present it in two colors, grey and brown. Price, yard $1.50

CZAR INVESTS CANADIAN WITH RUSSIAN ORDER.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—Grand Duke Michael of Russia invested Sergt. H. H. Weeks, 7th Canadians, formerly of the Vancouver police, with the Russian Order of St. George granted him by the Czar, for bravery at Ypres, where he fought a machine gun unaided.

Weeks has also received the British Military Medal.

The presentation took place at the attache's quarters in London, the Grand Duke and General Yermoloff, the attache, wearing full uniform

Sergt. Weeks was introduced by Major I. W. Dowding, of the Canadian separation allowance staff, where Weeks is now working.

TO SHUT DOWN ON PASSPORTS

PREVENT EMIGRATION OF WOMEN AND CHILDREN GOING TO ENGLAND.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb 2.—The Canadian Government is going to shut down on the issue of passports to women and children going from Canada to Great Britain. This policy does not follow as a result of the latest German campaign, but rather has been under consideration for some time.

From time to time memoranda has been issued discouraging the emigration to Great Britain of relatives of soldiers and others. Difficulties of securing transports home after the war have been mentioned, while emphasis has been placed on the fact that the Mother Country already has enough to feed. In recent months thousands have gone over, and the applications for passports continue undiminished. Any food blockade would simply be aggravated by a continued influx of Canadians.

Regulations, therefore, are about to be issued whereby passports will be refused women and children unless exceedingly good reasons are given. As regards passports to men, there are no new regulations.

If you are suffering from constipation or sick headache, try Dr. Norvall's stomach and tonic tablets.

Be sure you get the genuine, as they are guaranteed and should they fail to give you relief, return the bottle to your dealer and he will refund your money.

HOLY DAYS THIS MONTH.

February brings many important events which are celebrated in all Roman Catholic churches. The month is dedicated to Our Lady of Sorrows. Friday is set apart to celebrate the dual feasts of the Purification and Candlemas day, the latter being an occasion of the blessing of the candles. By far a most popular feast will be the one on Saturday in honor of Saint Blase, a martyr, and who was Bishop of Armenia. On this day the blessing of throats will be carried out.

UP-TO-DATE ANALYSIS OF O'KEEFE'S TEMPERANCE BEERS.

Owing to a misunderstanding which seems to prevail in this district regarding the strength of O'Keefe's Temperance Beers, Mr. J. M Brooks wishes to announce that he has secured a late analysis from the Thomas Heys & Sons, assay and analytical chemists' laboratory, Toronto, which shows O'Keefe's Imperial Ale to be 2.34 proof spirits and their Imperial Lager 2.48. The strength permitted by law is 2.50.

FOWLER'S PEBLO GLASSES

SOME EYES NEED A DOCTOR

When Dr. Fowler finds that a patient's eyes have a deeper trouble than any he can correct with his "PEBLO" Glasses, he does not make any attempt to prescribe, or give the patron unnecessary expense in experimenting, but at once advises the party to go to an oculist for treatment. This only occurs on rare occasions, but proves that Dr. Fowler has his patrons' best interests always in mind.

TO GUARD APPENDICES

Under terms of a bill which will be presented to the South Dakota Legislature surgeons who remove an appendix which is not diseased will not be paid for the operation.

To protect citizens of the State against unskilful and unscupulous practitioner the bill provides that all vermiform appendices removed must be sent to the State laboratory for examination. They will then be returned to original possessors, together with reports on condition. If not diseased the bill relieves the patients of financial liability to the offending practitioner.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST LAND REGULATIONS

The sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. Applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at any Dominion Lands Agency (but not Sub-Agency), on certain conditions.

Duties—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required except where residence is performed in the vicinity.

Live stock may be substituted for cultivation under certain conditions.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre.

Duties—Six months residence in each of three years after earning homestead patent, also 50 acres extra cultivation. Pre-emption patent may be obtained as soon as homestead patent, on certain conditions.

A settler who has exhausted his homestead right may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre.

Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

FOR SALE OR TO RENT—100 acres of first-class land, situated in the Township of Dummer. All workable land, containing a comfortable house, with bank barn, driving shed, and all necessary outbuildings. We would sell this farm on easy payments or will rent it with the option of buying same.

FOR SALE OR TO RENT—150 acres of choice farm land situated in the Township of Smith, in a very nice locality. This farm has a very comfortable brick house, with a new bank barn and drive shed. Land is all under cultivation with about 82 acres of timber. Owner will rent said farm at $400.00 per year.

FOR SALE OR TO RENT—10 acres of choice land, situated on the outskirts of the city, containing a house which could be made very comfortable, and ten acres of the best land. This place is only about ten minutes walk from the car line and factories. Would make a good place for a market gardener.

FOR RENT—Two and one-half storey red brick house, having all modern improvements; situated in a very choice locality. There is a large stable, with hen house, and a big garden. This house can be rented at $15.00 per month, a very low rent considering locality and class of house.

DATES FOR INTERMEDIATE SECOND ROUND GAMES

Depot Battery, Kingston, Here Next Wednesday Night, and Petes Play Return on Monday, Feb. 12.---Nobel Team Tonight

The fans will have a big program of hockey next week, with Kingston Juniors and intermediates playing here. The Limestone City Juniors and the Petes meet at Brock street rink next Monday night in the first of the second round games, the return game to be played at Kingston next Friday night.

Major O'Flynn has received dates for the second round in the intermediate series. Depot Batteries of Kingston, winners in their group, come to Peterborough next Wednesday night for the first of the home-and-home games with the 247th team, and the locals go to Kingston on Monday, February 12th.

Both Kingston teams are strong in all departments of the game and will give the Petes a hard argument.

The Soldiers had a great workout last night in preparation for their game with the Nobelites of Parry Sound here tonight. The visitors will arrive in the city this afternoon, and the fans will not have a long wait at the rink. The game will be called sharp at 8:15.

Galt Y.M.C.A. is now free from debt, having raised $35,346 in the recent campaign for funds.

CURLING

The inter-rink matches at the curling rink are getting more interesting every night and a great deal more enthusiasm is being taken in the games. Last night every scheduled contest was played and there were plenty of substitutes to fill in the vacancies.

In tonight's games, the outcome of the contest between Skip Sturgeon's rink and Dr. Wightman's four will be an attraction. Vice-Skip Seymour has been skipping for Sturgeon during the latter's illness and he had a series of victories to his credit. The defeated ones are anxious to see who is who.

The scores last night were:

Norwood Curlers Here

Three rinks of Norwood curlers arrived in the city this afternoon to pit their strength against Peterborough. One game is being played this afternoon and two will be contested this evening.

JENNINGS HAS ARMY OF YOUNG PITCHERS

Cobb Company Will Loom Large in Ban's League

If Hugnie Jennings develops a couple of strong young pitchers who can stand the gait in the American League, look out for those Bengals next summer.

All Jennnigs is worrying about is his pitching staff. But he is going to make a valiant effort to put the right kind of props under it, and the spring training camp of the Tigers will be largely a school for young hurlers.

Jennings will take in the neighborhood of fifteen pitchers to the camp of the Tigers next spring. Of this number, six will be veterans unless he pulls off a deal or two in the meantime. George Dauss, Covaleskie, Boland, James, Cunningham and Mitchell will make up the seasoned staff. But look at the youngsters!

The Tigers have captured Ehmke, from Scranton; Jones, from Clinton, Ia.; Couch, from San Francisco; Woods and Auten from Portsmouth; Flanagan, from Muscatine; Watson, from Denison, Texas, and a couple of young semi-pro hurlers named Acton and Swarts. Ehmke and Couch are expected to make good, and if reports Jennings gets on some of his remaining youngsters are true, he may have an abundance of talent.

Means Much to Hughie.

Developing the youngsters successfully will mean much to Jennings. He has the foundation for a good staff in his veterans, and if he can get two who are capable of facing major league batting out of his recruits, he will be satisfied and then some.

It was largely the fact that the Tigers were outpitched in crucial series late last seasan that kept them from making a stronger finish of the race with Boston. Not that they didn't finish strong, but that they would have shown to so much better advantage had they been getting the bang-up pitching that such a race demanded. This year Jennings is living in hopes that his seasoned slabbers will show all comers the kind of wiggling they are capable of when in their best form.

And if they do, well, look out for the Tigs.

Quite a Collection.

In addition to the big squad of young pitchers, Hughie will carry four catchers, seven infielders, and seven outfielders to Waxahachie. The catchers will be McKee, Stanage, Yelle and Spencer The outfielders will be Cobb, Crawford, Veach, Heilman, Harper, Nicholson and Allison, the last named a semi-pro player.

The infielders who will cavort in Tiger unis are Burns, Bush, Vitt, Young, Dyer, Jones and Ellison. Fuller, an extra infielder last season, has been dropped.

The pitchers and catchers are slated to hit the pike for Texas March 3, while the remainder of the squad will leave about March 10. Nine games against the Giants will be played by Jennings' men.

MARK ST. AND GEORGE ST. WIN IN CHURCH LEAGUE

Easterners Had to Come From Far Behind.

George Street took a one game lead in the Junior Church Hockey League last night when Trinity-St. Andrew's was defeated by 4-3 in overtime. The combination from the hilltop had the game well in hand till the third period, leading 3 to 1. George Street took a brace and tallied twice, H. Graham scoring the tieing goal and also counting the winning score in the extra time, a long shot getting through Pigeon, who did not have a very successful night. Trinity-St. Andrew's missed Soden, the regular centre man. The teams:

George Street — Goal, Rutherford; defence, Peever and Gullett; rover, H. Graham; centre, J. Graham; wings, Head and Rutherford.

Trinity-St. Andrew's — Goal, Pigeon; defence, Greene and English; rover, Henry; centre, Eaton; wings, Tudhope and Batten

Mark Street Crawled Up.

Mark Street jumped into the win column by registering a win over Knox. The Presbyterians played like league leaders in the early stages of the game, and it looked like a counting affair for the Methodists until they got together and the line became effective. Knox scored three in a row in the first period, but once their oponents got started the complexion of the contest took on another color, and the final gong found the Presbyterians down in the cellar, the score being 8-5. The teams:

Mark Street — Goal, Record; defence, Wyatt and Hagerman; rover, Cook; centre, Williams; wings, Lipsett and Gillespie.

Knox — Goal, Mahood; defence, Clarke and Rehill; rover, Doughty; centre, Wright; wings, Jackson and Martin.

THE GREATEST WAR PICTURE IN THE WORLD, in 6 Parts

BATTLE OF THE SOMME

Latest and only genuine moving picture authorized by the French and British Governments. Scenes taken right in the trenches: bullets fly and shells burst. You see Canadian soldiers fight and cheered. You see the effect of English artillery in action. You see the British advance amidst bursting shells. All the great Allied Generals shown. You see trenches blown up. You see our troops charge under a curtain of artillery fire. More than five million people from coast to coast have seen this picture. This is the only genuine battle front picture authorized by the British Government. We have a forfeit of $100 to pay if this statement is not correct. Remember this is a genuine war picture.

In addition to this war picture we present another 2-reel episode, "THE GIRL FROM FRISCO," and a specially selected comedy. This is the best show ever shown on a Peterborough screen. Money cheerfully refunded to any patron not satisfied. Everyone knows how long The Royal has been in business, and that we never bluff. We give what we advertise.

[illegible]OLL—JOHNSTON

On Tuesday, Jan. 30, a pretty wedding was solemnized at the Church of the Sacred Heart, by the Rev. Fr. J. J. O'Brien, when Clara Jane, youngest daughter of Mrs. J. Johnston of Otonabee, was united in matrimony to Mr. Dennis Driscoll, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Driscoll of this city. Miss Annie Johnston, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid, while the groom was attended by Mr. J. Shaughnessy.

After the ceremony the bridal party drove to the home of the bride's parents, where a dinner dance was held.

The bride looked charming in a navy blue suit with hat to match. The young couple received a number of beautiful presents, among them a cheque for $100 from the bride's parents, and two other cheques from friends. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Driscoll, father and mother of the groom, Mrs. (Dr.) Young and son of Elstow, Sask., cousin of the bride.

The young couple will reside in Otonabee.

The ladies of George St. Church have arranged to have Miss Ada Ward return to the city and give a lecture under their auspices in George St. Methodist Church on Feb. 21.

Miss M. G. Oakley, Peterborough, was successful in her examination in educational psychology at the University of Toronto.

Local friends of Mrs. (Rev.) Wolland of Norwood will be pleased to learn that she is recovering from her illness.

Mr. R. C. Strickland of Burleigh Ranch is in the city for a few days.

Mr. Chas. Dawson, of Campbellford is in the city.

Dr. T. H. Hassard of Markham is a guest at the Empress.

SHIPMENTS TO THE TRENCHES

COMFORTS SENT TO PETERBOROUGH MEN IN FRANCE.

The Packing Committee of the Canadian Kitchener League report that they shipped to the 93rd boys in the trenches on Tuesday last 17 pairs socks, 2 pairs wristlets, 2 scarves, 2 balaclava caps and 2 knee caps, addressed to the following:—

Pte. W. J. Dearbourn, 5th C.M.R.
Pte. W. D. Kerns, 19th Batt.
Pte. N. H. Lamlin, 4th C.M.R.
Pte. A. Sodunn, 18th Batt.
Gunner J. Lowe, 58th Brigade
Pte. G. L. Petty, 20th Batt.
Pte. J. H. Hill, 20th Batt.
Lt. W. J. Worth, 18th Batt.

The league wish to thank the many knitters who assisted in making this shipment so generous, in such a short time. The league would also like to remind these ladies that they hope to be able to make their next shipment in the course of another two weeks.

The biscuit jar raffled by Mrs. D. J. Perry for the Canadian Kitchener League was won by Mr. Aylmer, the lucky number being 12.

The league wish to extend many thanks to Mr. J. John for the generous donation of tea recently received.

GRIM WAR IS PICTURED IN ACTUALITIES.

The Royal's special attraction for today and tomorrow are six reels of actual war scenes depicting the battles in the Somme offensive. These pictures were permitted by the British and French Governments and they show various stages of the fighting.

The Royal is also showing "The Girl From Frisco," and a high-class comedy, making the best picture show to be seen in any Canadian city.

places in this immediate section of the province. Thirty-five to 40 below zero are registered almost every winter in this little village at the extreme north-west corner of Peterborough county. Haliburton village, over 1,000 feet up, and considerably north of Kinmount, has a good record for cold dips, but takes second place to Kinmount. Apsley, Bancroft and Coe Hill are all along this height of land that separates the waters flowing south from those finding their way down towards the Ottawa, and north to the Muskoka Lakes, and are noted for the ozone-laden qualities of their atmosphere, crisp, sharp and tingling in the winter season at least.

Lindsay and Peterborough are practically alike as to temperature, but the former place usually has more rain in summer and snow in winter than this city. As is well known, Port Hope, Cobourg and Belleville rarely have the low temperature we have in winter, owing to the higher and much drier atmosphere we have.

All west of a line down north and south through about Claremont on the C.P.R. and Uxbridge on the Midland Division of the G.T.R. has a considerably milder average temperature, but the snowfall is frequently heavier. To the east the winter conditions are less unbroken and lengthened both at the beginning and ending, than here.—W. P.

LINERS ARMED GUN AT STERN

SHIPS WILL TAKE THEIR OWN COURSE ACROSS THE ATLANTIC.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

NEW YORK, Feb 3.—Officers of British and French steamships express no concern regarding the German submarine danger. Liners are all armed with a gun at the stern and each shipmaster will make his own course across the Atlantic.

When approaching the destination in Europe, vessels will be met by convoys.

Bernstorff Handed Passports and Gerard is Ordered From Berlin---Similar Action Likely Against Austria-Hungary---Release of Americans Taken With Prize Ships is Demanded---Torpedo Boat Destroyers Join Superdreadnought Arkansas.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Diplomatic relations with Germany have been broken; Count Von Bernstorff has been handed his passports, and Ambassador Gerard has been ordered from Berlin. News of the break is outlined in detail in the address President Wilson will deliver to a joint session of the Congress at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

In spite of the fact that this became known definitely, officials at the White House and the State Department would not discuss the situation in any form.

The President completed his message to Congress early this morning, and arrangements for his appearance were immediately made. Whether the break with Germany would be accompanied by a similar break with Austria-Hungary could not be learned definitely inasmuch as Austria is understood to have endorsed the action of Germany. However, this action is expected to follow, if it has not already been taken.

The State Department notified Ambassador Gerard to ask for his passports.

The decision to break was reached when the President had a conference with the cabinet and the members of the senate yesterday. The President, by those conferences, came to the conclusion that the country would stand solidly behind him in breaking off diplomatic relations with Germany.

Breaking off diplomatic relations with Germany does not mean war, but it may easily lead to war. It is an act of protest characterized in the usage of nations as a "measure short of war."

RELEASE OF PRISONERS DEMANDED.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3. — The United States has formally demanded of Germany the immediate release of the Americans who were taken prisoners on prize ships by the raiders in the South Atlantic.

CUTTER ALONGSIDE PRIZE SHIP APPAM.

NEWPORT NEhS, Va., Feb. 3.—A coastgaurd cutter has gone alongside the German prize ship Appam, and it is thought the German prize crew will be taken off immediately.

Two torpedoboat-destroyers have joined the superdreadnought Arkansas off the Virginia Capes on emergency duty.

U.S. ON LAND AND SEA

The severance od diplomatic relations between the United States and Germany, the former taking the initiative, practically amounts to a declaration of war. There is one well-established and recognized precedent for this conclusion, a precedent which was set up by Japan. That Empire in 1905 made no formal declaration of war against Russia, but gave the Russian ambassador his passports and began hostilities against the country which he represented. This course was not regarded as regular by other powers at the time, but the precedent is now accepted by all civilized nations, even though it may not be universally followed.

President Wilson and his cabinet have severed the diplomatic relations. His action will really mean nothing of importance unless the Congress backs him up by voting him control of the army and navy and granting the necessary supplies.

DID GERMANY COURT WAR?

President Wilson's action constitutes the most important event in the history of the world since the present war began. Its effect will be far-reaching and may be the deciding factor in the conflict. It may furnish the military party in Germany with an excuse for making peace, and at the same time save themselves in the estimation of the people by pleading that they could not fight the whole world.

THE UNITED STATES ARMY.

The United States now has a regular army of 70,000 men, the maximum number allowed by law being 100,000. These troops are well trained and are officered by men schooled in military colleges that rank with any in the world. Every State has its militia. In the event of war, the State Governors can call out the militia, and any members willing to enlist for national service are given the opportunity to do so. Conscription can be employed only in the event of a threatened invasion. The Republic would never be free from this danger if war breaks out, so that men could at once be drafted for home defence. All men over 18 and under 45 years of age may be called upon for this duty. It is estimated that an army of nearly sixteen millions could be raised in this way. The only difficulty would be the matter of equipping them.

UNCLE SAM'S NAVAL STRENGTH.

The navy of the United States would be a greater factor in this war than the land forces. It consists of ' modern battleships (more than Ger-

BROTHERS AT THE GRAVE OF INDIAN HERO

BLOOD POISONING SET IN WHEN PTE. I. TAYLOR WAS WOUNDED.

HIRAM TAYLOR WRITES.

Pte. Hiram Taylor, who went overseas with the 93rd Batt. and was wounded in action some time ago, has written to his mother, Mrs. Mary J. Taylor, at Curve Lake. A card received from him yesterday stated that the brothers had attended the funeral of their brother, Pte. Isaac Taylor, who died of wounds. In his letter Pte. Taylor writes:

My Dear Mother: A few lines to let you know we are having some hard luck We buried our poor brother Isaac the day before yesterday. He died happy; nothing bothered him. The last time I saw him he said he was getting along all right, but blood poisoning set in and the doctors could do nothing. I was hit the same time he was wounded, but I am back with the battalion. Brother Sam and Will are enjoying good health and we hope this letter will find yon the same.

My dear mother, pray to God that he will bring us back. But when a human being is called to rest he has to go, no matter how far he is from home. I am doing the best I can to serve God and when we meet again may we be all a united Christian family. If not on earth, in heaven, where there is no parting, and no sorrow. Uncle Charles and Russell are wounded, having been hit the same time as I got mine.

Pte. Taylor closes his letter with the following scripture: And I will be a father unto you and ye shall be my sons and daughters, saith the Lord Almighty. Thine ear shall hear a word behind thee saying: This is the way, walk ye in it; when ye turn to the right hand and turn to the left. The grass withereth and fadeth but the word of our God shall stand forever. Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my word shall not pass away.

A Meeting on Sunday Night

Mr. E. A. Peck will preside at the recruiting meeting to be held in the Grand Opera House Sunday night at 8.30, when Judge Huycke will give the main address. Miss Etta Kemp will sing and the 247th Batt. band will play a program of music.

Recruiting addresses will take on a new interest by reason of the action taken by the United States. Judge Huycke may have something to say of the new situation.

RAID FOR BRITISH.

WORDS WHICH MAY CARRY U.S. INTO WAR ARE SPOKEN

Overt Acts by Germany Against American Citizens Will Bring About Declaration of War by United States.

SAME COURSE BY OTHER NEUTRALS

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3. — The severance of diplomatic relations with Germany was formally announced to the country and the world by President Wilson at a joint session of the Congress today at 2 o'clock. The United States now stands on the verge of war, with all the historic precedent of centuries pressing it forward.

Fervently invoking the guidance of Almighty God in the step he had taken, President Wilson detailed to the Congress why the United States could not continue relations with a warring power which repeatedly invades the sacred rights and takes the lives of its citizens. Calm with a sense of right in what may prove the most sombre moment of American history, the President stood in the historic hall of the House of Representatives, and, with senators and representatives before him, spoke the words which may carry the country into the world conflict, not for aggression and not for power; only for law and humanity. Silent and attentive, the nation's lawmakers listened with rapt attention while President Wilson told of the United States' course in the now unsuccessful diplomatic struggle to dissuade Germany from her campaign of ruthlessness.

In concluding his address, President Wilson declared that he could not now believe that Germany intends any overt acts against American citizens, but if overt acts are forthcoming he will again come before Congress to ask authority "to use any means that may be necessary for the protection of our seamen and our people." All neutral governments, he believes, will take the same course.

SEEK TO VINDICATE NATION'S RIGHTS.

"We wish to serve no selfish ends," the President stated. "We seek merely to stand true alike in thought and action to the immemorial principles of our people—seek merely to vindicate our right to liberty and justice and an unmolested life. These are the bases of peace, not war. God grant that we may not be challenged to defend them by acts of wilful injustice on the part of the government of Germany."

It is plain from the report of the address delivered by President Wilson to Congress this afternoon that he does not regard the severance of relations as a declaration of war. Germany, however, will so interpret it and act accordingly.

ALL U.S. CONSULATES IN GERMANY WILL BE CLOSED

Severance of Relations More Complete Than is Usual in Such Cases.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Ambassador Gerard's instructions are to close his embassy as well as all the Consulates in Germany. All embassies, attaches, consuls, consular agents and their staffs are to be brought out of Germany. This makes the severance of relations more complete than is usual in such cases.

Spain will take over the diplomatic interests of the United States in Berlin.

SWISS LEGATION TO ACT

Germany's diplomatic interests in the United States will be assumed by the Swiss Legation.

NO IMPORTANT DEVELOPMENTS

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

PARIS, Feb. 3. — The following official communication was given out here today: There were no important developments last night with the exception of patrol encounters in the sector between Louvemont and Chambrettes (Verdun front), and in the region of Badonvillers.

The London Times reports that because a number of young Belgians near Antwerp fled to the woods to escape deportation, the Germans visited a number of places and seized several aged notables as host-

LITTLE THINGS THAT COUNT.

"CAPT. J. H. BURNHAM," said a despatch in The Globe yesterday, "startled the House by declaring that it was the little things there were holding back recruiting."

Capt. Burnham knew what he was talking about. Little schemes and small politics have held back recruiting right here in Peterborough. It is small politics that inspires a newspaper to say that the Government has tried to discourage recruiting outright in one province while in none of the others has it done "anything effectively and officially and whole-heartedly since the war began to assist recruiting; it has provided no machinery, organized no service to this end."

While such Tommy-rot and monstrous untruths are poured into the all too willing ears of the slackers, they do not lack an excuse for holding back. How can they be expected to take an interest in the defence of the nation, if the Governmnet itself is indifferent? Peanut politics and small things are synonomous. The reason why recruiting drags is not far to seek. Capt. Burnham located the true cause. He knows the situation in his own city.

MORE GLARING FALSEHOOD.

A MISGUIDED and hide-bound contemporary, in its desperation to find material to excite prejudice against the Government, springs a new one when it asserts that potatoes are being shipped out of this country to Cuba, in spite of the scarcity. "Why is this?" it asks with a sob for those whose supply of the tubers is limited. "Why not keep all the potatoes at home?"

Yes, why, indeed? There is certainly a demand for them, but the story that they are being sent to Cuba is a silly falsehood, a fabrication that lacks either originality or plausibility. On the very face of it it fails. This is the season of the year when the people of Cuba are harvesting and exporting their potatoes. The market reports in Chicago show that potatoes from the tropics are selling in that city for $5.80 a barrel or about $2 a bushel. Ordinary tubers are retailing at that figure in every market in Canada. The dealer in this country who would pay freight and duty in order to do business with Cuba would be as irresponsible, as sadly in need of a guardian, as the inventor of the foolish story.

Why stop with the case of potatoes? Why not make a thorough job of it and allege that some of the coal mined in Canada is being shipped to Newcastle, and some of the fish caught at Port Stanley to British Columbia, with the connivance of a Government that permits such things just to be mean?

It is twaddle like the potato story that makes the Liberal party look ridiculous today. It is of a piece with the allegation that eligible young men are flitting to the United States in order to escape military duty. Has anyone heard of such a case in Peterborough, a city that is not without its slackers? The latter may be indifferently gifted with physical courage, but he is not craven enough to flee at the very suggestion of danger. It requires something of a heroic nature to enable a young fellow to desert home and friends and start life anew among strangers in a strange land. There are places other than the United States in which to hide from the recruiting officers. Under the bed or the barn, for example. If conscription ever is put into effect, then some slackers may break for the republic, but in the mantime it's the home circle with its comforts for them.

It is easy to set up a house of cards and then demolish it with one stroke of the hand. It requires no bright gifts to invent foolish potato and exodus stories, and then blame the Government for indifference in taking steps to remedy conditions that exist only in warped partisan imagination.

"PRUSSIAN TORIES."

TO GIVE EVERYBODY their just dues it must be conceded that The Examiner does occasionally spring something that is startlingly original. It may be open to criticism as an authority on potatoes and other trade questions, frequently charging dealers with shipping produce out of the country at a loss to themselves, and the like. It alludes with painful monotony to the "Nationalists" in the Borden Cabinet, insinuating that they are traitors to the Empire and as such hold back the work of the war. It cannot allude to the work of the new Postmaster-General without speaking of him as the "flag-shooter," giving the impression that at some time in his career Mr. Blondin offered violence to the nation's banner.

Mr. Blondin was not born at the time when this violence was offered, and furthermore he is not a member of the party that did the shooting. It is no more just to twist his now famous phrase into a connivance at that outbreak than it would be to brand as a traitor a man who stated the plain historical fact that England, in order to get a constitutional government, found it necessary to dethrone several kings and to behead others.

A new term invented by the Examiner is "those Prussian Tories." In these days, to call a man a Prussian is about the blackest insult that can be offered him. A Prussian is, as a rule, a liar, a despot, a murderer and a general all-round black-hearted monster. What Conservative in Canada, be he cabinet minister, member of Parliament, or plain private citizen, fits such a description? The Conservative Government hold office by constitutional authority. They are governing the country according to law. This demand for a coalition received its answer the other day in Dorchester. The province in which the call for a national government was believed to be the loudest decided most emphatically against it.

WHAT WAS MEANT?

PREMIER BORDEN made a significant statement in Parliament when he informed the House that there are 60,000 men now under arms in Canada, and that these are likely to be released at an early date for overseas service. As it is necessary to maintain a force as a home guard, the places of these troops must be taken by others. Where are they to be found and how raised?

The number of available men far exceeds that of those already in uniform. They can be drafted for home duty under the Militia Act, and this is probably what the Premier had in view when he made his announcement yesterday. It may be that he will call for volunteers for home defence before he resorts to the draft, but if this appeal fails to secure the required number, compulsion is likely to be resorted to.

Bourassa, Lavergne and other false teachers in Quebec have always said that the men of that province would fight to the last ditch for home defence. No one who understands the race doubts this. In the war of 1812 there were no better troops under the British standard than the French-Canadians. They would probably rally by the hundreds to a call for home volunteers, but even this would not solve the difficulty. It would hardly be fair to expect the men of one race to bear the hardships of actual war while the easier duties were left to another.

AUTO LICENSES.

DR. AMYS KNOWS and he says that all a man requires to secure a license to run an automobile is the ownership of a car and money enough to pay the fee. It makes no difference whether he be halt, lame or blind, of unsound mind or lacking an upper or lower limb. It is not even necessary for him to make personal application. He can write for his license or order it by telephone, so long as he remits the amount required. The possession of the official number then gives him the right to operate the car, and pedestrians are expected to look out for their own safety, with such assistance as the police are able to give them.

The automobile is a greater menace to human life than are the railways. Every time a careless driver kills or maims a foot passenger, every car owner loses caste with the public by becoming an object of suspicion. Careful owners who have regard for the rights of others, would be pleased if the regulations were changed so as to require that every man owning a car had some qualifications for the position, that he was in possession of good eyesight at least.

The police and other local authorities that issue city licenses should also deal with the auto owners. Chief Thompson is charged with the duty of seeing that the latter obey the law. If the issuing of licenses were made another of his duties, it would aid him in the work of enforcing the regulations, as he would then know beforehand what auto owners were likely to require extra watching.

ECONOMY THE WATCHWORD.

THE DOMINION GOVERNMENT has announced a policy of economy while the war lasts. No new public works are to be undertaken, not one dollar spent that can be avoided. All the resources of the country are to be devoted to the prosecution of the war.

The wounded and disabled soldiers who have returned from the front will be cared for. The sum of nine million dollars has been set aside to pay pensions for the current year. The war will impose a heavy burden upon the country for years to come, but any provision made for the heroic veterans will meet with the hearty approval of those who have profited by their sacrifices.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

A Sect for Slackers.

(Guelph Mercury.)

A deputation of Mennonites went to Ottawa, where they were informed that the Mennonites in Canada would be exempt from military service. It appears this was guaranteed to them some time ago. This ought to be a good time for them to put on a campaign to take in new members.

Germany's Blundering Comparisons.

(New York World.)

If the situation were not so alarming, the German's in their own latest note, would hardly have committed the blunder of mentioning Ireland and the Boer Republic, or the use of African and Asiatic troops in a European war. The answers to these charges are so absurdly easy and obvious that it was the gravest sort of a blunder to make them—as grave as are the constant mention of Greece and the comparison of its treatment with that of Belgium.

They Insist on Fighting.

(Windsor Record.)

Those English are a wonderful people. They never know when they are whipped, and they fight best when everyone else is insisting they haven't got a chance to win. This characteristic is portrayed by John L. Balderson, a syndicate writer, who refers to the recent changes in the navy by which Sir John Jellicoe became first sea lord instead of Sir Henry Jackson. The writer adds: "When an Englishman criticizes his navy he is indeed feeling blue, and his enemies had best beware of hmi."

DORCHESTER ELECTION SPELLS DISASTER FOR LIBERAL PARTY

Why did the Liberals fail in the Dorchester election?

Reasonable answer is probably in the commonsense loyalty of Dorchester French-Canadians revolting against Cannon's appeals to the baser instincts of the proracial and anti-British few. Defeat of Mr. Sevigny would have been interpreted in English-speaking Canada, and, indeed, throughout the Empire, as an indication that the people of Dorchester and, possibly, the people of Quebec, were not heart and soul with the rest of Canada in the war. It would be asked, and rightly so, how it happened, that a member of a government vigorously supporting the Empire and Allies in this war, should be repudiated in Quebec; and the level-headed, patriotic mass of the people refused to accept the stigma upon their loyalty which an answer to that question might involve. During the past two years a great deal of war missionary work has been done in Quebec. The late Hon. T. Chase Casgrain, who always stood four square for everything that would reflect credit upon his province, labored unceasingly up to the day of his death to bring home to Quebec the meaning and realities of the war. By his side were Messrs. Blondin, Patenaude and Sevigny, and no finer speeches in explanation of the British cause have been made anywhere in the Empire than those spoken by these men in the Province of Quebec. The seed sown has not been without effect.

Quebec's Opportunity.

Then, again, there was the question of the people, naturally politically shrew, realizing the possible disastrous consequences in a country like Canada, of a "solid Quebec." For Quebec had everything to lose and nothing to gain by arraying itself in solid phalanx against the rest of Canada behind Sir Wilfrid Laurier or any other leader.

Finally, there was the [illegible] that the Opposition was unable to present a single concrete fact to back up Mr. Cannon's loose talk about government extravagance and incapacity. It was not strange that the average elector should feel inclnied to continue his support of an administration which, after five years of office and thirty months of war, stands with a splendid record of honest, able, solid achievement.

A Beneficial Effect.

Considered from a purely national viewpoint, Dorchester is bound to have a beneficial effect. In the first place it will go a long way toward obliterating the dangerous view all too strongly prevalent in the English-speaking provinces, that a few agitators, inspired by racial malice and possessed of an infinite capacity for blatherskite, and little else, voice the real sentiments of the sensible, solid thinking people of Quebec. Secondly, it will chill the ardor of the party-crazy politicians, who, on the basis of a hope that Laurier would sweep Quebec and carry sufficient seats in other provinces to win, have been scheming for a general election. Thirdly, it will send Sir Robert Borden to the Imperial War Conference with the knowledge that he has behind him in this country the support of all classes, nationalities and creeds in his prosecution of the war; will give him a moral support and prestige which, had the Government been defeated, he could not have possessed.

WOOLLY LIBERALISM IN THE WEST

(Battleford, Sask., Optimist.)

We had an opportunity of scanning over a copy of the first issue of the Saskatchewan Liberal Journal the other day, and in our opinion the prognostication that the sheet in question would be of that bitterly partisan type which animates the baser political tendencies of Canadian public life was amply verified.

Sandwiched between articles of fair merit are the poisoned darts of the slanderer and the mudslinger. Prevarication by imputation, and slander by suggestion, bulges from almost every page. It has the spirit and the yellowness of charlantry. It is designed in malice, and steeped in defamation. It is coarse, vulgar and disreputable.

On page three, surrounding a photograph of Premier Martin, of which both he and the party appear to be particularly proud, is an effusion of welcome written by the premier. In this effusion he says: "I feel sure this publication will give the greatest satisfaction to all friends of the Liberal party." Underneath his benediction and blessing the eye rests upon the following:

Proposed members of Willoughby's cabinet slate: Hon. Bill Gallon, minister of elections (under the guidance of "Bob"); Hon. Frank Brunner, minister of wine and beer licenses; Hon. H. V. Bigelow, minister for job-hunters, Hon. John E. Bradshaw, conductor of school land sales; and Hon. W. B. Willoughby, selector of counsel for royal commissions.

The whole sheet is on a parity with the gruesome publication issued from Ottawa under the name of the Liberal Monthly. Of this The Peterborough Review recently said: "It is certainly a lurid speciment of journalism. The illustrations in it are the very acme of the ragtime of art. The mendacity of the paper is painful. No responsible journal would blacken its columns with such prevarication, such gross misstatements, and such warped opinions. The publication from cover to cover reeks with foul libel of those in authority. The only people in the world who could possibly find any comfort in its perusal, we take it, are the Nationalists and the Teutonic enemies of the British Empire."

This then is the sheet which the Liberal party intend sending broadcast throughout Saskatchewan between now and the election. Surely another example of the depths to which Liberalism has sunk in the mire of moral turpitude.

ANECDOTES OF THE FAMOUS

When the King was in Scotland some time ago he pomised to review a boys' brigade.

At the last minute, however, His Majesty was forced to cancel the engagement, and a local notability was hastily substituted; but the managers of the affair thought it only right to notify ticket purchasers that royalty would not be present.

Presently a small boy who was to take part in the parade came along with a request for two tickets for his parents. He was told of the disappointment in store for them.

"Oh," said the lad, "they'll nae be disappointed. It's no the King that faither and mither are coomin' to see—it's me!"

When Lord Curzon was a boy he was noted for his very bad handwriting, a fact for which, on one occasion at least, he was very thankful. One day he wrote two letters, one to a relation and the other to a friend with whom he was in the habit of discussing his relations rather freely. Unfortunately he put the letters into the wrong envelopes and did not discover his mistake until they had been posted.

Lord Curzon's relation received the letter which was intended for his chum and the unfortunate writer was wondering what on earth would happen when he received a note from his relative that set his mind at rest.

"I can't read a single word of your four pages," it ran; "but I guess you want some money, you young rascal."

Accompanying the note was a handsome cheque and Lord Curzon confessed that there was some advantage in being a bad writer, after all.

Wit and Wisdom

People used to be proud if they owned a piano; but they are not now. That brand of pride was run over long ago by a motor car.

"Papa," said a small boy to his parent the other day, "are not sailors very small men?"

"No, my dear," answered his father. "Pray, what leads you to suppose that they are so small?"

"Because," replied the young idea, "I read the other day of a sailor going to sleep in his watch."

Once upon a time a very cool man called upon his physician and asked him for medical advice.

"Take a tonic and dismiss from your mind all that tends to worry you," said the physician.

Several months afterwards the patent received a bill from the physician asking him to remit $5, and answered it thus:

"Dear Doctor—I have taken a tonic and your advice. Your bill tends to worry me, so I dismiss it from my mind."

The hotel was not a very good one, and the travelling men knew it. Nevertheless they were obliged to go there when they came late at night to the little town. In the middle of the night one of them was dimly conscious that something was wrong. Suddenly he realizd that the trouble came from a leaking gas jet.

"Wake up, Bill!" he shouted, shaking his friend violently. "The gas is escaping."

"Well," growled Bill, "can you blame it?"

Mrs. Doherty — Anything fresh about the war this mornin', Mrs. Malone?

"Nothing much," replied Mrs. Malone. "The position is practically stalemate along the whole front."

"Stale mate, is ut?" exclaimed Mrs. Doherty. "Troth, just wait till me two lodgers an' our Patrick gets to the front; there won't be a bit of stale mate left. Them are the bhoys to lift the grub!"

PATRIOTIC FUND AND RED CROSS

The Proportions of Public Contributions Going to Each.

When Canada has to support two funds of such importance as the Canadian Patriotic Fund and the Red Cross it may sometimes be difficult for the individual to determine in what proportions he should subscribe to each.

There is, of course, perfect harmony between the promoters of these funds. They are for purposes entirely distrinct, and each has claims on the public which cannot be ignored.

Since the beginning of the war the Canadian Patriotic Fund has received some $16,500,000. The Red Cross has collected about $2,500,000 in money and supplies to the value of from $6,000,000 to $8,000,000. That is to say, the cash so far collected for the one fund is about six times that for the other. Ontario is being asked by the Patriotic Fund for at least six millon dollars for 1917, this being the sum estimated as necessary to maintain the dependents of Ontario soldiers in comparative comfort.

There is a marked tendency towards mobilizing the contributions of the several patriotic funds, the gifts of municipal and other corporations being designated as going to certain funds in specified proportions. The above statement of the amounts thus far collected for the two principal funds may be a guide in the division of moneys hereafter collected for joint purposes.

Stormy Weather Hard on Baby

The stormy, blustery weather which we have during February and March is extremely hard on children. Conditions make it necessary for the mothers to keep them in the house. They are often confined to overheated, badly ventilated rooms and catch colds which rack their whole system. To guard against this a box of Baby's Own Tablets should be kept in the house and an occasional dose given the baby to keep his stomach and bowels working regularly. This will not fail to break up colds and keep the health of the baby in good condition till the brighter days come along. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The secretary of the Conservative Patronage Committee is writing to the press defending the appointment of civilians instead of returned soldiers to customs offices at Port Dalhousie. St. Catharines Council is also being criticized for not appointing a veteran as tax collector.

OLDIERS DISPOSE OF NOBELITES OF 13 TO 5 AFTER HARD BATTLE

lany Shots by the Locals Bounced off Boards.

Thirteen counters for the Soldiers d five for the Nobel team was the tcome of the hockey doings at the k last night. It was a slam-bang air and nearly everybody on the took a hand in the scoring. The als had it 5 to 0 at the end of opening period, and 6 to 2 when second rest arrived. The visit- put up a stiff argument in the ecking department and that lets em out. When they arrived at the ldiers' defence there was nothing ing for them.

The game demonstrated one fact— Soldiers are not in championship form. They have a lot of rough spots to smooth away bfeore they can hope to emerge with a victory over teams in the succeeding rounds of the O. H. A. There is unnecessary hogging of the puck. The boards resound too often through collisions with the rubber disc. There'll come a time some day when scores will be scarce and the Soldiers may express regret that time was wasted in efforts at making kindling wood for Jack Meharry's stoves at the rink.

Adams on right wing is too valuable a player to waste his time in such pursuit. Far better would it be to spend a morning trying to land the rubber in the nets. He has lots of chances to shoot, and he can bore the rubber home if he wants to. He may have a desire to score on a foreign rink and find that the little piece of rubber won't land in the netting.

The Soldiers appear to be comfortably fixed in their defence. Flanagan a new man, made his appearance last night and, considering that he is a forward player, he did well in sticking close to Halpin and guarding his territory. The two contributed some nice blocking, and with LeGros working well in the nets, the opposition found it a difficult matter to score.

The introduction of a judge of play along with the referee did not make much of a hit with the fans. In a popularity contest the gent who essayed the role last night would be well down in the list. The home following didn't like his decisions a bit, and he was frequently addressed from the 25-cent row. Like President Wilson, he remained silent, but who knows what his thoughts were?

A lot of fans don't think much of the change reported in the lineup of the juniors for their game against the speedy Kingston team next Monday night. Graham is to be moved from rover to a wing position, where of course he won't stay. The result may be a general mixup and a lot of scores for the visitors. If the Petes can win over Kingston they can do so with the original placing of the team.

AT THE SIGN OF THE TEE

Every scheduled game was played at the rink last night and there was fun galore for both the men curling and the unattached members who were watching the play. Skip Sturgeon should have stayed away as he broke his vice-skip's winning streak and incidentally added to Dr. Wightman's splendid record of winnings. in the inter-rink contests, who has now 70 points to his credit without a penalty.

The "13" jinx was handed an awful jolt at the rink yesterday. Billy Taylor won his game when he stopped at the 13 point and last night he and Dr. Wightman both ended their games in the 13 point hole.

The scores last night were:—

A. L. Killaly	G. Copping
W. J. Henry	A. J. Grant
A. H. Webb	W. R. Widdess
R. Hicks	H. F. Foote
(Skip)— 9	(Skip)—12

T. O. Donaldson	Dr. Weldon
F. Brownscombe	M. Comstock
W. G. Read	C. C. Parsons
J. H. Ferguson	W. R. Taylor
(Skip)— 8	(Skip)—13

Norwood curlers, one rink strong, visited Peterborough yesterday and played games with local rinks both afternoon and evening.

In the afternoon Skip Findlay tried his strength out with Skip Taylor and the visitors were beaten by four shots.

The rinks and scores were:

Peterborough	Norwood
R. Grant	W. Beckett
A. F. Grant	W. Cuthbertson
R. M. Waddell	J. A. Findlay
W. H. Taylor	T. E. Findlay
(Skip)—13	(Skip)— 9

In the evening Skip Dela Fosse got his rink together and gave the Norwood bunch a contest and succeeded in winning by six shots.

There were some good ends played in both games and everyone enjoyed the contests.

The evening rinks and scores were:

Peterborough	Norwood
T. D. Mulholland	W. Beckett
A. M. Laidlaw	W. Cuthbertson
G. Boucher	J. A. Findlay
F. M. Dela Fosse	T. E. Findlay
(Skip)—12	(Skip)— 6

Notes from the Tee

There are no scheduled games for tonight.

Vice-Skips Percy Fitgerald and M. Tooley will play for the Wooden Cup and Dutch hat this evening.

Skips Kay, and Cameron may play their purely Gaelic game tonight if they can arrange for their rinks. The first one of the contestants who speaks in English is barred from the ice.

The District Cup rinks are quite confident that they will land the championship this season.

The Tankard rinks are in fine shape for their games in Toronto. The draw takes place on Tuesday morning.

LAWN BOWLING

A general meeting of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club will be held in Mr. Fitzgerald's office on Monday evening at 8 o'clock.

Every member is requested to be present.

Galt has gone into the coal business, the Mayor having bought sixteen carloads for re-sale at $9.50 a ton.

Sir Robert Borden promised in the Commons to obtain from the chairman of the Dominion Railway Commission a report upon the result of the arrangement whereby a reduction in passenger service was made on Canadian railways. In order to facilitate the movement of freight.

A "BUSINESS" GOVERNMENT

The idea of a coalition government which was political appears to have been sidetracked by the proposal of a "national" government, which is not political but purely business. It takes no thought of Parliament or the Constitution. The men who originated it see several vacancies in the Senate which they could fill to qualify them for seats in the Cabinet. It is a royal road to political preferment, and better still from their standpoint it puts them in position to advance their own "business." Private information from Montreal makes it clear that certain railway interests are at the head and front of the campaign for "national" government and their pose is far from being unconnected with the settlement of our railway problem which the government will have to undertake as soon as the Drayton Board has handed in its report. Take a look at some of the names connected with this agitation before being carried away by it.

A despatch from Ottawa was published some time ago denying that the Liberals had refused pairs to Conservative members of Parliament on military service. The authors of this denial could have readily ascertained the facts from Hon. Charles Murphy who declined to pair with Sir George Perley or from the Chief Liberal Whip who declined to give any assurance that pairs would be granted. The authors of the denial have since ascertained the truth but have not made correction.

Knowing this, are there any Conservatives who would want a coalition with men who refuse to give pairs to fellow members desirous of serving overseas?

Diner—That man at the round table gets much better food and attention than I do. I shall complain to the manager. Where is he?

Waiter—He is the man at the round table, sir."

A despatch from Madrid says that even the Germanophile press characterises the Central Empire's blockade note as a document of real gravity, and says the people should support the Government.

Every Home a University

You can get undergraduate and post-graduate courres of lectures delivered free in your home, by leaders of 20th century thought, if you will, or you can make the lecturer your private property for the sum of 25c. if you will.

What a wonderful thing in life is this power of willing, especially when coupled with a steadfast purpose. The human will is really the only wand strong enough to work magic. If it can't move mountains it can annihilate space and set the prophet down at the Pisgah height of his desire. How many a poor student by this divine gift, has found himself transported at last from the remote village or farm house of his birth to the lecture room of his ideal of learning, some master of knowledge like Roger Bacon, Erasmus, Isaac Newton, Lord Kelvin; and for the thousands of us busy men and women who can never hope to attend a university the magic of the printed page does as much or more if we will.

If Hilaire Belloc or Gilbert Chesterton or John Masefield, the poet, were advertised to give an address in Peterborough, should draw a crowded house; yet, in point of fact, all these celebrities are actually in Peterborough at the present time, giving not merely a lecture, but a whole course of lectures. With a hundred other writers of equal or even grater ability, if not quite so much in the limelight at the moment, they registered about a fortnight ago at the Public Library and intend (as I understand) to make a permanent stay in our midst.

The Library has purchased the entire series of up-to-date little volumes (106 so far, but with others in active preparation) known as the Home University Library. The purpose of the books is to put it within the power of all to attend a course of University lectures at their own fireside. This is not altogether a new idea; some 30 years ago in Great Britain a system of extension lectures from Oxford and Cambridge was devised, by which the citizens in any district could club together and have a course of lectures in history, science, art or literature delivered in their home town. In Canada, Queen's and other Univeristies have organized a system of extra-mural courses, by which individuals all over the Dominion can have the cream of academic learning delivered regularly by the postman at their own front door. More recently, too, issues of the best encyclopaedias now include organised plans of reading, intended to be the equivalent of undergraduate or post-graduate courses at a university. But most of our readers probably do not possess a large encyclopaedia, and would have to sit for hours in the reference room of the Public Library in order to follow out such a scheme. In the Home University Library you have light little pocket volumes that you can carry home with you, like phonographic records; fancy getting six or eight hours of the brilliant wit of G. K. Chesterton, the imagination of John Masefield or the learning of Frederick Soddy for 25c.

Not long ago the present writer was staying at the home of a colleague whose son had just captured one of the first scholarships at Queen's. This earnest young student asked me to come and see his sanctum; he had something to show me; a surprise to spring, I could see from his eagerness. And what do you thing it was? There on his bedroom wall hung a little bookcase, six or eight feet of shelves. The British Museum, you know, has only fifty miles of shelves, so he was getting on. His library was almost entirely made up of carefully selected volumes of the two most wonderful enterprises in the world: the "Everyman" and the "Home Uuniversity" at 25c a volume. In the "Everyman" are over 700 works of the greatest thinkers and writers in the world's history, but it is limited to reprints and does not include the thought of today; that is the only gap in all the ranks of "Everyman," the only breach through which beleaguered ignorance could escape, and into that gap has now been poured under the generalship of four universities a gallant company of veterans, active, expert, invincible, the hundred immortals of the Home University Library.

The idea is due to the four editors, Gilbert Murray of Oxford, J. Arthur Thomson of Aberdeen, Herbert Fisher of Sheffield, and William T. Brewster of Columbia; each represents not merely a great university but a distinct line of thought, culture and the classics, science and efficiency, history, and the English language. The volumes so far issued enable the reader to pursue an academic course under the most brilliant lecturers of the day in history and geography, philosophy and religion, sociology, science, literature and art. The books are small, each volume contains about 250 pages and may be read in a few hours; they are written in popular style, bright and suggestive, avoiding the pitfalls of technicality and stodginess; indeed, they provide a brilliant illustration of the truth that only a master can handle his subject with a touch that is light and deft as well as controlling.

Some of us in these days of storm may have felt (in spite of all sheet-anchors) a sense of drifting; the daily papers are full of contradictions; it seems as if politics, economics, the whole social system were riven asunder. Why not go in for a regular course of quiet reading and study on the history of Europe or the life and activities of the great British Empire to which we belong? Here are some titles:

1—Mediaeval Europe, History of England, History of Our Time, Short History of War and Peace, Master Mariners, Navy and Sea Power, French Revolution, Napoleon, Canada, Problems of India, Germany of Today, Belgium, Poland.

2 — Parliament, Conservatism, Liberalism, Socialist Movement, Political Economy, Agriculture, Problems of Village Life, Evolution of Industry, Unemployment, Co-partnership and Profit-sharing, Stock Exchange.

Or perhaps you would like to give definite aim and purpose to a taste for science; here are some titles:—

3 — Astronomy, Making of the Earth, Origin and Nature of Life, Evolution of Plants, Plant Life, Animal World, Human Body, Anthropology, Physiology, Psychology, Psychical Research.

Or, maybe, the hobby is belles lettres:—

4.—English Language, Writing of English, English Literature (Mediaeval), English Literature (Modern): Chaucer and His Times, Elizabethan Literature, Shakespeare, Milton, Dr. Johnson and His Circle, Victorian Age, Shelley Godwin and their circle, William Morris his work and influence, Great Writers of America, Landmarks in French Literature, Literature of Germany, Outline of Russian Literature.

These hundred or more volumes include about a dozen on Religion and Philosophy. The rest are fairly equally distributed (a score or more of titles to each) among four great departments of knowledge, or faculties, to use an academic term: History, Sociology, Science and Literature. In more ways than one they represent the last work in modern book-making; each volume contains an exhaustive index and a bibliography selected by the author as most useful, suggestive or authoritative on the subject under discussion. It is hoped that our readers will make use of these bibliographies or lists of supplementary books and ask at the receiving desk whether any they fancy are on the shelves; if not, they might be entered in the suggestion book. This would enable the Library Committee to chime with the wishes of the reading public in their monthly purchases of new books.

Would not be Without Zutoo Tablets
At Any Cost

Such is the statement of Mr. A. O. Norton, of Boston, the largest Jack Manufacturer in the world. His voluntary testimonial regarding ZUTOO follows:

286 Congress St., Boston, Mass.

"I have been a sufferer from Headache since childhood and have used all, or nearly all the so-called 'cures' on the market. Some months since my attention was called to Zutoo Tablets and I have been using them ever since with the most gratifying results. I find they cure a 'sick' or 'nervous' headache in a few minutes and leave no bad effects. My family use them whenever needed with equally good results. I have frequently given them to friends who were suffering from Headache and they never failed to give quick relief. I always carry Zutoo Tablets in my grip on the road and WOULD NOT BE WITHOUT THEM AT ANY COST."

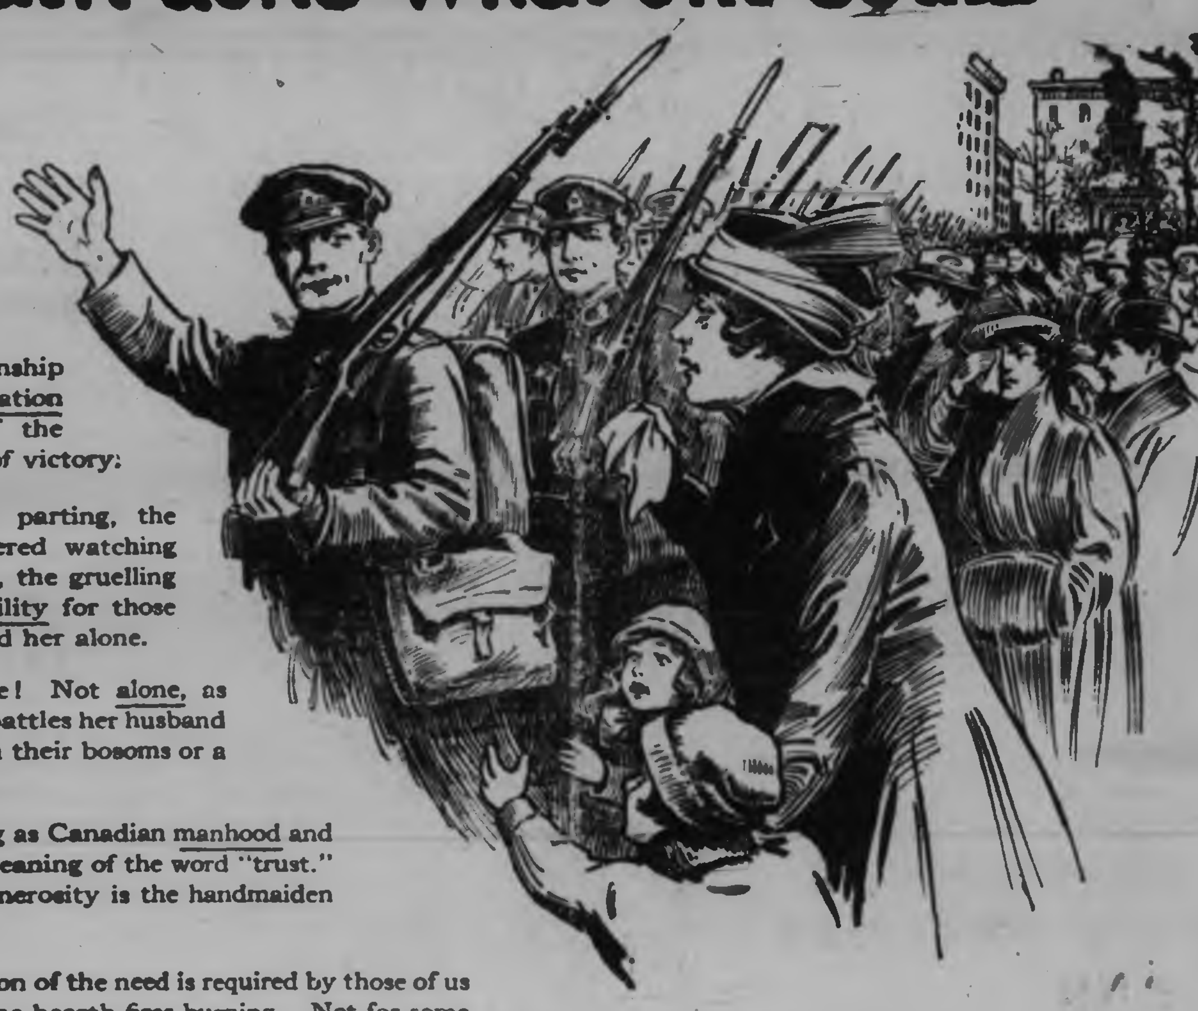
She hath done what she could



Every married man in the ranks of Canada's soldiers means that his wife gave her consent.

His the sacrifice, the danger, yes—but his also the interest of a new experience, the companionship of comrades, the inspiration of action, the thrill of the advance, and the glory of victory:

Her's the pitiful parting, the weary waiting, the fevered watching for the dreaded message, the gruelling grind of daily responsibility for those dependent upon her—and her alone.

No, no, not alone! Not alone, as long as the people whose battles her husband is fighting have a heart in their bosoms or a dollar in their pockets.

Not alone—as long as Canadian manhood and womanhood knows the meaning of the word "trust." Not alone, as long as Generosity is the handmaiden of Duty and Privilege.

Only an appreciation of the need is required by those of us who here at home keep the hearth fires burning. Not for some of us the supreme sacrifice, but for one and all of us at least that whole-hearted answer to the cry of patriotism that never yet has failed to go ringing around the world when the call has come.

The Canadian Patriotic Fund

$6,000,000 must be raised in Ontario for the vital necessities of the great work of caring for the needy families of Ontario's men at the front.

Every case is carefully investigated, everything humanly possible is done to eliminate mistakes and prevent imposition—but to those who need it is held out a helping hand, without lavishness, but with the determination to see no real want unsupplied.

You are again offered the great privilege, not of charity, but of recognition of the magnificence of Canadian Wifehood.

Remember, if the Man is a Hero, the Woman is a Martyr.

"She hath done what she could"

Ontario is being asked to assure the Canadian Patriotic Fund that it can depend on having six million dollars in 1917 for the families of Ontario's soldiers.

ADIAN PATRIOTIC

Four million of these dollars must be secured from individual subscriptions. If there is no Branch of the Fund in your town or county send your subscription direct to the Head Office, Canadian Patriotic Fund, Vittoria street, Ottawa.

GinPills FOR THE KIDNEYS

WHAT THE KIDNEYS ARE RESPONSIBLE FOR

The function of the kidneys is to purify the blood. Every three minutes, the entire blood stream passes through the kidneys and is relieved of its impurities by these busy organs. When the kidneys fail in their work, poison accumulates in the blood—pains are felt in the back, the head aches, the urinary system is deranged, the joints and ankles are apt to swell and there is grave danger of rheumatism, sciatica, and lumbago.

Gin Pills restore the kidneys to their normal activity, and should be taken as soon as any of the symptoms indicated above are felt. Gin Pills sooth and heal the kidneys. Don't neglect kidney trouble—you will only suffer needless pain.

All druggists sell Gin Pills—50c. a box, or 6 boxes for $2.50. A sample will be sent free upon request to

What Makes Living High

Mrs. Kinnaird, one of Edmonton's old-timers, whose work in all progressive movements outside the home is as good a her housekeeping within it, was asked lately what she thought of the high cost of living, and the reason thereof. She said:

"Reason 1.—The self-indulgence of the people. For example, when the first fruit, etc., comes in, it is all bought up, even when strawberries are 50 cents a box, while objection is made to paying moderate prices for the necessaries of life.

"Reason 2.—Some of the housewives are so busy improving their neighbors' condition that they forget that a supervision of their own pantries once in a while would be a great saving to their own pockets.

"Reason 3.—Many women use their house allowance on theatre tickets, movies and ice cream parlors—then blame the high cost of living because they cannot pay their bills.

"Reason 4.—Landlords and landladies exact the highest rent it is possible to get. The trouble is not all with the merchants."

Society is a wall of very strong masonry, as it now stands; it may be sapped in the course of a thousand years, but stormed in a day—no! You dash your head against it—you scatter your brains, and you dislodge a stone. Society smiles in scorn, effaces the stain, and replaces the stone. —Bulwer.

ACTION TAKEN BY UNITED STATES

many had three years ago), nine older battleships, 15 first-class, three second-class, 14 third-class cruisers, 21 gunboats, 10 monitors (now out of date), 40 destroyers, 32 torpedo boats and 35 submarines. The naval force consists of 51,296 officers and men. Politicians in the United States have decried the naval power of the nation. When the navy made a tour of the world a few years ago, it attracted admiring comment at every port visited. The war with Spain was little by way of a test of strength, but it was sufficient to demonstrate careful training and excellent marksmanship on the part of the gunners. The war craft of the Americans will make an efficient and powerful ally of the naval force of the Allies.

PROBABLE MORAL EFFECTS.

The stand taken by the United States should stimulate recruiting in Canada. It will tend to draw the two countries still closer together in the bonds of friendship, and the world may yet witness the spectacle of armed Canadian troops passing through the United States on their way to Europe.

Another effect of the American participation in the war would be the release of the German vessels now interned in United States ports and the impressing of them into the transportation of food supplies to England, and this would remove any danger of a shortage.

One danger to Canada is anticipated in the event of a new entry into hostilities. The hyphenated citizen of the United States would feel free to make raids into this country. To prevent these would be one of the duties of the United States. To safeguard Canada, the Militia Act will no doubt be invoked at once. It will probably be found that the German-Americans will, however, remain true to their adopted country in case of actual war. So long as that country remained neutral they were at liberty to express sympathy for the Fatherland.

The moral effect of the action of President Wilson will not be lost on the other neutral nations. Holland, Denmark, Switzerland and Spain, and probably Norway and Sweden, will follow the example of the Americans. Powerful as she is, Germany cannot cope with such a force arrayed against her. The end of the war may be in sight.

HARD AND FAST CONTRACT WITH ROSS RIFLE FIRM

But After February of Next Year Company Must Manufacture Lee-Enfield Weapons.

OTTAWA, Feb. 3.—That the Canadian Government, with 300,000 rifles on hand for which it has no use, is about to expend $2,600,000 in acquiring 80,000 more, seemed to be the irresistible conclusion from the announcement made by Sir Robert Borden in the House of Commons on Friday. The war credit vote being under consideration, Mr Carvell (Carleton, N.B.) called attention to the item of $2,600,000 for Ross rifles. This meant, he said, that 80,000 more Ross rifles were to be bought. None of our troops at the front were equipped with these rifles or would be in the future. He thought some explanation should be made of the proposed expenditure. He also desired to know why the Ross Coy. was still manufacturing the Ross rifle instead of the Lee-Enfield.

The Prime Minister said in reply that the Ross rifle had been a subject of controversy in Canada for over ten years. It was undoubtedly a good target rifle, but had proved itself unsuitable for active service conditions. The contract between the Government and the Ross Rifle Co. however, was so framed as to give the company the right to manufacture rifles for the Government indefinitely. The company could only be required to manufacture a different type of rifle after one year's notice.

Deliveries Delayed

At the outbreak of the war, he said, the Ross Rifle Company, at the request of the Government, having increased its output a greater on the American continent. 290,000 rifles had been ordered, of which extent than any other rifle factory 218,547 had been delivered. The British Government had also given the Ross Rifle Co. an order for 100,000 rifles in December, 1914, of which 57,000 were yet to be delivered. The Prime Minister said that in June, 1915, Sir John French had re-armed the first Canadian contingent with Lee-Enfield rifles, reporting that 3,000 of the Canadian troops had thrown the Ross rifles away and secured LeeEnfields from British casualties.

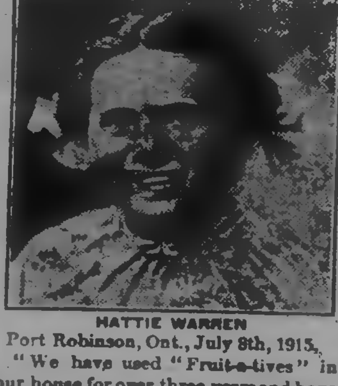
However, the Government did not consider the French report as decisive and the second division were armed with the Ross rifle when they went to France. It was not until the publication of the Alderson letter and Sir Douglas Haig's report that it was definitely decided to re-arm all Canadian troops with the Lee-Enfield. The British Government had undertaken to do this and had requested that no more Ross rifles be sent to England

Year's Notice Required

The Prime Minister said that the government had no choice but to fulfill its contract with the Ross Rifle Company by taking and paying for the rifles already ordered and yet to be delivered. The Government, however, after consultation with the British authorities, had decided to equip the Canadian army with the Lee-Enfield rifle now being manufactured for the British Government in the United States. Notice to this effect had been given the Ross Rifle Company, but under the contract the notice would not become effective until Feb. 1, 1918, and after that date the Ross Rifle Co would have to manufacture the Lee-Enfield rifle.

HEALTHIEST ONE IN THE FAMILY

No Sign Of Dropsy And Kidney Trouble Since Taking "FRUIT-A-TIVES"



HATTIE WARREN

Port Robinson, Ont., July 8th, 1915.

"We have used "Fruit-a-tives" in our house for over three years and have always found them a good medicine. Our little girl, Hattie, was troubled with Kidney Disease. The Doctor said she was threatened with Dropsy. Her limbs and body were all swollen and we began to think she could not live. Finally, we decided to try "Fruit-a-tives". She began to show improvement after we had given her a few tablets. In a short time, the swelling had all gone down and her flesh began to look more natural. Now she is the healthiest one in the family and has no signs of the old ailment. We can not say too much for "Fruit-a-tives" and would never be without them".

MEMBERS OF ST. PAUL'S CHOIR REMEMBERED

MR. AND MRS. ROBT. MEIN ARE RECIPIENTS OF BEAUTIFUL GIFT.

The chair of St. Paul's Church and their friends held an entertainment in the school room last night. Mr. John Allan presided. An excellent program was given in which Miss Georgie Davidson, Miss Gertie Stevens, Mr. Milton, Mr. Douglas Carlistle, Miss Doroothy Allan and Mr. John Crane took part.

During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Mein, who have for many years been members of the choir, were presented with a beautiful illuminated address and a silver water kettle. The address was read by Mr. Logan and the presentation was made by Mr. John Crane.

Mr. Mien replied, thanking the choir for their gift and told of the pleasant association with different members.

A letter of regret at not being able to be present was read from the pastor, Rev. R. Pogue, who is ill.

Addresses were given by Messrs. J. Connal, D. H. Moore, H. O. Fisk, A. Mowat, R. Madill, W. F. Nelson, R. McEwan and Sheriff Hall. During the evening refreshments were served, and the supply of cakes being greater than the demand, an auction sale conducted by Mr. John Crane netted a handsome sum for St. Paul's Red Cross Association.

THE HIT OF THE SEASON

"Dixie" Minstrels," St. Alphonsus' Lyceum, Tuesday evening, Feb. 6. Admission 25c. Curtain at 8.15. T.A.S. orchestra in attendance.

LAID TO REST

The funeral of the late Mrs. Thos. Robinson took place on Thursday afternoon from the family residence, 262 Aylmer St., to Little Lake Cemetery, and was largely attended. The pallbearers were the four son-in-laws and two grandsons, Messrs. G. Grange, T. Foster, W. S. Milburn, H. R. Saunders, Preston Grange and R. Foster. The floral tributes were many and beautiful, being received from friends in Buffalo, Midland City and Toronto.

THE COAL SITUATION.

The coal situation is as serious as most people care to have it. Orders for coal today could not be filled by the dealers.

The Railway Board has ordered that all coal on the lines be despatched with the least possible delay, and this may bring relief to the city. Mayor Duffus, who has been in touch with the Railway Board, received a telegram to the above effect this afternoon.

Pale, Feeble Girls

Weakness Generally Comes on as Womanhood Approaches.

Girls upon the threshold of womanhood often drift into a decline in spite of all care and attention. How often one sees girls who have been strong and lively become suddenly weak, depressed, irritable and listless. It is the dawn of womanhood—a crisis in the life of every girl—and prompt measures should be taken to keep the blood pure and rich with the red tint of health. If the blood is not healthy at this critical stage the body is weakened and grave disorders follow. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have saved thousands of young girls from what might have been lifelong invalidism or death. They are a blood-builder of unequalled richness, strengthening weak nerves and producing a liberal supply of red, healthy blood which every girls needs to sustain her strength. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have proved their great value over and over again to young women whose health was failing. Miss A. Sternburg, Haileybury Road, New Liskeard, Ont., says: "I have much reason to be grateful to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as they restored me to health, if, indeed, they did not save my life. In 1914 I began to feel run down, and the doctor, who was called in, said that mine was a bad case of anaemia. I lost flesh, always felt tired, and I got so nervous that I could scarcely hold a cup to take a drink. My heart would flutter alarmingly. The doctor did not seem to be able to help me at all, and my family and friends all thought that I was in a decline and could not recover. I was in bed for some weeks, when an aunt came to see me and urged that I try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. My father got a supply, and by the time I had taken three boxes there was a noticeable improvement, and from that on I steadily progressed toward recovery. I continued using the pills for some time longer, and they restored me to my old time health and strength. I shall never cease to praise this medicine, and to urge all weak, run-down girls to give it a fair trial, as I have proved in my own case their great merit."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all dealers in medicine, or you can get them by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Everyone Should Drink Hot Water in the Morning

Wash away all the stomach, liver, and bowel poisons before breakfast.

To feel your best day in and day out, to feel clean inside, no sour bile to coat your tongue and sicken your breath or dull your head; no constipation, bilious attacks, sick headache, colds, rheumatism or gassy, acid stomach, you must bathe on the inside like you bathe outside. This is vastly more important, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do, says a well-known physician.

To keep these poisons and toxins well flushed from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels drink before breakfast each day a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will cleanse, purify and freshen the entire alimentary tract before putting more food into the stomach.

Get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from your pharmacist. It is inexpensive and almost tasteless, except a sourish twinge which is not unpleasant. Drink phosphated hot water every morning to rid your system of these vile poisons and toxins; also to prevent their formation.

To feel like young folks feel, like you felt before your blood, nerves and muscles became saturated with an accumulation of body poisons, begin this treatment and above all keep it up! As soap and hot water act on the skin cleansing, sweetening and purifying, so limestone phosphate and hot water before breakfast act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.

A very young man like to be mistaken for a cynic.

ONE LITTLE THING THAT HOLDS BACK RECRUITING

Capt. Burnham in Speech in Parliament Says Stamp Tax is Not Fair to Rich and Poor Alike.

OTTAWA, Feb. 3. — When Hon. Mr. Lemieux spoke in the House on the work of recruiting, he took the stand that enlistments were not up to the mark in Quebec because Gen. Lessard had not been given due recognition by the Militia Department. In reply to this Capt. J. H. Burnham spoke as follows:

Everyone, I suppose, who knows at least a little about this may contribute something, especially if it is a fact. Whilst everyone will agree with the hon. member for Rouville (Mr. Lemieux) that Gen. Lessard is a man of eminence and of the highest character, a man of the best possible training—and I myself cannot understand why his services are not utilized—the hon. member overlooks one fact, namely, that the testimony which would encourage or deter recruiting amongst our French-Canadians is that of the men at the front, and the French-Canadians at the front are, without any exception—and I say this not only of those I have met, but of those I have heard of and of those I have come across indirectly—the most enthusiastic men possible.

Devoted Soldiers.

You could not find soldiers more devoted to the cause and more anxious that their compatriots should enlist. When they come back to Quebec, they say to other French-Canadian friends: "Why do you not enlist?" I am sure the hon. member will agree with me therefore that the allegation that there was a lack of training, a fear, or a suspicion, that would deter them from enlisting, falls absolutely to the ground, because the testimony upon which they must rely is that which is gathered at the front, and it is such as I speak of.

There are some other little things which deter people, I must confess. Sometimes it is a small thing which does it, and there may be an explanation; but I am not so saturated with politics that I cannot speak for the mass of the people as I understand it, and here is a small thing which I would contribute, which, to my mind, would deter, perhaps not a great many, but at any rate some recruits.

The Poor Man's Burden.

Suppose three people og into a chemist's shop; one is a poor man; the other two, we shall say, are evidently not poor. The poor man buys, because he has to buy, a bottle of patent medicine and pays four cents war tax on it. The second man buys a camera on which there is no war tax. Some one may say that the ingredients are taxed, but that is true of the three purchases. I am also told that the doctors of the present day sometimes prescribe patent medicines to the extent of probably twenty-five per cent. of their prescriptions, and if any portion of the medicine is taken out of the patent medicine bottle, there has to be a corresponding amount of war tax paid upon it. I have never heard of anyone except the hon. member for North Oxford (Mr. Nesbitt) wanting to buy a bottle of patent medicine because he regarded it as a luxury. This purchaser buys it because perhaps he has a little child at home who needs it. He sees the man come in and buy a camera and the other man come in and buy a box of sweets and neither of them has to pay a war tax. He is infuriated, and who can blame him?

No one at all. I do not charge the Minister of Finance with doing this sort of thing willingly, because I think, when it is brought to his attention, as it certainly will be by the people, he will change it, because he is a man not only evidently skilled in finance, but of the finest character and the best heart, and I expect he will respond to the appeals of the people in this respect.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

The annual meeting of the Otonabee Chapter, I.O.D.E., is being held this afternoon in the green room of the Y.W.C.A.

Miss Jessie Spence is in Ottawa on a visit to her aunt, Mrs. Ketchum.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hill of Peterborough announce the engagement of their daughter, Aimie Agnes, to Mr. James Fordyce Strickland, lieutenant of the 247th Batt., son of Mr. and Mrs. James Strickland, Cornwall, the marriage to take place quietly in March.

Miss Emma Worth has passed with honors her vocal examinations at Toronto Conservatory of Music.

The weekly tea held by St. Peter's Patriotic Club in St. Alphonsus' Lyceum on Thursday afternoon was a great success. Mrs. John Dwyer, Water St., and Miss Irene Dorris, Cedar St., were the hostesses, assisted by Mrs. T. Lane, who presided at the tea table, Mrs. R. DesMarteaux, and the Misses Annie Simons, Mary Dorris, E. Flynn and Annie Kelly. Miss Olive Tangney presided at the piano. The table decorations were pink and white.

The many friends of Mr. Harry Smith, Kenneth avenue, will be pleased to learn that he has recovered from his recent illness. He desires to thank his friends for many acts of kindness during his illness.

Mr. A. St. A. Smith of Toronto is spending the day in the city.

Mr. J. J. MacDonald, representing "Peg O' My Heart" company is in the city.

The Parents' Circle of Queen Mary School will hold their regular monthly meeting on Monday, Feb. 5, at 4 o'clock, in the kindergarten room. A good program will be given and it is hoped a large number will attend. All those wishing to become members should attend this meeting.

At the annual meeting of the Peter Robinson Chapter, I.O.D.E., officers were elected for the year as follows: Regent, Mrs. C. R. Diddifield; vice-regent, Miss Maysie Armstrong; secretary, Miss Helen Stapleton; treasurer, Miss Celia Dunsford; standard bearer, Miss Robena Cummings. The election of councillors was left over for another meetings. It was decided to give "The Dansant" in conjunction with the afternoon tea at the Empress oHtel next Saturday afternoon, Feb. 10. Details of the event will be given later.

Mr. Judson Krapz of Kingsville, Ont., is the guest of Mr. F. J. Voaden, Gilmour Street.

Mrs. Isadore Goselin and young son, 515 Romaine St., have gone to Trenton for a visit.

Among those who attended the funeral of the late Mrs. Thos. Robinson from out of the city were Mr. John Preston, Midland City, brother of the deceased; Mrs. Fred. Dobbin, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Pidgeon, Mrs. Dan. Byrne and Miss Annie Pidgeon, Port Hope, and Mrs. Wm Robinson, Beaverton

Miss Lettie Robinson of Hespeler and Miss Eliza Robinson, Buffalo, are in the city, having been called home owing to the death of their mother, the late Mrs. Thos. Robinson.

COMMISSIONER MAPP.

PRESENTATIONS TO OFFICERS OF SUNDAY SCHOOL

GIFTS FOR MISS M. COLLINS AND MR. A. E. PREST, SUPERINTENDENTS.

The officers and teachers of St. James' Methodist Church Sunday school held a successful social time at the church last night, the feature of the evening being presentations to Mr. A. E. Prest, superintendent of the Sunday school, and Miss Mary Collins, superintendent of the primary department, Mr. Prest receiving a handsome set of books and Miss Collins a teacher's Bible and primary help, the presentations being made by Miss Pearl Eakins. Mrs. J. N. Welbourn read a joint address which expressed appreciation of the faithful services given in behalf of the Sunday school by Mr. Prest and Miss Collins.

A musical program was given and addresses made. Mrs. Lewis spoke on primary work, and Mr. E. Ingall discussed training of teachers. Both addresses were of a high order., and Rev. Benj. Greatrix, in moving a vote of thanks to all who had contributed to the program, made special mention of the kindness of Mrs. Lewis and Mr. Ingall.

Speaking of the activities in the Sunday school, Mr. Greatrix said the enrolment was 500, the average attendance 350, and the average collections $7.00.

The Sunday school is in the hands of capable officers and teachers and continued growth is in prospect.

FORD CARS SURE TO BE MORE POPULAR THAN EVER.

The attention of our readers is directed to the page advertisement of the Duffus Garage, setting forth the advantages of the Ford automobile. Well known and popular as it is, the Ford car has still a number of new features that cannot fail to commend it to the favorable consideration of the public.

In the first place, the Ford makes light of the high cost of living because it is cheaper now than it was a year ago. Think of a five-passenger touring car for $495—less than the price of an ordinary team of horses. The car is not only cheap but is equipped with all the high qualities for which the Ford has been so long renowned.

This car will fill the requirements of all classes and will save money to the owner. It is just what the farmer requires. The Duffus Garage carries a full line of repairs, so that all cars can be kept in the pink of condition at all times.

The garage is kept open at night so that the car owner is able to secure the best of service at all hours.

THE PREPONDERENT AUTOMOBILE

Probably it is true, as some philosophical ethnologist heretofore has remarked, that Americans take a childish interest in figures, whether they designate the height of a towering office building or the size of a rich man's fortune or the number of tons of water that fall in a given shower. This propensity for mathematical representtion of various ideals finds vigorous exercise from time to time in the growth of the automobile industry. The Scientific American has been getting together some gigantic totals and putting them down so that whoever runs—or rides in his car—may read and marvel.

According to this estimate, there are in round numbers 3,000,000 motor cars in operation in the United States, from the flivver to the touring car and the auto-truck. If all these cars were combined into one it would compare in size with Manhattan's tallest skyscraper. About 18 per cent. of the total cars are 1916 models, perhaps 550,000. To purchase and to operate the cars in the United States and Canada requires $1,700,000,000 a year. The Scientific American's estimate is as follows: Gasoline, fifty gallons per car at 20 to 25 cents, $340,000,000; tires, six per car at $20, $360,000,000; accessories, $100 per car, $300,000,000, garage hire, $50 per car, $150,000,000; repairs, $50 per car, $150,000,000; new cars, $700 per car; $400,000,000; total, $1,700,000,000

While these figures indicate that the automobile is a considerable factor in modern life, they do not set forth the automobile's full importance, because that remarkable machine is working steadily to bring about better roads and better social conditions generally in town and country. In one way or another it influences the lives of practically all the people.

LIGHTER CARS THE AIM OF ALL MANUFACTURERS

WITH SIMPLICITY AS KEYNOTE, MAKERS STRIVE FOR MORE STRENGTH WITH LESS WEIGHT.

Light weight is one of the earmarks of that finished simplicity which John Timbs, historian of American invention, says is the ultimate stage in mechanical development. Crude directness at the start leads up to burdensome complexity, which is forced to give way eventualy to the final, simple design which makes the complex stage of development seem absurd.

The automobile industry as a whole has passed through the first stage and is now almost through the second. Complexity of design has seen its height in the "eights" and "twelves." It sems hardly probable that it will ever be carried further, at least in the number of cylinders. The multi-cylinder engines are now enjoying greatest popularity, there has been a steady and gradually intensifying undertone, the dominant note of which is less weight. One is convinced on this point by even a cursory examination of the printed matter issued and the advertising done by many manufacturers.

We read of aluminum motors, "lightness with great strength," "unequalled lightness for strength," "light sizes," and so on, and the theme is invariably weight reduction.

This movement has its parallel in other lines of vehicular transportation. Seventy-five to 100 years ago the first steps were taken to lighten horse-drawn vehicles, the new design taking form in the one-horse chaise. Today it is almost an arioum that the weight of a vehicle plus that of the horse drawing it shall only total about twice the weight of the passenger load the vehicle is built to carry. In these lighter vehicles it is possible to make the springs much more flexible than where heavy bodies and axles were involved in the construction. And it is also possible to take advantage of the riding ease which the low weight of axles and wheels (unsprung weight) introduces.

In 1915 the street railway business in this country was near a crisis. The managers saw that the only way out was in building lighter cars to reduce upkeep costs of both cars and tracks. Cars which weighed 25 per cent. less than the ordinary type are fast replacing the latter and with much better results.

If the great railroads of the country reduced the weight of locomotives and cars they could save millions in the yearly rail bill and the depreciation and upkeep of rolling stock and roadbed would be correspondingly less.

So it is in the automobile trade that the light car will ultimately be looked to for the kind of service that is demanded by comfort, safety and economy. The history of a number of automobiles has for years been built around this condition. When it came to a question of greater ability they followed the dictates of the carriage builder by reducing the weight of the vehicle rather than increasing the size of the "horse."

The crudely simple car of 1900 was not especially costly to run, but neither was it comfortable. Ever since that time the manufacturers have been vying with one another in trying to build comfort into their cars, but in this process weight was practically ignored, with the result that weight and power have continually been added to carry weight. The result is a certain measure of comfort obtained at high cost. The dawning era of finished simplicity will bring both comfort and economy.

STEAM AND ELECTRIC VULCANIZERS AT YOUR SERVICE AT H. T. MILLARD'S

H. T. Millard's up-to-date and fully equipped offices, salesroom and repair plant at Hunter Street.

AUTO AS FIELD TILLER

Arable Land of the Nation Increased 50 Per Cent. in Five Years.

F. B. Milsom, a Buffalo agent, estimates from figures recently compiled by the department of agriculture, that tillable lands throughout the United States have in the last five years increased in value about 50 per cent., all of which is directly traceable to the automobile.

The bulletin of the department of agriculture, upon which this estimate is based, is entitled "Economic Survey of County Highway Improvement," and gives facts relating to eight counties selected as a test. Four of these are in Virginia and one each in New York, Alabama, Florida and Mississippi. The increase of land values in five years in each of these counties ranges from 25 to 194 per cent. There are 3,027 counties in the United States.

These figures certainly suggest fascinating mathematics and astounding circulations. Just as an instance, the department of agriculture finds that in the eight counties investigated, the saving in haulage costs, in the five years reviewed, amounted to $627,409. Apply the same situation to the whole country and the saving would amount to the tidy sum of $237,395,502.

"You can trace this marvellous development to the advent of the automobile," concludes Mr. Milsom, "for good roads have been fathered and fostered by the automobile. All of which goes to show that the investment in cars, great as it is, is nothing in comparison with the benefits and blessings that have flowed from it."

McLAUGHLIN CARS ARRIVE

Messrs. A. Brown & Co. have just received another shipment of McLaughlin Cars. This firm last week sold two of these popular models, making in all about $12,000 worth of business done on this year's contract. It looks like a good year for McLaughlin Cars in Peterborough.

Also an Oxy-Acetylene Outfit for Cutting and Welding.

SAVES DELAYS

That a small and rather unpretentious bicycle shop on Hunter St. possessed a rather unique history, dating back much farther than the average citizen might naturally imagine, and of more than passing interest, are the facts recently unearthed by a visiting newspaper man.

The above photo was taken about 30 years ago and is a picture of Best and Metheral's bicycle shop as it appeared at that time. The old fashioned bicycles standing outside the shop speak for themselves, also the old board sidewalk in front of the store will be noted in contrast to the modern cement walks so long in use now that few remember the time when board walks were in vogue.

Best & Metheral started in business about the year 1870 as a machine repair shop, and later invented an oil engine and a greatly improved steam boiler and engine for small boats.

About the year 1885 the "safety" low frame bicycle came into use and a year or so later pneumatic bicycle tires (the improvement that made the bicycle so popular) were invented. In 1895 Best and Metheral started to manufacture bicycle frames and continued in this line until the big slump in the bicycle business in 1899, brought about party by overproduction and partly by tire trouble, as tires in the early days of the bicycle were costly and difficult to repair, a great number of the large manufacturers in this year failed and their stocks came under the hammer. Bicycles were sold for less than manufacturers' cost.

Best & Metheral were the first and in fact the only firm in Peterborough who ever really manufactured bicycles, not merely buying them made up and affixing their name plates, and it is interesting to note that there are still in use in Peterborough a number of these bicycles made so long ago but so substantially and well built that they are still giving good service.

As far back as 1898 they installed a power driven air pump and an air tank to accommodate their bicycle customers with "compressed air free," being the first in Canada, and probably the first bicycle shop in the world to thus accommodate the public.

In 1908, Mr. Metheral, having dissolved partnership some years previously, sold the business to the present owner, H. T. Millard.

Mr. Millard, in adition to an extensive bicycle and auto tire sales business and a modern up-to-date repair shop, vulcanizes auto tires, being the first in town to install steam and electric vulcanizers for this work.

Machine shop repair work has always been a strong feature of the business and this had become so well known that considerable time was lost persuading customers to take away broken castings and articles that were past being profitably repaired. To overcome this difficulty an oxy-acetylene cutting and welding outfit was installed and Mr. Millard took a course of study in the art of oxy-acetylene welding and now, instead of sending away work, he is busy trying to convince the public that the impossible can at last be done.

The powerful flame from the cutting torch of this modern invention burns at a temperature of 5,600 degrees and will cut off a great steel girder in a few minutes, that by the old method of a sledge and cold chisel would have taken two men hours of hard labor to sever. The Quaker Oats Co. are taking advantage of this appliance in removing the debris of the late fire.

The welding torch used in connection with the apparatus is still more wonderful and of more practical interest to the general public. By its use anything from a pair of scissors to a locomotive can be repaired, melted together and in some cases made stronger than when new, at a fraction of the cost of replacing the broken part, and in these days, when all metal products have become so costly and many things are impossible to get, even from the manufacturers, the possibility of having repairs rapidly and cheaply done in town should prove a real boon to the people of Peterborough, not to mention the patriotic reason that every article repaired instead of being replaced gives some mechanic so much more time to turn out munitions to win the war.

Progress has marked the business of Mr. H. T. Millard. The above is a reproduction from an old photograph if the premises of Best & Metheral, which Mr. Millard remodelled into his present stand.

21 YEARS OF AUTOS HAS SEEN MANY NEW RECORDS

Two New Goals Were Reached in Year Just Closed.

From the first, without a lapse in a single year since the beginning 21 years ago the automobile has been a maker of new records. Not all of these records, as a matter of course, have been of equal significance; some have but marked gains within one period of development; others, fewer in number but far-reaching in effect, have signalized the entry into new periods of development in the making and distribution of motor vehicles.

In the year just closed two new goals of this deeper significance were reached. For the first time the million mark in motor vehicle production in the United States and Canada was passed, and for the first time th total value of passenger automobiles and motor trucks manufactured went beyond the billion dollar mark.

According to figures given out by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, which represents the motor vehicle manufacturers of the country, the total production of all classes of cars was 1,617,708, of which 1,525,578 were passenger automobiles and 92,130 truck or commercial vehicles. The total value of this output, based on the retail price was $1,088,028,273, represented by $921,378,000 in passenger cars and $166,650,273 in trucks.

80 Per Cent. Gain

In 1915 the total output of cars was 892,618, the gain in production over the preceding year is, therefore, 80 per cent., and this increase is twice as much as the average annual gain since the foundation of the industry. At the beginning of 1916 the National Chamber of Commerce estimated that the production for that year would be 1,200,000. The prophets of the automobile industry have never been lacking in boldness and imagination but those prophets worth heeding fell short of the actual output in 1916 by more than 600,000.

Of the 1,617,708 motor vehicles produced in the United States and Canada in 1916, 78,200 were exported, leaving for distribution in these countries 1,539,508. The National Automobile Chamber of Commerce estimates that there are not less than 3,500,000 motor vehicles in North America.

What is the dominant note of the new period which the automobile has entered? In the opinion of the manufacturers the automobile has fairly won its way to recognition as one of the great public utilities, comparable with the railroads, the telephone and the telegraph as a factor in national development. Each of these established a new system of communication; they made the States and Provinces of the United States and Canada more united, so to say. Each played its part in knitting the country into something truly national. The gain was vast, but in sweeping aside old ways of communication there was one great loss. The building and extension of the railroads laid a deadening hand on the development of highways and roads. The old traffic that went by way of the four-horse freighter over highway and turnpike from one province to another was loaded into railroad freight cars. Public attention was taken from consideration of highway maintenance of building on a large scale. Highways, generally speaking, became merely local.

New Life Added

To put life into the highways again required a new kind of vehicle, with a speed far surpassing the horse, and economical of operation. This is the field of the automobile; here is the great part it is to play in a development that in the end will compare favorably with the progress promoted by any other of the great public utilities. Systems of country-wide highways are to be built that were not dreamed of as possible before the automobile appeared. These highways are to bear a traffic, passenger automobiles and motor trucks, never imagined in the days of the horse.

The railroad, with all its capacity for service, has its limitation. It is rigid transportation, bound to steel tracks. The automobile is elastic transportation, free to go wherever the highway leads. To have a home or a farm at any considerable distance from the railroad or the trolley line was to be out of the world. These places the automobile is bringing into the world. It is reaching out and knitting into the great active world, as a new part of it, isolated areas, where life was cramped and dull, and resources undeveloped.

WATER-BOUND MACADAM IN NEW YORK RECEIVES PROTECTING COAT.

"While New York is building many miles of waterbound macadam roads, it is not generally understood that these receive a surface treatment of bituminous material and thus become a different class of roads from the macadam used before the advent of automobiles," says an official of the American Highways Association. "New macadam roads are full of moisture, and where the climatic conditions are like those of New York it takes three months for this moisture to disappear and leave the road in such a condition that the bituminous surfacing material will adhere to it firmly. Consequently, roads finished so late in the fall that they cannot be seasoned for three months before winter prevents further work on them are given a surface treatment of calcium chloride. This material has long been used in England as well as the United States as a dust preventive. It holds enough moisture on the surface of the road to prevent the dust formed by travel from being carried away, and this dust and water act to bind the road during its transition from a green to a seasoned state."

MARKET PRICES

The supply was not equal to the demand on the market this morning and as a result prices were strong in all departments. Eggs, which were on the downward path, readily sold at 50c and in a few instances 55c was asked.

Butter remained steady at 45c. There was not a great quantity on sale.

Fowl of all kinds were very scarce and prices were high.

Hens sold at 18c, while chickens sold generally for 20c to 22c per lb.

There were a few turkeys on sale and they sold for 25c per lb.

There was not a very large market on the outside. A few loads of dressed beef comprised the display. Several lots of household furnishings were disposed of by the auctioneers.

The hog market was steady to strong all week and will remain so during the coming week. The local quotation is $13.75.

The Markets at a Glance

The following comment on the market situation as regards foodstuffs will appear in Canadian Grocer this week:—

Sugar declined 10c per hundred during the week and is still in a weak market. Further declines are anticipated in this commodity within the next two months, when production of raw sugar on the Island of Cuba will reach its maximum. Conditions in Cuba continue favorable for a big crop. Flour also recorded a decline of 40c per barrel for Manitoba during the week. Demand for flour is still light. Molasses is in firm market and advances have taken place on all case goods with a strong probability that the bulk molasses will also record an advance in the near future.

Dressed hogs were firmer in price and advances were made effective. Meat products were accordingly in firm market with advances recorded in some lines. Butter and eggs are still in weak tone. Supplies of storage eggs are being rapidly depleted and prices are firmer. Cheese advanced in price owing to the continued heavy export demand. Fish products in many lines recorded advances owing to the increased demand for fish as a food for the armies. Potatoes are still in firm market with higher prices recorded. Seed potatoes from all appearances will be a scarce article in the spring.

Condensed and evaporated milk and prepared coffee have advanced in price. One brand of pickles has also been increased in price. Teas are in a firm market. Coffee stocks being carried are slightly heavier than usual in anticipation of higher prices. Business during the week has continued fairly good. Travellers are experiencing some difficulty in covering their territories owing to the curtailment of the passenger train service, [illegible]

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST LAND REGULATIONS

The sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. Applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at any Dominion Lands Agency (but not Sub-Agency), on certain conditions.

Duties—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required except where residence is performed in the vicinity.

Live stock may be substituted for cultivation under certain conditions.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre.

Duties—Six months' residence in each of three years after earning homestead patent; also 50 acres extra cultivation. Pre-emption patent may be obtained as soon as homestead patent, on certain conditions.

A settler who has exhausted his homestead right may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre.

Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.

FOR SALE OR TO RENT—150 acres of choice farm land situated in the Township of Smith, in a very nice locality. This farm has a very comfortable brick house, with a new bank barn and drive shed. Land is all under cultivation with about 82 acres of timber. Owner will rent said farm at $400.00 per year.

FOR SALE OR TO RENT—10 acres of choice land, situated on the outskirts of the city, containing a house which could be made very comfortable, and ten acres of the best land. This place is only about ten minutes walk from the car line and factories. Would make a good place for a market gardener.

FOR RENT—Two and one-half storey red brick house, having all modern improvements; situated in a very choice locality. There is a large stable, with hen house, and a big garden. This house can be rented at $15.00 per month, a very low rent considering locality and class of house.

FIVE YEARS OF AUTO GROWTH

CENSUS SHOWS 155 PER CENT. VALUE INCREASE IN FIVE YEARS.

While it is common knowledge tht the automobile industry has developed wonderfully in the last few years, a statement issued by the U.S. Bureau of Census shows the exact extent of this growth from 1909 to 1914. These are the latest official figures, but they have already lost their value as representing the present status of the industry.

In 1914 there were 300 establishments engaged primarily in the manufacture of motor vehicles. They employed 91,997 persons, had an invested capital of $312,876,000, paid $84,901,000 in salaries and wages during the year, and produced vehicles to the value of $503,230,000.

In addition, there were 33 establishments engaged in other lines of manufacturing which produced automobiles to the value of $6,636,920.

Adding the value of bodies and parts produced by 971 companies mking this their principal business and 434 other establishments producing them as a side line, bring the total value of automobile products for that year to $649,982,990, an increase of 155 per cent. over the value of production of $254,447,346 in 1909.

National Problems

Problems of national importance that remained unsolved in spite of all the railroads, telephones, telegraph, rural deliveries, and lecture bureas in existence, the automobile is to forward to solution. One of these, fundamental to national well-being and progress, is to stay the movement of population from country to town, to keep the farmer on the farm. This problem first entered the stage of active discussion about two decades ago and the interest it aroused was the father of the "Back to the Land" movement and the "Forward to the Land" movement. Farm life was pictured in alluring colors by lecturers, and thousands of city people were induced to "go forward" to the land; thence, later, most of them retreated to the city in thorough sympathy with farmers who would not stay on the land. Even with heralded conveniences of the telephone, the rural mail delivery, and a near-by railroad, the farm was a dull place to most people. Just what was the matter no one could tell, when the reverse movement began. Now it turns out the chief trouble was lack of adequate transportation.

This the automobile is supplying. It is within the bounds to say that the motor car is transforming farm life. With the horse-drawn vehicle the farmer moved back and forth from country to town at the rate of about three miles an hour. With the automibile the rate of travel is probably about 15 miles an hour. It is at once seen how such rapid transportation increases the scope and activities of farm life. Economically, on business trips, it is a great saver of time. Socially it removes the isolation of farm life. The trip to town or city for an evening's entertainment is quickly made. The farm neighborhood is much extended. Twenty miles is no distance to go more than a half day's trip with a horse and buggy.

In bringing about the economic and social gains which the automobile is capable of producing good roads are necessary. Automobile production is ahead of road production and the automobile manufacturers realize now more than ever before that the future distribution of motor vehicles depends on the construction of highways capable of standing up under heavy automobile traffic. To build the right kind of roads rightly trained men are a primary essential.

While road building is behind automobile building, this year will see the greatest road construction ever undertaken in this country. It is estimated that $250,000,000 will be spent in road building in the United States and Canada this year. There is hardly a State or Province that does not realize the importance of connecting up by solidly built roadways with the main highways that enter it from adjoining States and Provinces. Otherwise, the ever-increasing stream of motor vehicle traffic will pass it by.

What will the production be this year? It will be larger than 1916, in the opinion of the manufacturers. It is recognized that the last year was a phenomenal year, and while the automobile has been treated to one phenomenal year after another a 100 per cent. gain in 1916 is not looked for. One [illegible] in touch with the industry [illegible] the increase of 1917 over 1916 would be not less than 20 per cent.

James Clayton of Brockville died suddenly at 4 a.m. while working on munitions. He was married about one month.

DRAUGHT VERSUS BOTTLED LIQUORS

Liquors in sealed bottles in cases cost one-third more than in draught, and the quality is no better. Why one-third more? Because you are paying for the bottles and the labor of bottling, for the same goods.

Following are some draught liquors, especially "Balmoral" Scotch, which we can highly recommend:

FORD OWNERS SAY IT IS THE ACME OF ECONOMY AND SERVICE

FORD PRICES DESCEND OTHER PRICES SOAR

A 1917 model Ford five-passenger touring car for $495! That does not sound like the high cost of living. Indeed, the price today is less than a year ago and the car still retains those qualities which have made it the universal car. The remarkable low price is explained in the tremendous output of Fords. The materials used in the manufacture of the Ford is bought in such large quantities, the art of manufacture has become so highly developed and the system carried out in the great manufacturing plant is so perfect that it possible to sell the finished product for $495, less than the price of an ordinary team of horses, and the cost of upkeep is much less. Added to this low purchasing price, the owner of a Ford has the most economical car to be had, both as to the cost of operation and repairs, and in this district he has three up-to-the-minute garages complete in every detail, each giving a service that will meet all his requirements and give him the best possible satisfaction.

NEW FEATURES.

At $495 the purchaser gets a car worth while. The 1917 model touring car has a stream line hood, crown fenders, a new style radiator which eliminates much of the brass formerly used, and it possesses all the high qualities for which the Ford is renowned.

FROM A UTILITY STANDPOINT.

SUCH a car will carry the professional man, the business man, the farmer, anywhere—in rain or shine, on snow-covered roads and through drifts it is willing and dependable—and at a very low cost; in fact the lowest cost obtainable in any car. To the man who likes to get away into the fresh, clear air of the country, and spend his spare itme at the summer cottage, the Ford car is a boon. He can make the trips to and from his place of business quickly; and his expense account will be astonishingly low. To the farmer the Ford is a money-maker, as many owners know. By using his car, he can reach business centres in very short time, transact his business and return to his farm to continue his agricultural pursuits. In the meantime his horses have not been disturbed in their work; he has been absent from the farm only a short time, and the net result is better satisfaction and money earned. There are numbers of farmers who can show figures that tell of greater earnings on the farm since the Ford car came, and they would not revert to the old order of things even though the Ford should of necessity be increased in price.

WINTER MODELS.

THREE other Ford models for winter use are the Couplet, for two passengers, at $695; the Sedan, a five-passenger car at $890. There is also the Ford town car for taxicab purposes at $780.

ONE TON TRUCK AND DELIVERY.

In the near future the Duffus Garage will display a one-ton truck at an approximate cost of 650. This truck promises much, it being inteded for the heavier class of cartage, and equipped with the same and reliable motor that has made the Ford famous in the four corners of the earth. It will have ample power and will be capable of attaining a speed of twelve miles an hour loaded

Next comes the Ford Chassis, at $450, to which can be fitted almost any style of delivery body required by the merchant for delivery purposes. The Ford Delivery is much used in Peterborough today because merchants have found that they can give better service to their customers and because it is much more economical than a horse, for there is no exaggeration in the statemnt that a Ford Delivery can do the work of five horses and in a much more satisfactory manner.

SUPPLIES AND ACCESSORIES.

THE Duffus Garage will supply any make of tire, and with the sale give the full guarantee of the company. In the case of a tire not being found satisfactory, the best possible adjustment will be made between the purchaser and the manufacturer. Michelin, Goodyear, Dominion Nobby Thread, Maltese Cross, Gooderich, Kelly-Springfield, and Firestone Tires are carried in stock.

In Accessories, everything connected with the automobile trade is carried, being bought in large quantities for spot cash, in consequence of which the cost to the auto owner is brought down to the lowest possible figure. Buying in large quantities also insures a satisfactory service to the customer in the fact that he knows he can get what he wants when he wants it—he is protected against delay and inconvenience. A special service man has charge of this department, and the stock is kept complete in every detail.

SERVICE.

And carrying a $7000 stock of repair parts, the Duffus Garage is in a position to supply any part of a Ford car on a moment's notice and at right prices. The business has grown to such an extent that a full staff of mechanics is employed at the garage the year round, and cars passing through their hands receive the benefit of skilled labor. Repair work is executed thoroughly. The owner of the car reaps the benefit in the satisfoctory work done and in the low cost.

MR. JOS. J. DUFFUS
District Representative.

MORE SERVICE.

The garage is open at night, and the motorist who perchance meets with an accident on the road has only to communicate with the garage, and a mechanic carrying all the necessary tools and equipment to make repairs is dispatched to him promptly. This service from the city has been augmented by the opening of a garage at Norwood and one at Millbrook, each thoroughly equipped so that calls for repairs covering a wide area receive the same response as would a similar call to the Peterborough garage. This is service with a capital "S," which every auto-owner will appreciate. There is also a paint shop where even the oldest car will be treated and turned over to the owner looking much the same as a new one.

Each of the three garages is equipped with storage tanks for a compressed air service, and Bowser storage system for gasoline and oil for the convenience of the motoring public. Only the highest grade oils, gasoline and greases are kept on supply, which is a matter of interest to motorists who probably have experimented with inferior materials to their sorrow and expense.

EXCHANGE POLICY.

And another good point about the Ford car is the exchange policy by which a Ford owner can have a new car every year for almost what it would cost him to maintain a larger car. This is a feature that has commended itself to hundreds of Ford owners, and should not be overlooked by the prospective purchaser of an automobile.

By all means let your purchase be a Ford.

VICTORIA COUNTY WARDEN HAS 6 YEAR-OLD FORD CAR HE WOULD NOT EXCHANGE FOR NEW AUTO

At the Victoria County Council much discussion arose over the suggestion to exchange the present Ford car operated by Mr A. A. Knight, of the Department of Agriculture, for a new one, and give $250 difference.

Reeve B. L. McLean considered it would be advisable to do so and good business. The car has been in use for two seasons.

Warden Tiers said he had a Ford car that has been running for six years and he would not give it for a new one. "The wear," he said, "depends upon the use and abuse."

Reeve Chirpaw has a Ford that ran 50,000 miles which he would not exchange for a new one. It only cost him $31 for repairs in four years. He ran 136 miles on four gallons, so therefore he could not see the wisdom in making any change in the car operated by Mr. Knight.

On motion of Reeve Robertson, seconded by Reeve Chirpaw, no action will be taken regarding the car owned by the department.—Lindsay Warder.

FORD TOURING CAR IS IDEAL FOR FAMILY USE

That the Ford is the ideal family car has been demonstrated time and time again by fortunate owners. The busy man and his family get the best out of vacation time, and the cost is insignificant when compared with the expenses that pile up when a trip is taken by train or other means of travel. And the best of it is, the vacation is not confined to a few days at one point The Ford owner can have a continuous vacation during the whole of the summer, and can travel where and whenever his fancy pleases. The old order of vacation spent in the hot city for a week, then back home, wishing the trip had never been made, has gone never to return to the owner of the Ford.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Think of the relaxation from business cares and the pleasures to be derived from a motor trip in the cool of the summer evenings—out to the summer cottage, to the summer resorts and parks, and to many other points that can be reached quickly, and the return trip home made with everybody happy and exhilarated by reason of the enjoyable spin. Such an outing can be taken as often as desired and the expense account is insignificantly small.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

And moreover, the Ford owner can leave the car in charge of his wife and the other members of the family, with the knowledge that all is well. Simple to handle, easy fo adjustment, and safe to ride in, the Ford holds the premier position in all corners of the globe. It will climb hills where other cars fear to tread; it will glide gracefully along wherever directed, and can always be dependd upon to do its work faithfully and well. These are some of the reasons that have induced the business men to purchase a Ford touring car, and why th Ford is gaining in popularity every year.

PRESIDENT WILSON CONFERS WITH BAKER AND DANIELS

Take Steps to Speed Up Preparedness to meet any Situation

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—President Wilson at a conference today with Secretary Baker of the War Department and Secretary Daniels of the Navy discussed expediting legislation to empower the government to take possession of shipyards, munition plants and other facilities for hurrying the work of preparedness, if it became necessary.

GIVE AMERICANS TIME TO GET OUT OF GERMANY

And Germans in the United States to Go Home

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

LONDON, Feb. 5. — It is learned that Germany will propose to American Ambassador Gerard special re-ratification of the Prussian-American treaty of 1799 and 1828 allowing nationals in case of war nine months in which to settle their affairs and leave hostile countries. This step will insure Americans in Germany and Germans in America against internment.

BERLIN, Feb. 5.—According to information obtained in official quarters, there is no prospect of any modification of orders to submarines.

Well Known Barber Was Called Suddenly

LATE SAMUEL H. BAKER WAS AT HIS WORK ON SATURDAY.

Samuel H. Baker died very suddenly at the family residence, 485 Aylmer street, yesterday morning. He had been as work in his barber shop at the Munro House on Saturday, and came home Saturday night apparently feeling well, although he had been ailing off and on for some months. Yesterday morning he complained to his wife of not being well, and suddenly raised up his arms, and in a few moments he passed to the great beyond.

The deceased was 55 years of age and was born in Peterborough, his father, Robert Baker, living at 438 Mark street, Ashburnham. He was a member of the George Street Methodist Church, and belonged to the Knights of Pythias and L. O. L. No. 80.

He is survived by his wife and five children, Clarence, Robert, Marion, John and Dora. Two sisters, Mrs. James, of Toronto, and Mrs. J. Beggs, Brock street, and one brother, George of Winnipeg

The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock to the Little Lake Cemetery.

REGARDING PARCELS FOR PRISONERS

DETAILS ARE ANNOUNCED BY POST OFFICE AUTHORITIES.

The post office has issued details regarding the sending of parcels to prisoners of war in Germany.

Only letters, postcards and parcels (not containing foodstuffs or articles of clothing) and money orders can now be sent. They are forwarded entirely free of postage, but must be addressed in ink, as follows: Regimental number, rank, initials, name, regiment (or other unit); British, Canadian, French, Belgian, prisoner of war; place of internment country. Letters must be left open

The following are prohibited. Tins or other receptacles, which cannot be conveniently opened; foodstuffs, uniforms, articles of clothing [illegible] to officers), printed matter of any character, pictorial illustrations, money in parcels, stationary, stamps, playing cards or similar articles affording facilities for secret communication, textiles, wools, cottons, tennis, golf or footballs, or any inflammable article. Money orders may be sent direct or through the Red Cross in London. Foodstuffs include candy. The prohibition went into effect last Thursday.

COBOURG, Feb. 5.—It was decided by the Patriotic branches of the United Counties at a joint meeting that the maximum monthly grant to be paid to any dependent with a family shall be $25, and to a married woman or dependent mother without a family $5.

Lieut. L. A. Harriman of the Canadian Dental Corps, has been attached to the 247th Batt. until further orders.

Lieut. Brittain, adjutant of the 247th Batt., has a discharge certificate belonging to E. H. Chesney of the 74th Battery. The owner can have same by applying at the Armories.

Adjutant.

Capt. Daniel Warwick, aged 55, of Froomfield, a little village between Sarnia and Corunna, died suddenly in a grocery store at Marysville, Mich.

Recruiting returns for London Military District for the last two weeks in January show 284 enlistments, an increase of 34 over the previous fortnight.

FRENCH ARMY CHIEF AT ITALIAN HEADQUARTERS

Also had an Audience With King of Italy

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

PARIS, Feb. 5.—French Commander-in-chief Gen. Nivelle has been for some days the guest of Gen. Cadorna, the Italian commander, at Italian army headquarters, says a Havas despatch from Rome. Gen. Nivelle arrived at the Italian headquarters on February 1st. He is now on his way back to France, after an audience with King Victor Emmanuel.

KAISER AND BULGAR KING IN CONFERENCE

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

LONDON, Feb. 5. — The German Emperor conferred privately for several hours on Friday with the Bulgarian king at Poestyn, and returned to German headquarters yesterday.

A Vienna telegram says that the Austro-Hungarian foreign minister, Count Czernin, has had an hour's conference with American Ambassador Penfield.

Coming to City But Death Intervened

DAUGHTER OF T. MURPHY, ENNISMORE, DIED FROM HEART ATTACK.

Mary Veronica Murphy, aged 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Murphy, Lot 8, Con. 4, Ennismore, died suddenly this morning. Miss Murphy was getting ready to come to the city to do some shopping when she was suddenly taken ill and died instantly. Heart failure was given as the cause.

The funeral will take place on Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock to St. Martin's Church and thence to St. Martin's Cemetery.

MERCHANTMEN ARE TAKEN OVER

GERMAN SHIPS IN MANILA BAY ARE SEIZED.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

MANILA, Feb. 5. Naval authorities have seized the 17 German merchant vessels anchored in Manila Bay. The German crews have been removed.

There is no confirmation for reports that the machinery of German interned vessels has been damaged beyond repair by the crews.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY AUSTRIA IN WASHINGTON?

REASON TO BELIEVE IT IS NOW BEFORE THE GOVERNMENT.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5. — While officials refuse to admit that Austria's formal announcement of her adhesion to Germany's declaration of unrestricted submarine warfare has been received officially, there is reason to believe it is now before the Government and that appropriate action is being considered

TWO LEADERS HOLD COUNSEL

PREMIER AND SIR WILFRID IN AN IMPORTANT CONFERENCE.

OTTAWA, Feb. 5.—During Saturday's session of Parlament Premier Borden, with a budget of official-looking correspondence, crossed the floor of the chamber and took the seat next to Sir Wilfrid Laurier. While the House droned along in desulory fashion over "notices of motion" by private members, the two leaders conferred with evident seriousness. The conference lasted some time. Once Mr. F. F. Pardee, the Chief Opposition Whip, who sits immediately behind Sir Wilfrid, was momentarily consulted, but the conference was otherwise wholly confined to the two leaders, who subsequently left the chamber together.

No announcement was made as a result of the conference, but it was generally taken for granted that the subject under discussion was the recent developments at Washington. Speculation among the members was rife, the situation was more or less tense, and presumably the two Canadian leaders, both of whom are Imperial Privy Councillors, have new and serious problems on their hands.

THREE TRAINMEN DIE IN WRECK

PASSENGER TRAIN CRASHES INTO REAR OF SNOW PLOW.

SEVEN WERE HURT.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

SASKATOON, Feb. 5 Conductor H Overbury, Brakeman J. J. Foster and Fireman H. Atkinson, all of Saskatoon, were killed last night when a passenger train crashed into the rear of a snow plow near here. Seven other trainmen were injured.

SUCCESSOR TO MISS COLSON

MR. HENRY UNLIKELY TO BE RE-APPOINTED TO THE SHELTER.

Mr. E. A. Peck and the management committee of the Children's Aid Society met on Saturday afternoon to consider the resignation of Miss Colson, superintendent of the Children's Shelter.

The committee will report to the general meeting, which will be held on Tuesday, Feb. 13.

Miss Colson's health necessitated her giving up the duties if not altogether, at least temporarily.

A rumor was going round that former Superintendent Wm. Henry was likely to get the position, but Mr. Wearing, the secretary, denied this, adding that the managing committee thought that a capable woman would fulfil the duties more satisfactorily and that they had one under consideration.

WILSON ASKS CONGRESS TO CLEAR DECKS FOR ACTION TO MEET ANY EVENTUALITY

WHAT U.S. HAS DONE

The militia has taken charge of Williamsburg Bridge, relieving the police. This bridge connects New York and Brooklyn.

Four Hamburg-American Line steamers which have been in Cristoba Harbor, Panama, were seized by Canal zone authorities. All night traffic has been stopped through the canal.

The National Guard and Naval Militia of New York State was ordered out by Governor Whitman for the purpose of guarding state and municipal property.

Seven hundred and fifty officers and men were removed from the German auxiliary cruisers Kron Prinz Wilhelm and Prinz Eitel Friedrich by order of the Navy Department and are quartered in a building in an isolated section of the yard, with instructions to allow no one to leave the building.

German crews of 23 vessels tied up in the Philippines attempted to destroy their machinery. The authorities have taken appropriate steps to stop this.

Strong offers of support were received in Washington from the Governors of a large number of states.

The State Department on Sunday afternoon asked Great Britain for safe conduct for Ambassador Bernstorff's return to Germany, and also wired the Governors of various states to protect Consulates of the Central Powers.

Wilson urges other neutrals to break with Germany.

FRENCH MAKE RAIDS INTO FOE'S LINES

COLMAR IN ALSACE IS BOMBARDED BY AIRMEN.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

PARIS, Feb. 5. — South of the Somme a German raid near Burleux last evening was repulsed, the War Office announces. The French made several incursions into the German lines in Chambette and Pont a Mousson sectors and in Alsace without suffering losses.

Colmar, in Alsace, was bombarded by French airmen.

Safe Arrival of American Ships in English Harbors Gives Some Relief---President. Ready to Sever Relations With Austria-Hungary.

BRAZIL SIDES WITH STATES

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

LONDON, Feb. 5.—Reuter's Rio de Janeiro correspondent says there is reason to believe that the reply of the Brazilian Government to the German note respecting naval warfare will be in harmony with the attitude of the United States.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Still fervently hoping for peace, but taking every possible step to prepare the country for war, if it must come, President Wilson today appealed to Congress to quickly dispose of all routine business, appropriation bills and pending legislation and clear its decks for action to meet any eventuality. The President wants Congress ready to act if it becomes necessary for him to address it again and ask for authority to use all the resources of the United States to protect American ships and lives on their peaceful and lawful errands on the high seas.

The safe arrival of American ships in English harbors reported this morning brought an air of relief to the tensity which has prevailed everywhere. Officials still hoped Germany would not violate her pledge to the United States, despite her threat. All officials realized that the situation had resolved itself into one of tense waiting and careful preparation. They realized that hoped-against overt act may come soon or be long delayed. Meanwhile they are putting every agency of the government in action to meet it.

Apparently the next question of great moment to be decided relates to Austria's participation in Germany's campaign of ruthlessness. President Wilson is ready to sever relations also with the dual monarchy as soon as it officially subscribes to the German declaration.

ENTHUSIASM AT PETROGRAD

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

PETROGRAD, Feb. 5. — The diplomatic breach between the States and Germany became known here today and aroused general enthusiasm. The concensus of opinion was that it was a step calculated to bring an early end to the war.

EARNEST EFFORT MARKED SHORT SESSION OF HOUSE

Capt. Burnham Reviews Work of Parliament to Date---Dorchester Election Had Quieting Effort.

Capt. Burnham returned today from Hamilton, where he had been addressing a recruiting mass meeting and will remain over the adjournment of Parliament, which occurs tomorrow.

The short session up to adjournment has been marked, he says, by very earnest work and by two comprehensive and satisfactory reports on the progress of the country, and of Canada's part in the war by both the Prime Minister and Sir Thomas White. The Opposition have been critical as becomes an Opposition, but have not gone beyond the usual close examination of everything emanating from the Government.

The election in Dorchested had a very quieting effect and as the Postmaster-General, Hon. Mr. Blondin said in the House on his return from Dorchester that Liberal speakers there had implored the electors not to vote for an English-Protestant Government and turn down a French Canadian Catholic leader, the Opposition had been somewhat disturbed.

Outside of this little incident there has been general co-operation in matters affecting the war and it is not likely that anything of importance will transpire until the return of the Prime Minister from Great Britain. Sir Sam Hughes failed to gratify the Opposition by attacking the Government, and his dignified speech impressed the House very favorably. It has been felt that the turmoil of war thrown upon an unprepared country is responsible more then anything else for incidents which would not otherwise have occurred.

PETERBOROUGH, MONDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1917

JUDGE HUYCKE SPEAKS OUT.

JUDGE HUYCKE stated some plain facts at the recruiting meeting in the Opera House last night, facts that will be unpalatable to certain classes and individuals. The Judge believes that the citizens have not done their full duty in the matter of raising men for the 247th Battalion, but, instead of contenting himself with the general statement, he proceeded to fix the responsibility.

Six months ago a concerted effort was made to induce the then Minister of Militia to authorize the raising of a new battalion with headquarters in Peterborough. City officials, individually and collectively, promised to render practical aid to the new unit, and local organizations of business men and others took the same stand. The battalion was authorized, and none of these pledges have been redeemed. The entire burden of recruiting has been carried by Lieut.-Col. Ackerman and his staff, and it is due to their intelligent and systematic exertions alone that the battalion has been brought up to even its present strength.

The other day a city delegation went to Ottawa to ask the Government to hurry on the completion of the Trent Canal in accordance with their promise to the public. The delegates, however, while at the Capital did not call at the Militia Department to explain how it was that they had defaulted in their own promises with regard to the new battalion.

The Judge spoke as pointedly with regard to other matters, and did not forget to tell the people that they were concerning hemselves with frivolous affairs while the great outstanding duty of the hour was the winning of the war. No father could have talked more wisely to his young daughters than the Judge did to the young women of Peterborough when he advised them not only not to marry the slacker, but to refuse to dance with him or even to appear in public anywhere in his company.

This district never will lack an effective recruiting speaker while Judge Huycke retains the strength to take the platform. His address last night held the attention of the large audience to the end, and was certainly more to the point than anything heard in this city from a visiting celebrity. The Judge did not omit a word of censure for the newspapers, which he charges with dealing with matters that have no bearing on the gigantic task which confronts the Empire. In this respect, the Peterborough papers, he says, are no better, and certainly no worse, than their contemporaries in other cities.

The newspapers have their duty to perform as the recorders of public events. So long as the people continue to eat and drink and make merry in skating rink, theatre, or dance hall, so long as they marry and give in marriage, the papers must chronicle their doings.

THOSE AUTO LICENSES.

IN A RECENT EDITORIAL The Review took the stand that the official who issues the auto licenses should be other than a member of the Automobile Association, so as to leave him with a free hand in dealing with applications for authority to run a car. Dr. Amys objected to this argument, claiming that it was based on a misunderstanding. He maintains that all that is necessary in order to obtain a license is the ownership of a car and sufficient money to pay the fee, which runs from $10 up, according to the horsepower. It makes, says the doctor, no difference whether the applicant be lame, blind or insane, whether he makes personal application or asks for a license by telephone or wire.

The doctor may yet be convinced that if any mistake has been made in this matter, it is himself, and not The Review, that is under a misapprehension. We have it on authority that may at least be regarded as semi-official that license regulations are to be more rigid this year than ever. Every Tom, Dick and Harry will no longer be authorised to run riot on the public highway with automobiles. If Tom, Dick or Harry is not regarded as a safe, fit and proper person to run his own car, then he can either lay it up or hire a properly qualified chauffeur. W. H. Lyttle, the issuer of licenses by appointment of Minister McDiarmid, is supposed to exercise discretion in the discharge of his duty. If he refuses to license a car owner, he will refer him to the Department at Toronto, and will himself write to Mr. McDermaid, giving his reasons for withholding a license.

No boy under eighteen years will be allowed to run a car under any circumstances, and every boy over that age will have to take out a license before acting as chauffeur of an automobile owned by his father.

The Government has been pressed to take this action by reason of the number of casualties from reckless car-driving last year. That is why they have taken over the granting of licenses in this city. It is not a question of patronage, but one in which public safety is the main consideration.

THE UNITED STATES AND THE WAR.

A FEW DAYS AGO President Wilson told Congress that the war in Europe would have to be ended without victory for either party. Last Saturday, in another message to the nation's lawmakers, he said that it would probably be necessary for him to invoke their co-operation in bringing about the victory which be so recently regarded as non-essential.

The President did not wish the inference to be made that the severance of diplomatic relations with Germany was an act of war. His message had no more a tone of finality than was contained in any of his numerous diplomatic notes. He said he could not believe that Germany meant to implement the threat of unrestricted submarine warfare. That was his opinion expressed on former occasions, and subsequent events proved that he was deluding himself with false hopes.

Whatever President Wilson may hold, Germany is certain to interpret his action as a declaration of war. The United States has already taken a course that justifies that inference. Naval reserves and the militia have been called out in New York State, and the governors of the other states are preparing for similar proceedings. The crews of the interned German ships at once proceeded to put their vessels out of commission by destroying the machinery. American officers have removed and imprisoned the crews. The entire air is tense with the excitement which precedes an intrnational clash. The first American life taken at sea by a German submarine will precipitate a conflict.

The President need not worry on the score of popular support. The majority of the American people are pro-Ally, and the leading newspapers have always supported the cause of the British Empire. When Mr. Wilson asked for the consent of Congress to employ the navy against Mexico, and again for authority to send a punitive expedition into Mexico, this was readily given. The nation has wearied of all these months of submission to violence and insult. There are thousands of Canadian-born residents in the United States, and even if these have become citizens of the republic, they will enlist in the cause of the Allies in the event of war. Canadian officers, too, may open recruiting offices in the United States, and recruiting will receive a new impetus in Canada. The objection of some who hesitated to enlist on the plea that the Americans were as equally interested in the war as Canada, will be removed. The two nations, friendly for a century, will be drawn together more closely than ever, just as the chasm between the North and the South, caused by the rebellion, was bridged when both factions united in the war with Spain.

BEST YEAR IN ITS HISTORY.

THE MUTUAL LIFE Insurance Company of Canada, as will be seen in the annual report published in another column, has just concluded the best year from a financial standpoint in its history. The local office, under the management of Mr. W Henry Irvine, has contributed to this gratifying result.

The business of life insurance seems to have received an impetus rather than a set-back from the events of the last two and a half years. The reason probably is that in such a time of stress and strain the public has learned that it is wiser to build on the rock of life insurance than on the sands of speculation. Such a state of mind would naturally result not only in applications for new insurances, but would cause existing policies to be more highly valued and carefully kept in force. Another cause for the extraordinary prosperity of the companies was doubtless the phenomenal prosperity of the country, at least in many lines of business. This made possible the payment of renewal premiums where otherwise there might have been lapses or surrenders recorded.

The statement published today shows new business written greater than in any former year to the amount of $1,618,390. It is evident, therefore, that though many prospects for insurance have been lost on account of enlistment in the army, this has been compensated for in the fact that those who remained at home were more accessible.

The net increase in the amount of the business in force over that of the previous year is $8,553,551. This remarkable increment is due not only to the amount of new business written, but to the persistence of the old business, in respect to which the Mutual holds the Canadian record.

There is one item in which all the activities of a life company are reflected and that is the surplus earnings. This represents the balance of actual profit after all the operations of the year have been concluded. The amount was $1,158,931, and it must be remembered that this result has been achieved after meeting the extraordinary mortality strain due to the war. As a result, the company will continue to pay the liberal dividends for which it is noted.

The year has been one of marked progress in all departments, the business of the company at the close of the year totalling $109,645,581, the assets $29,361,963, and the surplus over all liabilities $4,595,151. The claim this company makes that Mutual Life Companies are among the most stable of all financial institutions, is being well borne out in its own experience from year to year.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

PRESIDENT WILSON has at last decided that following traditions may be all right for the groundhog.

• • • •

IF THE FIVE HUNDRED CLUB fails to fill up the ranks of the 247th Battalion, there is only one recourse.

• • • •

NOW THAT UNCLE SAM is convinced that the sparks are falling on his own roof, watch his energy in calling out the brigade.

• • • •

THERE WERE HUNDREDS of young girls in the Opera House last night. Judge Huycke's fatherly talk to them, let it be hoped, will not be lost.

• • • •

IF ALD. SMITH succeeds in barring reporters from committee meetings, that will be one way of snuffing out the fierce light which beats about an alderman.

• • • •

THE UNITED STATES has 24 modern warships besides fighting craft of all descriptions. This will make a valuable addition to the police force of the high seas

• • • •

BERNSTORFF, the discharged German ambassador, is entitled to safe conduct to his own country, even if it is necessary to commission an American war vessel to take him there.

• • • •

THE SPORTING FRATERNITY, in view of current events, should not be too hard on the public if they fail to betray more than a passing interest even in that projected 1,000-mile dog race

• • • •

ALL KINDS OF PEOPLE being required to make a world, the alderman who would transact the city's business with the public locked out has his place in the human economy like the slacker and such like.

OPINIONS OF OTHER EDITORS.

One Great Lake This Year.

(Montreal Gazette.)

The Great Lakes took a toll of 73 lives and 14 vessels in the season of navigation in 1916. This by no means equals the disaster record of some former seasons, when one storm in the autumn would send a score or more vessels to destruction. It is bad enough, nevertheless. The big inland lakes on this continent are quite stormy seas on occasion.

COMPULSORY STATE MEDICINE

Opportunity for propaganda is being made of the commission appointed by the state legislature to examine into the various aspects of health insurance by those who are desirous of a socialization of medical practice, and if Californians don't watch out the doctors will surely "git" them, says the Los Angeles Graphic. This propaganda desires "to make the public understand the necessity of frequent examinations, the value of supervision rather than mere treatment"; and "if the people at large could be interested in the matter sufficiently to make them act at all they would probably make the organization complete and arrive with one leap at state medicine." There you have it. You are going to be doctored whether you will or no.

Now, we are familiar with the socialist argument that as all the people in a state maintain all the doctors in the state in order to cure them when they are sick, they might as well pay those doctors through the state to prevent people from sickness, and indeed give them a bonus on a reduced death rate. That is excellent in theory, but some medical men we know, having regard to the acknowledgedly inexact state of their science, are canded enough to say, "Heaven forbid that we doctors be given compulsory powers over private citizens." It may be true, just as the more crime there is the more prosperous are the police, that the more sickness there is the more healthy it is for the doctor's bank roll; but there is at present not sufficient evidence that the medical men know enough about disease and the ways of curing it to justify their endowment with compulsory powers. Bernard Shaw, for instance, who is for state compulsion in all sorts of things, tried in his "Doctor's Dilemma" to make out that even with the great advances in medical knowledge practitioners are yet but a sorry set of bunglers, forgetting that if he is logical in his state socialism he must nevertheless compulsorily hand himself and the bodies of his fellow-citizens over to the empirical care of these same "bunglers."

But there is a ray of hope. Those who are seeking compulsory methods and discussing "the harmful results of free choice of physicians," are lecturing among the women voters a great deal. Well, there will be a slump in the propaganda as soon as the woman understands that under a state system she will not be able to choose her own personal doctor. Regarding that sacred prerogative, the average woman is adamant.

ANECDOTES OF THE FAMOUS

The late Madame Thebes, the French prophetess, was a friend of Alexandre Dumas, who was also her godfather. In early life she had some inclination for the stage, but finding that she had a gift for divination, the great writer half-playfully started her on her career, gave her the name of Thebes, after once famous Egyptian city (her real name was Anna-Victorine Savigny).

As to Mme. de Thebes' actual prophecies, there can be no doubt she had a certain measure of success, though the occulists denied her any knowledge of the science. If prophesying is cleverly done, you can often prove after the event that you foresaw important occurrences, but it required "cuteness" and prescience above the normal to forecast certain events which Mme. de Thebes really foretold. One of her successes, at any rate according to common rumor in 1901, was that she had foretold the sudden death of Prince Henri of Orleans in the colonies.

She was renowned as the solver of murder mysteries, and among her many successful prophecies were the following: Postponement of King Edward's Coronation. Date of postponed ceremony. Russo-Japanese and Boer Wars. Paris charity bazaar fire disaster. Discovery of radium. Detention of Madame Humbert. The Death of President Faures. In her almanack for 1914, which she called "the year of great deeds and heroism," she wrote: We shall be at the height, as it were, of events that are destined to be of the gravest and most decisive character. It will, however, be a happy year for us, whose hearts will beat for the great ideals that save and regnerate peoples. In spite of the blood spilt, and the tears, a glorious year—among the most glorious in France's annals; a year of discord, then of concord, a year of hate, and then of love, a year of rending and then of entente between European peoples and those of overseas. What a renewal of men in the world! . . .

On the fields of battle and whatever may happen, sooner or later will come victory! victory! rom these trials France will issue renovated and reborn by the war or by threats of war. The genius of science at its maximum of production will multiply its discoveries and invention.

Remembering when this was written, one must acknowledge that there is more than coincidence in it all.

TROUSERS FOR WOMEN

(Chicago News.)

With a wild, elfin shriek of dismay the spirit of beauty gathers her fluffy ruffles about her and prepares to vanish from a base world given over to the horrors of war and dull utility. For when the artificial necessities of masculine folly took men from the fields of industry and made lovely woman an economic unit and a laborer, they demanded as a matter of course that the woman workers adopt the only garment in which an economic unit can freely perform its silly labors. If woman must work she must wear the unspeakable uniform of toil — the trousers of the hewer of wood and drawer of water.

Even in this country, we are told, woman workers are taking readily to bifurcated garments. Bedeck these as one may, nothing can make them attractive. Especially on women. The world had held that nothing could be so ugly as a man in modern pantaloons—but that was before it saw woman in the same garment. Then was the acme of incongruity attained and the horrors of war were brought home to a suffering race.

But here, let us hope, the limit has been reached. When the brainless militarists of the world see women arrayed in trousers they will give gasps of horror and forego their wars. If they do not the candle of civilization will go out in the moaning winds of barbarian night and the human race will perish in despair. If he women would spare the world this catastrophe let them sternly refuse to become economic units and thereby perish in "pants."

A DAILY NOVELETTE

He had often admired her lithe, sinuous beauty as she sat by the window manicuring. Her eyes were of a soft, watermelon green, her hair like the downy sheen of the brick, while her complexion, oh, my! white, like albatross.

Never had he been manicured by a female of the species, but she was so perfectly colorful in beauty that he simply had to try it.

After a few remarks about the weather he started some regular conversation something like this:

"Do you often manicure men's nails, Miss Fluffy? And are you successful with it?" he would ask.

"Oh, yes, indeed!" replied Miss Fluffy. "To be a successful manicure one must——"

"Ouch!" cried our hero, as the gentle manicure stuck him under the thumb nail.

"——one must be a good manicure, a good talker, a——"

"Wow!!" yelled our hero, as her dainty scissors cut in too deep.

"—— a careful worker, a——"

"Snivelin' rattlesnakes!" swore our hero, after a cross cut of the file had removed a quarter-inch of little finger skin.

"—— and beeyutiful!" finished Miss Fluffy after many painful interruptions by our impolite hero. "And, do you know, I've just been learning here for three days, and don't I get along lovely? You see I was champion nut picker in a candy factory before I came here."

But our hero was a mile down the street by this time, and still running.

It's easy for a millionaire philosopher to tell a young man how to live on $6 a week and put money in the bank.

CALEBITES TO MEET SUNDAYS

SESSION WILL BE HELD AT SAME TIME AS THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

The Calebites of St. Andrew's Church held a special meeting at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when it was decided to hold the sessions each Sunday afternoon instead of on week nights, as formerly. Mr. E. Bruce Fowler, vice-president of the society, presided in the absence of Rev. T. H. Mitchell, who was preaching in Cobourg yesterday. Mr. G. W. Gilman, former superintendent of the Sunday school, read a paper in which he gave a comprehensive outline of the work to be taken up. This will include the study and discussion of religious and social topics.

Rev. H. R. Horne, LL.B., of Cobourg, who presided in St. Andrew's at both services yesterday, then addressed the Calebites, giving an interesting account of the recent Social Service Congress held in Toronto.

There were about fifty members of the society present, and the new men's class starts out under highly favorable auspices.

Just For a Change.

I've been a soft and easy mark,
For any one could say to me,
"Old man, I want a five today."
And I would fork him out a V.
But by a multitude of bumps
The very dullest person learns.
Hereafter, if you want to know,
I'm going to be the worm that turns

In passing through this vale of tears
It may be better to be meek
And when you get a jolt to pause
And gently turn the other cheek,
But after many years of knocks
A fellow feels he's had about
Enough of that to last awhile
And is inclined to cut it out.

Before I took a tumble to Myself when fellows rubbed it in
I used to take it as a joke
And sort of stand around and grin
And say: "Oh, what a lovely time
We're having, children, to be sure!
And won't you do it, please, some more?"
But that was e'er I took the cure.

This program I am weary of.
This being worked by every one,
And long ago the thing has ceased
To be what I would class as fun.
It may be that my liver balks,
It may be an excess of bile,
But here I cease to be the goat
And work the other man awhile.

Disillusioned.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier once started to learn to play the flute.

One day, however, a canvasser called on him with a new type of gramophone which he wanted him to buy.

"I have a blank cylinder here, Sir Wilfrid, if you'd like to hear yourself speak or sing," he remarked.

The ex-Premier was tempted.

"A—a—h, I don't sing," he observed, "but"—producing his flute—"if you don't mind?"

The canvasser appeared to be only too happy, and the next minute the ex-Prime Minister was waxing red in the face in an attempt to pour "Alice, where art thou," into the receiving hopper.

"There, sir," observed the canvasser five minutes later as the machine shirred out a reproduction of the flute solo, "that's exceptionally good."

"Is it really like the original?" enquired Sir Wilfrid.

"With your eyes shut, sir, you couldn't tell one from the other. Will you buy the gramophone?"

"No," said Sir Wilfrid sadly, "I'll sell the flute."

Agricultural Exhibit on Tour.

Officials of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, are fitting up two cars with an agricultural display preparatory to starting out on a two months tour of western Ontario. The tour is under the charge of Mr. George A. Putnam, Superintendent of the Farmers' Institutes. There are several new features this year. There will be moving pictures, and seed demonstrations will play a large part in the exhibit. Special attention is being paid also to potatoes and corn and all kinds of amounts of iron ore mined in Spain lightning rods is also going to be shown very fully. Cheese exhibits and other dairy products will also be given a large place.

Wit and Wisdom

Watchful Waiting

Employer —Boy, take this letter and wait for an answer.

New Boy—Yes, sir.

Employer— Well, what are you waiting for?

New Boy—The answer, sir.

All Right

He was a newspaper publisher and lay ill.

The doctor came and put his ear to his breast, and said:

"All that troubles you, my dear sir, is that your circulation is bad."

"Circulation bad, doctor?" shrieked the man, as he shot upright in his bed. "Why, man, we have the largest circulation in the country!"

"Hi, Joe!" he said, "you just run round to the ticket office and get the tickets, while I keep your seat for you."

A minute later Joe reappeared with two tickets.

"But, lumme," cried Jack, "you haven't had time to go to the ticket office!"

"Oh, no!" replied Joe quickly. "Oh no! I just went to the next car, shouted 'All tickets, please!' and I got a handful. Them two are all right for Belleville."

GOSSIP SET AGOG BY A CANADIAN GIRL

Clara Ward, Wayward Princess de Chimay.

CLARA WARD, the beautiful, erring, wayward Princess de Chimay, who died a few days ago in Padna, Italy, but little past her prime, and whose adventures for twenty years furnished gossip for European society and sensational stories for American newspapers which were not minimized in transmission, was known in Toronto between 30 and 35 years ago, when she spent a few care-free, happy years of her bright, precocious childhood.

She was educated partly at Miss Dupont's, a most fashionable school for young ladies in those days, on John street, opposite St. George's church, and partly by English governesses, and was brought up in the most careful way.

Her father was Captain Eber Brock Ward, a Canadian by birth, who amassed a fortune in Detroit and died worth a great deal of money. In 1879 Alexander Cameron, a well-known lawyer of Toronto, married Captain Ward's widow and brought her to the old family residence, which still stands at the northeast corner of Church and Carlton streets.

Clara Ward lived with her mother and stepfather in Toronto for six or seven years. During this time Mrs. Cameron entertained a great deal, but she is best remembered as a liberal, open-handed woman, ever ready to help any charitable object, who founded a wing in the Home for Incurables at a cost of $15,000 and also a cottage at Mimico Asylum, called "The Cameron Cottage." She was a great friend of the late Goldwin Smith. After Mr. Cameron's death in 1892 she married the late John Morrow, a tea broker of Toronto, and after a few years went over to England and rented a fine country place in Warwickshire, called Charlecote Park, near Stratford-on-Avon, which belonged to the Percy family. Later they moved to Woodcote Park nearby, where Mrs. Morrow died.

Little Clara Ward was very beautiful even then, and most extraordinarily precocious. About 1887 Mr. and Mrs. Cameron took her abroad and put her to school. Two or three years later, through the influence of the Canadian Commissioner in Paris, she was introduced into Parisian society, and met those very desirable men who possessed titles, for it was determined that she should marry the possessor of a title. Here, at 18 years of age, she met and was married to the Prince Joseph de Chimay.

For years everyone has seized the slightest opportunity for casting an additional stone at the unfortunate Princess and it is pleasant to say something in her favor. When she was married to the Prince she was an innocent child of 18 years of age. He was a lightweight and she did not love him. She was considered the most beautiful woman in Europe and had great wealth, and a title was considered necessary. His qualities were all negative and his estates were mortgaged up to the hilt.

She gave him her exquisite self, paid off all his debts and settled a large sum on himself. How did he repay her? Instead of cherishing the finest woman in Europe he still kept up his intrigues and maintained his little private chalets. The result—well she was a high-spirited Canadian girl of great beauty and she became "fed-up" with her princeling. She kicked over the traces. Of the late adventures people only know by hearsay, but that is how Clara Ward was sent on the career that made her the talk of two continents.

Janczy Rigo, the gypsy violinist, who was once the husband of Clara Ward, after the Prince de Chimay divorced her, has been giving interviews to the New York papers. The violinist met the princess when she and the King of Belgium and members of his staff were dining in a restaurant in Paris. Rigo played, and after the performance kissed her hand. A few days later they eloped, dressed as gypsys. For eleven years the princess showered him with presents and costly gifts. To-day he is the possessor of caskets of jewels worth thousands of dollars. The violin on which he now exhibits his talent is the gift of the Princess Chimay. The gypsy talks of nothing now but Clara Ward and her generosity toward him, of her gifts, and their romance. He declares that she left him $500,000. He is now playing at the Little Hungarian Restaurant in New York. He declares that when the war is over he will claim his fortune.

Don't think that by being miserable here on earth you will be any happier in heaven—if you happen to get there.

If our neighbors would only do things as we think they should be done, how much easier it would be to love them.

JAM GIVEN BY DOUKHOBORS

UNIQUE CONTRIBUTION IS MADE TO WAR SUFFERERS.

Women of Peter Verigin's Doukhobor settlement at Brilliant, B.C., near Nelson, have donated 24,000 pounds of jam "for use in Canada for the suffering ones caused by this war." The gift will make a carload and is valued at $5,000. The jam is made from fruit grown in their own gardens and is noted throughout the country for its excellent quality. It has been declared to be the finest jam in the world. The offer was conveyed to Premier Brewster by Mr. William Blakemore, through whom Verigin announced the gift. Mr. Blakemore became well known to the Doukhobors when he officiated as commissioner in 1913 on the B. C. Royal Commission inquiring into the Doukhobors.

Premier Brewster has accepted the jam on behalf of the Province and is discussing with his departmental heads the best means of distributing it. As it is possible that the generous gift is so large that it is more than can be advantageously used in British Columbia at present some of the jam may be supplied to soldiers in other of the Western Provinces.

The gift is considered noteworthy because of the non-resisting and anti-war philosophy of the Doukhobors. This is the first time they have taken part in any war activity and their magnanimity surprised even those who know them best.

In his letter, written at Brilliant, B.C., to Mr. Blakemore, Peter Verigin says:

"Not very long ago we held a meeting at Brilliant to discuss several matters, as after all the Doukhobors are deeply grieved with sorrow at the present war and especially our Doukhobor women are coming to dreadfulness that there are so many people killed in this war.

"The community has decided to donate a small carload of our product, jam, for use in Canada for suffering ones caused by this war. This will not be less than 24,000 pounds; the larger part will consist of strawberries grown at Brilliant on our own land.

"I ask you kindly, friend Blakemore, to report our offer to the Government at Victoria, or to who is in charge of this department, so they should give us, through you, the address where to send this jam. I would be very thankful to you if you will arrange this matter for us, as it will be possible in a better way than ourselves. When you have arranged this question, please advise us.

"With consideration to you.

"PETER VERIGIN."

WHIRLIGIG OF TIME

It Brings Many Strange Coincidences to the Life of True Man.

BY WALTER JAMES DELANEY

Coward! How that word rankled within the soul of Ralph Warden, and what a difference its utterance had made in his life! Looking back six months, it seemed to him as though that word had been the start of all his troubles, the evil star of his destiny.

He had lived at Junta, a frontier town and a military post, since boyhood. Just as he came of age his mother had died. Through her brief period of illness it had been the friendly visits and kind ministrations of Ethel Lynd that had made her serene and peaceful. Ralph had grown to love the beautiful daughter of Colonel Lynd. He had fancied that she somewhat encouraged him, when a rude circumstance had brought down into ruins all his fair air castles of hope.

He recalled the day when Miss Lynd, her girl cousin, Lieutenant Vanderloot and three visiting school friends of Ethel were strolling near the river, when a homeless drunkard, known about the district as Pauper Joe, reeled across their path. He chanced to joggle against Ralph. In his maudlin fury called him a name that was always wiped out with blood in that primitive section, and struck him.

For a moment the fire of resentment and indignation sprang to the eyes of Ralph. Then, clinching his fists, holding his breath, his face grew ashen as he stood rigid as a statue.

He fancied he noted a look of contempt cross the face of Miss Lynd. He heard a word spoken—

"Coward!"

Then the group passed on, but not until Lieutenant Vanderloot had stepped forward, vaunting his chivalrous strength in some sneer at Ralph, and with a cruel blow sent the poor wrech, Pauper Joe, to the ground.

It might have been over-sensitiveness, but Ralph fancied that Ethel and her friends purposely hurried on. He lingered. The same influence that had held his hand back from resenting an insult, now drove him to the exercise of a further humanity. It was he who lifted the stranded wreck to his feet, led him to a lodging house, and left enough money with its proprietor to care for his pensioner till he recovered from the effects of drink and injury.

Made Out a Horseman in the Distance.

Two days later Ethel left Junta, and Ralph had not met her in the meantime. Ethel was going on a long visit to a distant point where her father was making his annual round of the military posts.

"I kept my promise," said Ralph to himself staunchly, as he thought of the blight that had come over his fair love dreams. "I have lost Ethel, the story of that blow has got around town, and some think me a mean spirited craven; but I promised mother, and I have kept my word!"

It was on her death bed that Mrs. Warden had drawn her son to the sacred pledge regarding two things—drink and fighting. Her own father had been a victim to the wine cup. Ralph's dead father had suffered death in a hot border fight brought about by a mere trifling remark. Mrs. Warden had died with a satisfied smile, when her loyal son had promised never to raise his hand against another in temper or hate.

And the whirling of time had gone on. Ralph had drifted to another town. He was not very successful in getting work. One day a sudden resolution came into his mind; he would join the regular army. Thus it was that one year after this last sight of the only woman he had ever loved, he was a sergeant at Fort Danger, under the orders of the man he had considered a rival—a rival no longer, however.

"I wronged you once, Warden," admitted the lieutenant voluntarily the day Ralph came to the fort. "I thought you a poltroon, and said so. Later it leaked out to all of us about your sacred promise to your mother. I respect you for it. I think that discovery made pretty Miss Lynd edge away from me. No hearts broken, though, for I am now engaged to a girl who owns three ranches, and when my term of service is out, I am going to settle down to an easy life."

The whirligig of time brought about another strange happening—Pauper Joe, no longer a drinker, the fond, fervent friend of the man who had been kind to him, was also stationed at Fort Danger.

The place had been truly named. Situated on the edge of an almost impassible desert, the nearest fort two hundred miles distant, it was isolated among Indians who had the habit of a periodical blood-thirsty outbreak.

Another strange coincidence in the whirligig of time was the fact that Ethel Lynd was now at Fort Blain, where her father was making a governmental inspection.

It was late of a blazing hot summer afternoon, when as she sat in a breezy corner of the fort scanning the broad plain with a field glass, Ethel made out a horseman in the distance, going at tearing speed. She informed the officer in charge. Twenty minutes later there dashed into the fort a reeking horse. In the saddle was a man, tattered, sun-blistered, with a gaping bullet wound in one arm, and propped up in front of him another man, seemingly dying.

The rider was Ralph Warden, his helpless burden Pauper Joe. The horse reeled and fell to its knees. The rider toppled in a dead faint into the arms of two soldiers. They lifted Pauper Joe gently to the ground.

"Water, for the love of heaven!" he pleaded. Then, when the cooling draught had passed his fevered lips: "Care for him, the sergeant—the hero! I must tell the story quick, for I'm done for."

What a story it was! Fort Danger, surrounded by Indians, cut off from civilization, with only a week's supplies, was hemmed in. Most of the soldiers, desperate, mad for fight, had got at the liquor stores. They would fight like demons, but when the food gave out they were doomed

Ralph Warden, Pauper Joe and two others had made the only attempt possible for relief—a dash across the arid desert. One man had gone mad from thirst and had died in his tracks. Another, fancying he saw water at the bottom of a ravine, had plunged headlong to death in his delirium Indians had attacked them. Ralph had shielded Joe, grabbed him up to his saddle at the risk of his life, and—

"He was my only friend—a hero, the sole survivor," breathed Joe. Heaven "Heaven bless him!" and died

Fort Danger was relieved and saved It was Ethel who nursed Ralph back to life. It was Ethel who contritely told how she had wronged him, and later how she regretted losing him, and now, when his eager lips questioned her, she told, too, how she loved him

HOW TO KEEP WELL

BY JOHN W. S. McCULLOUGH, M.D., D.P.H., CHIEF OFFICER OF THE PROVINCIAL BOARD OF HEALTH.

INFANT WELFARE—ARTICLE No. 1.

THIS subject is of the first importance to a new and growing country like Canada. The care of children is of increased importance in view of the depletion of our country of its male population by reason of the war. The death rate among babies in this Province is much too high. In the first year of life we lose 12 per cent. of the babies born. While this is exceeded by some of the other provinces of Canada, it is higher than such countries as Norway, Sweden, New Zealand, and Australia, whose death rate among babies in the first year of life is 65, 72, 67, 72, respectively. Why is it that Ontario's death rate is 102 instead of 50 or 60? Why is it greater than that of other countries?

Cause of Infant Mortality.

A good many things enter into the cause of the mortality of infants. There is the general health of the mother and of the father, their material prosperity, whether the mother works away from home and particularly the care she has before the baby's birth. Then there is the knowledge of the mother regarding the proper care of the new born baby, as to its food, clothing, etc. Some mothers are too young to have the responsibility of motherhood thrust upon them. Others kill their babies with kindness, feed them too frequently, and others again either wilfully or ignorantly decline to nurse the baby from the breast, forgetting or ignoring the fact that Nature's food is the best for the baby.

It has been shown by the experience of other countries that the fact as to whether or not the mother is obliged to work out before the baby's birth has a most pronounced effect upon the physical strength of the baby. Similarly if the mother works away from home after the birth, thus depriving the infant of her nursing and care, the death rate will be higher. This factor has been found to be of greater importance than that of poverty, though the latter is a cause of infant mortality of no small proportions. In certain sections of London it has been found that the infant death rate is considerably greater where the mothers work out and where poverty is not a factor than in other and poorer sections where the mothers are at home.

In many European countries insurance is provided against sickness, including that of childbirth, and in Australia the Government gives a premium of £5 for every birth. What can we do to lessen the infant death-rate in Ontario? If we can do no more we can at least endeavor to educate the mothers regarding the baby's care. In this column a series of articles will be presented from time to time upon this subject. The Provincial Board publishes a booklet upon the care of the baby which may be had upon application.

Education in Infant Welfare.

The Provincial Board of Health realizes that one of the most important factors in promoting the prevention of disease is Education. Consequently the Board has established a Bureau of Public Health Education including the promotion of Infant Welfare. The Bureau is under the direction of Miss Mary Power, a graduate of the University of Toronto, whose energies are directed towards the education of the public as to how they may keep well and avoid disease. The Board has a large number of pamphlets upon various public health topics which will be sent on request. The Bureau will be glad to answer questions relative to Infant Welfare or other Public Health topics.

In the next article some of the factors in the protection of infant life will be taken up and discussed, and from time to time in this column, simple rules regarding the care of the baby will be a feature.

Watch for this column next week.

KERCHIEF CUES.

POINTS ABOUT GAYETY OF THE NEW SEASON'S MOUCHOIR.

The handkerchief today is an altogether conspicuous sort of handkerchief. In blue and pink, maize and violet, brown, tan and green, it peeks forth from pocket or hand bag in utterly unhideable brilliancy of color and strikingness of design.

Rose color, popular in everything, is much used for handkerchief this season. And the rose colored handkerchiefs are indeed lovely. They usually show much white in their makeup. Occasionally, however, one sees a very sheet square of rose colored muslin simply with a rolled, whipped edge. The whipping thread is black, white or rose.

Black is a good deal used in the new handkerchiefs. Some pink and blue handkerchiefs show a deep border trimming of white or black dots in V shaped wedges from the hem.

Colored centers in all the colors mentioned, with wide hems of white, perhaps an inch and a half, are also considered smart.

Linen is by no means the only material used today for the handkerchief. Crepe de chine, different sorts of silk, organdie and dimity are all used for handkerchiefs.

Of course it is still possible to get all white handkerchiefs. They can be had in all their old daintiness of fabric and design, with dainty embroidered wreaths of owners in the corner or dotting the edge, with monograms and with initials.

TERMS NAMED BY THE ALLIES GOOD BASIS FOR TREATY SAYS HARDEN

Greater Obstacle is the Territorial Question.

MORE than most Germans Maximilian Harden has the habit of seeing straight and far. He is not afraid to face present truth or look the inevitable future in the face. It is not surprising, therefore, that in the reply of the Allied Powers to President Wilson he sees the basis of a possible understanding, though we may marvel not a little that he is permitted to publish in his paper, The Zukunft, views directly opposed to the general German opinion and to the imperial policy as officially proclaimed. Of the Entente note in which the objects of the war were set forth Harden says:

"An understanding seems possible on the general principles of the note. Freedom, justice, civilization, peace—that is what all who return from the trenches are willing to develop, as well as the reduction of militarism. Rude words do not ring long.

"A greater obstacle is the territorial question, and our enemies rightly consider their claims small as compared with those of the people who want to eat up Belgium, Southern France, Belfort, Poland, Courland, Serbia, Roumania, even Venetia and Egypt.

"The great difficulty will be Alsace, but I have reason to believe that the peace possibilities will not be smashed on the walls of Strassburg. Nine-tenths of the French nation do not wish to challenge Germany's revengefulness and would be satisfied with a beau geste on Germany's part.

"It is a pity that the heads of the Central Powers failed to say on what reasonable terms they were ready to end the war and arrange to live at peace with the rest of humanity. Now we see impossible terms stated and the people gnashing their teeth. Remember this: the great Frederick also signed a peace treaty which at the time was considered unsatisfactory but which his grandson regarded as a work of courageous wisdom."

This is not the way the Generals and Admirals talk. The military writers, the newspapers, all the voices we are accustomed to hear coming out of Germany reject the terms of the Entente note as insolent, as putting impossible humiliations upon Germany. "We will make answer with our sword" is the text of most of the comment. Harden actually puts himself in the enemy's place and points out that the remaking of the map as proposed by the Allies cannot seem to them so very extreme when they consider that they deal with Powers that want to "eat up" Belgium, a good deal of France and Russia, besides Serbia and Roumania. Peace parleys are begun in that spirit.

He is obviously mistaken about France. She will not be put off with suave gestures or fine words. Her lost provinces must be restored. But when the other terms of the Allies are held to be not impossible, as worth considering if freedom, justice, civilization, and peace are the ends sought, it will not be long before Alsace and Lorraine are brought within the field of discussion. There are compelling reasons for a change of opinion and purpose in Germany. Harden does not speak of them, but he speaks because of them. No German would seek to discover a possible basis of understanding in the Entente terms if Germany were not conscious of defeat, for the terms themselves proclaim her defeat. They dispel her dreams, put an end to her ambition to be the master of Europe, they demand the relinquishment of all she has won by arms after forty years of intense preparation. Accepting such terms she will rattle the sabre no more.

MAX HARDEN

OBITUARY

GEORGE EMMERSON

The many friends of Mr. George Emmerson will be sorry to hear of his death at 74 Eastmount Ave., Toronto, on Saturday, after only a few days' illness with pneumonia.

He was born in Otonabee 51 years ago, but having spent many years in the city, he was well known here. He leaves to mourn his loss a widow and three children, Florence of the city, William of Marengo, Sask., and Clayton of Toronto; also a mother and sister, Annie, of this city.

The funeral will take place from the house of his mother, 23 Aylmer St., tomorrow at 3 o'clock and procede to Little Lake Cemetery.

The funeral will be under the auspices of the Canadian Order of Foresters, Court 227, Zion.

MRS. BARTHOLOMEW SULLIVAN.

Margaret Moore, widow of the late Bartholomew Sullivan, died yesterday evening at her late residence, Lot 7, Con. 4, of Ennismore. She was born in Ireland 80 years ago. She is survived by four daughters. They are: Mrs John Young, Ennismore; Mrs. C. Bernard and Mrs. J. Esbery, Detroit; Mrs. W. Kearns, of Emily, and four sons, Edward and Michael, who live at home, Jo[illegible] of Michigan, and Bartholomew, Minnesota.

The funeral will take place Tuesday morning to St. Martin's Church and thence to St. Martin's cemetery.

Lived in Peterboro Since Childhood

MRS. MARY HOPE DIED AT AGE OF 89 YEARS.

Mary Sanderson, widow of the late James Hope, died at her residence, 181 London street, last evening. Born in Scotland 89 years ago, she came to Peterborbugh when a child, and had since lived in Peterborough county, in Smith township and in the city. She was one of the oldest members of St. Paul's congregation. Surviving her are two daughters, Mrs. Thompson and Miss Matilda Hope, of Peterborough.

The funeral will take place from her late residence, London street, on Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and proceed to Little Lake Cemetery. Funeral services at 2 o'clock by Rev. Robt. Pogue.

A Maxim Gun.

One of the Maxim guns, says Sir Hiram, was designed to fire a shell weighing about a pound. These shells were, of course, expensive, costing about $1.60 each. On a demonstration of the gun before Li Hung Chang it fired 400 of the shells, costing about $650, in one minute. The old Chinese statesman, on being told the cost of the shells, said, "This gun fires altogether too fast for China." The King of Denmark's comment was, "That gun would bankrupt my little kingdom in about two hours."

CONFIDENCE INSPIRED BY GENERAL SARRAIL; TRAITS OF CHARACTER

French Commander-in-Chief Tall and Clean-Cut.

His Best Work Has Been Done as Organizer.

HE is tall, with a clean-cut, erect, soldierly figure. Fifty-nine, he looks at least ten years younger, despite a white moustache and hair, set well back from a high forehead, almost white as well. But his face has an almost youthful mobility when he speaks, and there is a strange attraction in his active, flashing, light-blue eyes. He goes about inconspicuously, wearing a khaki uniform with no decorations or signs of his rank save three stars on his sleeve. He is easily accessible to everybody, chats with freedom about things of interest, tells battle stories over again, and when he talks with the special correspondents here, as he does every day, he always humorously expresses his delight when, as he puts it, he has "passed yet another examination successfully!" He is fond of a joke and can tell many a good one.

General Sarrail has had a long career of very distinguished military service. He has seen war in Algeria and Tunis, but his best work has been done as organizer. That work has been tried and justified in the fire of the present war. For three years he directed the Ecole Militaire d'Infanterie, was "[illegible] d'ordonnance" to General Andre while Minister of War, and, made General, was "Directeur de l'Infanterie" for four years. In each of those posts his work was brilliant and fruitful, for he hates red tape and he knows and uses a worker as does a Joffre or a Kitchener.

Before the opening of the war he commanded a "division de couverture" at Rheims, and on leaving that post was put at the head of the Sixth Army at Bourges. When the war cloud burst he expressed a desire for a frontier command, and was given the command of the Sixth Corps at Chalons. This corps was on the extreme right of the army which advanced toward the Belgian frontier, and from the 22d to the 25th of August it put up a splendid resistance to the advancing Germans. Its retreat on the Meuse, in carrying out the supreme instructions, was a cool and fine piece of fighting and manoeuvring.

On August 30 the General was put at the head of the Third Army in the Verdun region. In that position the important task fell to him of holding that vastly important fortress. Here had to be done the lion's share of the work of keeping the left of the German line pinned down on the frontier while on the French left Joffre smote and hurled back the army of von Kluck. And all the world now knows how that work was accomplished. "Hold Verdun or—do not come back" is said to have been the final word of Joffre to Sarrail. He held it, and so contributed in no small degree to the success of that strategy which took the offensive out of the hands of the Germans and altered the whole aspect of the titanic struggle. And he did it with three army corps and three divisions of reserves against seven German army corps. Sarrail's work in that part of the war has certainly given him a high place in its history.

For the first half of the year the Third Army and its chief were engaged in daily struggle with the strong and numerous legions of the Crown Prince in the Argonne region. The story of the way in which "der junge Herr" threw his forces time and again against Sarrail is already well known. Despite enormous sacrifices the army of the Crown Prince could make no progress, and, in the end, when the French took the offensive again, the Germans were driven out of many a position. General Sarrail is now working in the Balkans. From what I have seen, though I may say but little of it, I am confident that the blow when it comes will be swift, unfaltering, and final. It will carry the Balkans out of the active war area and put an end to Germany's Oriental hopes.—A British War Correspondent.

Germans Greet French.

A French division, known for its exploits, recently changed from one sector to another, taking up a new position in a region to which the men themselves did not know that they were to be taken. One hour after they were placed in the trenches in the new position, a placard was raised above the nearest trench in the German line, on which was written in large letters, "Greetings to the valiant —— Division."—Le Cri de Paris.

George L. Nicholls, of Banfield, died suddenly, aged 71. He was for thirty years in the milling business at Canning.

After the business meeting a short musical program was given and refreshments were served. The evening was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

CORN HEATED

AN EXPLOSION DAMAGED CEMENT ELEVATOR.

The corn stored in the south-east elevator of the Quaker Oats Co. got so heated that it blew part of the cement wall out about three o'clock this afternoon.

Nobody was hurt but the fire department was called to render what assistance it could.

The grain taken out at the bottom of the elevator was considerably charred.

NEUTRAL NATIONS ARE NOT LIKE THE GOOD SAMARITAN

Britain and Her Allies Giving Expression to the True Spirit of Greatness, Rev. Dougald Brown Tells 247th Battalion.

Rev. Dougald Brown, pastor of Park St. Church does not think the neutral nations of the world are giving expression to the true spirit of greatness in the present war. Addressing the 247th Batt. at the Sunday morning service he represented Belgium as like the man on the Jericho road who fell among thieves. He put Great Britain and her Allies in the light of the good Samaritan who assisted the unfortunate man and likened the neutral nations to the priest and the Levite who passed by on the other side of the road. "I feel proud of you men," said Mr. Brown. "You are not going to France or to Belgium to rob, you are going there to defend the weak against the strong, to bind the heart that is broken. This is the true spirit of greatness. Other nations have not done so yet. Are they not playing the part of the priest? They know little Belgium has been wounded and robbed and what have they done? I do not consider that they have exprêssed the true spirit of greatness. The greatness of Germany, he said, consisted of the spirit of wickedness and there was a fearful responsibility resting upon the man who has brought this about. Germany is the enemy and robber of nations. "That is not the spirit that is prompting you men to go into this war. When I think of you going to France I am glad to know that you men are going over there to do service—to minister.

In concluding his address, Rev. Mr. Brown said: "I do hope and pray that you men here will not have to go to France, but if you do may God go with you. May the day be not far distant when all nations will be at peace again.

In contributing to the musical part of the service, the choir, under the direction of Mr. A. Nicholls sang well. "God Bless our Soldiers" was sung by the full choir and Miss F. Nicholls sang a solo in good voice voice.

WILSON WOULD LINE UP OTHER NEUTRALS WITH UNITED STATES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5. — Besides breaking off diplomatic relations with Germany, President Wilson has made a bold stroke to range the [illegible] of all other neutral countries along with that of the United States in the interest of peace.

The President has suggested to all the other neutrals that they break off diplomatic relations with Germany as the United States has done, and has instructed all American diplomats in those countries to report immediately how the suggestion is received. The opinion in diplomatic quarters here is that European neutrals, at the very doorstep of Germany, threatened by her military power, will hesitate to take such a step. The effect of the suggestion in other countries is being eagerly awaited. This was the only known development of first importance which came out of a day of tense waiting which followed the actual announcement of the break with Germany.

The President's invitation to neutrals to follow his action was contained in instructions to American diplomats to announce the break with Germany to the Governments to which they are accredited.

PIRATES GAVE AMERICAN CREW TIME TO ESCAPE

Ship Destroyed Had Cargo of Wheat for British Government.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4. — A despatch received by the State Department from American Consul Stephenson at Plymouth, England, says the American steamer Hustonic was given full warning before being sunk, and an opportunity was given to the crew to escape. The steamer was loaded with wheat for the British Government.

SUCCESSFUL BLOW BY HAIG'S FORCES ON ANCRE

LONDON, Feb. 5.—British forces have carried out several successful raids on the Ancre front. The most important enterprise resulted in the pushing forward of the line some 500 yards on a front of about three-quarters of a mile east of Beaucourt. Over a hundred prisoners and three machine guns were captured. During the day two hostile counter attacks were repulsed with heavy losses to the enemy, while the British casualties were slight.

Time to Line up With the Allies

LONDON, Feb. 3.—A report says the Brazilian Government is convinced that the time is now come for all South American nations to line up with the Allies.

Andrew Sutch, an Austrian, was sent to jail at Thorold for two months for cracking the left forefinger of the police chief who went to arrest him.

According to the registration of the man power in Brantford, it is shown that there are 1,600 men of military age in the city and over 800 unmarried men.

Forty-Seventh Annual Report of The Mutual Life Assurance Company of Canada

Summary of the 47th Annual Report submitted to the policyholders at the Annual Meeting, held at the Head Office, Waterloo, Ontario, Thursday, February 1st, 1917.

SUMMARY STATEMENT

Income	$ 5,613,273	Gain over 1915	$ 640,491
Paid to Policyholders	2,456,607	Increase over 1915	420,793
Assets	29,361,963	Gain over 1915	2,420,246
Surplus	4,595,151	Gain over 1915	341,907
New Assurances	15,376,377	Gain over 1915	1,618,390
Assurance in Force	109,645,581	Gain over 1915	8,553,551

EXPENSE RATIO AND INTEREST RATE

The ratio of expense to total income has again fallen while the rate of interest earned has risen, both facts being favorable to the payment of liberal dividends.

HIGH QUALITY OF THE BUSINESS

During the year there has been a remarkable decrease in the number of policies lapsed and surrendered, showing the increased value placed upon life insurance, and the conspicuous persistency of our business.

NET INCREASE IN BUSINESS

The increase in business in force after allowing for all terminations was 55% of the new business written—a notable record—bringing the business now in force up to nearly $110,000,000.

THE SURPLUS EARNED

It is a subject for congratulation that in spite of the extra death losses due to the war the surplus earnings were so satisfactory that we are able to continue the payment of dividends to policyholders on the generous scale they have enjoyed heretofore.

A glance at the following statement will show how rapid yet substantial has been the growth of the Company's business.

GROWTH IN TEN-YEAR PERIODS

Year.	Income.	Assets.	Paid to Policyholders.	Business in Force.
1876	$ 43,493	$ 81,105	$ 6,789	$ 1,634,156
1886	315,802	905,464	105,683	9,774,543
1896	760,403	3,392,697	376,767	20,001,462

WHERE IS THE HELP PROMISED FOR THE 247TH O.S. BATTALION ?

City Council, Board of Trade and Others Have Not Made Good Their Promises of Support Says Judge Huycke

"500 CLUB" IS NOW UNDERWAY

Pterborough's "500 Club" was formed at a meeting held in the Grand Opera House last night. The success that attended its inception augurs well for the membership campaign which will be carried on this week, to be followed by a week's recruiting campaign by the members of the club. By this means it is expected that every single man of the 1,400 eligibles will have been reached by some member or members of the club. No excuses will go with the new organization except physical unfitness.

Mr. E. A. Peck presided and he gave a brief review of the events that had led up to the war, all traceable to the desire of the Teutons for world domination. Their progress had been checked and victory for the Allies would only be accomplished by furnishing more money, more supplies, more munitions and, above all, more men. The people must be self-sacrificing and if everyone will do something the war will be won. They were assembled to considered how best the citizens of Peterborough could help with the material available, and he introduced Lieut.-Col. Ackerman.

The Plan Outlined

Lieut.-Col. Ackerman outlined the objects of the 500 club, the principal one of which was the obtaining of recruits for the 247th Batt. There would be two classes of members, Class A members being pledged to obtain a recruit and Class B members pledged to do all they could to obtain a recruit. He pointed out that the city had been divided into five sections and each would have a committee of members with a captain. When the organization was completed the different committees would be handed the cards on which would be found the names and addresses of the eligible men in the section and the answers given to the recruiting officers as to why they were not in khaki. There were about 1400 men on the list. Some of the people had deliberately lied to the officers and made their canvass difficult. The O.C. read over some of the excuses: "Mother objected." "Did not know the cause of the war." "Refused to enlist under any circumstances." "Waiting for conscription." "Was married, let single men go first." It would be the duty of the members to put such pressure to bear on these men as would drive them into khaki. The membership was not limited to men, but the women, who had done such great work in the past, would be welcomed in the membership roll. The membership sheets would be passed through the audience by the officers and everyone asked to join. He asked for the earnest co-operation of the citizens.

Judge Huycke

Judge Huycke was heartily applauded when he was introduced by the chairman. He stated that he was going to speak to a Peterborough people from a Peterborough standpoint and if his remarks hurt anyone he had no apology to offer. He was going to call a spade a spade. He bitterly scathed the people who had lied to the recruiting officers. They were not men and it was not men they were hiding. He strongly advocated that every rejected man wear an A R button. It would show the people that the wearer had tried to do his best and would separate the individual from the one who had refused to do his duty. The men who were not wearing A R buttons were hiding under flimsy excuses and a poor excuse was better than none, but no excuses should be recognized.

Wild Beast of Europe

Peterborough's honor and dignity must be maintained in this critical period of the world's war. The immediate future seemed big with coming events. The crisis seemed to be coming and must go one way or another. The wild beast of Europe was running rampant over the earth and if he deluged the earth, Canadians would be little better than slaves. All eyes were on the United States, but it should make no difference to us in doing our duty. The U.S. could not be of any assistance for some time.

Carry Out Promise

Canada had promised the Motherland half a million of men and he questioned whether today there were 200,000 of them on duty in the trenches. It was surprising to know that over 50,000 Americans had voluntary joined the British ranks. It proved that the best of the U.S. citizens were with us in protecting the rights of humanity against the Kaiser, who had assumed familiar airs with the Almighty.

Outraged Christendom was calling for more men and Col. Ackerman was calling for men, and more men. It was a call for men to do men's work, not for men to do that work that women could do.

Judge Huycke then turned his attention to the splendid work of Peterborough men in the past and how proud the people of the city were, in the boys of the 21st, 39th, 80th, 93rd Battalions, and the 12th, 26th, 33rd, 52nd and 74th Batteries. In these units were all representative Peterborough men and he referred to one in another unit who had been awarded the D.C.M.

Peterborough's Obligation

Peterborough's City Council and Board of Trade had last year asked tht Minister of Militia to authorize the formation of a new battalion in Peterborough and had promised to see that it was filled up. The 247th was authorized. Have they seen it filled up? Are they doing their duty? Not one member of the City Council or member of the Board of Trade had contributed a man. They had all stood aside and let the officers bear the burden. It was not fair. A promise was made of a business man's company in the 247th Batt. Where is it? If the business men wanted to give it, it would be there.

A short time ago the City Council and members of the Board of Trade visited Ottawa to urge the Government to carry out the promise made regarding the completion of the Trent Canal. Should they not have seen that their own promise to the Government regarding the completion of the battalion was fulfilled before they found fault. Only 40 per cent. of the present strength of the battalion was from Peterborough. It was not a decent way to carry out a promise.

Attention was directed to the men who had gone to the United States for the purpose of escaping military duty. The wish was expressed that they would be picked up and given a full share of training under American government.

In conclusion, Judge Huycke appealed to the ladies to refuse to dance with a man who was not in khaki or did not wear an A R button. He asked them to refuse to do business in a store where men were doing work that women could do, and he paid particular attention to the banks, who employed men who were fit to get into khaki.

The young women and girls could do more for recruiting than the men. A young fellow hates to be flouted by the girl he loves.

The meeting closed with a beautiful song by Miss Etta Kemp entitled, "Carry On," and the singing of the National Anthem by the audience.

SCHOOL BOARD DEMANDS TOO HIGH TO SUIT CITY COMMITTEE ON FINANCE

Ald. Taylor Loses Some Business by Joining Council of Ten.

That economy in all departments must be the watchword was the warning given by Ald. Stratton when he called the 1917 finance committee of the City Council for a meeting on Saturday afternoon. There were present Mayor Duffus, Ald. Stratton (chairman), Ald. Weir and Ald. Dobbin.

City Treasurer Adams wrote a letter to the committee regarding the instalment or sinking fund debentures. The opinion of the different bonding houses was conflicting. It seemed to be the opinion of the members that owing to the fact that the city had a very capable trust commission to look after the investing of sinking fund surplus, the sinking fund debenture was the best.

The members of the City Trust will be asked which they prefer.

Salaries Raised

Assistant City Clerk Ingram and Relief Officer Miller were given an automatic raise in salary. They will now receive $800 and the increase goes into effect from Jan. 1.

Some Estimates

The Public Library Board estimate for the year is $4500, about $300 more than last year. The committee recommended that it be paid monthly.

The Board of Education's estimate did not receive the same gentle consideration. The members of the committee thought the estimates too high compared with last year. They passed the amount required for February but will confer with the board regarding the increased demand.

Grants of $50

The Sick Children's Hospital of Toronto was given the usual grant of $50.

Ald. Taylor previous to his election was agent for a company holding some city insurance. He asked that the policy be handed in for cancellation. This was granted and Ald. Dobbin was intrusted to re-insure the wagon in another company.

Will Investigate

Robert Elliott asked the city to grant him a free pedlar's license. The police department will be asked for a report on how this can be arranged.

The request of J. Parrott for a vendor's stand was left with the chairman to report on.

Some Payments

The City Treasurer was requested to refund to Mrs. Selina Sheard $1 wrongfully paid for a dog license.

The custodian of the city cash box was with great reluctance told to pay the Provincial Treasurer $173.84 as the city's share of the expenses of the District Officer of Health.

The city will also pay the legal fees and expenses incurred by M. K. Cowan, K.C., in connection with the arbitration proceedings in the Peterborough Light and Power Co. case. The bill amounts to $5349.20.

J. Joselyn Rogers of Toronto presented a bill for $50 for analyzing the vicera of a body on which an inquest was held. The committee did not think they should pay the bill and it was laid over for investigation.

Patriotic Debentures

The Canadian Patriotic Fund debentures are ready to be issued, and the chairman was asked to report on the advisability of offering them for sale locally and what amounts would be issued from time to time.

Bring in Estimates

The chairmen of the different committees will be asked to get their estimates ready at the earliest opportunity.

45 NEW MEMBERS WERE RECEIVED

The Communion service at George Street Methodist Church on Sunday morning was largely attended. The pastor baptized six adults and forty-five members were received into the church.

GARBAGE NOT COLLECTED; MORE COMPLAINTS HEARD

Sanitary Inspector Finds Citizens to Blame in Ten out of Thirteen Cases---Police Magistrate at Fault He Says.

Complaints galore were heard by the city Property Committee on Saturday night. Some were about the night soil collectors, but the most of them were against the garbage collectors and the evidence that was placed before the aldermen was conclusive.

Mr. Robt. Fair had placed his ashes out regularly and the garbage collector passed them by. These ashes were placed in small receptacles that made the handling very easy for the wagon driver.

Edward Tighe's residence on Donegal Street had been passed by six times in three weeks and he furnished dates to the chairman.

The Toronto Loan and Savings Co. complained that tenants of theirs on Simcoe St. had been systemically neglected by the garbage collector since Christmas.

Fire Chief Howard complained that the garbage collector had left rubbish in the rear of the building at 182 Simcoe St. It was in a dangerous condition from a fire preventative standpoint. The garbage collector had refused to drive over a small bridge, giving safety first as a reason. The Lock Co. drive iron laden wagons over it every day, so the safety idea was knocked cold.

Citizens to Blame?

Sanitary Inspector Cooper stated that since he had been back to his duties he had investigated thirteen complaints and only three of them were the fault of the garbage collector. The people themselves were to blame in the other instances. He also told of an instance where Police Magistrate Dumble was at fault in loading up boxes with ashes so that one man could not handle them. There were other instances cited where the receptacle was not in accordance with the city by-law.

The committee instructed the Sanitary Inspector to investigate all complaints. When the garbage collector is at fault the garbage will be removed and whatever expense is incurred will be taken from the monthly cheque of the collector.

The work of preparing the new by-law regarding night soil will be commenced soon and in the meantime the work will be arranged for by the Sanitary Inspector.

Drafting the Drones.

A wealth recruitment committee will be headed by a chairman in the role of Lord Derby. As the statesmanlike originator of this scheme logically remarks, "It was appropriate that a representative of wealth should have been charged with the task of appealing for men; and it will be no less desirable that a representative of men should be the directive spirit in an appeal for wealth." Local committees would evolve from the central committee, "following the precedent of the Derby committees, on which no man eligible for military service was allowed to act, the membership of the Wealth Recruitment Committee will be confined to workingmen, and preferably to mean earning not more than thirty shillings a week. Each member will have a list of twenty-four persons on whom to call with full particulars as to their wealth; to these will previously have been sent a letter explaining the greatness of the national need and asking how much they are willing to sacrifice." Attested surplus incomes will be ranged in groups, the first being those of over 100,000 pounds a year.

FRIENDSHIP OF CHARLES LAMB AND HIS SISTER

NOWHERE in the history of the world can there be found a friendship more deeply rooted, fuller of quiet fondness and substantial devotion than that of Charles Lamb and his sister Mary.

Charles, with the heroic fortitude of a martyr, resisted all temptations to marry and devoted his lovable life to his sister Mary, who had inherited the family curse of insanity.

Mary was ten years older than Charles and loved him with an affection combining a mother's care, a sister's tenderness, and a friend's fervent sympathy.

Charles Lamb was born in London, February 10, 1776. At an early age he and his sister were forced to support an insane father and a paralytic mother—Charles earning a scanty living with his pen and Mary took what sewing she could get.

At 21 Charles showed symptoms of insanity and was forced to spend some time in an institution. A few months after his release Mary, worn down to a state of extreme nervous misery by attention to needlework all day and by watching with her mother at night, broke into uncontrollable insanity, and seizing a knife from the table spread for dinner, stabbed her mother through the heart. The Coroner's jury brought in a verdict of "lunacy."

Mary was immediately put into a madhouse, but as she grew better Charles exerted himself to have her released. He was forced to make a solemn agreement to make her his charge for life and to watch over her that she should do no harm.

Mary's insanity returned from time to time, during which periods she was again confined in an asylum, but her brother always eagerly reclaimed her as soon as she was better. When she was returned to him he was almost happy again, in spite of the shadow called up by the memory of what had happened, as well as by the uncertainty of the future. His clerkship in the South Sea House brought him a hundred pounds a year and there was a maiden aunt as well as the father to be cared for. While he had to watch his sister he had to amuse his father by cribbage. As he had time he devoted himself to literature, which brought him about thirty pounds a year.

In all the annals of genius there is no story so touching and tender as the history of those 40 years of steady toil Charles went through. He always wrote of her as his better self, his wiser self, a generous benefactress, of whom he was hardly worthy. Many were the nights spent in anxious watchings. Sleepless and harassed with her dangerous vagaries, he rose early in the morning and went to his desk, and when released from his labors he ran in hot haste to see that she was still safe. Many were the hand-to-hand encounters he had with her in her dangerous hours—but no murmur ever escaped his lips. When she became very bad he took her back to the asylum.

Charles Lamb was one of those silent heroes who have no monuments to commemorate their brave deeds; only the single stone that marks the final resting place of these two, in one grave, conveys the beautiful character of this man who gave up all for his sister, who in turn gave up all for him.

Lamb's one hope was to outlive Mary, but this was denied him. He left her well provided for. Lamb's greatest work is his "Essays of Elia." "Lamb's Tales from Shakespeare" have probably been read by as many children as the popular "Grimms' Fairy Tales." This book was written by the brother and sister jointly. Charles Lamb died from a fall, which injured his face, in 1835. His sister died 13 years later.

In her sunset walks she would invariably lead her friends toward the church-yard where Charles was laid. Their loving friend, Moxom, paints the touching scene:

> Here sleeps beneath this bank, where daisies grow,
> The kindliest sprite earth holds within her breast.
> Her only mate is now the minstrel lark,
> Save she who comes each evening, ere the bark
> Of watch-dog gathers drowsy folds, to shed
> A sister's tears.

FLAVOR THE SOUL OF FOOD

If it were not for flavor we should not digest our food properly. Epicureanism in eating is the handmaid of good health. The viands that are most agreeable to our sense of taste, those we enjoy most, are those we are most likely to digest well, and from which we are most likely to derive the maximum of nourishment. A whole book was devoted to this subject by Henry T. Finck, of New York He called it "[illegible] and Flavor." In a review o[illegible] Scientific American says: "The psychic factor of desire must precede ingestion, or results will be unpropitious. To each cent spent for nutriment we add five more for flavor. Flavor, in short, has an appetizing value, a health value, a commercial value. The evolution of a discriminating appetite and the education of the cook must go hand in hand. But your glutton is never an epicure. Rational mastication must accompany the highest enjoyment of food, and in this enjoyment lie perfect assimilation and health. It is flavor that stimulates the flow of the digestive juices; it is the digestive juices that prepare the food for the extraction of nutriment."

Ready money is the root of much pleasure. [illegible]

FOR SALE OR TO RENT—100 acres of first-class land, situated in the Township of Dummer. All workable land, containing a comfortable house, with bank barn, driving shed, and all necessary outbuildings. We would sell this farm on easy payments or will rent it with the option of buying same.

FOR SALE OR TO RENT—150 acres of choice farm land situated in the Township of Smith, in a very nice locality. This farm has a very comfortable brick house, with a new bank barn and drive shed. Land is all under cultivation with about 82 acres of timber. Owner will rent said farm at $400.00 per year.

FOR SALE OR TO RENT—10 acres of choice land, situated on the outskirts of the city, containing a house which could be made very comfortable, and ten acres of the best land. This place is only about ten minutes walk from the car line and factories. Would make a good place for a market gardener.

FOR RENT—Two and one-half storey red brick house, having all modern improvements; situated in a very choice locality. There is a large stable, with hen house, and a big garden. This house can be rented at $15.00 per month, a very low rent considering locality and class of house.

SKIP TOOLEY FAILED TO LIFT THE MERCANTILE CUP

Tankard Rinks Go to Toronto for Finals To-morrow.

The two Tankard rinks will go to Toronto tomorrow to take part in the finals. The local curlers have every confidence that they will bring the coveted trophy to Peterborough. The skips are R. M. Waddell and W. M. Lang.

'Spiel at Campbellford.

Campbellford will hold a bonspiel tomorrow, and one of the chief prizes will be the Seymour Power trophy.

Peterborough will be represented by two rinks skipped by J. E. A. Fitzgerald and R. G. Sturgeon.

Games at Orillia.

Several rinks of Peterborough curlers will journey to Orillia tomorrow to play for the Neill-Sheppard Cup.

The return game will be played in this city on Feb. 19.

Inter-Rink Games.

The finish of the regular scheduled games of the inter-rink competition are to be played this evening. The postponed matches will be ordered played in the near future.

The games billed for this evening are as follows:

Dr. Greer vs. W. G. Ferguson.
R. Hicks vs. A. C. Kay.
R. P. Best vs. W. H. Taylor.

M. Tooley Struck Out.

Vice-Skip M. Tooley was unsuccessful in his endeavor to wrest the honor of holding the Mercantile Cup and hat from Vice-Skip Percy Fitzgerald. In fact, he was badly trimmed in the attempt, the score being 13 to 4.

The game was played on Saturday night, and owing to the fact that Vice-Skip Fitzgerald was busy in the District Cup practice he detailed his able assistant, George Benor, to guide the destinies of the rink. The substitute did remarkably well and had an A1 report to hand to his chief at the conclusion of the contest.

A number of other challenges ar ready for delivery this week.

The rinks and scores were:

W. J. Henry	J. A. Cameron
W. J. Oke	C. S. Brown
W. G. Morrow	T. Brightman
G. Benor	M. C. Tooley

Canadian Lead Pencils.

To a firm in Newmarket belongs the distinction of manufacturing the first wooden lead pencil ever made in Canada. Heretofore pencils used throughout the Dominion were imported from Austria, England, and the United States, but now that a pencil in every way satisfactory to the trade is being produced in Canada, orders are pouring in in such numbers as to keep the mills operating to capacity. The company has been manufacturing wooden ware in Newmarket for the past 70 years, but will now devote its entire plant to the making of lead pencils, and in the near future will remove its heavy machinery to a new mill nearer the timber limits where they will continue the manufacture of wooden ware.

Rescued From the Sea.

Captain Svenden, his wife, Mate Hansen, and a crew of three, who were helpless on the derelict barge, Donald D., in Queen Charlotte Sound, were rescued recently by Captain A. M. Davies of the G. T. R. steamer Prince John. The transfer was made without the slightest mishap although tremendous seas were running.

ALL READY FOR KINGSTON PETES FIXTURE TO-NIGHT

Hard, Fast Ice for the First of O.H.A. Semi-Finals.

Kingston Juniors and the Petes will travel hard and fast in their game here tonight. The ice is in almost perfect condition, and indications point to a capacity crowd at the rink. An effort will be made to send the teams away sharp at 8:15.

Much depends in the outcome of the early stages of the contest. Kingston have a speedy and well balanced team. They are nifty stickhandlers, are strong on the attack, and have one of the best defences in junior O. H. A. ranks.

Changes have been made in the Petes' line by which Bartley will be moved to centre and Graham will work on along the boards.

Sergt. Steve Vair, one of the best-known hockey players of several years ago, who went overseas, was wounded and was invalided to Canada, and is now preparing for a second trip across the seas, will referee the game. The fans should give the returned hero a war-whoop.

A 13 YEAR OLD FRENCH SOLDIER

The boy who is here shown in uniform is a real soldier, and he fights for his native country, France, in the trenches. This youthful warrior's name is Jacques Veriot, and he is only thirteen years of age. He can handle a gun as well as his grown up comrades. Jacques appears to have learned one bad habit in his soldiering, that of smoking. He probably thinks he looks manly with a pipe in his mouth; but tobacco is not good for one so young. Nevertheless Jacques is said to be a valiant fighter.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

THE party telephone line is a great sweetener of the monotony of life. If only some genius would do away with the telltale little click happiness would be complete.

It requires brains as well as industry to make success and, added to these, unnumbered failures.

Some persons are so dense that they couldn't play a good hand in the game of life if they had the best cards in the deck.

The man who is afraid he will do too much work is apt to find himself with none to do when a pinch comes.

Many a woman would be supremely happy if she could only be as independent as her servant girl.

When a woman fails to laugh at her husband's jokes he deplores her failing sense of humor.

The best way to get a story into quick circulation is by telling it to a married woman.

The man who gets a sprained wrist cranking up for a charming widow believes he suffers in a good cause.

The "cricket on the hearth" as a sentiment doesn't appeal to the man who has stubbed his toe, skinned his knee and lost his temper trying to kill the cricket because his wife says it will cut the carpet.

Skeptical.

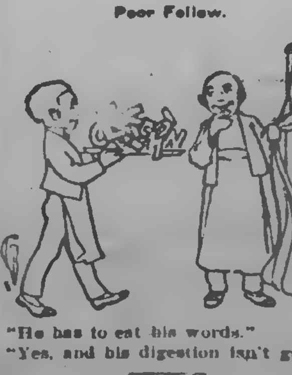
"Why won't Wilson's wife believe what he says?"

"She has no faith."

"Can't she cultivate it?"

"No. He says she is such an inveterate bargain hunter that she won't have a thing that she doesn't buy marked down from the bargain counter."

Poor Fellow.



"He has to eat his words."

"Yes, and his digestion isn't good."

Couldn't.

"He will never bring his father's gray hairs in sorrow to the grave."

"Do you think so?"

"I know it."

"I am so glad to hear you say so. But he is a pretty bad boy."

"That may be, but the old man is bald as a goose egg."

Fixed.

Contentment toward him seemed to flow,
Peace that no man could rob.
Nor will you wonder when you know
His wife had got a job.

Good Reason.

"You say he never quarrels with his wife?"

"No."

"Not ever?"

"Not ever."

"I wonder how it happens."

"He isn't married."

SHELL SHOCK

Some Facts Regarding Peculiar Form of Casualty

It has been found that cases of shell-shock are far more common in the British armies than among the French or Germans, while in the Balkan and Turkish armies it is comparatively rare. This is probably due to the fact that British armies contain a larger proportion of men whose manner of living or whose occupations have made large inroads on their store of nervous energy. Soldiers from cities or factory districts, for example, are far more likely to become victims of shell-shock than men from the farms or the country.

Men suffering from shell-shock are always unwounded. "No case of shell-shock is ever found to occur in a soldier who has a wound, no matter how trivial," says a British medical report. "It appears that the rending of the flesh by a bullet or fragment of shrapnel acts as a sort of safety valve against shell-shock, localizing in the injury the destructive force that otherwise is spent on the nervous system.

"Here is a description of the typical case: A shell exploded in the vicinity of a soldier. He is unwounded, but violently shaken, perhaps knocked over or buried. He loses his senses for a varying period and his nervous system, having suffered a violent shaking, is no longer what it was. He starts at the least sound, he cannot sleep, he has pains in the head, and his hands are slightly tremulous.

"Some men, on recovering from unconsciousness, are found to have lost the use of special senses, sight, hearing, or speech. This is a purely functional loss, and recoveries may occur at any time, weeks or months later, in a way suggesting that the age of miracles is not yet past. But the fact remains that a great many never recover, while others only improve under the most painstaking treatment.

"Hypnotism is occasionally successful, and rather good results are being obtained in other cases by simply placing the patient under chloroform. A man who had been deaf and dumb for three months was placed under light anaesthetic. During the struggling stage various incoherent sounds proceeded from his lips, and finally these crystallized into words and the patient continued able to use his voice when he came out of his anaesthetic sleep.

"Quite a number of cases have been similarly treated with chloroform, the theory being that some great nervous shock is needed to cure a condition that has been originally caused by a shock, and that has been kept in being by the man's feeling of helplessness."

In addition there are many men who have never been subjected to sudden violent contact with the explosion of a shell or mine, but who have broken down under the steady day-by-day strain of the trenches and the booming of the guns.

"In a mainly urbanized population like the British," says the report, "many are on the verge of neurasthenia — that is, possess a nervous system whose energy is soon exhausted, and war acts as the immediate prompt exciting cause to tumble them over."

STEADY INCREASE IN NUMBER OF SOLDIERS

Canadian Army is Spreading Over England

The Canadian army is gradually spreading itself over the face of England. The comparatively small force which made history at Salisbury has grown into a tremendous army. On every street of every city in the United Kingdom and along the highways throughout all parts of the country soldiers of the Dominion are to be seen.

There are now three great training camps in England: the training division at Shorncliffe, which is well known to the people in Canada; the training area at Bramshott, which we have occupied for over a year, and a new command at Brighton, which has just recently been established. Concerning the latter, although it is probably our finest camp, the people in Canada know very little. The Brighton command consists of four main camps, located at Crowborough, Hastings, Shoreham, and Seaford. These camps are organized and administered by Maj.-General J. C. MacDougall, C.M.G., and his headquarters staff at Brighton. Lieut.-Colonel D. W. B. Spry, assistant adjutant and quartermaster general, is chief administrative officer, and the administrative staff is responsible for everything concerning the maintenance and care of the troops.

It will be easily understood that the administrative staff were exceedingly busy when this command was formed. Large bodies of troops had to be transported to the various areas, supplied with food directly on their arrival, and at once organized into camps.

The average person in Canada does not realize what it means to handle troops in camps which, compared with Camp Borden, are twice its size. Occasionally 5,000 or 10,000 people are seen gathered at some function, but there are very few places in the Dominion that can muster a crowd of these proportions. If one stops to think, it will be readily realized that to handle expeditiously and without confusion an army of this size perfect system is required. As a matter of fact, it is no small task to keep a body of men of this size in a perfect state of discipline and health in ordinary camp routine. The capacity for work of headquarter's staff can be judged from the fact that they average eleven hours a day for seven days a week, and are frequently called up at night when circumstances demand.

SPEED IN THE HIGH ALTITUDES

AN AERONAUTICAL THEORY BORNE OUT BY MIGRATIONS OF BIRDS.

The statement that a flying machine with a normal speed of 40 miles an hour would travel at a height of 5 miles at 150 miles an hour—made by Dr Graham Bell, is supported by an ornithologist. Doctor Bell's view, which depended on a prolonged course of scientific inquiries, was that the speed of an aeroplane increased in more or less definite ratio as the height from the earth increased. The thinner the air the faster the aircraft.

That birds use this quality of the air now seems probable. Some of the migrants arriving in England have been observed to dive down from an incalculable height, as has often been observed in Heligoland. That the weak flyers should cross the North Sea in one dash has seemed an insoluble mystery, because it has necessitated the theory that they are endowed at that moment with a sudden access of power. May it not be that then only they find themselves in the thinner higher air? Swifts, which are the most rapid flyers of all, for the most part fly higher than other birds.

Cranes have been seen to cross the sun's disk at an estimated height of 5¾ miles, and others have passed over clear the highest mountain ranges. The verdict of one of the best students of migration is that "without ascending to a considerable altitude the migration of many birds would be simply impossible." That very poor flyer, the corn-crake, has traveled the seemingly impossible distance of 5,000 miles.

It is true that many birds have been observed to fly low during migration. Swallows especially have been seen migrating at a low elevation, and even to cover 100 miles an hour.—London Mail.

PIRCE OF THE FORD 5-PASSENGER SEDAN $890

The Ford five-passenger Sedan cannot be had at $8.90 as an underline in the page ad of the Duffus Garage in Saturday's issue had it. The price is $890, a phenomenally low price for a car that gives the service of the Ford Sedan.

The same can be said of all makes of Ford cars. While the price of other automobiles and everything else that is bought today has a tendency to increase, the Ford is decreasing in price. The Ford Roadster is $475.

Cherniavskys' The Greatest Success Toronto Ever Had

Mr. John Allan has pleasure in announcing that Leo, Jan and Mischel Cherniavsky play here on Monday, Feb. 12, at the Conservatory Hall. The public and press of Toronto were unanimous in agreeing that the Cherniavskys created the greatest sensation in the world of music in the history of Toronto.

The Toronto News of Nov. 15, 1915, said: "Toronto has heard many great and wonderful musicians but Toronto has never heard anything so exquisite in music as that that was heard on Saturday night in Massey Hall, when Leo, Jan and Mischel Cherniavsky, the young Russian musicians, played here for the last time.

"It is safe to augur the next time they come to Toronto every seat in the music hall will be wanted twice over. They seemed very young, particularly Jan and Mischel; Jan played the piano, Mischel the 'cello and Leo the violin.

"They impress one as taking life very seriously. They are deeply and gravely in earnest. When they play, their faces, especially Jan's, have a rapt expression, which takes them into the very heart of the music. You feel that they do indeed play from their souls, that they feel every vibrant and exquisite note.

"There is the tragedy of genius in each face, more particularly in Leo's and Jan's. Mischel has a more boyish face.

"Here are the three. Jan, tall and slight, with fair wavy hair, and beautiful but sad face. His shoulders droop and you feel that his genius is greater than his physical strength. Mischel, also tall and slight, with the face of a boy, yet never a smile, and long white, sensitive fingers. Leo, a little older, and with broader shoulders, has black wavy hair like his brother's. His brow, like his brothers' makes one think of Paderewski, and of other musical geniuses. When he plays, frequently his eyes are closed and he is quite unconscious of his audience."

YEAR'S WORK BY THE OTONABEE CHAP. I.O.D.E.

The annual meeting of the Otonabee Chapter, I.O.D.E., was held in the green room of the Y.W.C.A. on Saturday afternoon, with a large attendance. The Regent, Mrs. Huycke, was in the chair. There were also present the Regent and officers of the Peter Robinson Chapter, whose reports were presented.

After the opening ceremonies the minutes of the last monthly and annual meetings were read and approved; also the reports of the secretary treasurer and convenor of the sock committee.

The convenor of the autograph quilt committee reported that the quilt, which had been undertaken some weeks ago, was nearing completion. It was decided that this should be sent to Major Davidson in France.

The election of officers for the ensuing year, which was done by ballot, resulted as follows:—

Hon. Regent—Mrs. Wallace Nesbitt.

Hon. Vice-Regent—Mrs. Huycke.

Regent—Mrs. R. R. Hall.

1st Vice-Regent—Mrs. R. Harstone.

2nd Vice-Regent—Mrs. A. E. Coulthard.

Secretary—Miss Helen Denison.

Treasurer—Mrs. Aylmer.

"Echoes" Secretary—Mrs. Sherwood.

Standard Bearer—Miss Elizabeth Irwin.

Councillors—Mesdames Fessenden, Stapleton, Widdess, Spence, Stratton, Buchanan, Dunsford, Porter, Morphet, and Miss Nan Hall.

Mrs. Suckling and Mrs. Wilson acted as scrutineers at the election. Hearty votes of thanks were tendered to the retiring officers for their services during the past year. The new Regent and Mrs. Allan, who moved the vote of thanks to the retiring Regent, both spoke most warmly of the work which Mrs. Huycke had done for the Chapter since its infancy, and the untiring interest which she had always displayed in its work. This motion was carried by a standing vote.

The meeting closed with the usual forms and the singing of the National Anthem.

Secretary's Report

Miss Helen Denison, secretary, read the second annual report as follows:—

The past year has been one of great activity for our Chapter and contains a record of valuable work done.

Five executive meetings have been held and twelve general meetings, with an average attendance of 18 members.

We have added 19 new members to our roll and now have a membership of 93. We have this year sustained the loss of one of our original members, Mrs. W. H. Moore, who passed away in September.

Early in the year two prisoners of war were adopted, the money being forwarded to Mrs. Rivers Bulkeley. In November a Christmas box was packed and sent direct to each of these men from the Chapter, the contents of which were kindly donated by various members. These boxes, we hope, will be received in good order, and will do a little to help "to turn the very dark clouds inside out" for these poor men. A Christmas box was also sent to Petty Officer A. Miller, H.M.S. Niobe.

As Miss Dobie found it impossible to act any longer as convenor of the Wool Committee, Mrs. Widdess was appointed for this work, a hearty vote of thanks being tendered to Miss Dobie for her services. Owing to the fact that Mrs. Campbell has been living in Toronto this winter, Mrs. Spence kindly offered to take her place in helping to pack and send off the socks.

During Lent knitting teas were held at the houses of different members on Saturday afternoons. Five of these were held and a number of socks were brought in. We have been able to send off 263 pairs of socks this year. Most of these have gone to the trenches and have been gratefully acknowledged; 33 pairs were sent to Mrs. W. H. Hill to assist in the sock shower for the 93rd Batt.; 4 pairs were sent to our prisoners at Christmas time, and the Chapter kindly allowed the secretary to purchase 8 pairs at cost, to be sent to the prisoners adopted by the Business Girls Club, in their Christmas boxes.

Prior to the departure of the 93rd Batt., a field day was held in Exhibition Park for the benefit of the battalion fund. Four of the women's societies of the city took charge of booths for the sale of all sorts of refreshments. Our Chapter was privileged to be one of these, and although the day was a strenuous one for the workers, it was both enjoyable and profitable, as nearly $50 was taken in by these booths.

One of the events for the year for our Chapter was the garden fete held at [illegible], by the kind permission of His Honor Judge Huycke, and our Regent, on June 23. With the beautiful surroundings and the various tents and stalls, the scene was most attractive. One of the prettiest features was the maypole dance, performed by a number of children during both afternoon and evening, and arranged by Miss English. The proceeds of the fete amounted to over $200. Part of this was used to purchase a gramophone and records for the 93rd Batt. and the remainder is being expended for comforts for the men of that battalion.

On the 12th of July the Chapter assisted a committee of ladies in conducting a refreshment booth, the proceeds of which were used in providing a gramophone and records for the 52nd Battery.

As evidence of the fact that we have not confined our efforts only to our own city I might mention that $25 has been sent to the Secours National, $15 to the British Red Cross and $10 to the British Sailors' Relief Fund.

On Nov. 13 the Chapter took the important step of opening a workroom in which to do active work for the Red Cross Society. The use of this room was most generously offered by Mr. James Lynch, who is also supplying the lighting and heating. On the opening day the Regent very kindly served tea to those present, the 1st Vice-Regent acting as hostess the following week. A great deal of work is being turned out in this room under the capable supervision of Mrs. Stapleton and her assistants. Machines have been loaned by some of the members of the Chapter. The thanks of the Chapter are due to the committee in charge of the room, of which Mrs. Porter is convenor, for the way in which they have carried out their work.

Mrs. Scadding and Mrs. Robert Harstone are in charge of the autograph quilt which has been undertaken, and from which it is hoped a substantial sum will be derived.

Two recitals were given through the kindness of Mr. Frank Whitehouse on the Aeolian Vocalian, one at the Collegiate Institute and the other at the residence of Mrs. R. R. Hall.

On Jan. 5 a recital was given by Mrs. Helen Davies Sherry, assisted by Mrs. and Miss Logan and Mr. John Allan, in St. Paul's Church, which was a most delightful musical treat and also raised a substantial sum for the funds of the Chapter. Our very hearty thanks are due to these artists who so kindly offered their services.

One of the most successful entertainments undertaken this year was the banquet tendered to the returned soldiers in Peterborough. This was held, by kind permission of Lt.-Col. Ackerman, in the recreation room of the Armories. There were about 50 officers and men present and a most enjoyable evening was spent. Judge Huycke performed the duties of chairman in his usual happy manner. The speeches given, and the program of songs and recitations which was provided by our guests, were highly appreciated. The committee in charge under the convenorship of Mrs. Fessenden, are to be congratulated upon the success of their efforts. Our warmest thanks are extended to all those who in any way assisted the Chapter in this work of love, and gratitude to those heroes who have been fighting for us.

On January 20 a sock shower was held at the residence of Mrs. G. H. Thompson, who very kindly offered the use of her house for this occasion. 158 pairs of socks were received and will be shipped to the Secours National in Toronto, for the benefit of the French soldiers.

The thanks of the Chapter are due to all those who have so kindly assisted us in any work which we have undertaken throughout the year. The list of our kind friends is quite too long to enter into in detail, but we must mention especially the members of the Peter Robinson Chapter, who have so willingly and effectually helped us at all times. Also the press of the city, who have done all in their power to aid us in any of our undertakings.

At the January meeting we had the pleasure of again having with us our standard bearer, Mrs. A. H. Stratton, who has recently returned from England. Our warmest congratulations are offered to her and to Mrs. Fessenden and Mrs. Greer for the honors conferred on their sons, which were so nobly deserved. To all those mothers in our Chapter who have given their sons for the service of the Empire and for us, we offer our warmest admiration and feel that we are [illegible] to be thus allowed to do our small share of service side by side with these "mothers of men."

INFLUENTIAL DEPUTATION URGES BATHING BEACHES

Bathing beaches for Peterborough were strongly advocated last night by one of the largest and most influential deputations that ever waited on a City Council. Every organization that had the welfare of the rising generation at heart added a little to the uplift movement. It was estimated that two bathing houses could be built and properly equipped for about $2,000.

Mr. W. G. Morrow spoke in behalf of the members of the Playgrounds Association; Rev. W. H. White on behalf of the Ministerial Association; Mrs. W. R. Scadding for the Mothers Club; Miss M. Dickson for the Y.W.C.A.; Mr. G. A. Gillespie, M.L.A., for the Y.M.C.A; Adjut. McElhiney for the Salvation Army.

Mr. M. E. Ketcheson presented a huge petition signed by the citizens generally. The roll was unfolded and presented to Mayor Duffus. It was the full length of the Council Chamber and had double columns of names.

Mr. C. N. Meserve, general secretary of the Y.M.C.A., gave in detail what the committee thought would satisfy the needs of Peterborough bathers for a few years. He contended that in time the beaches would be self-supporting if properly regulated. He also advocated a public and social welfare committee.

Dr. F. C. Neal urged the necessity of beaches from a health standpoint.

Mr. Joseph Wearing, as secretary of the Children's Aid Society, director of the Y.M.C.A. and Sunday School Superintendent, told of the great advantages derived from supervised bathing beaches.

Absolute Necessity

Mrs. W. R. Morris for the Council of Women reminded the Mayor and Aldermen that bathing houses were an absolute necessity for a progressiv city. The small cost should not be taken into consideration. Everything was costing more; the city was prosperous and the women of the municipality wanted it understood that the petition was more than a request. Every progressive city has a high tax rate. It made no difference whether the signers of the petition were taxpayers or not. All helped to make a progressive Peterborough.

Ald. Dobbin did not think $2,000 was enough money for the purpose.

Consideration Promised

Ald. Stratton promised that the finance committee would seriously consider the request of the deputation, but he could not see that the morals of the city had been hurt in the last 25 years by lack of bathing beaches. The people generally had a "blind eye" when approaching a bunch of swimmers on a lake or river.

The request was referred to the committee of the whole council.

WILL PROVIDE FOR NEEDS OF RETURNED SOLDIERS

Parliamentary Committee Will Take up the Matter of Caring for Country's Defenders---House Adjourns Tomorrow.

OTTAWA, Feb. 6.—A committee of the House of Commons to consider steps to be taken to provide for the future of returned soldiers will be appointed as the result of a debate which took place in the House Monday.

During the discussion a number of interesting announcements were made by the Prime Minister. Sir Robert Borden stated that legislation respecting the settlement of discharged soldiers on the land would be brought before Parliament this session. that a bill modelled on a British Act to govern the raising of funds for the benefit of returned men was under consideration and that a pensions bill would be brought down this session and referrtd to a committee.

The Prime Minister gave in detail information as to the steps which had been taken to fit partially disabled soldiers for new avocations. Speaking of the work of the Provincial Aid Committees, he said that in all 6,564 men discharged from the overseas forces had been found new employment. In Ontario 1,759 men, returned from abroad, had been placed in positions. and it was stated that there were no men of this class out of employment. and 150 applications for their services were on file.

Adjourns Tomorrow

Parliament will adjourn on Wednesday until April 19 next. This is to enable the Prime Minister to attend the Imperial War Conference in London. The Premier's formal resolution for the adjournment was among the official notices of the evening.

Sir Robert will be accompanied by Hon. J. D. Hazen, Minister of the Naval Service, and Hon. Robert Rogers. The date of their departure will not be made known.

Proposed Vote of Censure

ANOTHER OLD RESIDENT GONE

SAMUEL McKNIGHT DIES AT AGE OF 70.

Samuel McKnight, an old and respected resident of Ashburnham, died this morning at his residence, 694 Concession Street. He was born in Ireland 70 years ago, but in his boyhood moved with his brothers, Robert and Jonathan, to Cavan township, where he resided until 29 years ago, when he took up residence in the city. He is survived by his wife and Pte. Frank who has just been invalided home from France, Pte. William J., of the Canadian Engineers, now in England, Mrs. Robert Carter, Harnsville, R.I., and Mrs. J. Porter, of Toronto.

The funeral will be held from his late residence in Ashburnham on Thursday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock. Funeral service at two o'clock by Rev. R. Pogue.

CAPT. SAWERS IS DECORATED

AWARDED MILITARY CROSS FOR DISTINGUISHED SERVICE.

Capt. Basil Sawers, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Sawers, Vancouver, and formerly of Peterboro, has been awarded the Military Cross for distinguished service in the field. He is with the Royal Engineers. B. E. F.

Capt. Sawers is a nephew of Mr. W. H. Moore, K.C., and Mr. A. Sawers of this city.

His brother, Lieut. Norman Sawers, was awarded the Military Cross last year. Another brother, Pte. Owen Sawers has been missing since the first engagement at Ypres in April, 1915.

Three recruits were added to the strength of the 247th Batt. yesterday. They are Ptes. H. E. Taylor and Wilford Gunter of Coe Hill, and Wm. J. Saltern of Havelock.

Lt.-Col .Wilson, D.A.A. and Q.M.G of Kingston, paid a visit to the Armories this morning.

The 247th Batt. band will go to Port Hope on Thursday and will remain there until Monday.

At present the recruiting office there is in charge of Lieut. H. Latimer and later on Capt. Hetherington will assume the duties. They will have a very able assistant, one whom the slackers will have to listen to. in Sergt.-Major D. Douglas, of Bowmanville. He has been to the front, been wounded three times, and is ready to take his chances again.

Pte. Alex. Wilkins, who is reported wounded for the second time, went overseas with an infantry battalion. His home is at 1381 Dufferin St., Toronto, where his mother still resides. The brief despatch from Ottawa states that he is wounded in the left leg. Pte. Wilkins is 24 years of age and single. Prior to enlistment he was a structural iron worker by occupation. He was born in this city.

TRAVELLED 212 MILES IN ANSWERING 142 ALARMS

Fire Chief Reports $6916 Damage to Buildings and $6350 to Contents in Year

Fire Chief Howard's report to the Council shows that the department responded to 142 alarms of fire in 1916 and in doing so travelled 212 miles. The damage to buildings amounted to $6,916. and to contents $6,350, a total loss of $13,246. This does not include the Quaker Oats Co.'s loss, which was upwards of one million dollars.

The chief asks that the schedule of wages for the firemen be arrangde so that there will be some inducement for good men to remain on the department for a number of years.

The alarms were received as follows: Telephon, 102; boxes, 31; verbal, 9.

TURKISH TROOPS EVACUATE WEST BANK OF TIGRIS RIVER

Important Gains Announced for British

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

LONDON, Feb. 6. — The British offensive on the Tigris front has made further important gains, according to official announcement given, out here today. The statement follows:

"As a result of our successful assault Feb. 3 the enemy has evacuated the whole south bank of the Tigris east of Hai-Tigris junction, which ground we now occupy.

"West of Hai the enemy has evacuated his trenches to a line running due west from Licorice factory, which is situated northeast of the Tigris-Hai junction.

"Further evidence points to the enemy having suffered very severely in the recent fighting, six hundred dead having been already counted as a result of our assault on Feb. 3.

"Our cavalry returning from a raid operated against Shumran, shelling enemy camps and trenches with good effect."

WHEN WOMEN SPOKE.

IF THERE IS a member of Council who nurses a suspicion that woman is not qualified to vote, lacking in perception and intelligence, his opinion must have receved a rude jolt at the meting last night after he had listened to the address made by Mrs. W. R. Morris in favor of municipal bathing houses. Feminine intuition is too much for the mercenary, short-sighted and narrow wisdom of the male members of the human species. Penny-wise arguments availed nothing. False assumption of authority failed to impress the women, who can see as far and to better purpose than their self-constituted lords and masters.

Mrs. Morris very politely but nevertheless pointedly reminded the city fathers that after all they are the servants of the people, placed in their present positions to give effect to the wishes of the electors. This has a tendency to remove the delusion under which so many representatives of the people appear to labor, that the elected is greater than the elector

Mrs. Morris was not deceived by the plea of economy or the claim that the property holders must not be too heavily burdened. The tenant, she argued, is also entitled to consideration, for it is this class that makes the prosperity of the other possible, and that helps to make a flourishing city of what would otherwise be a village

There are, as Mrs. Morris stated so clearly, greater things in this life than dollars and cents. The body is more than the raiment which covers it, the life more than the meat which sustains it.

If the tax rate, which seems to give Mayor Duffus so many wakeful hours, is raised, the property owner simply puts up his rent, and the class whose cause Mrs. Morris so ably championed really pay the bill. That being the case, they are certainly entitled to fair consideration when any new step, involving municipal expense, is taken.

ASSESSMENT VALUES.

MAYOR DUFFUS, in his speech to the various deputations that waited upon Council last night, said among other things that the assessed value of the property in Peterborough did not increase, so that any additional expense assumed raised the tax rate.

The assessed value of property is as much a matter within human control as th tax rate itself. In a progressive city like Peterborough, in these days of high prices for everything, it is rather remarkable that the value of real estate value should remain stationary. It is all the more remarkable when it is noted that the rents of houses are going up everywhere. Landlords are not slow to see that the tax rate, in spite of all the economy that the aldermen can exercise, is sure to be larger this year than ever it has been, and are taking time by the forelock. Tenants are being notified of a rise in rents, a rise which will be in excess of the increased amount of civic taxes. Any property that yields a greater income has certainly increased in value.

It makes little difference whether property is assessed at seventy-five or fifty per cent. of its actual value, so long as th rate is uniform. To boost it twenty-five per cent. would of course lower the tax rate, but would make no difference in the amount each owner would be required to pay. It is a simple question of figures.

WHEN PEACE IS MADE.

IF THE UNITED STATES becomes an active participant in the war, it will give that nation a voice in the Congress that will be called together later to arrange terms of peace. The constitution of the United States voices the principle that the rights of private property owners must always be respected and that no power is justified in taking the possessions of another even in war. To this principle the Americans have always remained true. They have never acquired a foot of new territory by force. When their boundaries have been extended, it has always been by the medium of purchase

After the war against Spain, which cost the United States one hundred and fifty millions in money and 1,941 men, nothing in the way of indemnity was demanded, although the Spaniards were defeated in every battle on land and sea. All the enemy soldiers taken prisoners were returned to their own country free of cost. The Philippine Islands, it is true, passed temporarily into the hands of the Americans, but the Spaniards were paid twenty million dollars for the improvements they had made there while they held possession. It was not a peace without victory, but it was a victory without any of the spoils of conquest. The victors paid for their prizes, and the vanquished profited by their reverses.

If all the other neutral nations follow the example of the United States and break with Germany, the moral and material effect will be felt at once. The South American republics are likely to join in the campaign against the danger that threatens their own existence. The navies of these powers combined would be sufficient to clear the ocean highways of the last German raider and drive the last nail in the blockade which, after all, is the one great factor in the war.

THE WORK OF RECRUITING.

THE GOVERNMENT divided the country into recruiting districts, placing competent officers in charge of each. The work has been carried on systematically from the beginning. Members of the Cabinet, from the Premier down, have taken the platform to encourage enlistments.

Any newspaper that charges the Government with indifference in this matter is talking twaddle. Any newspaper that says further that there are in the "Dominion Cabinet three or four members hostile to the idea of Canada helping Great Britain in this war or any war," states what is false and what it must know in its own heart is not true. The assertion is all the more unwarraned in view of the recent election which settled this point at once and for all time.

Like the Turriff charges in the House, these statements by an Opposition sheet are really beneath notice, but, as Premier Borden said, there is a danger that silence may be misconstrued. Judge Huycke Sunday night deplored the course pursued by some of the newspapers. There is always an offender who starts the trouble. Self-defence may cause a continuance of the squabble.

Petty faction frays are out of place when the world is at war. Pillow fights lack spirit while cannon are roaring all over Europe. Even the fact that potatoes are $2 a bushel fades into insignificance when it is recalled that Canadian lives, worth by material estimate $5000 to humanity, are being snuffed out daily on the battlefields of France.

The partisan crusade which we have in mind serves no purpose, even for the party for whose unification it is intended. It has instead a damaging effect on the fortunes of that political force, as it reveals the desperate straits to which it is reduced and the weakness of the cause which it espouses.

SOME MUNICIPAL LOSSES.

"THE ASSESSED VALUE of property in this city has suffered serious losses in the past twelve months, sufficient to affect he tax rate without the assuming of any new financial burdens. The Quaker Oats plant has been destroyed by fire. Prohibition has lowered the value of all hotel property and has swept away the business tax upon them. The public utilities taken over by the Government have ceased to be a source of civic income. It is true that the Government last year refunded the city the amount of the taxes, but it is not likely that this course will be followed again.

The public have declared for a levy of $60,000 for the Patriotic Fund, and now ask for one-tenth of that amount for the Sailors' Relief. Council has been asked to assume other liabilities. If the wishes of the people are carried out in all these matters, the effect will be apparent when the rate is struck for the current year. It would be felt under any circumstances, but will be especially so because of the losses sustained in the assessed value, losses over which the aldermen have no control.

ALLIES AS WELL AS NEIGHBORS.

THE ACTIVE PARTICIPATION of the United States will foster a more friendly feeling between that nation and Canadians. There has been enmity to a certain extent, due to misconceptions and misunderstandings. Penny-whistle politicians have since the memory of man sought to enhance the quality of their own loyalty by making light of all things American.

Defeated and discredited public men from the other side have visited Canada and made sure of an audience by telling tales out of school. Poultney Bigelow, an American journalist, recently held forth in Toronto in this role, and was acclaimed, not by the prejudiced proletariat, but by the spectacled and those adorned in decollette gowns, blazing with jewels and wearing the evening attire of the upper ten.

Mr. Bigelow's case attracted the attention of Congress, and was made the subject of sarcastic editorials in the American press. In the course of a week or so it began to dawn upon cultured Toronto that it had been victimized, and that Mr. Bigelow's entertainment was an exhibition of bad taste. The Toronto Star, generally among the first to get light on any public question, says editorially Saturday:

> Mr. Poultney Bigelow's speech in Toronto in which he ridiculed the consular service of the United States is commented upon editorially by the New York Herald, which finds itself unable to see why an American should have delivered such a speech in foreign territory.
>
> The Herald puts in a good word for the consular service, which, it says, was placed on an honest and respectable plane by John Hay, and its trade reports are the envy of other countries. "Of the work performed by the American consuls in the war-stricken countries," says the Herald, "it is hardly necessary to speak, for tributes to them have come from all the foreign governments and from the thousands of Americans who received their aid."
>
> Most people in Toronto were, we think, quite surprised at much in Mr. Poultney Bigelow's address. Those who had read and admired his book of "Prussian Memories" knew there would be no weak neutrality in his remarks, and in regard to that they heartily approved of his views. But some of his hearers probably felt rather more embarrassed than pleased by certain of his remarks—had that awkward feeling one experiences in hearing a man away from home talk disparagingly of his wife.

If the two countries are engaged in a common conflict, the American who attempts to talk anywhere in Canada as Mr. Bigelow did in Toronto, will be hooted off the stage as a charlatan and a breeder of mischief.

A Great Question.

(Buffalo Enquirer.)

Why is it women eager to go shopping are unwilling to go marketing?

WHAT IS MEANT BY NATIONAL GOVERNMENT FOR THIS COUNTRY?

Municipalities all over Canada are receiving copies of a resolution passed by the Winnipeg Ministerial Association calling for the formation in Canada of a "National Government." The resolution is in each case accompanied by a request that civic bodies, labor unions, fraternal societies, universities and boards of trade petition the Prime Minister in favor of "National Government."

What is meant by "National Government"?

The phrase is a high-sounding one liable to insinuate itself into one's consciousness without challenge from the understanding; but is this the proper time for the Canadian people to be stampeded by a phrase? Before taking a leap in the dark, and deluging Ottawa with demands for "National Governmtnt," let the people of Canada find out just what it is that its sponsors have in mind. We respectfully suggest that before going off on a tangent asking for something that nobody understands, the Winnipeg Ministerial Association be communicated with and asked to define what they mean by "National Government;" how they propose to bring it about? We suggest that this association be asked to clear up a widespread doubt in regard to the following points:

What is it proposed that a National Government should do, in the conduct of the war, that the present Government has not done?

What it is proposed that a "National Government" should not do, in the conduct of the war, that the present Government has done?

The resolution calls for "Not a party, nor a coalition Government, but one representing as far as practicable the geographical divisions, the races, the classes, and the main interests in the Dominion": how is this loose composition of various ingredients to be effected? and how is it to be vested with a mandate from the people?

The resolution further states that Sir Robert Borden should "consult with Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and other representative men, to proceed without delay, to the formation of such a ministry." What position would Sir Wilfrid Laurier occupy in this "National Government," and what "representative men," have the Winnipeg Ministerial Association in mind?

How other than by an appeal to the electorate could it be ascertained whether any particular indivdual really represented either the "geographical divisions, the races, the classes," of the Dominion?

What would be the relation of Parliament to this "National Government?"

If the "National Government" is not to be a party Government, nor a coalition Government, why is it suggested that Sir Wilfrid Laurier should be particularly consulted?

Sir Wilfrid Laurier is opposed to conscription without any qualification; does the Winnipeg Ministerial Association favor inclusion into a "National Government" of men opposed to compulsion even at the price of defeat?

Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, Sir Vincent Meredith and Sir William Mackenzie are among those recently suggested as possible candidates to comprise this "National Government." Does the Winnipeg Ministerial Association consider these gentlemen as satisfactory to deal with such national problems as, for example, the proposal to nationalise our railways?

The resolution calls for the "highest administrative talent of the nation"; what names have the Winnipeg Ministerial Association in mind?

How would the members of this "National Government" get into Parliament? Will the Winnipeg Ministerial Association indicate what members of the present House of Commons should resign their seats to make way for them?

Supposing these members should decline to resign their seats, what course would the Winnipeg Ministerial Association suggest to get the members of this "National Government" constituencies?

Let these questions and others, be submitted by Canadian municipalities and boards of trade to the Winnipeg Ministerial Association. The people of Canada are confronted with a stern and terrible issue of war. They are dealing with a mighty reality. They have no time to bother with vague phrases and ponderous platitudes. They must know what they want, before they want it. Let the gentlemen of the Ministerial Association define what they ask. Better for Canada a slow and steady advance, than rapid occupation of an unreconnoitred position to be followed by a disastrous retreat.

EDUCATION THAT IS WORTH WHILE

Early last spring the boys of the Van Buren school, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, hauled fertilizer and spread it on the beds of their gardens, one boy acting as captain. When the first warm days came after the frost was out of the ground we plotted the school's garden, a boy and girl acting as captains. We were given the use of a lot about two blocks from the building, by the father of one of the pupils, provided we kept the weeds cut bordering the lot, relates one of the teachers.

A seventh grade boy from a drawing independently plotted this lot, with the help of several boys of his own selection. This captain had been one of our problems. Now he is very reliable and a little gentleman. All summer he supervised the weed cutting. When I took my short vacation he faithfully performed his duty.

At this garden the plots are nineteen by twenty-five feet.

One Boy's Work

A boy canned from his patch of tomatoes enough for the family for winter, besides selling several bushels. A girl raised nine pecks of beans, besides peas, cucumbers and squashes in her garden. These were used in the home. She also had gladioli from which she sold blossoms.

Every Monday afternoon the children worked in this garden under my supervision.

At the Van Buren school garden the plots are six feet by nine. Every Tuesday afternoon we worked in this garden. Some children were working there every day. The pupils learned what to do to kill destructive insects and diseases of plants. No child would kill any angleworm, but would find and put them in his patch, because he had been taught that this worm is a very useful aid to gardeners. The caterpillars did not fare so well.

Going to Market

The children also studied fertilizers. They sold flowers and vegetables at the city market place every Saturday, thus gaining good training in a business and social way. One little girl sold $2 worth of daises from one of the small garden plots, besides taking home many bouquets.

The children kept a garden note book during the summer. Last autumn essays were written on "My Summer Gardening." In this way English is made more interesting.

Learned to Pack

During the summer a woman taught the girls and boys how to can vegetables by the cold pack method. Many hundreds of quarts were canned by the pupils for winter use. One boy proudly told me that he had made grape jelly. The boys like the work as well as the girls.

During the summer it was a pleasure to go through the district and see the beautiful gardens, well kept lawns and alleys. One little fellow kept the alley clean on both sides for a block. He mowed it with a lawn mower. In the spring he did not know what to do with the cans and other trash, so he dug a hole and buried them. Another little fellow planted vines and trained them to run over the alley fence. Both boys won prizes.

Plan Was Popular

The children were extremely happy and their parents proudly showed what the children had done. In no way can a teacher get in closer touch with her patrons.

Last autumn I assigned garden plots for this year. The children have dug and stored in the school cellar the bulbs, tubers and roots that will not live in the ground all winter. Seeds have been picked, pansies and other tender plants covered.

All the work has been accomplished without a garden fund and without any class period during school time.

Last autumn the children were awarded many prizes, which had been donated by clubs and other organizations.

School gardening is teaching children independence, giving them business training, social training, keeping them off the streets and teaching them to respect the farmer. It tends to create a movement from the city to the country.

A delegation of Ontario dairymen waited on the Ottawa Government to protest against a removal of the present embargo on oleomargarine.

EDITOR'S MAIL

Editor Review: Your "semi-official" informant again attempts to mislead you when he gives you reasons, as stated in your editorial last night, for the change in the appointment of an auto license issuer. He still tried to lead you to believe that it is the driver, and not the car, that is licensed.

For your informant's benefit I will tell you that anybody may drive a car, provided he has a car with a license on it, and that he be sober and over eighteen years of age. This is the law at present in force and has been ever since the association handled the local licenses.

Of course if a driver wishes to drive for hire he must have a chauffeur's license. This license is issued by an expert automobile mechanic who was named by the association, and not selected under the patronage system.

Will you be kind enough to tell me what you mean by "semi-official authority"?

C. H. AMYS.

By semi-official information we mean that supplied verbally by a representative of the Department after instructions had been forwarded to him.—Ed.

"Madame," said the doctor to the mother, "you should send this child to the country for several weeks each summer."

"I am sorry to say, doctor," she returned, "that we are not rich enough for that."

"Then," suggested the physician, "have her sent by the fresh air fund."

"Oh, doctor," exclaimed the woman, "we are not poor enough!"

"When I was boy," said the gray haired physician, who happened to be in a reminiscent mood. "I wanted to be a soldier, but my parents persuaded me to study medicine."

"Oh, well," responded the sympathetic druggist, "such is life. Many a man with wholesale aspirations has to content himself with a retail business."

"Gee, I'd like a square meal just once."

"What's the matter? Aren't you getting enough to eat at home?"

"No. You see, the doctor's put pa on a diet, and the rest of the family has to starve to keep pa out of temptation."

"What did yo' do, sah, when big Brudder Tump called yo' a liah?"

"Uh-well, sah," replied small Brother Slink, "as de gen'leman am six feet high and weighs mighty near a ton, what could I do but move dat we make it noononimous?"

Anyway, the man who thinks he knows it all never says, "I'm from Missouri."

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

What grafters need is insurance against exposure.

If it's a boy baby another domestic cry-sis is averted.

The girl who takes the cake is the one who can bake good bread.

It takes an unusually good man to make good in a public office.

Every officeholder has his trials—and some have their convictions.

One can't tell by the size of a man's hat how much he doesn't really know.

It doesn't matter that a girl has a poor complexion if her father is rich.

It is said that marriage will change a man's views quicker than anything else.

And a girl's ideal chaperone is a female who has seen enough of the world to know when not to look.

The man who does nothing but sit around and wait for a dead man's shoes never cuts much of a figure in the financial world.

The Mysterious Bride

(Tampico Tornado.)

The wedding banns of three couples were announced last Sunday at St. Mary's Church, and the weddings will take place in the near future. Those announced were: Chas. Leahy and Miss Bargara Sommers of Deer Grove, Peter McGuire of Hahnaman and Miss Katherine Haley of Winona, Fred Mischle and the girl who works for Fred Roy.

The average man is able to look in a milliner's show window without seeing something he would be willing to go without.

THE HEN

The hen is such a funny bird.
She only says a single word,
And that sounds just like "Walk, walk walk!"
Why is it that she cannot talk?

I like to give her lots of grain
At morning and at night again.
She walks in such a dainty way
I often watch her when at play.

And every day she hunts a nest
And tries and tries her very best
To lay a lovely egg for me
That I may have it poached for tea.

HIS HEART BADLY AFFECTED

"Fruit-a-tives" Soon Relieved This Dangerous Condition

682 Gerrard St. East, Toronto.

"For two years, I was a victim of Acute Indigestion and Gas In The Stomach. It afterwards attacked my Heart and I had pains all over my body, so that I could hardly move around. I tried all kinds of Medicine but none of them did me any good. At last, I decided to try "Fruit-a-tives". I bought the first box last June, and now I am well, after using only Three boxes. I recommend "Fruit-a-tives" to anyone suffering from Indigestion".

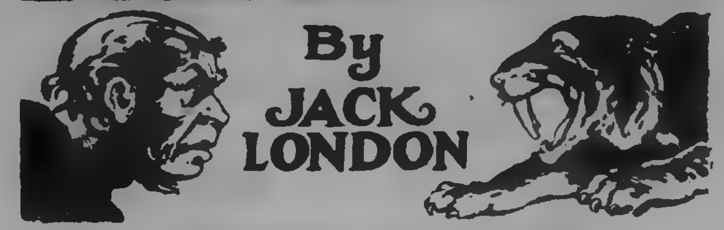
BEFORE ADAM



By JACK LONDON

Copyright, 1907, by the MacMillan company.

SYNOPSIS

A modern city boy tells of his strange dreams when, as Big Tooth, he lived in prehistoric times.

When he is a mere baby he is saved from a wild bear by the agility of his mother and his father attacks the savage pigs.

Driven from home by the Chatterer, he goes to join the folk, who live in caves in a bluff.

Red Eye, a powerful savage, attacks him, and he and Lop Ear become friends. Saber Tooth, a tiger, appears.

The folk drive the tiger away, and Broken Tooth is killed by a fire man, who uses a strange weapon, a bow and arrow.

A fire man shoots Big Tooth in the leg, and Lop Ear saves his life. They capture two wild dog pups.

Big Tooth and Lop Ear are chased into their cave by Red Eye, but they attack him with stones and drive him away.

Lop Ear and Big Tooth make a crude raft and sail down a river. They see the Swift One, a girl, but cannot overtake her.

They have a narrow escape when Red Eye attacks them and make a long journey to the Fire People's country.

They play with the fire of the Fire People and start a great conflagration. The Fire People drive them away.

Big Tooth has another narrow escape from Red Eye, and his sister is killed by the fire men, who wound Lop Ear.

The Fire People continue their deadly attack. Big Tooth and the Swift One are married. Red Eye pursues the Swift One.

He captures her. Big Tooth attacks him, and the fight is stopped by the rush of Saber Tooth. The Fire People massacre the folk.

Big Tooth, the Swift One and a handful of the folk flee far to the south and seek a new home. Red Eye joints the Tree People.

PROLOGUE.

In "Before Adam" Jack London weaves a fascinating tale of forests primeval, the Fire People, the Tree People, the Cave Folk and other strange creatures of the midpleistocene. The hero of the story is a primitive man whose life is one round of peril. Chief among his foes are the Tawny One, Saber Tooth and Red Eye. Then there is the Swift One, who loves and is loved by the man who lived "before Adam."

CHAPTER I.

PICTURES! Pictures! Pictures! Often before I learned did I wonder whence came the multitudes of pictures that thronged my dreams, for they were pictures the like of which I had never seen in real wakeaday life. They tormented my childhood, making of my dreams a procession of nightmares and a little later convincing me that I was different from my kind, a creature unnatural and accursed.

In my days only did I attain any measure of happiness. My nights marked the reign of fear—and such fear! I make bold to state that no man of all the men who walk the earth with me ever suffer fear of like kind and degree. For my fear is the fear of long ago, the fear that was rampant in the younger world and in the youth of the younger world. In short, the fear that reigned supreme in that period known as the midpleistocene.

What do I mean? I see explanation is necessary before I can tell you of the substance of my dreams.

What to you the friendship of Lop Ear, the warm fire of the Swift One, the lust and the atavism of Red Eye? A screaming incoherence and no more. And a screaming incoherence likewise, the doings of the Fire People and the Tree People and the gibbering councils of the horde, for you know not the peace of the cool caves in the cliffs, the circus of the drinking places at the end of the day. You have never felt the bite of the morning wind in the tree tops, nor is the taste of young bark sweet in your mouth.

It would be better, I dare say, for you to make your approach, as I made mine, through my childhood. As a boy I was very like other boys in my waking hours. It was in my sleep that I was different. From my earliest recollection my sleep was a period of terror. Rarely were my dreams tinctured with happiness. As a rule, they were stuffed with fear, and with a fear so strange and alien that it had no ponderable quality.

For instance, I was a city boy, a city child, rather, to whom the country was an unexplored domain. Yet I never dreamed of cities. Nor did a house ever occur in any of my dreams. Nor, for that matter, did any of my human kind ever break through the wall of my sleep. I, who had seen trees only in parks and illustrated books, wandered in my sleep through interminable forests. And, further, these dream trees were not a mere blur on my vision. They were sharp and distinct. I was on terms of practiced intimacy with them. I saw every branch and twig. I saw and knew every different leaf.

Well do I remember the first time in my waking life that I saw an oak tree. As I looked at the leaves and branches and gnarls it came to me with distressing vividness that I had seen that same kind of tree many and countless times in my sleep. So I was not surprised still later on in my life to recognize instantly, the first time I saw them, trees such as the spruce, the yew, the birch and the laurel. I had seen them all before and was seeing them even then every night in my sleep.

This, as you have already discerned, violates the first law of dreaming—namely, that in one's dreams one sees only what he has seen in his waking life or combinations of the things he has seen in his waking life. But all my dreams violated this law. In my dreams I never saw anything of which I had knowledge in my waking life. My dream life and my waking life were lives apart, with not one thing in common save myself. I was the connecting link that somehow lived both lives.

The Swift One.

Early in my childhood I learned that nuts came from the grocer, berries from the fruit man, but before ever that knowledge was mine, in my dreams I picked nuts from trees or gathered them and ate them from the ground underneath trees, and in the same way I ate berries from vines and bushes. This was beyond any experience of mine.

I shall never forget the first time I saw blueberries served on the table. I had never seen blueberries before, and yet at the sight of them there leaped up in my mind memories of dreams wherein I had wandered through swampy land eating my fill of them. My mother set before me a dish of the berries. I filled my spoon, but before I raised it to my mouth I knew just how they would taste. Nor was I disappointed. It was the same tang that I had tasted a thousand times in my sleep.

Snakes? Long before I had heard of the existence of snakes I was tormented by them in my sleep. They lurked for me in the forest glades; leaped up, striking, under my feet; squirmed off through the dry grass or across naked patches of rock or pursued me into the treetops, encircling the trunks with their great shining bodies, driving me higher and higher or farther and farther out on swaying and crackling branches, the ground a dizzy distance beneath me. Snakes! With their forked togues, their beady eyes and glittering scales, their hissing and their rattling—did I not already know them far too well on that day of my first circus when I saw the snake charmer lift them up? They were old friends of mine, enemies rather, that people my nights with fear.

Ah, those endless forests and their horror haunted gloom! For what eternities have I wandered through them, a timid, hunted creature, starting at the least sound, frightened by my own shadow, keyed up, ever alert and vigilant, ready on the instant to dash away in mad flight for my life, for I was the prey of all manner of fierce life that dwelt in the forest, and it was in ecstasies of fear that I fled before the hunting monsters.

When I was five years old I went to my first circus. I came home from it sick, but not from peanuts and pink lemonade. Let me tell you. As we entered the animal tent a hoarse roaring shook the air. I tore my hand loose from my father's and dashed wildly back through the entrance. I collided with people, fell down, and all the time I was screaming with terror. My father caught me and soothed me. He pointed to the crowd of people, all careless of the roaring, and cheered me with assurances of safety.

Nevertheless it was in fear and trembling and with much encouragement on his part that I at last approached the lion's cage. Ah, I knew him on the instant—the beast, the terrible one! And on my inner vision flashed the memories of my dreams—the midday sun shining on tall grass, the wild bull grazing quietly, the sudden parting of the grass before the swift rush of the tawny one, his leap to the bull's back, the crashing and the bellowing and the crunch, crunch of bones, or, again, the cool quiet of the water hole, the wild horse up to his knees and drinking softly, and then the tawny one—always the tawny one—the leap, the screaming and the splashing of the horse and the crunch, crunch of bones, and yet again the somber twilight and the sad silence of the end of day and then the great, full throated roar, sudden, like a trump of doom, and swift upon it the insane shrieking and chattering among the trees, and I, too, am trembling with fear and am one of the many shrieking and chattering among the trees.

At the sight of him, helpless within the bars of his cage, I became enraged. I gritted my teeth at him, danced up and down, screaming an incoherent mockery and making antic faces. He responded, rushing against the bars and roaring back at me his impotent wrath. Ah, he knew me, too, and the sounds I made were the sounds of old time and intelligible to him.

My parents were frightened. "The child is ill," said my mother. "He is hysterical," said my father. I never told them, and they never knew. Already had I developed reticence concerning this quality of mine, this semidissociation of personality as I think I am justified in calling it.

I saw the snake charmer, and no more of the circus did I see that night. I was taken home, nervous and overwrought, sick with the invasion of my real life by that other life of my dreams.

I have mentioned my reticence. Only once did I confide the strangeness of it all to another. He was a boy, my chum, and we were eight years old. From my dreams I reconstructed for him pictures of that vanished world in which I do believe I once lived. I told him of the terrors of that early time, of Lop Ear and the pranks we played, of the gibbering councils and of the Fire People and their squatting places.

MASSAGE THE SCALP

MUCH ATTENTION NEEDED TO KEEP THE HAIR BEAUTIFUL.

Before dressing the hair and when taking it down at night loosen it by giving the ends two or three light shakes; place the tips of the fingers of both hands at the juncture of the hair and the forehead and then work them with a circular motion gently but firmly toward an imaginary center at the top of the head. At each turn of the fingers let them work lightly on the surface, and then deeply, the first motion is for the hair follicles themselves, the next for moving the scalp on the head so as to make it soft, yielding and flexible.

Second Movement—Place the tips of the fingers so that the forefinger of each hand will meet at the spot where the last massage left off. This will bring the fingers of each hand over an ear at the juncture of the hair and skin. In the same manner as before, they should work over the hair roots with light and deep massage until the finger tips meet at the center at the top.

Third Movement The fingers of each hand are placed so as to meet at the back of the neck where the hair begins, and describing the same motions as before, they work themselves upward to the center.

For washing the hair, make a shampoo of castile soap and water and rub your head and hair all over with it. Rinse well, making sure that every bit of soap is out. Go through this operation three times and you will find your hair perfectly clean.

HOME-MADE ICE CREAM POSSIBLE

FREEZER IS HOME-MADE ALSO, AND WITHIN REACH OF ALL.

It is quite easy to make ice cream without the regulation freezer. Get an ordinary water bucket and a glass fruit jar with a metal top that screws on tightly. Put the mixture you want to freeze in the jar and fill it up. Then put a layer of cracked ice and a layer of salt in the bottom of the bucket. Put the jar on top of this and then fill the bucket with salt and ice, using about one-third as much salt as ice. When the bucket is filled the metal top of the fruit jar should be above the ice. Take a piece of stout cord and make one turn about the top of the jar letting the cord fit into the threads of the jar top. Then take the long ends of the cord and pull them alternately. This will cause the jar to whirl first one way and then the other. Keep this up a few minutes—five or ten minutes. Then open the jar and with a long spoon scrape the frozen cream from its sides. Close it and whirl it some more.

On the streets in Spanish cities and in other European and in South American cities as well, the "sorbete" maker is a common sight, sitting on the hot, sunlight street, pulling away at the strings that whirl his freezer. In those countries a tin cylinder like can is used instead of a fruit jar.

FASHION HINTS

Navy velvet is this turban, adorned with metal embroidery done on a satin band. What adds distinction is the figured veil, a hexagonal mesh embroidered in a leaf and shamrock pattern. These are both good styles for winter.

PATRIOTIC CARD PARTY AND DANCE

UNDER AUSPICES OF KITCHENER LEAGUE ON ST. VALENTINE'S NIGHT.

The general public are asked to lend their patronage to an informal social evening which is to be held here in the Oriental Hotel on the evening of St. Valentine's Day, Wednesday, February 14th. This event is to be held under the auspices of the local Canadian Kitchener League, who have been so energetic in the past in furnishing winter comforts for our Peterborough boys in the trenches. "Send us more socks" is the cry that comes back after every new shipment which reaches our gallant lads in khaki. The gratitude expressed for the warm, woolly, home-made foot comforts and other suitable supplies keep stirring up the League to a renewal of their efforts in this direction. This informal evening which is in preparation is another evidence of the resourcefulness of the lady members of the League, and is deserving of generous encouragement. The proceedings will be varied by dancing, instrumental music, cards, etc., and everybody is invited to join in the mirth and pleasure of the evening. Tickets are for sale at the Peterborough Lumber Co., the Peterborough Creamery, and the banks.

Emily Farmer Loses Home and Contents

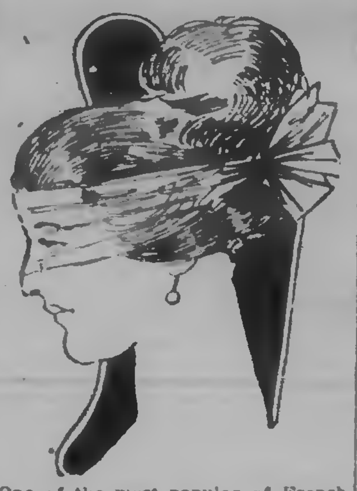
BRITISH WOMEN AS CIVIL SERVANTS

Salaries Offered Too Small to Attract Many Well Qualified—Some Exceptions to Rule

There are many women in London working under civil-service rule, and on the whole they are fairly well paid, although their salaries are but seldom equal to those of men. One superintendent inspector receives a salary of from $2,000 to $2,250, and six inspectors are paid from $1,100 to $1,750, writes Sallie Wistar in the Philadelphia Public Ledger, taking her information from a London report of the Studies Committee of the Fabian Women's Group. They look after poor law institutions, boarded-out children, certified homes, etc. Women are employed in similar capacities also in Scotland and in Ireland. The Home Office likewise employs women inspectors of prisons, reformatories and industrial schools at salaries of from $1,500 to $2,000, men in the same position, however, receiving from $3,000 to $3,500. It may be noted here that Sir Henry Robinson, vice-president of the Local Government Board, said in evidence before the Royal Commission on Civil Service that he would like to have one or two women doctors to go round the workhouses and to visit the female wards, but the salaries offered by the Treasury to women doctors seemed to him too low to attract well qualified women. The Board of Trade appointed the first woman as a labor correspondent in 1898. Ten years later she became senior investigator for women's industries at a salary of $2,250 with an assistant at from $1,000 to $1,500. These posts are open only to university women with high honors. Three more women investigators are employed in connection with the Trade Boards. These appointments are made by the President of the Board of Trade, on recommendation of the Civil Service Commission.

Brides Play Blindman's Buff



One of the most popular of French designers sent out, with an evening frock of blue crepe, a bit of blue tulle, which she said, was to be tied over the forehead and eyes the way children are blinded in blindman's buff. This tulle is tied at the back of the head in a huge bow, and all the evening its wearer will "see things."

About the only things we really envy the rich are those extra bathrooms in their homes.

WHEN YOU WAKE UP DRINK GLASS OF HOT WATER

Wash the poisons and toxins from system before putting more food into stomach.

Says inside-bathing makes anyone look and feel clean, sweet and refreshed.

Wash yourself on the inside before breakfast like you do on the outside. This is vastly more important because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing illness, while the bowel pores do.

For every ounce of food and drink taken into the stomach, nearly an ounce of waste material must be carried out of the body. If this waste material is not eliminated day by day it quickly ferments and generates poisons, gases and toxins which are absorbed or sucked into the blood stream, through the lymph ducts which should suck only nourishment to sustain the body.

A splendid health measure is to drink, before breakfast each day, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, which is a harmless way to wash these poisons, gases and toxins from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels; thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate costs but very little at the drug store but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on inside bathing. Men and women who are accustomed to wake up with a dull, aching head or have furred tongue, bad taste, nasty breath, sallow complexion, others who have bilious attacks, acid stomach or constipation are assured of pronounced improvement in both health and appearance shortly.

Something More Must be Done

ANSWER TO GERMANY MUST BE STRAIGHT BLOW.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

LONDON, Feb. 6. — Arthur Neville Chamberlain, director-general of British National Service, outlining the scheme for national service today, said: "Let nobody suppose that because Count Bernstorff has been given his passports there is nothing else to do. Germany intends to starve us. The answer must be a blow straight between the eyes, which will bring the enemy down and bring him to his senses."

TAX RATE OF 31½ MILLS

Statement by Mayor to Deputations Who Ask Grants for Sailors' Relief, Health Association and Bathing Beaches.

Deputations took up the greater art of the time of the City Council t their regular meeting last night, nd as a result the routine work as left over until the next meeting f the aldermen. Three out of the our deputations asked for money rants and the fourth did not ask oney but asked the co-operation f the Mayor and Aldermen and as his came from Lt.-Col. Ackerman, C. of the 247th Batt., the Mayor Aldermen all agreed to join the 00 Club and assist in every way.

The other requests were referred o the committee of the whole Council and will be dealt with when the stimates for the year are struck.

British Sailors' Relief

Messrs. F. D. Kerr, V. Eastwood, W. H. Dunsford, W. Stocker and Judge Huycke all urged upon the mayor and aldermen the granting f $6,000 to the British Sailors' Relief Fund. The great sacrifices that he seamen were making, the splendid protection given to Canadian ports, the safe passage of Canadian roops to England without accident were all given as reasons why the City Council should make the grant sked for. It was pointed out that he county had voted $4,000 towards this fund. Peterborough city and county was asked for $10000.

Keep the Rate Down

Mayor Duffus drew the attention of all deputations to the desire of the council to keep the rate of taxation as low as possible. Last year it was kept down to 28 mills by the most careful paring of the estimates. With no increase in the assessment roll this year, it would be very difficult to figure out how the rate could be kept below 31 1-2 mills. He never expected that it would be lower than 30 mills. This information he gave the deputations so that they would understand the difficult position the council was in. The sympathetic support of all requests they were assured of, but no matter how deserving the objects were, the management of the city's finances had to be seriously considered. A high tax rate was not an inducement to new industries. He was strongly of the opinion that subscriptions for patriotic purposes should be made by appeal to the citizens generally and not by taxation. The school board, the library board and other departments were all increasing their estimates this year. He promised careful consideration of their claims.

Peterborough Health Association

Father Phelan, president of the Peterborough Health Association, asked that the city's grant towards the work of the society be increased from $600 to $1200. The necessity for two nurses to properly safeguard the health of the poorer classes and stamp out tuberculosis was absolute and without added assistance would be impossible.

Mr. R. R. Hall and Dr. Cameron made strong appeals for the proper carrying on of the splendid work of the society.

The 500 Club

Lt.-Col. Ackerman and Major O'Flynn left the Council Chamber happy in that they had their request granted and are assured of eleven live members for the 500 Club. They were also informed that the city was not employing eligible men in any of the departments.

Judge Huycke informed Ald. Stratton that the Police Commissioners were turning men down for the police departent who were physically fit.

BYLAWS PASSED

By-laws were passed by the City Council last night as follows:

Appointing Mr. Richard Hall a member of the City Trust.

Authorizing the Mayor and Clerk to sign the city's private petition to the Legislature.

Authorizing the collection of the war tax of 1 mill against all city property.

PUT CHECK ON MONEY SPENDING DEPARTMENTS, SCHOOL BOARD FOR ONE

City Council Will Join in Memorial to Legislature Asking That Act be Amended.

City Councils have no control over the estimates of the Board of Education, the Police Commissioners, the Public Library Board and other public utilities that spend money which is raised by general taxation.

London aldermen memorialized the Ontario Legislature to have this changed so that the City Councils could revise the estimates if it was found necessary, and they asked Peterborough to assist.

At the Council meeting last night a resolution by Alderman Stratton and Weir was carried unanimously, asking the legislature to amend the Act as required.

MANY COMMUNICATIONS BEFORE CITY COUNCIL

The City Council last evening received a great many communications which were dealt with as noted.

City Treasurer Adams sent in a statement of receipts and expenditures for the month of January and it was referred to the Finance Committee.

The Peterborough Utilities Commission asked the city to accept the offer of the Hydro Electric Commission as to the sale of the Otonabee Power Co.'s distributing system. The committee of the whole council will deal with it at once.

The Dominion Railway Board informed the city that they had approved of the agreement with the C.P.R. regarding the footbridge. This was received with thanks.

City's Bank Account

The Bank of Toronto seeks the city's bank account and wrote offering very favorable inducements to the city. The matter will be discussed under the head of general business at the next meeting.

Mr. F. W. Miller, city Relief Officer, reported on the number of indigent patients admitted to the hospitals in 1916.

Police Magistrate Dumble officially notified the city that he had committed a juvenile to the Children's Shelter.

E. J. Hickey asked the city to grant him more time in which to pay his taxes. The Finance Committee will consider.

City Solicitor Gordon asked that the city issue a cheque for the fees in connection with the city's private bill. It was ordered issued when certified to by the chairman of the local committee.

At the request of the City Solicitor a cheque for $500 and costs of action, in the case of Frick vs. Peterborough, will be issued when it has the O.K. of Chairman Duncan.

The Ontario Good Roads Association will hold their annual convention in Toronto on Feb. 27, 28 and March 1. The Board of Works will decide whether they will spent $25 for the invitations and be represented there.

The Imperial Munitions Board replied to the city's letter regarding the employment of returned soldiers as inspectors. The Board do this as much as possible and asked the city to see the local manufacturers regarding local inspectors.

The Peterborough Utilities Commission will place the necessary lights in the public skating rinks as requested.

The city of St. Catharines is very anxious to see the Government enforce the Militia Act and to nationalise public utilities. They ask Peterborough to co-operate. The subject will be considered at the next meeting.

The Peterborough Poultry Association asked the Council to pass a resolution so that they could get the grant appropriated to them for 1916. The finance committee was given power to act.

The Ontario Highways Commission will hold a meeting in Toronto on March 1. The Board of Works will seriously consider the idea of being represented.

The Fidelity Co. of New York reported favorably on the city boiler.

The Municipal World want the city to renew their subscription. The finance comittee will make a recommendation.

GORGEOUS CREATIONS IN WOMEN'S CLOTHING

Linings of Many Colors and Wraps That Are Convertible—Wonderful Shoes

Linings are of necessity just as pretty and attractive as the "outside material" used for the development of the latest tea cloaks, evening wraps, capes and coatees. Brilliant brocades are much in evidence, paddy and emerald green being most highly favored for all black and white combinations. Orange, cerise, and flame are used to good effect when carefully introduced with harmonizing shades. Many of the most exclusive wraps are fashioned so that they may be worn either way.

Some wonderful footwear is being displayed. One patent leather pair of pumps displayed a unique toecap, long pointed vamp and white velvet quarter, brocaded. A gorgeous pair of red satin dance pumps, with Louis XV. heels, showed the vamp richly beaded in ruby red and white rhinestones. White velvet boots with black heels and buttons are very stunning for street wear, and for dinner parties wonderful French slippers of gold brocade, with platinum buckles, are the very latest.

There is no end to the variety of the bags now being carried, but a simple little type, that may be fashioned of any material, artistic and durable, is that gathered on to jade bracelets, which may be purchased in almost any oriental shop.

A HEADLESS CLUB

Some Montreal women have started a club which is to be as free as possible from social ambition and desire for power. It is to be managed by a working committee and there is to be no individual head. It will have an Honorary Secretary and Honorary Treasurer, and will be, above all things, "informal and useful." It will have large, convenient quarters in the business section, containing kitchen, dining room, lounging room, drawing rooms, etc. Under certain circumstances men may dine within its walls, and every Saturday is to be set aside as "men's day." One hundred student and professional women are behind it, and the idea is to give it the atmosphere which goes with men's clubs of the best sort. Access to it will be made easy, and it is hoped that it will provide a common meeting ground for educated, self-supporting women condemned to the seclusion of the boarding house bedroom or the more unattractive boarding house "parlor."

SOME DANGERS THAT LURK IN CANNED GOODS

Certain Foods Which Should be Watched Closely When Used.

There are so many cases of ptomaine poisoning that the efficient housewife must continually be on her guard where canned foods are used. She must also watch those in her own ice-box, which may do just as much mischief. All highly nitrogenous foods decompose very rapidly under the influence of heat and dampness, and this produces the dangerous, and often fatal ptomaines. Another fact, which seems curious, is that milk just at the turning point has been known to be deadly, whereas actually sour milk is perfectly wholesome. Eggs and milk cooked together, as in custards, and allowed to remain over night in a warm place, have been known to produce so severe a case of ptomaine poisoning that death was the result. This should be remembered in buying cream puffs and cream cakes at the bakery. If they have been kept over night the only reasonable thing is to refuse to purchase them, as they are distinctly dangerous.

Cottage cheese is unsafe to buy for the same reason. There is no way of actually telling how old it is, and when anything is as easy to make as cottage cheese there is no reason to take a risk in buying it.

In the case of meats it should be remembered that practically all the meat on the market is from the cold storage, and has been kept in a freezing temperature until purchased by the retailer, who transferred it to his icebox, where a correspondingly low temperature was maintained. Then the housewife orders a roast or a chicken sent home, the delivery boy is slow, the maid is not careful to put it in the icebox immediately and the meat is exposed to varying degrees of temperature quite long enough to develop a considerable number of dangerous bacteria. If the chickens are to be prepared on Saturday for use on Sunday, they should not be soaked in water and then put directly on the ice, but after they are drawn they should be thoroughly dried, and put in the refrigerator, but not in the ice chamber. In this way they will keep perfectly sweet. One careful housewife not only keeps charcoal in her icebox, but has some extra small pieces which she puts inside the carcasses of the chickens she wants to keep for a day or two.

Fish is very hard to keep, and should always be used the day it is purchased. An interesting warning was noticed not long ago against fish being packed in artificial ice, as the ammonia used in its manufacture is liable to create ptomaine in the fish.

DISGUISE THAT MUTTON FLAVOR

EASY TO GET RID OF SOMEWHAT OBJECTIONABLE TASTE.

Some persons like the characteristic flavor of mutton and some don't. Men generally like such "gamey" flavors more than women. The mutton taste, at any rate, is a valuable asset in making palatable soups and broths. And any one who dislikes it in the meat as ordinarily cooked and served can easily get rid of it. For mutton not only yields up its flavor easily, but it readily absorbs other flavors and odors which replace or disguise its original savor.

The flavor of this meat has its origin in the fat. It is caused by a volatile fatty acid, which mostly evaporates in cooking. A little vinegar or lemon juice in the cooking water will help to eliminate it and leave a pleasant flavor. In some countries it is customary to soak the meat in highly-spiced vinegar and water for a day or two before boiling or roasting. This not only gives the meat an appetising taste, but "keeps" it longer, for vinegar and spices are preservatives.

The habit of using acids or acid fruits and vegetables in the preparation of mutton is widespread. Currant jelly or mint sauce is commonly served with the meat. In some countries sour apples are often cooked with it or a few drops of lemon juice added to each slice before serving.

Chicken En Casserole

Purchase a chicken about one year old; dress as for baking, place in casserole. Place around this one good sized cup of finely chopped carrots, a small chopped turnip, about three small onions cut up small, two bay leaves and two or three pieces of celery. Pour in about three cups of hot stock. Place cover and put in hot oven for an hour and a half. Baste frequently and after in the oven for half hour season with salt and pepper. When done, sufficient liquor will remain to make rich brown gravy.

FOR SALE OR TO RENT—100 acres of first-class land, situated in the Township of Dummer. All workable land, containing a comfortable house, with bank barn, driving shed, and all necessary outbuildings. We would sell this farm on easy payments or will rent it with the option of buying same.

FOR SALE OR TO RENT—150 acres of choice farm land situated in the Township of Smith, in a very nice locality. This farm has a very comfortable brick house, with a new bank barn and drive shed. Land is all under cultivation with about 82 acres of timber. Owner will rent said farm at $400.00 per year.

FOR SALE OR TO RENT—10 acres of choice land, situated on the outskirts of the city, containing a house which could be made very comfortable, and ten acres of the best land. This place is only about ten minutes walk from the car line and factories. Would make a good place for a market gardener.

FOR RENT—Two and one-half storey red brick house, having all modern improvements; situated in a very choice locality. There is a large stable, with hen house, and a big garden. This house can be rented at $15.00 per month, a very low rent considering locality and class of house.

SPORTING NEWS

FLEET AND WEIGHTY KINGSTON JUNIORS WIN OVER THE PETES

Locals Held on for Two Periods in Hard and Nerve-Straining Battle.

VISITORS FOUR GOALS IN FRONT

After holding the fleet-footed Kingstonians for two periods of the semi-final game last night, the Petes faded in the third session and had to be content with the small end of the score, which at the conclusion of the contest stood 6 to 2. The 1,000 or more fans saw a game that kept them looking all the time, and even when the visitors were piling up a victory in the third period, the Petes spurted enough to let the Kingston lads know they were in a real battle.

The game will go down in hockey history as one of the hardest fought games on local ice. Only two scores were registered in the first two periods, Kingston netting a tally in the initial twenty minutes and the Petes getting it back in the last minute of the second period, Stinson doing the honors for Kingston and Montgomery evening up for the locals. Not in years has there been such a game in junior ranks with the display of speed, checking and rushing handed out by the warriors last night.

And throughout the mad pace, in an effort to land goals, it was Cherrett and Montgomery who stood out prominently for the Petes. To Cherrett is due a large amount of credit for the defensive work that held the Kingston lads in check for two periods of the contest. Freddie Graham did not put up the argument expected of him, due largely to the fact that in playing the boards he was bumped repeatedly, the visitors giving him all kinds of attention.

Kingston has a tidy junior team. Every man is a fast skater, a hard checker; the team showed inside hockey—something the Petes lacked. In Stinson, who works at centre, the visitors have a star performer who directs the play and sets a good example by his own effective and untiring work. The forward line works smoothly and is well backed by the defence.

It was Stinson who went through for the first tally. Getting the puck above centre ice, he wiggled through only to have his shot blocked by Murray, but in a scrimmage that followed he batted the rubber into the netting. He figured largely in the scoring of the third period, getting a brace himself.

Montgomery got a great hand when he tied the score. He had been rushing all night without success. Finally, taking the puck from his position, he speeded down the ice and shot from outside the Kingston defence. The rubber travelled a foot above the ice and fooled Walsh completely.

Bartley tallied the Petes' second goal when he batted the disc into the netting from a scramble around the nets after a shot on a combination play had been turned aside. It heartened the locals, but the going had been too heavy, and they were unable to withstand the aggressive play of the opposition.

The teams:

Kingston — Goal, Walsh; defence, Evans and Hall; rover, Elmer; centre, Stinson; wings, Sewell and Grattan.

Peterborough — Goal, Murray; defence, Montgomery and McIntyre; rover, Cherrett; centre, Bartley; wings, Graham and McFee.

THOS. BRIGHTMAN ELECTED PRESIDENT FOR LAWN BOWLERS WALTER OKE NEW SECRETARY

A representative meeting of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club met last night in Mr. Fitzgerald's office. The financial secretary read a very favorable report of the results of the year.

Mr. T. Brightman, a past president, who had so ably guided the fortunes of the club during a former term, was the recipient of many eulogistic remarks. When his name was placed before the meeting as candidate for presidency he was unanimously elected amid great applause.

A vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. Mayneoord for the able manner in which he had performed the duties of his office. To Mr. Mayneord in a very large manner is due the wonderful success of the operations of the past year, during which the club's financial standing was raised from a deficit of $230 to a clear sheet. Mr. Mayneord replied to the vote of thanks in his usual happy style.

After a most pleasant evening the meeting adjourned to meet at the call of the new president, who will then lay before the club his plan of campaign for the coming season.

Humor and Philosophy

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

HE is a friend indeed who assures your wife that you were just called out when she finds you not in your proper place at the office.

Don't tell all you know. It may leave you with lots of time on your hands.

A bird in the hand is worth $35 and costs if it is in the closed season.

Don't ask a woman's age. She might tell you and thus destroy a time honored illusion.

Never kick a man when he is down. He may be able to come back.

Embarrassing.

"I don't like rich friends."

"No?"

"I should say not!"

"Why?"

"They never remember to pay back the money they borrow of you."

Left No Surplus.

"Oh, come!"

"What?"

"Be a good fellow."

"Can't."

"Why?"

"Groceries are too high."

Trained Eye.

The waiter sees a tipless man
Who vows he will not fee him,
And then a miracle occurs—
The waiter does not see him.

No Change of Program.

"What tune was that you were playing?"

"Why, that was 'The Sweet By and By.' Don't you remember that old familiar air?"

"Yes. I know that was what you called it when you played it yesterday, but I didn't know but what you were calling it something else today for a change."

Wanted Help.

"I have always had an ambition to turn a hand organ on the street," said the sprightly young women.

"How odd!" observed the case devouring dude.

"It is a fact, though, and I have always wanted you to go along as monkey."

GIFTS TO EMPIRE

People Send Money for Treasury of Britain.

The war has created a new kind of citizen hitherto unknown to the British Treasury. He does not lend his money to the State—he gives it. This new citizen is sometimes a man, sometimes a woman, sometimes a child. He lives in all parts of the Empire and in all parts of the world.

Merely to name the places from which these contributions come would be a lesson in geography. There is romance in the sound of Sandakan, and surely it was romance that moved a firm in Sandakan to send £500 ($2,500) to the Chancellor of the Exchequer with this message:

"In this territory we contribute nothing toward the imperial finances, while at the same time we enjoy all the benefits of British protection. We are therefore anxious to have a share, however small, in the financial burden which our fellow countrymen have to bear at the present time, and by disposing of the above sum for us you will be assisting us to discharge a welcome duty."

From Canada a man sends a cheque for $1,000 "to cover moneys received by me when a student at Keyham" nearly 50 years ago.

From Saskatchewan an old man sends a check for £20 ($100) "to help us beat the Kaiser," whom he portrays as "a compound of Nero, Judas, and Ananias." He remarks that "it is a small thing to invest in a war loan and draw a dividend when brave men are laying down their lives." He begs the Chancellor to print notes or stamps for those who prefer giving to lending.

Many of these cheerful givers are old men. Some of them are poor. One of them writes:

"I see plenty about lending money to our country, but so far nothing about giving it. So here goes for a start—10s ($2.40) from an old man whose income is 30s ($7.20) per week; and I hope to be able to send some more later on. This is mine own, as I have no debts. I want no coupons. Yours,

"SEVENTY YEARS OF AGE."

Even the children's mite tinkles in the Treasury romances. It is classified "Gifts from children toward war funds." Schools club together to pour their pence into the war chest. But the children sometimes scrape together their own savings and send them to the Chancellor of the Exchequer with a letter painfully written in nursery hand. Here is one:

"I am sending you one shilling (24 cents) out of my pocket money to help to pay for the war. Daddy says you are collecting for it. I am seven years old and I have two uncles fighting."

And here is daddy's footnote:

"This is entirely her own idea. Her one regret is that it is so little, but it has cleared out her money box. Please don't return it, whatever you do, or you will give great offence."

Some Characteristics.

"Willie, do you know the domestic birds?"

"Yes, ma'am."

"Name one."

"The mule."

"No, no; the mule isn't a bird."

"Our hired man says our mule is."

Works Both Ways.

It's the little piled on little
That a fortune makes, and yet
Piling up the little driblets
Is what runs us into debt.

Too Apt to Break Out.

"Do you know Miss Fleighty?"

"Yes; she lives in the flat above me."

"She is a great singer in her mind."

"In her mind! Gracious, I wish she would keep more of her singing there."

PROBLEMS IN MANNERS AS FACED BY MERE MAN

There is an evil under the sun, in connection with the proceedings of good and gentle ladies, of which the Nomad has been the victim, and of which he desires, with the fullest respect and consideration, to complain. It is this: You accompany a lady on a shopping tour, or, let us say, "just while I buy two or three little things." The lady enters a store, where many other persons of her sex are engaged upon similar errands. Many women are flitting or standing about, as the case may be. Through the maze of skirts the lady whom you are accompanying, that is, are following, threads her way with amazing speed. What she does with her elbows we will not venture to say; over that let a veil be drawn. But one thing is certain, it is impossible for a man to keep up with her unless he knocks persons of the opposite sex to right and left; and being a man, that is precisely what he cannot do. The result is that you fall far behind the lady whom you are supposed to be accompanying; you lose sight of her altogether; and if by any chance you succeed in re-establishing the connection with her at the side of some counter where she is making her purchase, she says coolly to you, "Why, what became of you? Did you find some pleasant interest on the way?" What the Nomad wishes to know is, what does politeness require that a man shall do under such circumstances? For the sake of his obligation to the lady whom he is accompanying, must he jostle and displace all other women who cross his path? Or does the obligation to treat all women with courtesy excuse him for letting this lady pass out of his reach?

The question is really the old one whether a man's paramount duty of courtesy is to the individual woman or to the entire sex. The two obligations not infrequently conflict. You are seated in a car by the side of the lady whom you are accompanying. You are her cavalier. Everything on earth is supposed to yield to that consideration. You are in conversation with her, and she expects you to keep up the conversation. All the seats in the car are occupied. Enter now a woman of gentle mien, who stands in front of or near you. Now what are you going to do? Give up your seat out of politeness to the lady who is standing, or keep it out of consideration to the lady whom you are escorting? Most men's inclination is to give up the seat and stand. But that is not the feminine idea of the man's duty. The cavalier is not all women's cavalier, but a particular woman's cavalier. Try it and see if it does not work out that way.

Useless Information.

He knew just how to sail a boat
And how to drive a trotter.
If any scheme was to be worked
He was the little plotter.
Advice on every puzzling point
He was quite free in giving—
In fact, he knew most anything
But how to make a living.

He knew which roads about the town
Were smooth and which were hilly.
He knew what stockings were in style.
Now, doesn't that seem silly?
And he could juggle a cravat
To make it fit the collar,
For he was wise to everything
But how to grab a dollar.

He knew how oysters should be fried,
How chickens should be basted.
Could tell you the ingredients
Of everything he tasted.
Crocheting, knitting and all that
He knew the latest stitches.
Was handy man at everything
But getting next to riches.

Bad acting plumbing he could fix
Or mend a chair or table.
A broken window pane reset
And stop leaks in the gable.
His mind a storehouse was of facts.
Now, doesn't it seem funny
That while he knew so very much
He couldn't get the money?

Covered His Trail.

"Uncle Rastus, somebody has been stealing my chickens."

"Dat's too bad, too bad. Dey is powerful nice chickens too."

"But I suspect you."

"Well, Mr. Blackstone, you can't hurt my feelings dat way so long as you can't prove it."

"But I can prove it, you old rascal."

"I'd like to know how you goin' to do dat. I done eat 'em all up and burned-de feathers, suh."

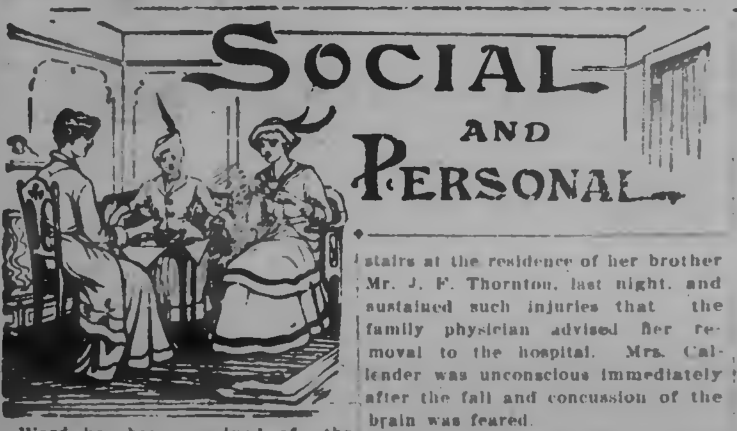
SOCIAL AND PERSONAL



Word has been received of the safe arrival of Mrs. John Maloney at Green Coove, Florida, where she will spend the remainder of the winter. Her Peterborough friends have received sprays of orange blossoms and eglantine, which suggest a summer climate and recall poetical allusions to these beautiful flowers.

Miss Ida Sanderson, organist of Murray St. Baptist Church, went to Toronto today to attend the Mendelssohn Choir concert.

The February meeting of the Local Council of Women has been unavoidably postponed from Thursday afternoon of this week until Thursday, February 15th.

Reeve Fowlds of Hastings was in the city today with the joint committee of Northumberland and Durham re Wallace Point Bridge.

Mrs. Duncan Walker, Miss Morrow and Miss Laura Davidson left yesterday for Atlantic City, where they will spend a few weeks.

Mrs. Callender fell down the stairs at the residence of her brother Mr. J. F. Thornton, last night, and sustained such injuries that the family physician advised her removal to the hospital. Mrs. Callender was unconscious immediately after the fall and concussion of the brain was feared.

ACTIVITIES CARRIED ON BY PETER ROBINSON CHAPTER I.O.D.E.

Following are the reports on the year's work of the Peter Robinson Chapter, I.O.D.E., as given at the annual meeting of the Otonabee Chapter, I.O.D.E.:

Miss Georgie Stevenson, Regent of the Peter Robinson Chapter, I.O.D.E., read the following report:

The Peter Robinson Chapter, I.O.D.E., has now been in existence 15 months. Properly speaking, this is then our first annual meeting, and I would like to say a few words about the aims and objects of the order, what we have accomplished and the possibilities that lie before us. First I would draw your attention to the pledge which all members assume:

"Memoers are pledged to promote unity between the Motherland, the sister colonies and themselves; to promote loyalty to King and country; to forward every good work for the betterment of their country and people; to assist in the progress of art and literature, to draw women's influence to the bettering of all things connected with our great Empire, and to instill into the youth of our country patriotism in its fullest sense."

Coming into existence as we did during the war our energies and attentions have been directed to war work, and this is as it should be.

The objects for which we have raised money during the past year were the 93rd Batt. and the prisoners of war.

The 93rd Batt. have gone to France to reinforce the men who have been holding the line for two and a half years. Many casualties have been reported in their ranks and I feel that some recognition should be sent from this Chapter to the friends of those brave men who have given their lives that we may enjoy unmolested freedom, perhaps a note of sympathy to mother or wife to show our appreciation.

We were very proud of our 93rd; we should be no less proud of our 247th nor less interested. We should endeavor to assist Col. Ackerman to fill the ranks. It is not always easy for a man to sign up, but our personal interest, influence and appreciation may do much to help.

Our prisoners of war though in Germany, are in our keeping. If we do not care for them they starve. They are realizing as we never can what home and freedom really mean, realizing it under the stern masters of exile and imprisonment. We must never fail to provide for these men we have pledged ourselves to keep. At first $2.50 per month kept a man, but now approximately $10 per month is required. This means constant effort on our part for we are pledged for four prisoners. In raising money for these various objects we have met with the most cordial support of the public.

Our parent Chapter, the Otonabee, has always supported us most loyally and we feel most of our success is due not only to the general interest of the Chapter, but also to the interest of the individual members, and I would like to express our very sincere appreciation of this. We hope that in the years to come we may give such a good account of ourselves that the Otonabee Chapter may feel proud of their daughter.

Now the pledge of our order calls for more than raising money. We are called upon to forward every good work for the betterment of things connected with our Empire and to instill true patriotism into the youth of our country. It is for us now, both individually and collectively to ask ourselves if we are keeping true to our pledge and to determine that during the coming year we formulate some plan to make this part of our work more effective.

The Local Council of Women, of which we are now an integral part, are asking that all affiliated societies take up the slogan of thrift. This chapter might very profitably carry on this idea; also something might be done among the children. These are but suggestions.

Before closing these remarks I would like to pay a tribute to our former Regent, Miss Jean Harstone, who had the energy and ability to undertake the forming of this Chapter and launch it on the high road to success. We owe her a debt of gratitude in that she opened up this opportunity for us to learn in some degree to live and work for others and through this work to realize the duty of self-sacrifice for our country, and that we may not be ashamed on the day of peace when our men return.

Secretary's Report

The first annual report of the Peter Robinson Chapter, I.O.D.E., includes the months of October, November, 1915, and January, 1916. is owing to the short organization of the Chapter no report was given in February last.

A meeting was held Oct. 25 to organize the junior branch of the Otonabee Chapter of the I.O.D.E. Miss Jean Harstone presided. The following officers were elected:—

Regent—Miss Jean Harstone.
Vice-Regent—Mrs. R. Widdifield
Secretary—Miss Hatton
Treasurer—Miss A. Hill
Standard Bearer—Miss Cumming

We applied for our charter under the name of the Peter Robinson Chapter and adopted as a motto "Do noble things, not dream them all day long."

During our year fifteen general meetings and four executive meetings were held. There was a membership of 50 and the meetings were well attended.

The Chapter supplied ushers and assisted at various patriotic entertainments. Twenty-five kit bags were made during the winter of 1916; sugical supplies were made in the Red Cross rooms.

Field Day, May 24, the Chapter cooperated with the other Chapters for the benefit of the 93rd Batt.

We assisted at a crisco demonstration at which our first money was earned.

In March a table coth donated by Mrs. Crane was raffled; the proceeds of which were very gratifying.

At the request of the Otonabee Chapter we undertook a booth at the midsummer fete.

A tea and salt of cake was held at the golf links.

The profits from several small teas held in the Public Library enable us to send Serg. Field, a prisoner of war, reading matter monthly.

The Chapter assisted the Otonabee and 57th Chapters at a Paardeburg tea, the profits of which were shared.

The sum of $94 was realized at a waxworks entertainment. With this money, at Col. Johnston's request, tables for the 93rd Batt. were bought.

Our Regent left us in March last for overseas duties, and we regret the loss of her valuable services. Miss Georgie Stevenson was made Regent in her stead.

Miss Saunders came from Toronto in June and addressed a meeting on the League of Honor.

Four prisoners, at a cost of $28 per month, are supported by the Chapter.

Owing to Dr. F. L. Robinson's kindness and generosity the Chapter made on Oct. 18, from the Empire Theatre, the sum of $45, and this was applied to the expenses of the prisoners of war.

As still more money was required for the upkeep of the prisoners, Mr. Graham having offered the use of the Empress Grill Room for the purpose of holding teas, arrangements were made and advantage was taken of his generosity.

The Chapter wish to extend their thanks to the Otonabee Chapter for colors; Mr. Graham for tea, coffee, and sugar on the opening day; Mr. Percy Hooper for urns, and Mr. W. I. Hamilton for donations of tea, coffee and sugar.

In November a motion was carried to the affect that we affiliate with the National Council of Women.

W. C. Hatton,
Secretary.

ANNOUNCEMENT

BY ROBT. HICKS CO., LTD., COAL DEALERS.

Since we have been compelled to buy independent (or jobbers) coal in an endeavor to solve the problem of coal supply for the city, it will be well for our customers to note that where we were formerly distributing D. L. & W. coal altogether, for the next two weeks our supply will be in the proportion of 50 per cent. D. L. & W. and 50 per cent. of the best coal procurable from other sources.

We advise customers to buy only for present requirements.

We make this announcement in fairness to the D. L. & W. Coal Co., and to retain the confidence of our customers, in an endeavor to relieve a difficult situation in this city.

King Opens Third War Parliament

U.S. Would Send American Liner Through Blockade Zone Without Convoy

THREATS SERVE TO STEEL BRITAIN'S DETERMINATION

King's Speech at the Opening of Parliament.

Overtures by Foe no Possible Basis of Peace.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

LONDON, Feb. 7. — King George, in opening Parliament today, said: "For the third time in succession I summon you to your deliberations in the midst of war. Certain overtures, of which you are aware, have been made by the enemy with a view to opening peace negotiations. Their tenor, however, indicated no possible basis of peace. My people throughout the Empire, and my faithful and heroic allies, remain steadfastly and unanimously resolved to secure just demands for reparation and restriction in respect of the past and guarantees for the future, which we regard as essential to the progress of civilization.

"In response to an invitation by the President of the United States, we have outlined, so far as can be done at present, the general objects necessarily implied by these aims. Threats of further outrages upon public order and common rights of humanity only serve to steel our determination."

Standard Hotel Licenses Ready

License Inspector Joseph Stewart has received the application blanks for the 1917-18 standard hotel licenses. Anyone interested can have one by calling at the inspector's office.

There will be a few changes in the license holders in Peterborough. Gus White will be the applicant for the White House permit, and it is understood that Mr. J. B. Larocque will take over the Grand Hotel, lately vacated by Mr. Carl Schmuck.

DANES CANNOT FOLLOW PATH OF UNITED STATES

REPRESENTATIVES OF THE SCANDINAVIAN COUNTRIES TO CONVENE.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

COPENHAGEN, Feb. 7 — It is stated in reliable quarters that the Danish Government has decided that it cannot follow the example of the United States in breaking relations with Germany. A note will be sent to Washington explaining the position of Denmark and calling attention to the fact that a conference between representatives of the three Scandinavian countries is to be held at Stockholm.

TWO PRISONERS REPORTED.

LONDON, Feb. 7. — Canadian prisoners reported to the Red Cross: 472495, W. J. Mabey; 177172, J. Payne. Lieut. D. W. Davis is attached to the flying corps.

KING GEORGE, WHO OPENED PARLIAMENT TODAY.

ENLISTING IS HINDERED BY GROSS MISTATEMENT

Liberal Criticism in Parliament Does More Harm Than All Blunders Made by Government

OTTAWA, Feb. 7.— Hon. A. E. Kemp, Minister of Militia and Defence, said in Parliament that many men had recruited regiments with great success who were not qualified to go to the front and never intended to go, but who had none the less performed a great public service by getting men to enlist. We could only send over a limited number of troops every month because the British Admiralty had only a limited number of ships to carry them and the British War Office had only a limited number of huts in which to house them. Still they were going forward at the rate of about 8,000 a month, and in the spring the various battalions would be consolidated and soldiers sent over in large numbers.

Slurs on Officers

Col. D. J. Taylor (New Westminster) resented the slurs cast upon officers like himself, who had spent a great deal of time and money recruiting regiments had taken them to England, but from age or some other reason had been disqualified from taking command at the front. The criticisms of the Opposition at this session of Parliament, he said, had done more to hinder recruiting than all the blunders of the Government. The Opposition headquarters had been the source from which poisonous gases had been sent broadcast over the country.

This brought Hon. George P. Graham to his feet with an indignant denial that the Liberals were less patriotic than the Conservatives.

More Falsehoods

Dr. Edwards (Frontenac) said that Mr. Graham by his presence on the platform at Toronto had countenanced the mendacious statements made by Hartley H. Dewart, K.C., respecting the exportation of nickel. He severely criticied Mr. Turriff's denunciation of the Ross rifle. Only yesterday, Dr. Edwards continued, the chief Liberal whip, Mr. Pardee, had given circulation to a newspaper story that a returned soldier had passed through Canada so poorly clad that his hands and feet were frozen. Fortunately he had given the name of the man, and the Soldiers' Aid Association at Windsor, Ont., where the returned soldier lived, had branded the story as a falsehood.

No Chance for Dr. Beland

Hon. C. J. Doherty, Minister of Justice, told the House that there seemed little prospect of obtaining the release or exchange of Hon. Dr. S. Beland, formerly Postmaster-General in the Laurier Administration, and now a prisoner of war in Germany.

Returned Soldiers

Sir Robert Borden announced that a committee of nine members will be appointed to care for returned soldiers. Sir Wilfrid Laurier has been asked to name four members of this committee.

Premier Borden also intimated his desire to have a committee of nine members appointed to co-operate with a committee from the Senate in making arrangements for the celebration of the jubilee of Confederation.

VICTORIA COUNTY COUNCIL GRANT $6,000 FOR SAILORS.

The county council of Victoria County at their last meeting in January voted $6000 to the British Sailors' Relief Fund.

NINE VESSELS SUNK BY SUBS

TWO WERE TRAWLERS AND TWO OTHERS FISHING BOATS.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

LONDON, Feb. 7.—Lloyds' today says: The British steamer Saxon-Briton has been sunk by a submarine and two members of the crew were killed.

The British steamer Azul has probably been sunk.

The British steamers Vestra, Crown Point, and the British barque Lorton, two British steam trawlers and two fishing boats have been sunk.

Two lives were lost with the Wartenfels, reported sunk yesterday.

FARMERS DEAL IN SHORTHORNS

FRANK SCOLLARD BUYS REGISTERED STOCK FROM A. B. MANN.

Mr. Frank Scollard of Ennismore has purchased from Mr. A. B. Mann of Smith two registered shorthorns, one a heifer rising three years old and the other a roan cow. These animals should go a long way in improving the fine herd which Mr. Scollard already owns.

Mr. Mann has purchased a Scotch shorthorn bull from Mr. David Christie, the well-known stockman of Ancaster. This animal when a junior yearling, won third place in a class of 17 at the Toronto Exhibition.

GERMANS DRIVEN OUT OF TRENCHES THEY REACHED

NO CONVOY FOR THE ST. LOUIS IF LINER SAILS

U. S. TAKES STAND THAT THE SUB. BLOCKADE IS ILLEGAL.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7—The American liner St. Louis will not be given a convoy if she decides to sail for England through the German submarine zone it was announced at the State Department today. The Government is clinging to the policy that Americans have an inalienable right to traverse the high seas, that the German submarine blockade is entirely illegal and any sinking of American ships in contravention of the law would immediately lead to hostilities.

Andrew Robinson Is Elected Master

JOHN SPENCE, DEPUTY FOR COUNTY ORANGEMEN.

The County Lodge, L. O. L., met yesterday afternoon and evening and transacted the usual business. Bro. Andrew Robinson was elected County Master, and Bro. John Spence of Peterborough, Deputy County Master.

Of Toronto, who underwent an operation at Johns-Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, f.r internal trouble. It is stated that his condition is not serious.

PETERBORO' IN FINALS

Win by Two Shots After Extra End in Semi-Finals.

Peterborough rinks won the semi-final game with Queen City rinks this afternoon at Toronto, by 2 shots in an extra end.

The local rinks had to come from behind to emerge with a victory as with four ends still to be played Queen City rinks were up five shots, the score being: Queen City, 30; Peterborough 25.

The final will be played tonight.

French Re-establish Their Line and Have Success in Raids

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

PARIS, Feb. 7. — (Official.)— In Lorraine district after a spirited bombardment in the vicinity of Embermenil, German forces yesterday attacked a salient of our lines. A counter-attack followed immediately and the enemy was driven out of advanced positions where he had secured a footing. Our line was entirely re-established.

We have taken some prisoners in the forest of Parroy to the south of Gremecey and in Domevre sector.

On the right bank of the River Meuse, in the corsue of the night we conducted successfully several raids which brought us in about 20 prisoners.

In Upper Alsace an enemy attack in the region of Seppois was completely checked by our fire.

During the day of Feb. 6 three enemy airplanes were brought down by French pilots.

German airplanes yesterday threw down several bombs on Dunkirk. No one was injured and no damage resulted.

NO TRACE OF MR. F. J. MIGHT

No trace of Mr. F. J. Might, who disappeared from his home Sunday morning has been found. Citizens generally may not understand that the circulation of reports hinders the search being carried on by relatives and the police.

PERUVIAN SHIP SUNK IN SPANISH WATERS

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

LONDON, Feb. 7. — The Peruvian sailing vessel Lorton was sunk by a German submarine on Monday inside Spanish waters, according to a British official statement.

ORDERS TO CANADIAN COMMAND IN ENGLAND

Trade or Usual Civilian Occupation of Canadian Soldiers for After-War Purposes

LONDON, Feb. 7 —Orders have been given among the Canadian command for each man's trade or usual civilian occupation to be entered in the pay book with a view of placing him in employment after the war. No soldier will in future be allowed to embark for Canada for any purpose unless he is free from infectious or venereal disease.

Further orders have issued that all officers proceeding to France shall have instruction in anti-gas measures.

The Returned Soldiers Club held a meeting in Victoria Hall last night and arranged for a room in the building. All that is necessary in order to have a headquarters is to furnish the room with a table, a few chairs, a couch and some decorations. The club is appealing to their friends to assist them by sending whatever equipment they can. Any citizens who desire to help in the furnishing will please notify the president, Sergt. Victor, or Sergt. Cooper, who has been asked to fill the office of secretary. Phone 933.

The club will hold a meeting tomorrow evening to arrange several matters of vital interest to the members. It is urged that all be present.

The proprietor of the Tis-It Theatre will give the use of the theatre to the club any Thursday afternoon to assit the club funds.

Pte. Herb. Nicholls sends a letter to his mother, Mrs. Maud Nicholls, to thank the ladies of Knox Church for a box sent to him.

Major C. E. Long, of Ottawa, home on furlough after months with the first contingent divisional ammunition column in France, said that the Canadian boys were doing great work. Out of the entire first Canadian contingent only 21 men fell victims of typhoid. He said that there are no more "trench feet," as the men are being supplied with long waterproof boots.

Two recruits have been taken on the strength of the 247th since yesterday. They are Pte. H. Pilgrim, of Peterborough, and Pte. Daniel H. Gunter, of Coe Hill.

Lieut. T. W. Quinn has returned from Kingston, where he has taken a course in the I. S. of I.

Acting Sergt. I. W. Jones has been appointed sergeant provisionally, according to today's orders.

BLOCKADE IF EFFECTIVE WOULD CLOSE HIGH SEAS

Brazilian Note Points Out Such Situation Could Not be Permitted

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

RIO DE JANEIRO, Feb. 7. — Brazil's reply to the German declaration of unrestricted submarine warfare has been despatched to the Brazilian minister at Berlin, according to an opcial announcement.

Authoritative information states that the Brazilian note protests against the violation of international law nvolved in the submarine blockade, and points ont that such a blokcade could, if effective, close the entire high seas, a situation which could not be permitted.

GERARD SENDS WORD FROM BERNE.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7. — Ambassador Willard at Madrid, reported to the State Department today that he had received a despatch from Ambassador Gerard, sent from Berne, Switzerland.

GERMAN INTERESTS TAKEN OVER BY SWISS.

LONDON, Feb. 7. — Switzerland has taken over German interests in Great Britain. The Swiss minister today informed Ambassador Page, whom he met at the opening of Parliament, that he had received instructions to this effect.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7. — Minister Ritter of Switzerland today was instructed by his Government to take over German diplomatic interests in the United States, including the German embassy here and twelve consulates throughout the country.

PARIS, Feb. 7. — A Havas despatch from Barcelona, Spain, says that Ambassador Gerard will sail from that port for the United States on a Spanish transatlantic liner.

PETERBOROUGH, WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 7, 1917

A FLASH IN THE PAN.

THE QUESTION of whether or not potatoes are being shipped to the United States or Cuba is not worth discussing, as the story is improbable on the face of it. With considerable heat the Examiner reaffirms its asesrtion of a few days ago and naively enough betrays the fact that it has again been deluded by the big party organ in Toronto. The Globe can hardly be regarded as an infallible authority on trade matters. That was the rock upon which it led its party to its destruction five years ago.

Why should any sane dealer send potatoes from Canada to the United States when they sell for less there than they bring at home, leaving the freight and the ten per cent. duty out of the consideration altogether? Why, especially, should potatoes be sent from anywhere to Cuba at a time when the islanders are harvesting their crop and exporting heavily?

The market reports in Chicago show that Michigan potatoes, of the same grade as those from Canada, are selling at $2 a bushel. That market offers no inducements to tempt the enterprise of the Canadiain dealer.

The Examiner hypocritically declares that with it the good of the public rather than that of the party is paramount. Its record is against it. Its one mission in life is to retrieve the shattered fortunes of the party that perished in 1911. It accomplishes little in this regard with its potato and similar arguments, but rather tends to make its prestige ridichlous in the eyes of the world.

It serves the public indifferently, too, when it fills the people with false alarms by spreading the rumor that while food supplies are scarce provisions are being smuggled out of the country. Another false alarm is that there are in the Government traitors to the Empire who are doing all in their power to hinder the cause of the Empire. A falsehood is a falsehood, whether it deals with potatoes or treason in high places.

The man who makes a habit of crying "wolf" is considerable of a nuisance. The citizen who routs his neighbors out of bed with a false alarm of fire on the plea that he is solicitous for their welfare and aims to develop their vigilance is not as a rule regarded as a public benefactor.

THE ROSS RIFLE.

HON. CHARLES MURPHY, who was Secretary of State in the Laurier Cabinet, has introduced a resolution in the House with regard to the Ross rifle, which, if adopted, would mean a vote of censure upon the Government and necessitate its resignation. A long debate on the subject was held the other day

The overseas troops, it seems, are not to be equipped with this style of weapon, but are to be supplied with Lee-Enfield, the style used by the British soldiers. Certain army experts have, it seems, dcided that the weapon was not suitable for field service, and it was decided to replace it. The debate has brought out the following points:

That as early as March 30, 1916, the Borden Government took active steps to replace the Ross with the Lee-Enfield, but was confronted with the fact that no other rifle could be secured.

That no report reflecting upon or condemning the Ross rifle was ever made to the Government by General Alderson.

That Sir John French stated in a communication to the war office, three months after the battle of Ypres, that he "had never condemned the Ross rifle, nor have I sufficient data to justify me in so doing."

That between March 30, 1916, and July, 1916, Sir Robert Borden repeatedly insisted in cables to Sir William Robertson, chief of the British General Staff, and Sir Douglas Haig, British commander in France, that a thorough test be made of the Ross rifle, to be followed by an authoritative statement as to its merits.

That when finally a report was made by Sir Douglas Haig it was stated that tests of the Ross determined that it "was less trustworthy than the Lee-Enfield."

The Canadian Governmen has a contract with the Ross Rifle Company, and this agreement cannot be changed or terminated without a year's notice. It would require two years to change the plant in the factory so as to manufacture the Lee-Enfield rifle. The estimates for this year contain a sum of $2,600,000 for the purchase of Ross rifles, the number the Government is bound under the contract to purchase. These weapons will be used not in the overseas service, but will be reserved, as Premier Borden so significantly stated, for "warfare under different conditions." Public welfare forbade any more explicit explanation.

The British thought so well of the Ross rifle at the beginning of the war, that they placed a heavy order for it in Canada for their own troops. This order was subsequently cancelled when it was found that the available ammunition was not suitable. The only objection to the rifle outside of the ammunition problem seems to have been that it was too delicate in construction for rough service.

It must always be borne in mind that the Ross rifle and the contract for its manufacture were inherited by the Government from its predecessors in office.

AN OPEN CONFESSION.

"THE EXAMINER hasn't a divine commission to regenerate its party," says our contemporary with characteristic modesty and rather unwonted candor.

Our neighbor is to be congratulated. While we never for a moment imagined that it was divinely inspired we always were under the impression that as a human agency only it was engaged in the hopeless task which it now disclaims. Attempting to regenerate a party long since past redemption would certainly be a work from which any newspaper may be glad to be relieved.

TRADE AFTER THE WAR.

SPEAKING IN Brockville the other night, Senator Lynch-Staunton of Hamilton said that when the war is over the different parts of the British Empire will have to form a trade compact against every other country in the world. The Dominions must be given preference in the markets of Britain, and in return British goods must have right of way in the Dominions.

As a free trade country, Britain, we have often been told, has come to the parting of the ways. Some form of protection must be adopted. If the working classes who have been so loyally devoted to the cause and who have made so many sacrifices in the war, are to receive anything like adequate compensation for their services, their social conditions must be improved. They are entitled to the same privileges as are enjoyed by those of the same class in other countries. Protection will benefit them as it would no other members of the community. England can outsell the United States in the latter's own market so long as the English workers are paid starvation wages in the manufacture of competing products. The wealthy classes are content to buy in the cheapest and sell in the dearest market. It is the workers who are the real sufferers by free trade. They will never be on the same footing as workers in other countries until their nation adopts a new fiscal policy and gives them a fair chance to earn a living. Commercial supremacy should not be attained at the expense of the masses.

A SENSIBLE VIEW.

UNDER THE ABOVE heading the Ottawa Citizen says editorially:

> The bishops of Ontario seem to have cleared up the bilingual situation in a few hours. But it will be noticed that the pastoral letter calls for an exercise of calmness and charity on both sides. The document is one that might be read with profit by all, including those not interested in the bilingual controversy. The rights of the minority, the pastoral points out, are protected, while the impartiality and fairness of the government is also dwelt upon. On the other hand, a plea is made for a sympathetic consideration of the claims of the controversialists on the other side in their efforts to establish schools within the law. The document is virtually an affirmation of the position taken by the government, so far as the legality of that position is concerned. The law is quoted and all are counselled to obey it. That is an attitude which must commend itself. The result, we are confident, will be the disappearance of the bilingual question from the sphere into which it has been thrust as much by one side as the other.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

LEAVE IT TO the Toronto Star, and none but the plutocrats are qualified to govern a nation.

• • • •

NOW THAT THE BILLS for the Davis murder trial are in, Lindsay probably realises that even the price of fame is high.

• • • •

CANNOT the Opposition see what is implied in that phrase of Premier Borden, "warfare under different conditions?"

• • • •

IT IS CERTAINLY significant that so many of the policies of the Laurier Administration rise up these days to condemn them.

• • • •

THERE IS TALK of Sir Sam Hughes entering the military service of the Americans but is there room for him and Col. Roosevelt?

• • • •

THE BILINGUAL ISSUE is now removed from the political arena. For this and all similar blessings let us be truly thankful.

• • • •

IF THERE IS an exodus of eligible men to the United States, what plan does The Examiner suggest for policing four thousand miles of border line?

• • • •

THE FACT THAT German capitalists were interested in the manufacture of Lee-Enfield rifles in Enginad when the war broke out was one reason for the adoption of the Ross weapon.

OPINIONS OF OTHER EDITORS.

Conductors Come Higher.

(Grand Rapids News.)

An Oklahoma girl has sued a railway company for $2500 because a brakeman kissed her. How much would she have demanded if it had been the conductor?

Did Gerard Know?

(Buffalo Express.)

And did Ambassador Gerard really know that this was coming when he made that speech declaring that the relations between the United States and Germany were more friendly than at any time since the war began and would so continue while his friends Zimmerman, et al, remained in power?

An Enviable Record

(Montreal Gazette.)

John Adams, a citizen of London, Ont., who has just diel in his 89th year, took pride in the fact that during a service of 44 years as a locomotive engineer he never met with an accident. The record is a worthy one and is proof of skill and carefulness on the part of the engineer in question. It is to the credit of locomotive drivers in general that quite a few of them retire from the service after many years without the memory of a single serious accident.

The Navy's Work.

(Guelph Mercury.)

But don't let us fall into the mistake of magnifying the small things and minimising the large thing. The British fleet is simply grand in its accomplishment, in the safety it has afforded, and in the protection it has given to the whole world, neutrals included. Don't shake the record of a raider in its face, and say the navy has been snoozing. Had the navy been snoozing, every man in Canada would today be either a German prisoner or have a gun over his shoulder fighting them and the battles would be staged right here in Canada.

Unappreciated Oratory.

(Winnipeg Post.)

President Wilson is true to his own traditions. As an impertinent advice-giver he is in a class by himself. His latest outburst, made before the U. S. Senate, is merely a jumble of craven words. It is hailed by a few blatherskites in the United States as a "wonderful oration." It is received by a few soft-headed toadies in England as a "noble utterance"! By men of sense it is regarded as a frightened old lady's chatter. As a state document it will forever be regarded as a humiliation to the United States.

BELGIUM CHILDREN HUNGRY AS OLIVER TWIST EVER WAS

"The soup, the soup!" This is the whisper that spreads from child to child in the rooms of a large school in Brussels, at about eleven every morning, for all the children look forward to their soup, just as Canadian children look forward to their playtime. These Belgian children have heard the big cans of hot soup being taken from a wagon in the street. They know their food is coming and that their hunger will soon be satisfied.

That is why their whisper of "the soup, the soup" becomes louder than a murmur and the teacher is compelled to say, "Quiet, children!" A few moments pass, and then comes the order, "Attention — stand — march!" The children rise from their seats, and file out of the room, just as they have been taught in case of fire, only instead of marching out of the building they enter a large hall. There, other children, boys and girls, from other schoolrooms come, filling in to take their seats at long, low tables. They make a good deal of noise, for most of them have on heavy wooden sabots instead of boots, like the children of Holland, but when the head-teacher again cries "Attention!" they are all seated quietly in their places.

Then Belgian women, all in white dresses, pour soup—good thick soup—into bowls which are on the table, one in front of each child. It is the way of the world that the poor are usually the servants of the rich, but here in Belgium, those who once were rich and will always be Great Ladies are now proud and glad to be known as the Servants of the Poor. They are styled in Belgium "les Servants des Pauvres," but the children upon whom they wait affectionately call them "Les Anges"—The Angels.

The serving of soup throughout the schools of Belgium is only one feature of the work of the Relief Commission, who are today feeding the entire population of Belgium."

NO BOYCOTT ON THE TELEPHONE

"Now that the women have taken to boycotting the necessaries of life," said the occasional customer, "wouldn't it be hard on you if they should boycott your telephone?"

The man who keeps the drug store on the corner stopped in his work of opening another crate of chocolate chips.

"Boycott the telephone?" he asked. "No such luck. If they only would."

"What's that?" asked the occasional customer, suprised. "I thought they helped pay your 'phone bill and brought you trade."

"Say, have you ever seen what a mob of youngsters surrounds that booth when school is out for the day?" asked the drug store man. "And did you ever figure on the wear and tear on the chairs they lounge on, the magazines they read but don't buy, and the door mats they use up in frantic rushes to put slugs into my 'phone box?"

"I suppose the people of the neighborhood use your 'phone a great deal, too," continued the occasional customer in a leading tone.

"Some do and some don't," said the drug store man. "There is one who comes in every day at 5. 'Have you a 'phone I can use?' she says, and I answer, 'Yes, we still have it.' Then she calls up some one of the numerous beaux she doesn't want her mother to know anything about, and talks low for fear I'll hear what she says. All the time she looks over the transmitter at me, and when I think she is smiling at me it's at some aple, cane-twirling fuzz on the upper lip, coat pinched up high in the back frimp at the other end of the wire."

"That's the girl with the purple hat?"

"Oh, no; this one wears a pale green hat with buds made out of silk, a mulberry velvet suit, skirt to her ankles, neat kid shoes—"

"Oh, that type," interrupted the occasional customer. "I agree they are a nuisance. Here's my car. So long."

"And it's 5 o'clock already," commented the drug store man. "I wonder why she's not on time tonight?"

ANECDOTES OF THE FAMOUS

A good story—which, he said, he hoped was true—was told of Admiral Stardee by Sir Edward Parrott in a lecture at London University.

Referring to the battle of the Falklands, he said, when Admiral Sturdee received news that Von Spee's squadron had been sighted, he was shaving and did not allow the news to interrupt him

Sir Alfred Mond, M.P., and the Office of Works in London, are busy just now. When a new Ministry of Labor or, say, a Luxury Suppression Board is created, or an existing Ministry wants more room, all they have to do is to go round to Storey's Gate and say: "Mond, find me a building."

The Office of Works then looks round and commandeers some ducal palace or some big hotel and the people have to get out.

Noticing that General Joffre has been promoted to Marshal Joffre, I am reminded (writes a London correspondent) of the story of Marshal Bernadootti, who became King of Sweden. Years after Waterloo he was visited by some old comrades-in-arms, and spent a merry night talking over old times. The next morning, the King was extremely gloomy. Asked the reason of his melancholy, he replied: "It was very pleasant last night, but afterwards I was so sad that I could get no sleep. It seemed so tragic that I, who was once Marshal of France, should be only—King of Sweden."

Just a Campaign.

What meaneth this clamor and clatter?
And what in the world is the matter?
Have people gone daffy
To get at the taffy
That's on the political platter?

Just list to the ear splitting clamor
From every lung loosened wind jammer.
It really is awful
And should not be lawful.
The way men are using the hammer.

This pulling and hauling and fighting,
Advancing, retreating, backbiting,
Is strictly and truly
Most rude and unruly,
Or so it appears at this writing.

Each brash and unlovable sinner
Is certain that he is a winner.
But some of the starters
Will end up as martyrs
And will not be there at the dinner.

This politics game is a terror.
By means that are fouler or fairer
The voters are bound up
To be at the roundup
Unless I am greatly in error.

Of statesmanship hardly pretenses
The thing is to fix up their fences,
To take any chances
To get the finances
And have some left after expenses.

But what is the difference, I wonder,
Who floats and who has to go under?
The people they tickle
Don't profit a nickel;
The bosses take care of the plunder.

Matter of Knowledge.

"Say?"

"Well?"

"What's the difference between a spinster and a bachelor girl?"

"Spinster and bachelor girl?"

"Uh-huh."

"A bachelor girl thinks she has some chance in the matrimonial game."

"Yes?"

"And a spinster knows she is out of it entirely."

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

It's surprising bow quickly a man recovers from what he imagined was a fatal attack of love.

Cupid does not take out a license when he goes hunting. The man of whom he makes game has to do that.

It is unwise to judge a man by the criticisms of his enemies. Only his friends can properly denounce him.

If a didower marries a milliner or dreasmaker he may be figuring on getting back some of the money his drat wife spent.

Wit and Wisdom

"Are you doing your part toward fighting the high cost of living?"

"Sure; I'm visiting all my relation."

"Dr. Fadd said that she couldn't consider marriage because it would interfere with her career."

"What is her career?"

"She both writes and publishes books on the care and feeding of infants."

"A fine rush for the first day" said the wife of the tailor, who had just opened in Plunkville. "That must mean that the old tailor isn't giving general satisfaction."

"I dunno," responded her husband. "It may mean that he isn't giving general credit."

When little Tommy arrived home from school the other day, he looked down in the mouth, a most unusual thing for the jolly, mischievous youngster.

"What's the matter?" asked his mother.

"Nothing," replied Tommy.

"Oh, yes, there is," said his mother. "Out with it."

"I've been punished," sobbed Tommy.

"What for?" asked the mother.

"Nothing——"

"Nonsense!" exclaimed his mother. "What is it?"

"Well," halted the boy, "teacher asked us all a question, and I was the only one who could answer it, and she caned me."

"Caned you for your intelligence!" exclaimed mother. Preposterous! What was the question?"

"Teacher said: 'Who put the dead mouse in my desk?" and I said, 'I did!"

WIFE FINDS RELIEF, TOO!
Lachute Mills, P.Q.
"I was troubled for many years with Kidney Disease, and a friend told me to take GIN PILLS. After taking a few boxes I was greatly relieved, and after finishing the twelfth box the pain completely left me. My wife is now using Gin Pills and finds that she has been greatly relieved of the pain over her kidneys. I can safely recommend any one suffering from Kidney trouble to give a fair trial to GIN PILLS.

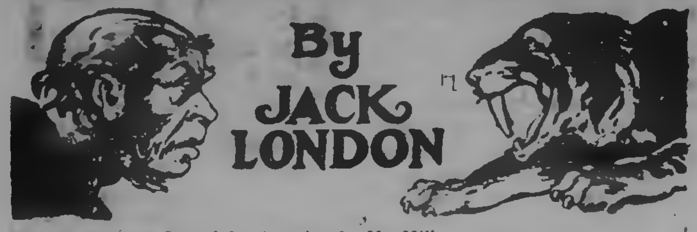
BEFORE ADAM



By JACK LONDON

Copyright, 1907, by the MacMillan company.

He laughed at me and jeered and told me tales of ghosts and of the dead that walk at night. But mostly did he laugh at my feeble fancy. I told him more, and he laughed the harder. I swore in all earnestness that these things were so, and he began to look upon me queerly; also he gave amazing garblings of my tales to our playmates until all began to look upon me queerly.

It was a bitter experience, but I learned my lesson. I was different from my kind. I was abnormal with something they could not understand and the telling of which would cause only misunderstanding. When the stories of ghosts and goblins went around I kept quiet. I smiled grimly to myself. I thought of my nights of fear and knew that mine were the real things—real as life itself, not attenuated vapors and surmised shadows.

For me no terrors resided in the thought of bugaboos and wicked ogres. The fall through leafy branches and the dizzy heights, the snakes that struck at me as I dodged and leaped away in chattering flight, the wild dogs that hunted me across the open spaces to the timber—these were terrors concrete and actual, happenings and not imaginings, things of the living flesh and of sweat and blood. Ogres and bugaboos and I had been happy bedfellows compared with these terrors that made their bed with me throughout my childhood and that still bed with me now as I write this, full of years.

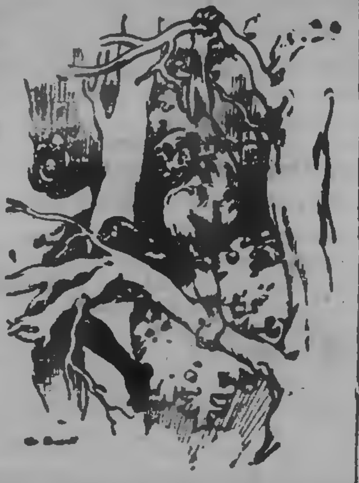
I have said that in my dreams I never saw a human being. Of this fact I became aware very early and felt poignantly the lack of my own kind. As a very little child even I had a feeling in the midst of the horror of my dreaming that if I could find but one man, only one human, I should be saved from my dreaming, that I should be surrounded no more by haunting terrors. This thought obsessed me every night of my life for years—if only I could find that one human and be saved!

I must iterate that I had this thought in the midst of my dreaming, and I take it as an evidence of the merging of my two personalities as evidence of a point of contact between the two dissassociated parts of me. My dream personality lived in the long ago, before ever man as we know him came to be, and my other and wake-a-day personality projected itself to the extent of the knowledge of man's existence into the substance of my dreams.

Perhaps the psychologists of the book will find fault with my way of using the phrase "dissassociation of personality." I know their use of it, yet am compelled to use it in my own way in default of a better phrase. I take shelter behind the inadequacy of the English language. And now to the explanation of my use or misuse of the phrase.

It was not till I was a young man at college that I got any clew to the significance of my dreams and to the cause of them. Up to that time they had been meaningless and without apparent causation. But at college I discovered evolution and psychology and learned the explanation of various strange mental states and experiences. For instance, there was the falling through space dream, the commonest dream experience, one practically known by first hand experience to all men.

This, my professor told me, was a racial memory. It dated back to our remote ancestors who lived in trees. With them, being tree dwellers, the liability of falling was an ever present menace. Many lost their lives that way. All of them experienced terrible falls, saving themselves by clutching branches as they fell toward the ground.



I, Too, Am Trembling With Fear.

Now, a terrible fall averted in such fashion was productive of shock. Such shock was productive of molecular changes in the cerebral cells. These molecular changes were transmitted to the cerebral cells of progeny—became, in short, racial memories. Thus when you and I, asleep or dozing off to sleep, fall through space and awake to sickening consciousness just before we strike we are merely remembering what happened to our arboreal ancestors and what has been stamped by cerebral changes into the heredity of the race.

There is nothing strange in this any more than there is anything strange in an instinct. An instinct is merely a habit that is stamped into the stuff of our heredity; that is all. It will be noted in passing that in this falling dream, which is so familiar to you and me and all of us, we never strike bottom. To strike bottom would be destruction. Those of our arboreal ancestors who struck bottom died forthwith. True, the shock of their fall was communicated to the cerebral cells, but they died immediately, before they could have progeny. You and I are descended from those that did not strike bottom. That is why you and I in our dreams never strike bottom.

And now we come to dissassociation of personality. We never have this sense of falling when we are wide awake. Our wake-a-day personality has no experience of it. Then—and here the argument is irresistible—it must be another and distinct personality that falls when we are asleep and that has had experience of such falling—that has, in short, a memory of past day race experiences, just as our wake-a-day personality has a memory of our wake-a-day experiences.

It was at this stage in my reasoning that I began to see the light. And quickly the light burst upon me with dazzling brightness, illuminating and explaining all that had been weird and uncanny and unnaturally impossible in my dream experiences. In my sleep it was not my wake-a-day personality that took charge of me. It was another and distinct personality, possessing a new and totally different fund of experiences and, to the point of my dreaming, possessing memories of those totally different experiences.

What was this personality? When had it itself lived a wake-a-day life on this planet in order to collect this fund of strange experiences? These were questions that my dreams themselves answered. He lived in the long ago, when the world was young, in that period that we call the midpleistocene. He fell from the trees, but did not strike bottom. He gibbered with fear at the roaring of the lions. He was pursued by beasts of prey, struck at by deadly snakes. He chattered with his kind in council, and he received rough usage at the hands of the Fire People in the day that he fled before them.

But, I hear you objecting, why is it that these racial memories are not ours as well, seeing that we have a vague other personality that falls through space while we sleep?

And I may answer with another question: Why is a two headed calf? And my own answer to this is that it is a freak. And so I answer your question. I have this other personality and these complete racial memories because I am a freak.

But let me be more explicit. The commonest race memory we have is the falling through space dream. This other personality is very vague. About the only memory it has is that of falling. But many of us have sharper, more distinct other personalities. Many of us have the flying dream, the pursuing monster dream, color dreams, suffocation dreams and the reptile and vermin dreams. In short, while this other personality is vestigial in all of us, in some of us it is almost obliterated, while in others of us it is more pronounced. Some of us have stronger and completer race memories than others.

It is all a question of varying degree of possession of the other personality. In myself the degree of possession is enormous. My other personality is almost equal in power with my own personality. And in this matter I am, as I said, a freak—a freak of heredity.

I do not believe that it is the possession of this other personality—but not so strong a one as mine—that has in some few others given rise to belief in personal reincarnation experiences. It is very plausible to such people, a most convincing hypothesis. When they have visions of scenes they have never seen in the flesh, memories of acts and events dating back in time, the simplest explanation is that they have lived before.

But they make the mistake of ignoring their own duality. They do not recognize their other personality. They think it is their own personality, that they have only one personality, and from such a premise they can conclude only that they have lived previous lives.

But they are wrong. It is not reincarnation. I have visions of myself roaming through the forests of the younger world, and yet it is not myself that I see, but one that is only remotely a part of me, as my father and my grandfather are parts of me less remote. This other self of mine is an ancestor, a progenitor of my progenitors in the early line of my race, himself the progeny of a line that long before his time developed fingers and toes and climbed up into the trees.

I must again at the risk of boring repeat that I am in this one thing to be considered a freak. Not alone do I possess racial memory to an enormous extent, but I possess the memories of one particular and far removed progenitor. And yet, while this is most unusual, there is nothing over remarkable about it.

Follow my reasoning. An instinct is a racial memory. Very good. Then you and I and all of us receive these memories from our fathers and mothers, as they received them from their fathers and mothers. Therefore there must be a medium whereby these memories are transmitted from generation to generation. This medium is what Weismann terms the "germplasm." It carries the memories of the whole evolution of the race. These memories are dim and confused, and many of them are lost. But some strains of germplasm carry an excessive freightage of memories—are, to be scientific, more atavistic than other strains, and such a strain is mine. I am a freak of heredity, an atavistic nightmare—call me what you will—but here I am, real and alive, eating three hearty meals a day, and what are you going to do about it?

UNSELFISH MARRIAGES MAKE HAPPY HOMES

Young Folks Should not Wait Until They Can Begin Where Their Parents Left Off.

A chief source for the success of many of the makers and leaders of Canada has been that they early set up homes of their own. Early marriages that result from hot-headed sentimentality are to be deprecated. But when a manly man of 22, say, and a womanly woman of 20 have found each other worthy and strong and capable of true love and self-sacrifice, then they should be encouraged to marry, even if the husband's income be but slight at the start. Postponement of marriage until he can support her in the style of her father, delaying wedlock until habits have hardened and feeling set into calculating produce, is hurtful both to individuals and to society.

No self-respecting and unselfish poor man likes to ask a woman to exchange a father's fine home for a husband's modest one. Not a few girls are naturally reluctant to make the change. But such reluctance on the part of lovers makes love a lackey to pride and purse. It is feeding oneself on the husks of human experience. It is throwing away the means for an enlargement and enrichment of character through true marriage.

Mutual sacrifices that link husband and wife together with the crimson cable of passionate joy make love grow strong and marriage a triumph. The real marriage rounds out each of the partners into fulness of gracious personality. "In true marriage lies not equal nor unequal, but each fulfils defect in each." Such qualities as dignity, devotion and amplitude are developed by genuine wedlock. It is only rare natures among the unmarried that can grow such graces and power of character. Voluntary limitation of unchartered freedom and willing sacrifices of self strengthen men and women. The welfare of society and the future of our country will become the more firmly grounded as young men and young women renounce the selfishness of delaying marriage till mere prudence urges it. The instinct of making a home contains noble meanings. It should be the inspiration to marriage and the interpreter of wedded life. From the home flow the streams of noble life for society.

VERY DAINTY OPERA WRAP

CHINESE CLOAKS WITH A FOOT OF BANDING AT THE BOTTOM.

The sash is a favored finish to all gowns. The cotton frock has a chic little girdle of black or white, the lingerie frock is enhanced by a dash of blazing color at the waist, and the wonderful Paris dinner gown is all a shimmer with a broad gem-studded Roman girdle swathed about the figure. For the opera baffling designs in wraps are being placed at milady's disposal. Chinese cloaks are still extremely fashionable and most in demand, and the genuine models—one of gorgeous rose, another of peacock blue, displayed an amount of marvelous Chinese embroidery. The bandings were at least a foot deep at the bottom, and closely wrought in gold thread and green, blue and rose silks. Another model of the chinese type was an exquisite creation of brocaded gold tissue, while still another—a lovely French mantle—was in the new, pale apricot damask, with a deep applique border of gold lace, sparsely worked with apricot floss silk and yellow topaz. A charmingly simple and effective little dance frock in bluish pink net had the skirt made in the new shape with two deep flounces edged merely with white stitching, the lower one lightly embroidered with pearls and the upper caught with a La France rose, and garlands of smaller buds posed above. The simple kimono bodice has the pearl embroidery at the armholes, into which are set pretty little transparent sleeves. The sash is of softest taffeta in a deeper rose tone, tied in a big loose bow at the back; the entire is charming over a narrow slip of satin mousseline of the same shade.

Some of the buckskin shoes have strappings of patent leather.

And a girl's ideal chaperone is a female who has seen enough of the world to know when not to look.

The man who does nothing but sit around and wait for a dead man's shoes never cuts much of a figure in the financial world.

QUITE CORRECT.

YOUR FURS.

How to Care For Them So They Will Look New and Wear Long.

Many women have an idea that it is not necessary to take special care of good furs. They think that because the latter are a good quality they will stand more or less rough treatment and that they can be subjected to all sorts of variable conditions of weather.

Never hang wet furs near the fire to dry. In the natural state the animal, whose pelt has been converted into a coat or muff or scarf, dries itself in the open, and this fact should be borne in mind.

The bright sun is also harmful to good furs. In winter little harm is done in this direction, but furs carried to warm climates and worn even occasionally in a garish light are likely to lose the luster which comes to them, not only from natural causes, but also from the scientific dressing and dyeing to which many of the fashionable peltries are subjected.

A Change of Tune.

Oh, doctor, when we do not have
A single pain or ache
We scoff at you and all the things
You mix for us to take,
But let us get the slightest touch
Of something like disease—
We fly to you at once and cry,
"Oh, doctor, help us, please!"

We contemplate complacently
Those things when far away
And feel that always we will romp
Well as we are today.
A little pinching underneath
Our belt or pinafore
Is all we need to make us come
A-knocking at your door.

That's where you get your mighty drag.
You sit around and wait
And know that we will have to hike
To see you soon or late,
And then you rubber at our tongue,
Ask where we feel so sore
And mutter as you shake your head
We should have come before.

'Tis not the whiskers on your face,
'Tis not the things you know,
That makes us when we need a friend
To you for comfort go.
That makes us trail you down the street
And stick to you like glue.
It's just because we do not know
Another thing to do.

SOME SUGGESTIONS ABOUT USING NEEDLEWORK ON SMALL GOWNS

In the days of grandmother, when cheap trimmings—braids, laces and edgings—were not so cheap as they are nowadays, there was real economy in finishing off the little girl's dresses by means of neat lines of herringbone stitch, or tatting. In fact, almost never did children's frocks show any sort of trimming that cost anything but the time taken to make the stitches and the trifling cost of thread.

It is usually more convenient to finish the child's garment entirely before adding the stitches. Sometimes it is more convenient to buy inexpensive absolutely untrimmed frocks and rompers for the children and bring them home to double their value by a half hour or so spent in finishing them with handwork.

To begin with, if you do not know how to make the herringbone or feather stitch practice with a piece of heavy embroidery twist and a piece of gingham or kindergarten cloth, such as you use in making the children's clothes. Practice until you have acquired a uniform stitch. There is an infinite variety in the length and the angle of the stitch, and it doesn't much matter which you adopt so long as it is always uniform. This stitch is useful for trimming the neck and wrist lines of the frocks. If the dress is made at home simply baste the skirt hem and use this stitch by way of hemming and trimming the skirt at the same time. A simple chain stitch made with coarse cotton is another good way of finishing hem, cuffs and collars.

Even woolen dresses can be trimmed in this way. Our grandmothers made herringbone stitches in colored wool on the brown holland everyday frocks their little girls wore, and, though we do not have to give our children brown holland frocks these days, this sort of colored woolen trimming is very pretty. Besides that, it is very smart just now, and for that reason, as well as because it is inexpensive, deserves attention. It is not difficult to learn the sort of wool embroidery that trims the new frocks, and a little practice with bright wool threads will make anybody an adept at doing it.

Chicken Souffle.

This is also very nice for left over chicken. The chicken is mixed with chopped parsley, about a tablespoonful to a pint of chicken. Melt a tablespoonful of butter in pan and mix with flour, adding a pint of milk and stirring until the mixture boils. Then add half a cupful of dry breadcrumbs and cook a little longer. Remove from the fire and add the chicken hashed very fine. Season with salt, pepper and cayenne if liked. Add the well beaten yolks of three eggs and mix well. Place in a butter greased baking pan and bake for twenty minutes in a quick oven. Serve very hot.

Every Second Belgian Is Destitute!

3,500,000 Are Wholly or Partially Dependent on Charity.

The war goes on, but Belgium stands still, or rather slips back a little deeper into her misery! German rule grows harsher and more vindictive as certain defeat looms up ahead. Belgian reserves of money are steadily dwindling, and now fully half the population must be fed by charity or starve.

To make the situation worse, the great sympathetic public of Great Britain, Canada and the United States is beginning to look upon Belgium's need as an old story, and to be less generous in their giving. Meanwhile prices of food are soaring and the money given does not go as far as it did.

As it is, the Belgian Relief Commission has been compelled to cut down rations to what seems the absolute minimum—the smallest amount that will support life. If further reductions have to be made the weaker must go under, and the children, on whom Belgium's future depends, must be permanently stunted and weakened by want.

Meanwhile Canada as a nation, and we as individuals, are unusually prosperous. True, there are many calls on our purses, but there are few of us, indeed, who cannot easily spare enough to feed at least one Belgian family.

SAME OLD SPELL

It Came Over the Girl at the Proper Time as it Always Has.

By J. V. SYMONS.

"Lucia, dear, I have some news for you," said little Miss Brett, taking her by both hands in her dressing room in the Imperial theater. "I am going to leave the stage."

"You, my dear! Why—why Prescott told me himself that he means to give you the star part in 'Under Two Flags' next month. You can't mean it, you who have won fame almost in a night."

"But that doesn't mean anything to me now," answered the girl, smiling. "You see," she added in a lower voice, "I am engaged to be married."

Lucia Clay kissed her warmly and chatted for quite five minutes, which was a big slice out of a busy woman's life. Then she watched her go down the draughty corridor and sank back into her chair and wept bitterly.

People would have been astonished if they could have seen Lucia crying. She was one of the big discoveries of the past two years. But she had worked hard for her success. Ten years of barren poverty and unproductive labor lay behind her. Cold as ice, they called her. Even in stageland, that prolific center of gossip, her name had never been associated with that of any man. And yet she had temperament, she was superb in emotional parts. She seemed to have lived through and lived down something, so that the fires now glowed where formerly they had blazed, and under an exterior that was faultlessly serene.

"There must have been big experiences in Miss Clay's life," said an old critic to his friend once.

There had been, the biggest of all experiences, because the most universal. She had been married and her honeymoon had lasted eleven days.

They had been days of delirious happiness both for herself and for the young painter, Lawrence Murdoch. It had been almost a runaway match, except that neither had anybody to run from. He was a scene painter, and had once been spoken of as a coming man in his profession. Lucia was then just a stage-struck girl. She had played the ingenue's part in one or two productions creditably, and they possessed two hundred dollars between them. On the strength of this they were married.

"The Curtain's Up, Miss Clay."

It was an old, eighteenth century cottage in which they had elected to spend their honeymooon. Lucia would remember every detail of it as long as she lived; the clematis over the door, the patch of everblooming roses, the perky sweet williams along the gravelly walk. And their happiness had been intense for eleven days.

Then Lawrence went away. He left no letter, offered no explanation. But that he took his possessions with him, Lucia would have feared he had met with foul play. She came home from an unsuccessful search for work to find the house empty. After a day and a night of agonized searching she discovered that he was staying at the house of a friend of his. She went there, fearless in her humility of love. The man refused her admittance. Lucia saw Lawrence at the window; their eyes met and he turned away. Then Lucia went home.

It was long afterward that she learned the cause of her husband's abandonment. He had followed her to the theater, with the intention of meeting her and taking her to lunch. He had seen her in another man's arms. The other man was old Colonel Brett, a lifelong friend, of whom she had not told Lawrence during their three weeks' engagement. Colonel Brett had been her father's comrade in the war and her guardian for a while; he had taken her father's place after his death. He had accompanied his daughter to the theater when the stage-struck girl insisted on seeking a part and, meeting Lucia there, too, the old fellow had broken down and cried.

Ten years had passed since then. She had heard little of Lawrence. She would never explain, and if he had learned—but he could not have learned, or pride would never have suffered the continuance of this hideous tragedy.

"The curtain's up, Miss Clay," announced the colored woman who assisted with the wardrobes. Miss Clay put the final touches to her make-up and joined the little group in the wings. It was a repertoire piece, one of those that are put on by the best companies at times, either during the dull season or for some special cause, such as to fill up an unexpected gap in the schedule. There had been only two rehearsals, for the company had played this often before, and the scenery had been completed only that morning, the properties being lost somewhere in a tie-up in the middle west.

Lucia walked on the stage. She heard the applause of the audience as an accustomed thing, she glanced indifferently into the packed masses and bowed; and then she saw Lawrence's face, and he might have been her sole auditor, for everybody else was but a blur in the darkened auditorium.

She had never seen him since they parted. Now he sat in the third row of the parquet, watching her. He was hardly changed, but somehow the look on his face told her that his soul was hers, and that across the intervening years their spirits would leap together if only pride permitted. She turned. And then, for the first time in her experience Lucia Clay forgot her lines.

For on the canvas background was the little cottage of her memories. There was the clematis over the door, there were the everblooming roses and the sweet williams. And then Lucia was back in fairyland with her lover again.

How she stumbled through her part she never knew. Once or twice, waking out of a sort of dream, she saw the other members of the company regarding her with wonder. But when the curtain fell the last thing she saw was Lawrence's eyes looking into her own, and the old spell was on her, and she hurried to her dressing room, avoiding the anxious questions of her friends. She knew that an influence stronger than either of them had taken possession of them and had humbled their pride and enunciated the ancient law that marriage should last as long as they two should live.

She found him at the stage door, and because there was nothing to be said she took him by the arm and led him back upon the darkened stage. And there, by the feeble glimmer of the gas jets in the wings, they stood together before the little cottage and their vows were plighted.

"Mr. Prescott, I have some news for you," said Miss Clay that evening. "I am going to leave the stage."

"You, Miss Clay! Why—why, you can't mean it, you who have won a national reputation. We have looked forward to still greater triumphs for you—"

"But that doesn't mean anything to me now," answered Miss Clay, smiling. "You see—I am engaged to be married."

BRITISH TAKE OVER 1000 YARDS OF NEW TRENCHES

LONDON, Feb. 7— The occupation of about a thousand yards of German trenches by the British in the region of Grandcourt, southwest of Bapaume, in France, is announced in the official communication from headquarters in France. No fighting was required to take the new position, the London War Office reporting that the Germans offered no opposition to the British troops. On the remainder of the front in France spirited artillery duels alone have prevailed.

EQUINE DASHED AWAY CAUSING SOME DAMAGE

OCCUPANTS OF CUTTER THROWN OUT, BUT NONE HURT.

Shortly before noon today Mrs. Peter McArthur and her son, of Brownton, were driving on McDonnel St., near George, when the horse became frightened at the street car and ran away, throwing the occupants out. The horse proceeded on its wild career until the corner of George and Brock was reached, where it swerved into the door of the Globe Tailoring Co., smashing the plate glass window. The horse then started down George and turned east on Hunter, where it was stopped opposite Roy's studio.

Mrs. McArthur and her son were not hurt and the former agreed to pay any damage done. The shafts and body of the cutter were badly smashed.

FINE IMPOSED AT HAVELOCK

Magistrate Langley was in Havelock on Monday to hear several charges for a violation of the village bylaw regarding transient traders.

Nemo Said, an Assyrian, was fined $25 and $3.40 costs, and in default of distress was given the option of 20 days in jail.

The other case was against Samuel S. Joyce, a former village merchant. He still owns property in the village, but has not paid income or business tax during the past year. This case was adjourned until the 12th inst. in order to give defendant a chance to take out the license.

Who Owns Boy's Trousers?

To whom do a boy's trousers belong—to the boy himself or to his father? This momentous question was debated at a London county court, when a new trial of an action was asked for. While playing football in the street the boy concerned ran against a tin box outside a tradesman's shop, and tore his trousers. His father put in a claim for the value of the trousers, and the registrar allowed $1.25. The tradesman's counsel argued that the boy had no right to sue at all, as the trousers really belonged to his father, he being an infant. "Of course, the father could not steal them," remarked the judge. "It is clear they belong to the father," replied the counsel. "Whether the father could take them off or not, I will not say," observed the judge. "A father has a prior right over his son's trousers," repeated counsel. The judge refused the application for a new trial.

AN ASSISTANT FOR OFFICE WORK

LITTLE LAKE CEMETERY COMPANY MAKE CHANGES.

The directors of the Little Lake Cemetery Co. are not losing any time in preparing for the spring work at the cemetery.

The office work, which was formerly taken care of by Mr. Wise, will be in charge of an assistant, who will be directly responsible to Mr. E. A. Peck, the secretary-treasurer. A new system of record keeping will be installed and someone will be at the cemetery office from 9 o'clock to 5 each day.

Mr. William James, the new superintendent, is well known as one of the foremost landscape gardeners in the province and the overseeing of the grounds and decorations will be in very capable hands.

Pockets Like Monk's Cowls.

There are always a few things which either are or seem to be new in the way of little furnishings and finishings for clothes. Just at present there are the cowl pocket and the suede trimmings to all things sportsmanlike, and certain innovations in the way of collars. The cowl pocket is detachable and shaped like a monk's cowl, with cords and tassels running through silk rings stitched to the skirt to hold the pockets in position. The lining of bright contrasting color should by all means be visible. The new collars all center around the general idea of lowness, largeness and Quakerishness.

DENTAL CLINIC URGED FOR PUPILS' WELFARE

Mentally Defective Children in Schools.

Dr. Neal at the Board of Education meeting last night, told of a number of mentally defective children that had come under his personal observation in Peterborough, and he thought that the board should be in possession of a report as to the number of such children in the schools. It was unfair to children attending classes to be hampered by one child who was lacking the capabilities of learning. The necessity for a dental clinic at the schools was also urged on the supervision committee.

Inspector Mowat informed the board that there were quite a few mentally defective children in Peterborough schools; about one per cent. were either backward or defective. He will prepare a report and submit it at the next meeting of the board.

Report on Public Schools by Inspector A. Mowat

The report on the Public schools of the city for 1916, prepared by Inspector A. Mowat and presented to the Board of Education last night will be of interest to citizens generally. Inspector Mowat was complimented by the Board on the excellence of the report.

Public School Population

The total number of public school pupils enrolled in 1916 was 3073, which is a slight increase over the enrollment of 1915 or of any previous year.

The average attendance for 1916 was, however, not so good as for 1915, owing to the prevalence of measles during the months of January, February and March.

The enrolled monthly attendance was between 2400 and 2500, and as there were 61 class rooms, the average number of pupils per teacher was 40.

School Accommodation and Improvements

During 1916 the Property Committee considerably improved several of the school buildings, which added to the comfort of both pupils and teachers.

The new lavatory at the Queen Alexandra school has improved the sanitary condition of that building. The improvement of the roofs of the Central School buildings and the equipping of a waiting room there for the lady teachers have proven most satisfactory. The appearance of the King Edward school has been much improved by painting and the heating of the Queen Mary, Queen Alexandra and King George Schools has been rendered easier by the windows of these buildings having been weather-stripped.

Th chief improvements of the year were made in the South Central school. This building has, certinly, been made more comfortable and sanitary than it was, and the enlargement of the grounds should also improve conditions there. Two small improvements were not carried out and I think these should be remedied, as their cost would be comparatively small. I refer to the North hall, which was not heated, and a waiting room was not provided for the lady teachers. During the present year the grounds of this school should receive attention, as the yard is lower than the surrounding lots and in wet weather it presents the appearance of a pond. This should not be difficult to remedy.

The school accommodation of the city has been fairly adequate up to the present time. The school population is, however, increasing in the soouth and west of the city. The King Edward and South Central schools are filled to their seating capacity. There are still two rooms in the Queen Mary school unoccupied. By using these rooms and by diverting more pupils from the South Central territory, it may be possible to manage for another year with our present school accommodation, but it would seem advisable for the Board to come to some definite conclusion as to what should be done to meet the demands in the near future for more school accommodation in the southern part of the city. The present accommodation affords no room for the introduction of household science and manual training in either the South Central or King Edward School.

Progress of the Pupils

The progress of the pupils, if judged by the number who passed their examinations, is most satisfactory since very few of them failed.

The looking forward of pupils to passing the entrance examination, important as it is, should not be the chief aim of the public school course of study. Children should come to school, not with the object of taking in facts and storing them up for future use, but with the object of living a life during their eight-year course that will build character through physical, mental and moral growth by doing the right thing in the right way and from the right motive.

This growth will depend upon the character of the teacher and the nature of the studies pursued.

It is essential to the success of our schools that the board secure the service of teachers of strength of character, scholarship, ability, energy and culture.

Regarding the studies, while they are fixed by the education department, yet it is quite possible to specially emphasize the more important and thereby derive the greatest possible benefit. Of the content subjects, viz., history, geography and literature, I find considerable improvement in the teaching of history and geography, and also of literature in the upper forms, but the teachers of the lower forms are greatly handicapped in literature. A love for good literature can only be acquired by familiarizing the children with good books. Unfortunately, there is no collections of books for the younger children in any of our schools. There should be a small library in each school containing books suitable for young children. Their reading could then be encouraged and supervised by their teachers. This would not entail a large expenditure of money.

Another weakness of our schools is that they do not afford nearly enough scope in the hand activities, such as sewing, cooking, wood working and games. These hand activities afford an outlet for pent-up energy; they are of practical value. They enable the pupil to discover his own natural inclinations, and best of all, they permit the pupil to give expression in some tangible form to his own ideas. These hand activities also supplement the other subjects of study and afford scope for both physical and mental exertion. I hope in the near future the board may see its way clear to make a wide extension of these activities in all of our public schools.

MR. A. MOWAT, I.P.S.

The school life of our pupils has been enriched and benefited by the introduction of art and music.

Cost of Education

The cost of education is always an important matter and deserving of serious consideration.

Practically the whole cost of public school education is determined by the kind of school buildings erected, size of the classes and the teachers' salaries.

I do not think anyone will say that our school buildings are too good for the children and they were erected economically.

The size of the classes is large enough. Forty pupils per room will tax the energy of any teacher.

The lady teachers have already brought the salary question to your attention. I might add that a teacher must have spent several years in preparation for the work. She must live in a comfortable home and will have to pay well for the accommodation. She must dress well. She must spend something on books and magazines. She ought to improve herself by study and travel. Besides all this, she ought to save something. To do this under present conditions on a salary of $550, increasing to $700, is no easy task.

The Staff

The Public School staff consists of 62 regular teachers, two supervisors, one teacher of household science, one of manual training, a school nurse and one supply teacher.

In addition to these, two teachers, Captains Park and Munro, are off on leave of absence until the end of the war. This makes a total of 70 teachers and instructors.

Of this number, three are graduates of universities, 13 hold first-class certificates, 51 are graduates of Normal schools and 6 are kindergarten directors and also hold kindergarten-primary certificates.

Physical Training

With very few exceptions, the teachers have physical exercises regularly and systematically. I shall report in detail in June on each teacher's work in this branch of instruction.

The organization and supervision of the outdoor games for the boys and girls is excellent in some of the schools but poor in others. More equipment should gradually be added and more careful supervision will have to be given in some of the schools, particularly in the activities of the girls.

Health of the Pupils

A good beginning has been made in this work by the appointment of the school nurse.

Miss Kennedy has been very helpful in the duties that come under her charge, viz., (a) preventing the spread of contagious diseases; (b) promoting cleanliness, (c) visiting homes and advising parents in the treatment of minor cases and impressing upon them the need of medical attention in the more serious cases.

There is room for great advancement in the work of caring for the health of the school children. There should be a dental clinic in connection with the schools, as many ills arise from bad teeth and a very large percentage of children require dental attention.

Where a medical inspector is appointed, he gives every child a physical examination and records of these examinations are kept on file. This examination covers:

(a) General physical condition, weight, condition of skin, eyes, hearing, teeth, tonsils, spine, tendency towards tuberculosis, malnutrition and nervousness.

(b) Mental defects; about one per cent. of school children are mentally unfit to take up the regular course of study, although many of these children have marked skill along certain lines. These children should be examined and given such work as they are mentally capable of doing. Their presence in the ordinary class room is a menace to the other children as they retard the work of the class.

Appointment of Teachers

The policy of the board has been to appoint the best applicants, irrespective of where they reside or where they have been trained.

This is the only possible course to pursue, if our schools are to make progress. In making recommendations for appointment to the staff, I shall continue to carry out the policy of the board to the best of my ability. The following statement by an educational authority on the appointment of teachers is instructive: "It is an almost necessary part of a teacher's preparation to go away from home for at least a part of her training, to come in contact with other schools and other methods of work and to learn to think for herself by rubbing up against a difference in opinions of other people."

Summary

Matters deserving the immediate attention of the board:—

1. Heating the hall of the South Central school.
2. Providing a waiting room for the South Central lady teachers.
3. To make a start in providing supplementary reading for the younger children.
4—To provide cupboard for the Central and South Central schools, in which to keep books and supplies.

Matters deserving careful consideration by the board:—

1. To have more school accommodation provided in the near future in the south part of the city.
2. To establish household science and manual training classes in all the public schools of the city.
3. To extend the scope of medical and dental inspection of school children.
4—To proide more equipment for physical trainin.
5. To urge upon the City Council the necessity of bathing places for the children.

P.S.—The hall in the South Central school has been heated since this report was prepared.

ENCOURAGE THRIFT BY INTRODUCING PENNY BANKS

Defence League Ask School Board to Endorse Military Training in Schools---756 Inspections by School Nurse---Enlarged Photos for Collegiate Walls---Fire Escapes for King Edward School.

The regular meeting of the Board of Education was held last night. There were present Messrs. V. Eastwood (chairman), Col. J. W. Miller, T. McGrath, Dr. Burnham, R. Deane, J. Crane, G. N. Gordon, Dr. Neal and W. H. Hill.

A number of applications for positions on the teaching staff were received and referred to the committee on appointments.

Ald. W. H. Taylor asked the board to allow him to cancel certain insurance policies held by companies represented by him.

The finance committee will deal with the request.

H. R. H. Kenner, principal of the Collegiate Institute, had an increased grant of $25 made to the art department of the school.

The Canadian Defence League wanted the board to endorse military training in all schools and to have a military training qualification necessary in all teachers. The letter was filed.

756 Inspections

Miss E. P. Kennedy, the school nurse, reported the result of her inspections for the month of January as follows: Number of inspections, 756, unclean pupils, 18; pupils with rashes, 6; homes visited, 26.

At the present time the schools are free from contagious disease.

A communication from the Hamilton Board of Education regarding higher grants from the Government was laid over for future consideration.

Penny Bank

Prof. M. A. MacKenzie wrote the Board regarding encouraging thrift in the schools by the adoption of penny banks.

It was decided to have the secretary write for circulars explaining the operation of these banks and the secretaries of different boards will be asked as to their success in other municipalities.

Trustees Gordon and Miller were anxious to get all the information available.

Photos of Heroes

Principal Kenner of the Collegiate Institute reported the receipt of the following enlarged photos of Collegiate pupils who are or have been in khaki.

Major G. W. Bennett, presented by W. G. Morrow.

Capt. Garnet Greer presented by Dr. Greer.

Lieut. Reg. Stratton, presented by A. H. Stratton.

Lieut. Stanley Fife, presented by J. A. Fife, B.A., Edmonton.

Trooper Merton Adams, presented by Frank Adams.

Mr. C. Fessenden will present a photo of Lt.-Col. Fessenden, who has been decorated by the Kings of Italy and Serbia.

The board instructed the secretary to acknowledge the gifts.

Property Committee

The property committee recommended:

That owing to the extra work of operating five furnaces the janitor of the South Central school be paid an additional salary from Jan. 1 equal to the amount paid per class room for schools with more than eight rooms.

That in view of the fact that the King Edward school is a three-storey building your committee, after careful consideration, recommend that fire escapes be placed thereon.

That the class room doors at the King George and Queen Mary schools be changed to open outward instead of inward, as at present.

Committee on Appointments

The committee on appointments recommended that Miss V. R. Sproule of Lindsay be appointed as substitute until Easter for Miss Ruth McPhadden, who has resigned.

SEIZURE RIGHTFULLY MADE COURT FINDING

Plaintiff Must Pay the Full Amount of Mortgage.

The following judgment was given by Mr. Justice Kelly at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, yesterday. The case was tried at the non-jury sittings last fall:

Woodbeck v. Waller.—J. A. Macintosh and J. F. Strickland (Peterborough) for plaintiff. F. D. Kerr and V. J. McElderry (Peterborough) for defendant. Action to recover $5000 damages for alleged illegal distraint of chattels and for an injunction.

Judgment: "In my judgment, the claim that the mortgage has become void is not sustained. I find that plaintiff, without consent, written or otherwise, sold and disposed of and parted with and allowed to be removed from the premises some of the mortgaged goods, etc., and that defendant honestly felt himself unsafe and insecure, etc. Let judgment be entered (1) dismissing plaintiff's action; (2) declaring that at time of seizure the mortgage had become due; (3) ordering plaintiff to pay into court amount due on mortgage, $2200, and interest from 26th Sept., 1916, less any sums already paid in, subject to further order, with costs to plaintiff.

The above legal item is of special interest to the residents of Havelock, the plaintiff, Woodbeck, being a livery man, and the defendant, Waller, being bailiff of the Division Court at Havelock. In the action, the plaintiff claimed that the defendant had wrongfully made seizure upon a chattel mortgage made by the plaintiff to one Saylor, and subsequently assigned to the defendant, Waller, but the court by its decision holds that the seizure was rightfully made and dismisses plaintiff's action with costs, and orders the plaintiff to pay the amount of the mortgage as claimed by the defendant.

How Wheat Came to Earth.

A classic account of the distribution of wheat over the primeval world shows that Ceres, having taught her favorite, Triptolemus, the art of agriculture and the science of breadmaking, gave him her chariot, a celestial vehicle, and that in it he traveled night and day, distributing this valuable bread grain among all nations of the earth.

A Novel Revenge.

Cook—Yes; my mistress is a prima donna and a horrible creature. She treats me like the dirt beneath her feet, but I revenge myself by opening the drawing room window when she is not at home and by howling with all my might so that the neighbors may think her voice is cracked.—Fliegende Blaetter.

A Gallant Canadian.

Captain Flight Commander Malcolm M. Bell-Irving, thrice wounded on active service, winner of the Military Cross and the Distinguished Service Order, and one of the first two Canadians to join the Royal Flying Corps, has been presented with an illuminated address by his native city of Vancouver.

COOKING WITHOUT EGGS

Batter Pudding

A simple batter that may be used as a foundation for many different puddings is made thus: Sift flour and baking powder together, using a little more baking powder than for biscuits, then rub in butter as for pie crust, using your own favorite rule of proportions; add enough sweet milk to make a batter as thick as can be easily stirred with a spoon.

For Apple Pudding

Fill a pudding dish with the batter and sliced apples, in alternate layers, sprinkling the apple with sugar, spice and bits of butter. Either steam or bake. Other fruits may be substituted or the batter may be made into small dumplings and dropped into boiling fruit sauce, having it quite juicy.

Prune Pudding

Stew prunes until soft and rub through a sieve. To two large cupfuls of pulp add the same amount of bread crumbs, previously soaked in milk, and beaten smooth, two tablespoonfuls of molasses, one generous cupful of brown sugar mixed with one teaspoonful of ground cinnamon, and two cupfuls of hot milk. Heat on the stove to the boiling point, then place in the oven to bake for one hour or longer.

Rice Pudding

One quart of milk, one-half cupful of rice, one tablespoonful of butter, one-half teaspoonful of salt, sugar to suit the taste, one cupful of raisins, or any dried fruit preferred. Bake for two hours, stirring occasionally until thickened.

Chocolate Blanc Mange

Heat one cupful each of milk and water, add one cupful of sugar, three tablespoonfuls each of cornstarch and grated chocolate, and one teaspoonful of vanilla. Cook until thick, mould, and serve cold with cream and sugar.

Cream Pie

Mix well two heaping tablespoonfuls each of sugar and flour, pour over slowly one and one-half cupfuls of sweet cream, mixing smooth. Fill pie tins with puff paste, fill with mixture, over the top and bake quickly.

Lemon Pie

Heat one pint of milk, thicken with two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch and two cupfuls of sugar, the juice and grated rind of two lemons. Line two pie tins with puff paste, fill with mixture and bake.

Fruit-Cake

One cupful each of sugar and sour milk or buttermilk, four tablespoonfuls of butter, two cupfuls of flour, one teaspoonful of soda, one tablespoonful of mixed ground spices, one cupful of raisins or currants. Bake in a slow oven.

It is said that marriage will change a man's views quicker than anything else.

One can't tell by the size of a man's hat how much he doesn't really know.

ANTIQUITY OF WHEAT

THIS CEREAL WAS COMMON IN CHINA 5,000 YEARS AGO.

Probably man would survive if the earth never produced another grain of wheat. But he would not find it easy to get along without this useful grain, for the eating of bread and other things made from wheat flour is a habit to which he has been addicted for nearly 5,000 years.

Wheat, it is thought, was first grown in the valleys of the Tigris and the Euphrates. Gradually it spread to the east, and it is known that in China it was cultivated extensively as early as 3000 B. C. Wheat formed the chief food of the people of Biblical times. The term "wheat" is derived from an old English word, "hwaete," meaning white.

The wheat of today differs somewhat from that of early history. Through intensive cultivation and cross fertilization it has reached a high state of perfection.

Wheat is the most widely known of the cereal grains. It is found wherever the white man has penetrated. It is grown on the Himalayan slopes 10,000 feet above sea level, on the great central plain of North America, in the tropical countries of Africa and India. We even find that as far north as the sixtieth parallel of latitude in Alaska, Russia, Germany, France and England, thousands of acres of wheat are harvested every year.

The fact that wheat can be readily adapted to various conditions of soil and climate makes it the most valuable of all cereal grains.

There are many different varieties of wheat due to the differences of soil and climate, but in general we divide it into two classes—winter or soft wheat, sown in the fall and harvested during the hot summer months, and spring or hard wheat, sown early in the spring and harvested late in the summer.

A grain of wheat is composed of four parts—the husk, which consists of five distinct layers of bran; the cereal layer, a thin membrane inclosing the starch cells, and the germ. During the milling process the bran coats and the germs are removed.

Graham flour is made by grinding the entire grain to a moderate grade of fineness. Entire wheat flour is made by grinding the grain and removing the three outer coats. If the germ were not removed from the flour the color and the keeping qualities would be affected.

There are twenty-four steps in the milling process from the time the wheat is weighed until it is sold as flour. The byproducts, bran and middlings, are sold to the farmer for the feeding of cattle.

There are over fifty varieties of flour made, but we must classify it chiefly according to the kind of wheat. Flour made from spring wheat is commonly known as bread flour. Bread flour is rich in gluten. Gluten has the power of expansion after the addition of moisture and heat, and a flour rich in gluten, as bread flour is, will produce a light loaf of bread.

Flour made from winter wheat is commonly known as pastry flour. Pastry flour contains less gluten and more starch than bread flour.—Exchange.

SEYMOUR POWER CO.'S SILVERWARE STAYS HERE

With Win in Last End of Final at Campbellford' Spiel Giroux Rink Places Peterboro in Permanent Possession of Trophy.

Standing on its ebony pedestal the Seymour Power Co.'s silver curling trophy rests in the club room at the curling rink where it will remain for all time. Peterborough club having won the cup three times in succession from Campbellford.

In 1915-16 rinks skipped by J. E. A. Fitzgerald won the honor, but this year the famous Campbellford curler Skip Tait was too much for the Fitzgerald quartette, and they were eliminated from the contest.

The other Peterborough rink in the meantime was going on very smoothly and as it was Skip Giroux's birthday the curling fans wanted to hand him a memento. So they gave him the high sign to beat Tait and the cup was won. The Giroux four defeated Tait's rink by a score of 13 to 3.

Now for the finals. Both Campbellford and Peterborough were out to have or to hold and the Giroux rink never curled better, and it seemed the same way with the home team. Every stone was placed to perfection and with one end to play Peterborough was one down. All was excitement but the fairies were with Giroux and his cohorts and the end finished with a score of three for Peterborough, leaving them the winners by the trophy by two shots.

The winning rink was: C. Seymour, J. Wiley, R. Sturgeon, G. H. Giroux (skip).

The Seymour Power Co. presented the trophy in 1913 to be competed for annually at the Campbellford Bonspiel. In 1913 Campbellford won in 1914 Keene won and in 1915 16 17 Peterborough were the lucky players.

Students Lost to Lakefield Rats

A fast exciting game of hockey was played last night at the Brock Street rink from 6 to 7 between the Lakefield Rink Rats and the Peterborough Business College. The Northerners proved too fast for the Petes and won out by a score of 4 to 1. The game was fast and furious, although the rubber seldom had a chance to touch the Lakefield nets.

The announcement of the return game, which will be played in Lakefield, will be made later.

Foolishness His Business.

LOCAL CURLERS TANKARD RUNNERS-UP IN 1892

Veteran Sam Ray Who Played Then Still in the Game.

The nearest that Peterborough ever came to winning the Tankard in a previous competition was in 1892, when they were beaten by the Toronto Granites for the coveted honor by one shot. The fact that it was a fluke shot has always made the members of the Peterborough rinks confident that some day they would lift the trophy.

Mr. W. G. Ferguson was one of the skips that represented Peterborough in 1892 and he tells of how the stone that gave victory to Toronto had glanced off a stone that should have been off the ice. However, the umpire did not see it and Peterborough lost.

There is one of the original Tankard contenders playing in the vice skip's position on the Tankard this season in the veteran Sam Ray.

The rinks representing Peterborough in the 1892 contest were:

J. Stanger, Jos. Pentland, Sam Ray, Thos Rutherford (skip); and G. W. Hattan, C. McGill, R. S. Dadson, W. G. Ferguson (skip).

EIGHT BEHIND WITH ORILLIA

Four rinks of Peterborough curlers visited Orillia yesterday and curled the first round of the series for the Neill-Sheppard Cup. Peterborough were down eight shots.

The Peterborough skips were: Messrs. J. H. Ferguson, T. F. Matthews, J. W. McDermid and W. G. Morrow.

The Orillia club will play here on Feb 19th. and the points scored on the two series will decide the cup holder.

One Advantage.

"So you have adopted a baby to raise?" we ask of our friend. "Well, it may turn out all right, but don't you think you are taking chances?"

"Not a chance," he answers. "No matter how many bad habits the child may develop, my wife can't say he inherits any of them from my side of the house."—Life.

Fixed, but a Fixture.

"Do you think you can fix this car?" inquired the luckless motorist.

"I think so," replied the village blacksmith, who was something of a wag, as he moved around in the shade of the spreading chestnut tree. "When I get through with it if it is not fixed in one way it will be in another."

And he was right.—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

SOLDIERS AT FULL STRENGTH FOR BIG GAME

THORNTON REINSTATED BY O.H.A.—WILL WORK WITH HALPIN.

P. FLANAGAN AT ROVER.

Thornton, who was reinstated by the O.H.A. last night, will work on the defence with Grover Halpin in tonight's game against Depot Batteries of Kingston. Flanagan, who did duty with Halpin in the affair with the Sobel team, will be moved up to rover. Armstrong will remain at centre and Adams and Evans will perform on the wings. LeGros will pit his blocking strength against Tobin, the visitor's netman, who is regarded as something out of the ordinary.

The invaders will reach here in plenty of time to permit Referee Bergoine calling the game sharp at 8.15.

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

DON'T fret about your neighbor's affairs. Maybe he is as competent to manage them as you are.

If you can't do what you like, like what you do—if you can.

The man with the hearty laugh is always in demand, but the market for grouches is glutted.

Some persons spend so much time worrying over things they can't help that they have no time to give to things they might make better.

Many a man is reached by ridicule whom even sarcasm or a club can't get.

Beware the wrath of the patient drudge.

The people who pin their faith to signs always remember the times when the signs come true, but conveniently forget the fall-downs.

Why does a man always get a warm spell if he is addressed as "My good man?"

WHAT OF THAT?

"Tired!" Well, what of that?
Did'st fancy life was spent on beds of ease,
Fluttering the rose leaves scattered by the breeze?
Come, rouse thee, while 'tis called to-day;
Coward! Arise, go forth upon the way!

"Lonely!" And what of that?
Some must be lonely; 'tis not given to all
To feel a heart responsive rise and fall,
To blend another life into its own;
Work may be done in loneliness; work on!

"Dark!" Well, and what of that?
Did'st fondly dream the sun would never set?
Dost fear to lose thy way? Take courage yet;
Learn thou to walk by faith and not by sight;
Thy step will guided be and guided right.

"Hard!" Well, and what of that?
Did'st fancy life one summer holiday,
With lessons none to learn and nought but play?
Go, get thee to thy task; conquer or die!
It must be learned; learn it, then, patiently.

"No help!" Nay, 'tis not so!
Though human help be far, thy God is nigh,
Who feeds the ravens, hears His children cry;
He's near thee, wheresoe'er thy footsteps roam,
And He will guide thee, light thee, help thee home.

CONSORT OF KING GEORGE VISITS LONDON'S POOR

The Roll of Honor With Which Tenement Districts Pay Tribute to Their War Men, Gets Fresh Garlands From the Queen's Bouquet.

The poor people living in some of the districts of London have invented a simple way of honoring their men folk who have gone to the war. In each district they hang a roll of honor on a convenient wall, and each roll is kept freshly garlanded with flowers by the women and children. The roll of honor is a scroll, framed and glazed, showing the names of men who have left their homes in each street to join the fighting forces of the crown.

Queen Mary heard of this custom a few days ago and was so delighted with it that she arranged to make a tour through South Hackney, the district where the custom originated, in order to show her approval of what the poor people were doing. Recently she drove her motorcar, filled with posies, across from Buckingham palace, with no escort save a mounted policeman, who rode ahead to show the way. It was intended that the visit should be perfectly informal, but word of it got out, and the queen found the streets which she proposed to visit so thronged with women and children that she stopped her car, got out and talked and shook hands with scores of the poor people who crowded about her. To each roll of honor she visited she pinned one of the posies she had brought along.

QUEEN MARY.

One resident visited was an old woman crippled by paralysis, whom the queen found sitting near one of the rolls of honor. Her majesty walked to the old woman and took her hand tenderly. Then the following conversation took place:

"I need not ask what is the matter with you," said the queen. "It's paralysis, isn't it?"

"Yes, your majesty," replied the old woman, and she told the queen all about it; all about her husband, hale and hearty still at eighty-one and an old soldier, and all about her five grandsons, who were fighting for their country. The queen bent over and listened gravely to all this. Then she smiled and patted the woman on the shoulder. "I hope you will get better," she said.

"I feel better now, your majesty," replied the crippled old woman, with the tears running down her faded cheeks. "I saw Queen Victoria when I was younger and could get about; I saw King Edward and I saw Queen Alexandra, but I never expected to have the honor of seeing you also, mum!"

"But you have, after all," replied the Queen, laughing and again patting the old woman's shoulder.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

BAILEY—MILLS.

BETHEL, Feb. 7 — Last Wednesday evening, January 31st, at five o'clock, a very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mrs. Chas. Mills, Emily, when her daughter, Olive Elizabeth, was united in marriage to Mr. Cleaveland Bailey in the presence of seventy-five guests.

The bride, who was given away by her brother, George, looked charming in a dress of embroidered net over silk with touches of satin and a bridal veil with orange blossoms. She carried a beautiful bouquet of carnations. Lohengrin's wedding march was played by Miss Greta Mills, cousin of the bride. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. Downs of Omemee. The couple were unattended.

The groom's gift to the bride was a cameo lavalier set with pearls, and a cameo brooch to Miss Greta Mills.

After the ceremony the guests sat down to a sumptuous supper. The bride's table was set with covers for ten. The decorations were in pink and white.

Among the guests present from a distance were: Mrs. J. G. Harvey, Winnipeg, Man.; Mrs. W. R. Elliott, Carberry, Man.; Miss Anna Mills, R. N., Caledonia, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Jackson, Mr. Frank Jackson, Mrs. Dundass, Mr. and Mrs. R. Craig, Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Mills, and Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Downs, of Omemee.

Many useful and beautiful presents were received by the bride, testifying to the high esteem in which the young couple are held.

Mr. and Mrs. Bailey are now in their home at Emily, where their many friends wish them a happy and prosperous life.

That the condition of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Curtis is very much improved will be a source of satisfaction to their numerous friends. Mr. and Mrs. Curtis have been seriously ill for some weeks with severe attacks of la grippe, but they are now able to leave their room. That they will soon be restored to full health is the wish of all their friends and acquaintances.

Capt. Hamilton, of Uxbridge, Ont., who has just returned to Canada to wed, was awarded a Military Cross for gallantry on the battlefield. He was attached to a R. A. M. C. unit at Salonika, and was one of the officers who assisted to drive back a large force of Bulgarians.

Mr A. A. Fowler, who has been confined to his home for several days with an attack of la grippe, is back again to his place of busness today.

Mr. T. E. Pearse of Newport News Va., is in the city, having been called home on account of the death of his mother, the late Mrs. Edgecombe Pearse.

It takes an unusually good man to make good in a public office.

It doesn't matter that a girl has a poor complexion if her father is rich.

PEG O' MY HEART

EVER POPULAR PLAY WILL RETURN TO GRAND NEXT MONDAY.

With the prestige of a remarkable run in New York and a London engagement, which began over a year ago and still unflaggingly continues, comes to the Grand Opera House for one night, Monday, Feb 12, J. Hartley Manners' irresistible little comedy "Peg o' My Heart." Written for the author's wife, Laurette Taylor, and played by her to an apparently insatiable public, "Peg o' My Heart" has had one of those happy successes that, through pure charm and chic, set a new vogue.

The story of Peg is of an exceedingly snobbish, haughty British family who are also sadly impoverished. They receive news one day that the daughter of a distant relative, an Irishman, has been left absolutely alone in the world, and that by her father's wish her guardian is sending her to live with them. They are to receive the sum of one thousand pounds yearly for her care. They eagerly accept the thousand pounds offered, but their worst forebodings are realized when the object of their care arrives, accompanied solely by a disreputable Irish terrier. Peg is the very antipodes of her relations, warm-hearted, impulsive, uncultivated, vulgarian, also fun-loving, astonishingly natural and unconventional. However, they feel that they must struggle along with her for the sake of the thousand pounds. Their attempts to steer her through the devious ways of aristocratic society and her mortifying inability to adapt herself to conventionality and white lies, constitute numerous very amusing episodes.

To avenge our wrongs costs more than to protect our rights.

Nearly all men are suspicious and nearly all women are superstitions.

PETERBOROUGH CHORAL SOCIETY

Editor Review: May I venture to trespass on your space in order to bring under the notice of the various teachers of music, the numerous singers, and the citizens generally of Peterborough, the desirability of furthering the interest of the Peterborough Choral Society, either by taking an active part vocally, or failing that, by permitting their names to be associated with a movement which despite conditions so adverse as at present prevail, gives such real promise of becoming a credit to our city.

In a previous issue of your paper it has already been set forth that the aim of the society was to foster and to encourage the art of choral singing. It was also stated that it confines itself to no denomination, further that its executive was entirely voluntary and subject to annual election. Surely, therefore, a body of singers so largely representative of the best in the various choirs of the city ought, and does, deserve the encouragement at least of those really interested in music of the better kind.

A good commencement has been made with the rehearsals of Mendelssohn's oratorio "Elijah," which, it is hoped, will be presented about January next, and several new members have been enrolled, but to successfully present a work of this magnitude, it is absolutely essential to have a body of singers sufficiently large enough to give proper effect to the work. The society does not appeal for financial support; it has all along been self-sustaining, and this, despite the heavy expenses entailed by the executive in giving oratorios. It does, however, desire the support of all good singers as well as the cooperation and patronage of every prominent citizen who is interested in good singing. The next rehearsal will be held in the Collegiate Hall at 8 p.m. on Tuesday, the 13th inst., when I shall, on behalf of the executive, be glad to welcome any new members, and shall also be very glad to acknowledge any letters from friends who feel they would like to become associated with the society either as honorary members or as patrons.

CLEVER PERFORMANCE BY DIXIE MINSTRELS

Capacity House Heard Entertaining Program.

Dixie Minstrels are immense. In their presentation before a capacity house at St. Alphonsus Lyceum last night, the colored folks gave a highly entertaining program of bright dialogue, catchy music and bright jokes, winning the unstinted applause of the large audience. The performers included a numuer of Peterborough's best-known entertainers ably supported by lesser lights, who last night made good with a vengeance. Visitors to the Lyceum who had never before heard the songsters and their assistants, declared the presentation to be one of the best-balanced entertainments it had ever been their privilege to hear, a neat compliment to Mr. Jack Primeau, who directed the minstrels.

The T. A. S. orchestra supplied the music, the personnel of the orchestra being Miss Marion Gorman, Mr Vincent McCabe, Mr. James Condon, Mr. Ed. Haurahan and Mr. Frank Lynch. Mr. Alex. Primeau capably filled the role of interlocutor.

Holiday Pudding.

Soak a pint of small breadcrumbs (stale) in a quart of milk one hour. Beat four eggs, then put together one quarter cupful sugar, a teaspoonful salt, a saltspoonful cinnamon or nutmeg and a tablespoonful softened butter. Stir this mixture into the well beaten eggs. Then stir the whole together with a cupful raisins boiled until they are plump and soft in milk and breadcrumbs. Bake in a buttered pudding dish for sixty minutes. This will be found to be very tasty and tempting.

Swiss Frontiers Too Exposed for Defi to Germany

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

GENEVA, Feb. 7.—Swiss newspapers editorially approve of the refusal of the Swiss Federal Council to take the same action toward Germany as the United States.

The Journal De Geneve says: "Having common frontiers with Germany and Austria the danger to which we would be exposed would be enormous and the U.S. would be in no position to come to our aid."

"We believe in Entente official circles no resentment will be felt at our attitude and that we are in no way expected to break off relations with the Central Empires."

Application to Parliament

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that the Corporation of the City of Peterborough will apply to the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario, at the next Session thereof, for an Act for the following purposes—

1. To authorize the Council of the City of Peterborough to purchase Motor Driven Fire Apparatus, with the necessary equipment, and to issue Debentures to pay for the same, to an amount not exceeding $10,000.

2—To amend Section 9 of Chapter 82 of the Statutes of 1907, so as to provide for the more expeditious collection of the special rates therein referred to.

3—To authorize the Council or the Peterborough Utilities Commission to instal sanitary conveniences in any building, the owner of which is unable to pay the expense of same at once, or who has neglected to instal same and to make the necessary connections therefrom to the sewage and water works system and to pay the cost thereof and collect the same, including interest, in equal quarterly instalments from the owner of such building, and to provide that such cost shall be a charge on the said building and the land on which the same is situated until fully paid and that if any of said instalments are not paid they may be collected by action against the owner or added to the Colector's roll and collected in like manner as Municipal taxes with authority to the said Council to issue Debentures to meet the cost of said work.

4—In the event of the City acquiring the plant, property and business of the Peterborough Radial Railway Company, that the Peterborough Utilities Commission shall have the control and management thereof, with power to maintain, operate, extend and renew the same and that the said Peterborough Radial Railway shall when acquired be a public utility within the meaning of The Public Utilities Act and the provisions of the said Act, and of section 3 of Chapter 65 of the Acts passed in the year 1915 shall apply to said Railway and to the said Peterborough Utilities Commission, and their duties, authorities and powers in connection with the same, and that the said Peterborough Utilities Commision, with the consent of the Council shall have authority to borrow money for the purposes of the railway and shall have such other powers in connection with the management and maintenance of the Railway as the Council may by By-Laws confer.

5—To authorize the Council, without the assent of the Electors, to borrow such sums not exceeding $10,000.00 in addition to such amounts already provided or authorized, which may be required or needed to satisfy the amount of the award, costs, expenses and disbursements created or incurred by reason of the arbitration between the City of Peterborough and the Peterborough Light and Power Company, Limited, and the litigation resulting therefrom, and also the costs of the purchase of such property of the Peterborough Light and Power Company, Limited, as was a part of the plant of the said Company, outside of the City of Peterborough and adjacent thereto, and to authorise the issue of Debentures of the Corporation therefor.

6—The amount of the rateable property of the Municipality is the sum of $11,564,230.00 and the existing Debenture debt exclusive of local improvement debts payable by local special rates is the sum of $1,978,-350.59 of which the following are the particulars: Waterworks $600,000.00 Electric Lighting and Power Plant $130,000.00, Local Improvements $244,375.28, Public Schools $253,550.00 Collegiate Institute $72,225.31, Protestant Home $14,000.00, General City Debentures $527,100.00

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8—President Wilson read the latest official reports on the sinking of the California and decided nothing definite could be determined until more details were received.

7 CANADIANS MISSING

NEW YORK. Fb. 8.— An official cable advises that the British steamship California was torpedoed without warning were received here today by the Anchor Line. The names of Canadians missing were received as follows:—

Second Cabin—Mrs. E Smith Edna Smith and Mrs. Kidd, Calgary, Alta.; J. W. Alderson and son, Vancouver, B.C. (Mrs. Alderson was saved); Miss Madge Roberts, Toronto.

Steerage—Miss Annie Forbes, Toronto.

LONDON, Feb. 8. — The Central News says the California sank in nine minutes after she was torpedoed.

According to the Exchange Telegraph Co., nearly fifty passengers or members of the crew are reported missing.

The Central News says 28 of the missing are members of the crew. The purser is reported to have been killed.

TANKARD RUNNERS-UP

SKIP W. M. LANG

SKIP R. M. WADDELL

Who, while they failed to lift the Tankard, added laurels to the Peterborough Curling Club by playing their way to the finals, an accomplishment of no small honor in the roarin' game. The Peterborough rinks were: J. Brightman, G. Logie, D. Davidson, R. M. Waddell (skip); Dr. Wightman, H. Foote, S. Ray, W. M. Lang (skip). They were defeated by Owen Sound, the score being 32 to 22. Skip Waddell's rink was tied at 15-15 with their opponents, and Skip Lang was down 10 shots. While the curlers have no excuses to make, they are firmly convinced that the score would have been different had the ice remained hard.

The Grand Trunk Railway have placed an embargo on all cargoes at North Bay, whether carload or less. Traffic waybilled February 4th will be accepted.

No Warning Given to the Eavestoen

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—Reports today from Consul Frost on the sinking of the Eavestone say she also was destroyed without warning.

Andrew Walker, aged 40, while clearing ice from the raceway of the Montrose Paper Mills, Thorold, slipped from the bridge and was drowned.

INCREASE IN SALARY FOR MEMBERS OF POLICE FORCE

Verbal Bouquets for the Police Chief and Increase From $1600 to $1750--- Department Two Men Short.

The police commissioners held their organisation meeting for 1917 yesterday afternoon and Judge Huycke was re-elected chairman. The chief business before the board was the statistical report of Chief of Police Thompson, which is found in another column.

The resignation of Constable Dickson from the force was accepted.

The members of the police department asked the commissioners to increase the salaries of the members of the department.

Chief Valuable Man

Mr. Dumble was in favor of increasing the salary of the Chief, who was a very valued member of the department. In all cases the evidence was prepared by the chief and in many instances he acted as prosecutor. Reference was made to the deparment working harmoniously and doing away with the necessity of a special clerk to make out informations, summonses and attend all sessions of the court the same as is done in Brantford.

Judge Huycke thought the salaries could stand a small increase. If financial conditions would permit he would favor a larger one, but taking into consideration the warning of Mayor Duffus of the probable high tax rate, he would support a medium raise.

Opening at Ottawa

Chief Thompson here mentioned that one of the members of the force could go to Ottawa and join at once as a first-class constable.

Judge Huycke: I have been in many of the cities and towns and none of the departments compared with Peterborough.

Two Men Short

Chief Thompson pointed out that the department was now two men short and he thought that he could get along with the present force if a supply was furnished during the vacation period.

Mr. Dumble favored a raise of $100 a year for three years to the chief.

Mayor Duffus objected to binding future commissioners.

Mr. Dumble then moved that the Chief's salary be $1800

Judge Huycke suggested that the following be the schedule:— Chief, $1750, senior detective, $1100; junior detective, $950; senior sergeant $1000; police sergeants, $950; first-class constables, $900; second class, $850; third class, $750.

Mayor Duffus objected to this as he thought the lower grades should be dealt with as fairly as the higher paid officers. The dollar was lessened in value to the constables as much as to the sergeants.

Mayor Duffus' schedule was: Chief $1700, first detective $1100; second detective $1000, senior sergeant $1050, patrol sergeants $975, first-class constables $950, second-class $850, third class $750.

POLICE CHIEF THOMPSON

Whose department is recognized as being one of the best conducted and most effective police departments in the Dominion.

Judge Huycke was willing to approve of the Mayor's idea if the Chief's salary was made $1750.

This was satisfactory all round and the motion was made by Mr. Dumble, seconded by the Mayor, and carried unanimously.

Salary Schedule

The salary schedule as adopted and a comparison with the previous salary paid is as follows:

Chief Constable	$1600	$1750
Senior detective	$1050	$1100
Junior detective	$ 900	$1000
Senior sergeant	$ 950	$1050
Patrol sergeant	$ 875	$ 975
First-class constable .	$ 850	$ 950
Second-class const...	$ 800	$ 850
Third-class const. ...	$ 700	$ 750

CAPT. SODEN'S SON JOINS THE HEAVY BATTERY

J. C. HUNTER AND S. E. WOOD ARE WITH THE 247TH.

Another of the Soden family has joined the ranks of the Canadian forces. Yesterday Lawrence E. Soden, son of Capt. R. J. Soden, quartermaster of the 247th Batt., enlisted with tha Cobourg Heavy Battery and after passing the rigid medical examination was sworn in. Gunner Soden, who was attached to the local staff of the Bank of Montreal, will report for duty in two weeks.

The 247th Batt. band left at noon for Port Hope, where they will remain until Monday. Capt. Belton went down with them and will boom recruiting in the Lake Ontario town for about a week.

A recruiting meeting will be held there on Sunday night. Major O'Flynn will be one of the speakers at this meeting.

The strength of the 247th Batt. is growing every day. Yesterday two men were attested—Ptes. J. C. Hunter of this city and S. E. Wood of Omemee.

STILL MISSING

POLICE AND FRIENDS HAVE NO CLUE TO WHEREABOUTS OF MR. MIGHT.

No further information as to the whereabouts of Mr. Fred Might has been received

The friends and relatives have all been communicated with, and the police departments of all the leading cities and towns asked to make every inquiry.

The last definite information regarding Mr. Might was from Mr. Ed. Finnie, the night watchman, and Mr. Hamilton, of the King George Hotel, who saw him on Simcoe St. on Sunday night, shortly after 10 o'clock.

Many rumors that Mr. Might had been seen in different places have proven to be without the slightest foundation.

RETIRING C. M. GIVEN JEWEL

NEW OFFICERS FOR THE COUNTY ORANGE LODGE.

The annual meeting of County Orange Lodge for West Peterborough was held in Victoria Hall on Tuesday afternoon and evening. There was a large attendance of all the members for the election and installation of officers.

The retiring County Master, Bro. E. F. Reid, was presented with a Past Master's jewel. Bro. Frank Lockington, of Nassau Lodge, read the address and Bro. J. H. Spence made the presentation, which was gratefully acknowledged by the retiring County Master.

Past County Master J. W. Stuart installed the following County officers for 1917:

County Master—Bro. A. R. Robson.

Dep. C.M.—Bro. J. H. Spence

A Counter-Attack by Germans Failed to Dislodge Them.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

PETROGRAD, Feb. 8.— Russian detachments yesterday attacked Teuton positions near Kirlibaba in the Carpathian mountains, says today's official statement, and despite artillery and rifle fire and mine explosions, dashed through the barbed wire entanglements and occupied a German first line trench.

A German counter-attack was not successful in recapturing the ground lost.

ADJOURNS FOR TWO MONTHS

PREMIER GIVEN GOD-SPEED ON MISSION TO ENGLAND.

OTTAWA, Feb. 8.—The House of Commons, after a brief sitting Wednesday, adjourned until April 19.

The members went up to the Senate to witness the Royal assent to the bills passed this session, which was given by Sir Charles Fitzpatrick as the deputy of the Governor-General.

When they returned to their chamber Sir Robert Borden moved the adjournement of the House.

Mr. Middleton, chief Conservative whip, moved three cheers and a God-speed to the Prime Minister. The cheers were given, all the members on both sides of the House joining heartily.

LOUIS FAILED TO APPEAR

POLICE CHARGE HIM WITH PEDDLING WITHOUT A LICENSE.

Louis Cooper, who was summoned to appear before Police Magistrate Dumble on a charge of peddling without a license, failed to put in an appearance this morning and the case was adjourned for a week to allow the police to apprehend him.

The specific charge against him was selling eyeglasses to different citizens and the goods were not satisfactory in some instances and people complained. The local opticians also thought that it was unfair to them that a stranger should be allowed to sell his wares without paying a license. This same man has been before to Peterborough and on previous occasions the police were not able to locate him.

For Safe Departure of Bernstorff and Other Officials.

Also Men on German Ships in United States Ports.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—Ambassador Gerard, the American Consul, and the American sailors brought in on the prize ship Yarrowdale, are being held in Germany until assurances have been received from here as to the safe departure of Count von Bernstorff and German consuls, and the safety of German war-bound ships in this country. It was said at the State Department today that sensational reports have become current in Germany that German ships here have been confiscated and their crews seized.

Pending confirmation, Germany has detained the Americans. Officials here are inclined to minimize the importance of the detention because they believe it largely has arisen from a misunderstanding and soon will be straightened out.

LONDON, Feb. 8.— The German Government will require guarantees that Count von Bernstorff and the men on German ships in American ports will be permitted to leave the States before Ambassador Gerard and other Americans in Germany will be permitted to leave Germany, according to a Reuter despatch from Copenhagen.

Spirited Fighting on Verdun Front is Reported

(Canadian Press Despatch)

PARIS, Feb. 8. (Official)—On the Verdun front last night there was somewhat spirited fighting with artillery and grenades in the region of Hill 304 and Avercourt Wood. We captured a German patrol near Bouzee.

In Alsace, patrol encounters occurred in the sectors of Metzeral, Aspach and Seppers. The night was calm on the remainder of the front.

On Tuesday night one of our aviators threw down six bombs on military establishments at Lahr Grand Dutch of Baden. On the same night one of our squadrons bombarded aviation grounds at Mariakerke.

PETERBOROUGH, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 8, 1917

THE KITCHENER LEAGUE.

IF THERE IS ONE patriotic organization in Peterborough that is entitled to the hearty support of the public, it is the local branch of the Canadian Kitchener League, that has done so much for the soldiers at the front. It was one of the earliest organizations in the field after the war broke out, and has never wearied in well doing since the splendid work was first undertaken. Many a soldier in Flanders has found his strenuous lot easier by reason of the beneficence of the League. While the chief donations have been those ever-popular socks, other comforts just as welcome have been forwarded. Those letters home from the boys in the trenches have probably been written upon paper, with pencils and by the light of candles sent by the ladies of the local Kitchener League. Many a footsore warrior has had his aches alleviated by timely gifts from the same source. The value of the work can scarcely be estimated even though the beneficiaries may appreciate it to the full.

The members of the League have made sacrifices both in time and money. They require funds to carry on the work. Their record today shows that they have sent overseas 5.373 pairs of socks, more than 500 scarves, 400 wristlets, 100 Balaklava caps, 600 pounds of tobacco and cigarettes, 100 dozen lead pencils, 100 dozen candles and more than 100 boxes of gum. Besides these they have sent handkerchiefs, writing pads, liniment, foot powder, chocolates and peppermints, the food value of the two last-mentioned articles being recognized by the profession.

Besides the special treats at Easter and Christmas each year, many comforts, such as sweater coats and shirts, were provided in those early months of the war before the Government issue was ready.

Is not that League entitled to the hearty and active sympathy of every patriotic citizen? Ever resourceful, the ladies in the societies have decided upon a novel method of raising the funds which are so essential for carrying on the work. On the afternoon of next Wednesday, February 17th, a social tea will be held at the Oriental. In the evening an entertainment, consisting of cards and dancing, will be held at the same hotel under the direction of a committee of the Belmont Club, the entire proceeds to go to the Leagu. No formal invitations will be issued, but the public are asked to accept those extended through the press. An object so worthy should attract a large crowd, aside altogether from the excellent entertainment which will be provided.

PENNY BANKS IN SCHOOLS.

IF THE BOARD of Education should decide to establish penny savings banks in the public schools, there is no doubt that the banks would co-operate and accept the accounts, even though the carrying of them would entail an actual loss. As a patriotic move the banks would agree to this, one of the institutions taking care of the accounts of a particular school.

Is it any more reasonable to ask a bank to undertake some particular line of business which means actual loss than it is to impose the same burden on some other branch of industry? Would it be fair, for example, to ask a grocer to sell some specified article in infinitesimal quantities below actual cost?

The teaching of thrift and economy is an essential part of the education of every child, but there are things which the pupil should be taught at home. The present-day tendency is to shift too much of the responsibility for the child's training upon the teacher. There is no difference in principle between the proposed penny banks and a proposition to establish dining-rooms in the public schools for the purpose of teaching the children table manners, the supplies for this innovation to be furnished by retail dealers at a financial sacrifice.

If the banks agree to handle penny deposits from the schools, why cannot they modify their present regulations and accept small accounts directly from the children? This would relieve the schools and the teachers of an unnecessary burden.

THE TROUBLE AT KITCHENER.

AN ORGANIZATION that is known as the British League is sending out circulars to the newspapers all over the country appealing for moral support in the recent changing of the name of that city from Berlin to its present deignation. The appeal just received consists largely of an assault on the Governments of Ontario and the Dominion. So fierce is this attack that the suspicion is justified that the organization from which it emanates is really a Liberal committee disguised for the occasion.

A circular just received starts out with the astounding assertion, as mendacious as it is surprising, to the effect that "Mr. P. E. Blondin, the new Postmaster-General, who is a Quebec Nationalist, travelled through the Province of Quebec a few years ago stating that he would shoot holes in the Union Jack."

The only suspicion of truth in the quotation is the official title given the gentleman in question. Mr. Blondin is not [illegible] a Quebec Nationalist. If he were, he would not be in the Dominion Cabinet working to send men and money to the European war. If he were a Nationalist he would not have helped in an election campaign as he did a few days ago on a platform that called for the prosecution of the war while Canada had a man or a dollar to spare.

Mr. Blondin never threatened to shoot holes in the Union Jack. That statement, that has been so often and so maliciously distorted for partisan purposes, was simply a declaration of an historical fact. When Hon. Geo. P. Graham was in this city a few weeks ago he said that our fathers had fought and bled in order to secure representative government for Canada. There was nothing of treason in such an utterance, and what Mr. Blondin said so many years ago was no more objectionable, even if a trifle more fiery, than were the words used by Mr. Graham.

There is politics in the Kitchener circular; small politics, too. It is hardly fair to hold a man eternally responsible for anything he may say in the heat of debate. No such apology can be offered on behalf of the circular in question. It has been framed with deliberation and sent broadcast over the country with partisan malice aforethought.

When the citizens who favored changing the name of their city from Berlin to Kitchener sent a deputation to wait upon the Federal authorities, they were told that the matter was one within the jurisdiction of the Legislature. The name was changed, and the Postoffice Department took official cognizance of the fact. Everything was regular from the beginning. The late Postmaster-General Casgrain issued an order that all mail addressed to Berlin, Ont., be sent to the dead letter office. This was found to work an injustice to the residents and business men of Kitchener, as the change was not known of among their correspondents in the United States and in Europe. It was, besides, a violation of the regulations of the postal union, and the order was rescinded by Mr. Blondin. Any mail now addressed to Berlin is forwarded to Kitchener, the proper name being stamped over the old one by the postoffice staff in the office where the missive is mailed.

Kitchener has received from the Government all it asked for. The residents of that city cannot expect the rest of the Dominion to take an interest in their family strife. It is a brazen policy that would send out campaign literature in the guise of patriotic appeals, thus "making ungodly political capital out of the country's pain."

"AFTER THE WAR."

THE CONSCIENCE of the average legislator, federal, provincial, or civic, like that of the mere private citizen, is easily salved. When he seeks an excuse for procrastination or for dodging the responsibility for action that does not appeal ot him, he invariably hides behind the war question. "Better not do anything while the whole world is fighting," is his plea.

"Let us not build bathing beaches until the war is over," argues the indifferent and those actually opposed to the suggestion. The excuse is lame. If ever there was a time when public interest demands that tht best possible care be taken of the rising generation, those who are to be the mainstay of the nation in the future, that time is the present. Cleanliness means health, and healthy citizens as a rule are useful. Public bathing places will make for a more virile and contented race. This "after the war" fallacy has been worked to death by those who would shirk either responsibility or outlay, however trifling.

THE MEDICALLY UNFIT.

MEMBERS OF the Opposition in Parliament have been censuring the Government on account of the large number of enlisted men who, after a short period of training in England, are returned to Canada as medically unfit. The claim is made that these men should not have been taken into the service in the first place and that through them the country is put to needless expense.

This point is not well taken. The majority of the unfits returned to Canada are suffering from diseases contracted after their arrival in England. They fulfilled all the medical requirements when they were accepted as recruits. Others, too, are returnd after a long period of strenuous service has demonstrated to the satisfaction of their superiors that they lack the temperamental equipment so essential in a soldier.

A RELIGIOUS TRUCE BROKEN.

WHEN THE GENERAL ASSEMLY of the Presbyterian Church, in session at Winnipeg last summer, voted by a large majority in favor of church union it was decided to take no further action until the close of the war. This truce has been broken by those who are opposed to union. The antis are sending the literature broadcast over the face of the earth, using every possible argument in support of their cause, and with a virulence that would sizzle even in a politcal campaign

If one side is satisfied to let the matter rest until a more momentous issue is decided, why should not their opponents recognize the white flag?

A NEW WAR CORRESPONDENT.

SINCE THE FIRST DAYS of the war the newspaper readers of Canada have with all reason complained of the paucity of the reports received from the front. The [illegible] censorship suppressed much that was of vital interest, and no newspaper representative from this country was allowed on the fighting line. The appointment of a Canadian official eye-witness proved considerable of a farce.

All this is to be changed. The Canadian Associated Press is to be allowed to have a representative at headquarters, and the directors have selected Mr. Stewart Lyon, managing editor of the Toronto Globe, for the position. The appointment will give general satisfaction. Mr. Lyon's reputation as a journalist is fully established. He has been a closer student of the war than perhaps any other man in Canada, and his articles on that subject have come to be regarded as the best authority extant.

The reading public will get the benefit of his services, the value of which will be trebled when he has an opportunity to study the situation at first hand.

A Little Addendum.

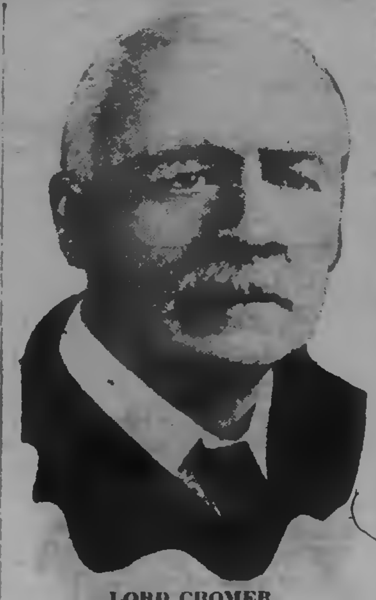
(Buffalo Express.)

Walter Hume Long says that the colonies which Great Britain has taken from Germany never will be returned. That makes a small addendum to the Entente conditions of peace.

MODERN EGYPT MADE BY GENIUS OF LORD CROMER PROSPEROUS AND STRONG

Land of the Pharoahs and the Pyramids Owes Much to Administration of One Man.

His Work Was of Vast Importance to Empire.



LORD CROMER

EGYPT, the Land of the Pharoahs, and of the pyramids, owes the prosperity of her people more distinctly and exclusively to the activities of one man than perhaps any other land ever did. That man was Evelyn Baring, Lord Cromer, whose death is a vast loss to British statesmanship.

Born, as the saying goes, "with a gold spoon in his mouth," a Baring, a member of the best known of English banking families, Evelyn Baring would not let indolence or apathy lay hold upon him. He chose to go into the Royal Artillery in 1858; he had only risen to a captaincy in 1870. His relative, Lord Northbrook, having become Viceroy of India in 1872, made the young man his private secretary, and Evelyn stayed in India for four years, learning administration in a good school. Made Commissioner of the Egyptian Public Debt in 1877, he studied intelligently the horrible conditions in Egypt.

Ismail Pasha was Khedive. Ismail had done something for education, something for improvements, but was a veritable Sardanapalus in his luxury, contemptuous of the commos people, ever seeking by intolerable taxation to grind out of them the vast sums needed for his extravagance and for the deals by which he secured extension of power from Constantinople. Every man was taxed. Every animal was taxed twice if it were a meat creature, once otherwise. Every crop was taxed, charcoal was taxed, salt was taxed, butter was taxed, and horrible cruelties were imposed on those who could not or would not pay. The kurbash was in use everywhere. Ismail's vanity was pouring out money on useless efforts to dominate the Soudan and Abyssinia.

Ismail died in 1879 and Tewfik Pasha succeeded him. That same year Baring was made Controller General. He could do little for Egypt then. But after the bombarding of Alexandria that followed the revolt of Arabi Pasha in 1882, and the British occupation, all things were changed. Baring was made British Agent and Consul General in 1883, and served in that capacity till 1907. He had a sufficient British military force, he had virtually carte blanche from London, he ruled Egypt as truly as if he had been Khedive, and he made Egypt what she was before the war broke out in 1914.

Temperamentally Baring, who was made a baron in 1892, a viscount in 1898, and Earl Cromer in 1901, impressed the Egyptians. He was an aristocrat, he maintained a state that made him respected, he was physically courageous, and his very arrogance won support. He got rid of the heavy whip, the kurbash for collecting taxes, he lowered the land tax by 30 per cent. He abolished the corvee or semi-feudal service, exacted from the poor. He ended many of the annoying taxes on persons and personal property. He substituted, in a word, scientific for unscientific taxation. The Fellaheen began to be prosperous. The irrigation monopoly of the large landholders was broken up. And the treasury was filled nevertheless. Slavery became "virtually extinct." Law and order ruled. They continued to rule after he left Egypt; they rule now, so far as is possible, with war going on; they will rule after the war is over. The life work of Lord Cromer is secure.

Incidentally, this life work was of vast importance to the British Empire. Egypt contented under British domination, the Suez Canal was safe, communications with India were safe, and Constantinople became a matter of indifference to England, as is shown in the readiness of the English to consent to Russian control of that city and of the Dardanelles.

Of all the administrators who have taken up for England what is called "the White Man's Burden," Lord Cromer was the best type. None ever won more dramatic success. None ever gripped the appreciation of his own people and of the world so quickly as he did. His name belongs to the history of the British Empire.

WORK FOR THE MAYOR

Editor Review: While Mayor Duffus is busying himself with the railway board in an effort to secure increased shipments of coal to this city it strikes me that there is work for him along these lines nearer home. There are hundreds of cords of wood piled up in the various yards of the city and this should be sufficient to relieve the fuel situation here.

I went to a wood dealer yesterday and attempted to purchase a cord of wood, the price quoted being $7. I was told by the dealer that he could not sell any as he had no team to deliver it.

Later in the day I returned and offered to take the wood at the dealer's price and hire a team at my own expense to cart it to my home. Again I was put off. I would have been suffering yet from a lack of fuel but for the fact that I met a farmer with a load of wood for sale and had it delivered to my shed for $7.

Why should citizens suffer while there is abundance of wood for sale? I noticed plenty of coal on hand, too, on the same premises. Are the dealers attempting to hold out on the public in order to boost the price still higher? Here is something for our mayor to investigate.

A SUFFERER.

Editor Review: As an old Conservative and one deeply interested in the welfare of the Empire and of Canada, I want to call the Conservative party's attention to the fact that the Liberals are preparing for an election. The other day one of the leaders of the Liberal party of the House got up and asked the Borden Government if, in case of an elections, the ballots were all ready for the soldiers and they were told that they were.

Now I say that it is plain that the Opposition intend to force an election, and I know that the Conservatives who are on the inside are aware of that fact. Let the local Conservatives take notice of this. I know the local Conservatives are well able to take care of the situation, but it won't do to forget that organization is just as necessary now as ever it was, and we know that the Hearst Government is also getting ready to go to the country because it has adopted prohibition as its policy and all temperance people are anxious to have a Government in that is for temperance and I hope that the local Conservatives will select a first class man now and give him a chance to meet the people so that he will not be caught napping when the time comes.

MAKE PREPARATIONS TO FACE ALL NEW PROBLEMS THAT WILL FOLLOW WAR

Province Has Done Much for the Prosecution ot Fight

THE approaching session of the Legislature, which opens on February 13th, will be one of great consequence to the people of Ontario. With the war in its third year and the record of Canada's participation before them, the representatives of the people will gather to take counsel together, to review the course of Ontario's assistance, and to plan for the enlargement of the work of the Government to meet the conditions that will arise when the men of this country are released from their war labors.

The Province as a whole can regard with pride what has been accomplished. In many ways Ontario has rendered signal service to the Dominion and to the Mother Country. A good start has already been made towards organising for after-war conditions. What is known as the Organization of Resources Committee has made satisfactory progress during the year in stimulating production and aiding patriotic movements all over the Province. Since it was appointed the Soldiers' Aid Commission has been of assistance to a large number of returned men. The colonization policy of the Government under Hon. G. H. Ferguson is being amplified to make settlement in the North easy and attractive as well as in the older parts of the Province. The men who desire to go on the land will be guided and trained, and money, as needed, will be set aside out of the funds of the Province, to help them to re-establish themselves in this way again in civil life.

The newly-formed Department of Labor, with its employment offices in large centres, has been able to meet the labor demands of the Imperial Munitions Board. The floating supply of labor has been directed into channels where it has been utilized to the best advantage. At the same time the Colonization Branch is canvassing the border states for agricultural laborers to help the farmers during the coming season.

And while this has been going on the Department of Highways has prepared a program of construction to keep pace with the growing demands of the country. It was recently announced by Hon. F. G. Macdiarmid that a system of provincial highways would be established extending from Windsor to the Quebec boundary to form the backbone of a larger system that would make farm life in Ontario comfortable, attractive, and profitable. All but a few counties have come under the Highway Improvement Act, and those remaining are expected to come to a decision shortly.

Following the practice of former years the Department of Highways is holding a conference for county road superintendents and engineers early in February. In past years these gatherings have been profitable and instructive. Interest is increasing as the good roads movement grows, and to-day Ontario is abreast of the most progressive communities in this work, and in some respects may be said to be showing leadership.

The forthcoming budget of Hon. T. W. McGarry, Provincial Treasurer, will be important as showing a wise and careful disposition of the finance for the year. In the three years that Mr. McGarry has been in charge of the finances of Ontario the Department has made conspicuous strides towards efficiency.

OUT OF THE WAR

"Through its destruction of men and monuments the war has given to surviving Europeans more ruggedness and firmer character and a realization of the fact that it is dangerous to bury oneself in a past that the present has set about abolishing, and that a settled state of mind tends to form prejudices and to become old faster than the nation itself. But there remain to us a sufficient number of traces of our ancient glory—traces sometimes painfully shattered and for that reason all the more precious—to permit us to find in the past a criterion and a point of comparison for our new enterprises. The deserted cottage is loved all the more when we return to it. The field that has been made barren by a thunderous rain of steel will be cultivated with even more perseverance for its having been for a time a waste. The mutilated cathedrals predispose one to a firmer faith. On visiting our battlefields and sojourning in our shattered cities, which recovery will quickly make more prosperous, you will better understand what good fruit lies in traditions that upheld and comforted us when the present appeared to hold only ruin and disaster."—Jules Bois, in the February Century.

High-priced Eggs.

The Hamilton Patriotic Fund had one unique contribution. Twelve dozen eggs were delivered at headquarters, with some verses by a Canadian hen, stating that she was unable to go herself, but felt she ought to do her bit. These were auctioned off by Robert Hobson in dozens, and realized $291, some dozen lots bringing the fabulous price, even in these times of high prices, of $30.

No New Slang.

There is no new slang under the sun. Those "characteristic Americanisms," such as "take it from me," "the real stuff," "piker," "sure thing," and so on, have been traced to Sheridan, Thackeray, Smollett, Dickens, and others, and are in common use in Great Britain, while there appears to be little question that Aristophanes was the first to use the expression, "We take the cake."

CHAPTER II.

AND now, before I take up my tale, I want to anticipate the doubting Thomases of psychology, who are prone to scoff and who would otherwise surely say that the coherence of my dreams is due to overstudy and the subconscious projection of my knowledge of evolution into my dreams. In the first place, I have never been a zealous student. I graduated last of my class. I cared more for athletics and—there is no reason I should not confess it—more for billiards.

Further, I had no knowledge of evolution until I was at college, whereas in my childhood and youth I had already lived in my dreams all the details of that other, long ago life. I will say, however, that these details were mixed and incoherent until I came to know the science of evolution. Evolution was the key. It gave the explanation, gave sanity to the pranks of this atavistic brain of mine that, modern and normal, harked back to a past so remote as to be contemporaneous with the raw beginnings of mankind.

For in this past I know of, man, as we today know him, did not exist. It was in the period of his becoming that I must have lived and had my being.

The commonest dream of my early childhood was something like this: It seemed that I was very small and that I lay curled op in a sort of nest of twigs and boughs. Sometimes I was lying on my back.

In this position it seemed that I spent many hours, watching the play of sunlight on the foliage overhead and the stirring of the leaves by the wind. Often the nest itself moved back and forth when the wind was strong.

But always, while so lying in the nest, I was mastered by a feeling as of tremendous space beneath me. I never saw it, I never peered over the edge of the nest to see, but I knew and feared that space that lurked just beneath me and that ever threatened me like a maw of some all devouring monster.

This dream, in which I was quiescent and which was more like a condition than an experience of action, I dreamed very often in my early childhood. But suddenly there would rush into the very midst of it strange forms and ferocious happenings, the thunder and crashing of storm or unfamiliar landscapes such as in my wake-a-day life I had never seen. The result was confusion and nightmare. I could comprehend nothing of it. There was no logic of sequence.

You see, I did not dream consecutively. One moment I was a wee babe of the younger world lying in my tree nest; the next moment I was a grown man of the younger world locked in combat with the hideous Red Eye, and the next moment I was creeping carefully down to the water hole in the heat of the day. Events years apart in their occurrence in the younger world occurred with me within the space of several minutes or seconds.

It was all a jumble, but this jumble I shall not inflict upon you. It was not until I was a young man and had dreamed many thousand times that everything straightened out and became clear and plain. Then it was that I got the clew of time and was able to piece together events and actions in their proper order. Thus was I able to reconstruct the vanished younger world as it was at the time I lived in it—or at the time my other self lived in it. The distinction does not matter, for I, too, the modern man, have gone back and lived that early life in the company of my other self.

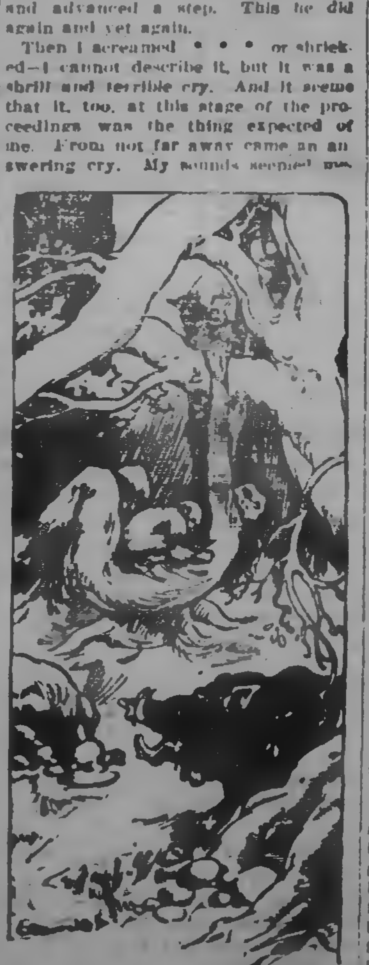
For your convenience, since this is to be no sociological screed, I shall frame together the different events into a comprehensive story. For there is a certain thread of continuity and happening that runs through all the dreams. There is my friendship with Lop Ear, for instance. Also there are the enmity of Red Eye and the love of the Swift One. Taking it all in all, a fairly coherent and interesting story, I am sure you will agree.

I do not remember much of my mother. Possibly the earliest recollection I have of her—and certainly the sharpest—is the following: It seemed I was lying on the ground. I was somewhat older than during the nest days, but still helpless. I rolled about in the dry leaves, playing with them and making crooning, rasping noises in my throat.

Suddenly I heard a sound. I sat upright and listened. I made no movement. The little noises died down in my throat, and I sat as one petrified. The sound drew closer. It was like the grunt of a pig. Then I began to hear the sounds caused by the moving of a body through the brush. Next I saw the ferns agitated by the passage of the body. Then the ferns parted, and I saw gleaming eyes, a long snout and white tusks.

It was a wild boar. He peered at me curiously. He grunted once or twice and shifted his weight from one foreleg to the other, at the same time moving his head from side to side and swaying the ferns. Still I sat as one petrified, my eyes unblinking as I stared at him, fear eating at my heart.

It seemed that this movelessness and silence on my part was what was expected of me. I was not to cry out in the face of fear. It was a dictate of instinct. And so I sat there and waited for I knew not what. The boar thrust the ferns aside and stepped into the open. The curiosity went out of his eyes and they gleamed cruelly. He tossed his head at me threateningly and advanced a step. This he did again and yet again.



With Clashing Tusks the Boar Drove Past Underneath.

Then I screamed * * * or shrieked—I cannot describe it, but it was a shrill and terrible cry. And it seems that it, too, at this stage of the proceedings was the thing expected of me. From not far away came an answering cry. My sounds seemed momentarily to disconcert the boar, and while he halted and shifted his weight with indecision an apparition burst upon us.

She was like a large orang outang, my mother, or like a chimpanzee, and yet, in sharp and definite ways, quite different. She was heavier of build than they and had less hair. Her arms were not so long and her legs were stouter. She wore no clothes—only her natural hair. And I can tell you she was a fury when she was excited.

And like a fury she dashed upon the scene. She was gritting her teeth, making frightful grimaces, snarling, uttering sharp and continuous cries that sounded like "kh-ah, kh-ah!" So sudden and formidable was her appearance that the boar involuntarily bunched himself together on the defensive and bristled as she swerved toward him. Then she swerved toward me. She had quite taken the breath out of him. I knew just what to do in that moment of time she had gained. I leaped to meet her, catching her about the waist and holding on hand and foot—yes, by my feet.

As I say, I leaped to meet her, and on the instant she leaped straight up into the air, catching an overhanging branch with her hands. The next instant, with clashing tusks, the boar drove past underneath. He had recovered from his surprise and sprung forward, emitting a squeal that was almost a trumpeting. At any rate it was a call, for it was followed by the rushing of bodies through the ferns and brush from all directions.

From every side wild hogs dashed into the open space—a score of them. But my mother swung over the top of a thick limb a dozen feet from the ground, and, still holding on to her, we perched there in safety. She was very excited. She chattered and screamed and scolded down at the bristling, tooth gnashing circle that had gathered beneath. I, too, trembling, peered down at the angry beasts and did my best to imitate my mother's cries.

From the distance came similar cries, only pitched deeper, into a sort of roaring bass. These grew momentarily louder, and soon I saw him approaching, my father—at least by all the evidence of the times I am driven to conclude that he was my father.

He was not an extremely prepossessing father, as fathers go. He seemed half man and half ape, and yet not ape and not yet man. I fail to describe him. There is nothing like him today on the earth, under the earth, nor in the earth. He was a large man in his day, and he must have weighed all of a hundred and thirty pounds. His face was broad and flat, and the eyebrows overhung the eyes. The eyes themselves were small, deep set and close together.

The forehead slanted back from the eyes, and the hair began right at the eyes and ran up over the head. The head itself was preposterously small and was supported on an equally preposterous thick, short neck.

There was an elemental economy about his body—as was there about all our bodies. The chest was deep, it is true, cavernously deep; but there were no full swelling muscles, no wide spreading shoulders, no clean limbed straightness, no generous symmetry of outline. It represented strength, that body of my father's, strength without beauty; ferocious, primordial strength, made to clutch and gripe and rend and destroy.

His hips were thin, and the legs, lean and hairy, were crooked and stringy muscled. In fact, my father's legs were more like arms. They were twisted and gnarly and with scarcely the semblance of the full meaty calf such as graces your leg and mine. I remember he could not walk on the flat of his foot. This was because it was a prehensile foot, more like a hand than a foot. The great toe, instead of being in line with the other toes, opposed them, like a thumb, and its opposition to the other toes was what enabled him to get a grip with his foot. This was why he could not walk on the flat of his foot.

But his appearance was no more unusual than the manner of his coming there to my mother and me as we perched above the angry wild pigs. He came through the trees, leaping from limb to limb and from tree to tree, and he came swiftly. I can see him now in my wake-a-day life, as I write this, swinging along through the trees, a four handed, hairy creature howling with rage, pausing now and again to beat his chest with his clenched fist, leaping ten and fifteen foot gaps, catching a branch with one hand and swinging on across another gap to catch with his other hand and go on, never hesitating, never at a loss as to how to proceed on his aerial way.

HELPS FOR THE COOK

A ONE-TIME ROYAL CHEF GIVES THESE HINTS ABOUT OVENS.

Tear up a sheet of kitchen paper into not too small pieces and try the oven by placing in it one of these every eight or ten minutes till you obtain the desired temperature.

If on being put into the oven the paper blazes up or burns at once the oven is manifestly too hot for anything.

If after a stay of two or three minutes the paper turns a dark, almost chocolate, brown the oven is a hot one, fit for patties and small pastry generally.

If after the same time the paper becomes a Havana or cigar brown the oven is "quick" and ready for tarts and such like.

If the paper in the same time only turns a yellowish brown (the color of a good deal plank) the oven is a "moderately quick" or "soaking" oven, ready for bread, large meat or game pies, poundcake, etc.

If, lastly, when left in for this time the paper is barely tinged with a yellowish shade, sponge cakes, meringues and such like may be safely put into it.

Hot Sauce.

Mix one-half cupful sugar, one-half tablespoonful cornstarch and a few grains salt. Add gradually, while stirring constantly, a cupful boiling water and boil five minutes. Remove from fire, add a tablespoonful lemon juice and two tablespoonfuls brandy; then color with fruit red.

THE TONIC THAT BRINGS HEALTH

"Fruit-a-tives" Builds Up The Whole System

Those who take "Fruit-a-tives" for the first time, are often astonished at the way it builds them up and makes them feel better all over. They may be taking "Fruit-a-tives" for some specific disease, as Constipation, Indigestion, Chronic Headaches or Neuralgia, Kidney or Bladder Trouble, Rheumatism or Pain in the Back. And they find when "Fruit-a-tives" has cured the disease, that they feel better and stronger in every way. This is due to the wonderful tonic properties of these famous tablets, made from fruit juices.

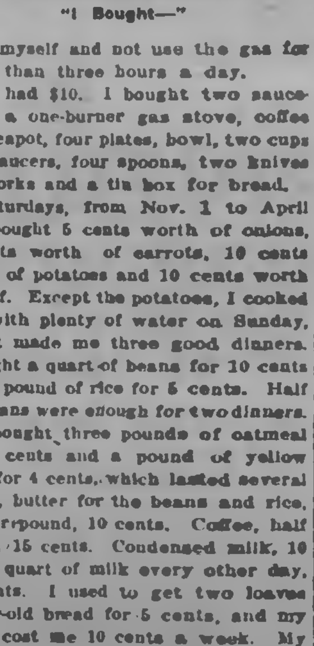
ECONOMICAL LIVING THIS

GIRL TELLS HOW SHE GOT ALONG ON FIVE DOLLARS A WEEK.

In answer to the question, "Can a girl live on $6 a week?" there was received by a city newspaper a letter which has a ring of unquestionable genuineness, in which a girl tells how she did live on $5 a week. It is a most interesting letter. But it in turn asks another question—could more than one woman in a thousand live as this girl did—would more than one in a thousand have the strength, the sagacity, the indomitable courage, to face such a daily existence? Here is the letter:

"Some years ago I entered a department store at $5 a week; today I am getting $12. I got a fair-sized clean room for $2 a week, with the understanding that I was to take care of it myself and not use the gas for more than three hours a day.



"I Bought—"

"I had $10. I bought two saucepans, a one-burner gas stove, coffee pot, teapot, four plates, bowl, two cups and saucers, four spoons, two knives and forks and a tin box for bread.

"Saturdays, from Nov. 1 to April 1, I bought 5 cents worth of onions, 5 cents worth of carrots, 10 cents worth of potatoes and 10 cents worth of beef. Except the potatoes, I cooked this with plenty of water on Sunday, and it made me three good dinners. I bought a quart of beans for 10 cents and a pound of rice for 5 cents. Half the beans were enough for two dinners.

"I bought three pounds of oatmeal for 9 cents and a pound of yellow meal for 4 cents, which lasted several weeks, butter for the beans and rice, quarter-pound, 10 cents. Coffee, half pound, 15 cents. Condensed milk, 10 cents, quart of milk every other day, 10 cents. I used to get two loaves of day-old bread for 5 cents, and my bread cost me 10 cents a week. My lunch never cost me more than 6 cents.

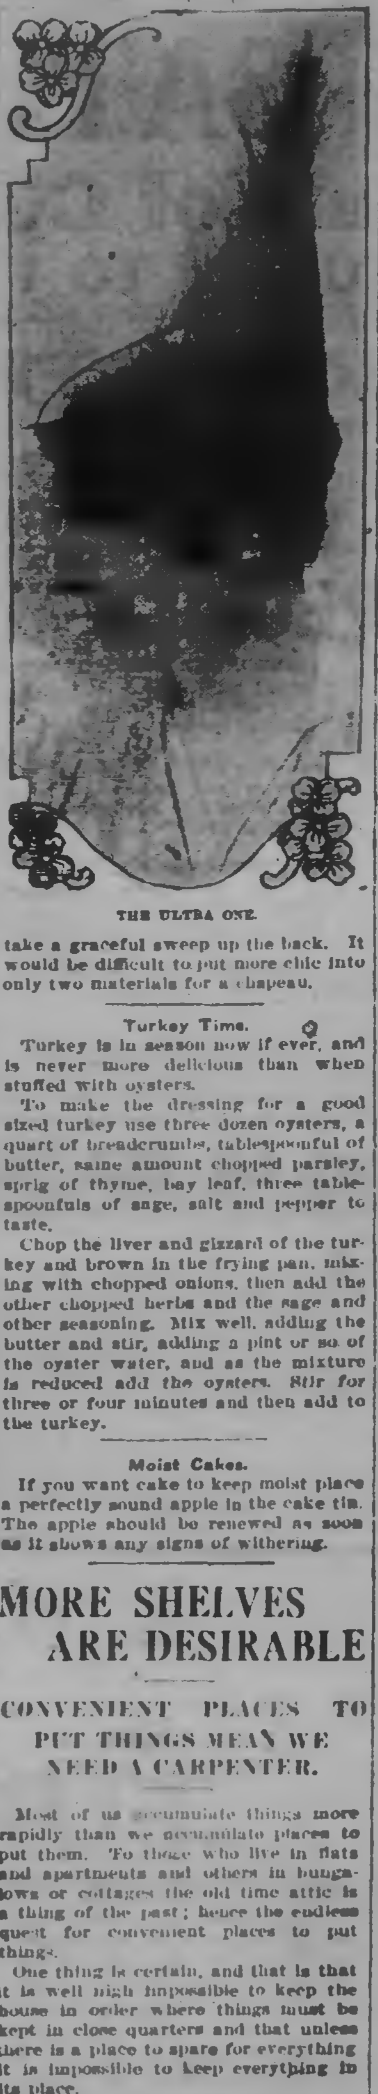
"Once a week I did my washing. I wore my underclothes without ironing. My shirtwaists I washed, and got them ironed for 10 cents. In January I bought 20 yards of muslin at 6½ cents. I sewed from 5 to 7 in the morning, and, working from May to October, I made all I needed for the year. For a few days, at certain times, you can get remnants at 5 cents a yard. I can cut a shirtwaist out of two yards.

"I was raised to $6 the second year. I put $30 in the bank in December. The next year I was raised to $7 and saved $60. I always had enough to eat, and was as well dressed as any of the girls. I had no time to walk the streets, except going to and coming from the store. I lived a mile and a half from the store, and never rode unless it was slippery."

Major Hamilton Gault, of Montreal, has sailed for Canada on sick leave with a large party of officers and 500 men. Major Gault now wears an artificial leg.

FASHION HINTS

A close turban of deep tan colored satin is slit on each side of the crown and inserted with black aigrets, which take a graceful sweep up the back. It would be difficult to put more chic into only two materials for a chapeau.



THE ULTRA ONE.

Turkey Time.

Turkey is in season now if ever, and is never more delicious than when stuffed with oysters.

To make the dressing for a good sized turkey use three dozen oysters, a quart of breadcrumbs, tablespoonful of butter, same amount chopped parsley, sprig of thyme, bay leaf, three tablespoonfuls of sage, salt and pepper to taste.

Chop the liver and gizzard of the turkey and brown in the frying pan, mixing with chopped onions, then add the other chopped herbs and the sage and other seasoning. Mix well, adding the butter and stir, adding a pint or so of the oyster water, and as the mixture is reduced add the oysters. Stir for three or four minutes and then add to the turkey.

Moist Cakes.

If you want cake to keep moist place a perfectly sound apple in the cake tin. The apple should be renewed as soon as it shows any signs of withering.

MORE SHELVES ARE DESIRABLE

CONVENIENT PLACES TO PUT THINGS MEAN WE NEED A CARPENTER.

Most of us accumulate things more rapidly than we accumulate places to put them. To those who live in flats and apartments and others in bungalows or cottages the old time attic is a thing of the past; hence the endless quest for convenient places to put things.

One thing is certain, and that is that it is well nigh impossible to keep the house in order where things must be kept in close quarters and that unless there is a place to spare for everything it is impossible to keep everything in its place.

Here shelves come to the rescue.

If there is a man in your family with any sort of knowledge of carpenter work or if you are somewhat of a dabster at hammer and nails yourself, you need not pay more for your shelves than the bare cost of the boards and the braces, screws and paint used to finish them.

If you are cramped for room for towels and bed linen it is a good idea to put up shelves in the bathroom. These might be made from two foot boards, the lowest one some six feet from the floor and the one above it a foot and a half higher. These shelves should be given a double coat of white paint and, if you choose, may be fitted with a white lawn curtain to keep the dust from the linen and to give a more complete appearance. By placing the shelf above the head line it does not interfere with the spacing of the bathroom.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

Men never gossip. Still the married woman usually begins hers with "My husband says."

Many people are proud to be able to trace their ancestry back to the Mayflower, but sometimes we wonder how the ancestors would feel about the matter.

If some persons would spend as much time in hard work as they spend looking for a soft snap they might afford pork chops three times a day.

TO AID THE SOLDIERS; AN OUTLINE OF SCHEME

New Brunswick Government Has Arranged To Organize Community Farms.

NEW BRUNSWICK, one of the smallest provinces in the Dominion of Canada, is first in the field with a definite plan of land settlement after the war. When we speak of Canada and colonization, we are apt to think solely of the middle or prairie regions. Some of us have almost overlooked the existence of these maritime provinces, with their milder climate and their almost illimitable resources. New Brunswick is only just on this side of the big pond, and is close neighbor to nearly 100 millions of English-speaking people. All this should make the New Brunswick scheme very attractive to Englishmen who want to get to a newer country and yet not go too far away from the old Motherland.

In the prairies most of the Crown Lands are held and administered by the Federal Government, but New Brunswick has kept control of hers, and she has at her disposal a wide enough area of fertile and unoccupied country to provide healthy and comfortable homes for tens of thousands of new settlers. The moment her Government heard of the movement for securing all would-be emigrants from the United Kingdom for the British Oversea Dominions, it got right to work. It has spent an inconsiderable time in talking, and if the war should end by next late spring or summer New Brunswick will be ready with her scheme. Can any other part of the Empire say that?

Setting to work at once, the Pro-Advisory Settlement Board, which was soon about the country looking for the land most suitable for the purpose, and in a marvellously short time such land was discovered. Hon. J. Murray, the very able Minister of Agriculture in New Brunswick, recently spoke about this excellent proposition. "The scheme briefly," he said, "is the establishment of community settlements, each community to accommodate from one hundred to two hundred and fifty families, depending on the size of the area of suitable land that is available in each locality. Each of these communities will radiate from a central farm, operated by the Government for the purpose of supplying instruction, employment, necessary implements, and teams for the new settlers—a system which we believe will in a large measure do away with the necessity of each settler having to purchase a full equipment of his own for the first ten years."

On this central farm provision is going to be made for a school, church, butter and cheese factory, blacksmith's shop, post-office, and other public conveniences, and the co-operative principle will be applied in the marketing, and indeed in many other departments of the communal life and work. The communities will, as far as possible, each consist of members of the same religious creed. There will be a Roman Catholic community with its central church, perhaps an Anglican community, and it is thought that the various denominations, the "fancy religions," as the recruiting sergeant expressed it, might manage to combine in a form of worship which would occupy another church or chapel. This arrangement is perhaps calculated to stereotype religious differences, but what does that matter if people are happy and contented?

The size of the holdings available for each settler will range from 10 to 100 acres. Part of each lot will be cleared and cultivated, and a cheap but comfortable set of buildings erected, sufficient for the needs of the settler for a number of years. Ultimately he will build a larger and more permanent home, perhaps incorporating in it this temporary dwelling. Fences are to be erected and a water supply provided. Each settlement also lies close along a railway line, so that nobody will feel too remote or lonely. That has been the cause of many colonization failures in the past. It does not matter living in a quiet place if we are in easy reach of the great world outside.

The holdings will vary in price from $700 to $1,200, that about five per cent. will be paid down in cash and the rest distributed over, perhaps, 20 annual instalments. These terms should be possible for almost any disbanded soldier at the end of the war. And here is an interesting feature of the scheme. The New Brunswick Government is prepared to administer the settler's capital in his own best interest. Suppose a soldier-settler receives a sum of £250 in commutation of his pension, he will have to pay down perhaps five per cent. in cash for his holding. The balance of his capital the New Brunswick Government is willing to take over, allowing him three per cent. and directing its expenditure. To any sensible settler this trusteeship should be very welcome. It will save a man from himself and his money from being "blown away." And as to produce there is ample choice. Apples and potatoes do splendidly in New Brunswick. There are no better potatoes in the world, and the West Indies furnish an ever-growing market for these and other such products. But mixed farming, dairying, wheat-growing, sheep rearing, and other occupations find ideal conditions in this province.

THE MAKING OF PERFUMES

Pot Pourri

Spread rose leaves on newspapers and dry them carefully. Dried pink clover blossoms and lavender blossoms may be also added, using one quart of the lavender blossoms to one gallon of the rose leaves and one gallon of clover blossoms. Or all dried rose leaves may be used. Pack the rose leaves with alternate layers of salt, two gallons of rose leaves to one quart of salt. Mix together two ounces of ground nutmeg, two ounces of ground cinnamon, two ounces of allspice, two whole cloves pounded up and six ounces of sandalwood. Add together one ounce oil turpentine, one ounce oil of lemon, one-half ounce oil of roses and one quart of alcohol. Let the mixtures stand ten days to ripen, then, after mixing the petals and salt thoroughly, the spice mixture and the oil mixture, lay a layer of the petals in the bottom of a jar, then a layer of spices, then a layer of leaves, etc., until the jar is full, and pour over the whole the alcohol mixed with the oils.

Rose Perfume

Gather one bushel of rose leaves, take a four-gallon stone jar and put into it a layer of absorbent cotton saturated with pure olive oil. Upon this put a layer of rose leaves, quite thick. Repeat until the jar is full, each day adding cotton and rose leaves as the contents sink. At the end of two weeks turn contents of the jar into a flat white enameled pan, put the cover on it and two heavy flatirons; express all the oil you can, which will be about one pint, as you have used about one quart on the cotton. Add four quarts of best proof alcohol, cover tightly, let stand for ten days, stirring thoroughly once every day. Then strain through a fine cloth into bottles of desired size.

A Rose Jar

Gather rose petals when dried off by the morning sun and pack them in two-inch layers in a glass jar, sprinkling two tablespoonfuls of fine salt over each layer. Continue this until the jar is full, adding fresh petals as you gather them day by day. Keep the jar in a cool, dark place and covered closely. The jar filled, do not open it for a week. Then turn out the salted petals upon a broad platter and toss and pick apart the matted mass. Have ready-mixed this seasoning: Violet powder, one ounce; orris root, one ounce; rose powder, half an ounce; heliotrope powder, half an ounce; powdered mace, half a teaspoonful; cinnamon, a quarter teaspoonful; cloves, one-half teaspoonful; oil of roses, four drops; oil of chiris, ten drops; oil of melissa, ten drops; oil of eucalyptus, twenty drops; bergamot, twenty drops; alcohol, two drams. Incorporate the salted petals thoroughly with this mixture, pack in a clean "rose jar" and set away to ripen and sweeten. It will be ready for use in a fortnight and keep fragrant for years. It is best to pack it into small jars after the "ripening" is completed. When you wish to scent a room leave the cover of the jar off for an hour—not longer, or the contents will dry and lose much of their strength.

Glycerine For the Lips

While glycerine is extremely bad for the complexion it is quite the best, most inexpensive, and harmless form of lip salve, and without giving the artificial appearance to the lips which an ordinary salve does, keeps them soft and prevents cracking.

Women who habitually wear a veil should never omit to smear a very little glycerine over the lips before going out, as the wearing of a veil often causes the lips to become rough and chapped, especially in windy weather.

PTE. McARTHUR DIES IN ACTION

ONLY SON OF A PERCY MOTHER GIVES LIFE FOR EMPIRE.

(Special Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Feb. 8—Revival services in the Methodist church, Hastings, are growing in interest. Last Sunday the services were very interesting and helpful. A number decided for Christ. Miss Motoris subjects for Sunday, February 11, are: Morning: "A Week but Mighty Man." Evening: "John's Vision in the Isle of Patmos."

The memorial services in the Methodist church Bethel on the Hastings circuit for the late Pte. Hugh McArthur who was killed in battle at the front was largely attended. The widow and other relatives have the deepest sympathy of all.

HASTINGS, Feb. 8—The evangelistic services in the Methodist church on Sunday were well attended. Excellent sermons were delivered by Miss Morton, and special singing by a large choir was very much enjoyed. The services will be continued each night during the week, commencing at 7.45 with a song service.

The annual sleighride and social for the children of the Presbyterian Sunday school will be held on Friday evening of this week. This is an annual treat and is looked forward to with much pleasure by the children.

Lce. Corp J. H. Burns, 235th Bn., is spending a few days in the vicinity recruiting for the Battalion. The above named officer is well and favorably known in Hastings and should be well received by the citizens.

The recent concert and box social given at Westwood, under the auspices of the Asphodel patriotic association proved to be a grand success in every way. The chair was ably filled by Col. R. Birdsall and a good program was rendered.

The proceeds for the evening amounted to the handsome total of $105.00.

Friday and Saturday of the past week are generally acknowledged to have been the coldest of the season and only those on business bent could be allured from the fireside. Friday being Candlemas Day, every one was waiting anxiously to see if Bruin would see his shadow and go back or refusing to see it proclaim to the world that the worst of the winter had passed.

The junior form of the public school has been closed during the week on account of the illness of the teacher, Miss McCutcheon. We are pleased, however to learn of her improvement. She hopes soon ot be able to resume her duties.

Mrs. McArthur, of Percy has received official notice that her son has been killed while on active service at the front. Much sympathy is expressed for the broken hearted mother in the loss of her only son.

The regular monthly meeting of the I. O. D. E. was held in their rooms on Monday afternoon. More boxes of comforts are to be at once packed for the boys at the front.

Born, on Tuesday, Jan. 30th, to Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Donoghue, a son.

Miss German, town, is nurse in charge of Mr. E. P. Cuffle, Norwood, who is very ill with diphtheria. His many friends will be glad to know that he is on the road to recovery.

Several of our young people are enjoying their leisure hours learning the art of snow-shoeing.

Miss Lizzie Fowlds is in Port Perry visiting her sister, Mrs. (Dr.) Berry.

Mr. Stanley Laing, of Norwood, was in town on Sunday.

A number from Norwood attended the Evangelistic services in the Methodist church on Sunday evening.

League members are preparing to attend the convention to be held in Campbellford, March 5th.

Miss Mabel Moore, sister of Mrs. William Baker, town, has been in Nicholls hospital, undergoing an operation for appendicitis, and is doing favorably. His many friends are anxiously awaiting her recovery.

A number attended the "At Home" in the town hall on Monday evening.

Miss Baker, of Warkworth, is visiting her brother, Mr. Malcolm Baker.

AFTER RECRUITS AT OMEMEE

CAPT. WILSON SPEAKS IN BEHALF OF 252ND BATTALION.

(Special Correspondence.)

OMEMEE, Feb. 8. Mr. Jack Murray of Peterborough visited his mother on Friday of last week.

Lieut. Bishop spent several days in Ottawa during the past week.

The bugle band of the 252nd Bn. visited Omemee last Friday and Saturday in the interest of recruiting. On Saturday night a splendid entertainment was put on in Coronation Hall, when a series of war pictures was shown. Sergt. Allin delighted the large audience with his rendition of The Veteran's Song. Sergt. Allin possesses a powerful baritone voice and his singing is a delight to listen to. Lieut. Morden presided at the piano, and played patriotic music, while the pictures were being shown Captain Wilson acted as chairman and delivered an urgent appeal for recruits. The officers of the 252nd are working hard in the interest of their battalion and we wish them good results.

Mrs. J. N. Thompson and daughters, Miss Annie and Mrs. Coulter, have taken up residence in Toronto

Miss Ola Earl entertained a number of her friends on Monday evening.

Mr. E. Jones, of Coldwater, is the guest of his sister, Mrs. Stinson.

Rev. E. Roland of Greenbank visited his mother during the week.

Mr. R. Wilde spent Sunday with his parents in Havelock.

Miss Annie Clement visited Lindsay friends on Tuesday.

Mr. Albert Clement, a returned war veteran, is undergoing medical inspection in Kingston.

The hockey match between Omemee and a team from the 252nd Bn., which was played here Friday night, was fast and interesting, the score being two goals to one in favor of the locals.

Mrs. J. W. Downe was a business visitor to Lindsay on Saturday.

Mrs. Dodds of Toronto is the guest of her niece, Mrs. White, Sturgeon street.

Miss Morden entertained the adult Bible class in the basement of the Methodist Church on Wednesday evening.

GARBAGE COLLECTOR GIVES HIS SIDE OF THE CASE

Gave Warning to One Employe Who Did Not Take Proper Care of Receptacles.

Plumbing Inspector Arranging For Smoke Tests.

Chairman Saunders and the members of the Property Committee met last night and heard a number of complaints regarding garbage collection.

The complaint of R. Fair that the ashes had not been removed from the rear of his store was explained by Contractor Graham, who stated that the alley was so filled with packing boxes that his wagon could not get in. He agreed to move them if the boxes were brought to the street line or the empty cases taken out of the alley to admit of a passage for the team.

After this item had been cleared away Contractor Graham spoke to the members about violation of the by-law by some citizens. He gave an instance where a box weighing 192lb had been placed out for removal, while the by-law distinctly stated that proper receptacles, not containing more than 75lb should be set out. One man could not handle a barrel if it was full and Woolworth's set out barrels in which the nails made it dangerous for the men to handle, and he would not take them in future.

He also pointed out that people in residential districts would put garbage out after the garbage wagon had gone by and then expect the ash collector to pick the garbage up. This was unfair and could not be done.

Ald. Smith suggested hiring a special inspector who would go over the routes with the garbage and ash men and issue a warning to the citizens who offended. The collection in East City is satisfactory, he said.

Mayor Duffus was quite confident that Mr. Graham wanted to be fair and thought that a notice be issued through the press that receptacles of a proper size must be secured for garbage and ashes.

Quite Correct

Ald. Dobbin reminded the members that many poor people in the garbage area could not afford to get galvanized iron cans. He also complained that the garbage collectors threw the cans and boxes back into the yards, causing injury to the receptacles.

Mr. Graham explained that he had found that one of his men had been doing this and on Tuesday had warned the offender to stop the practise.

Plumbing Inspecting

Plumbing Inspector Thompson was present and informed the committee that he was arranging with the different plumbers to smoke test all jobs completed at the earliest moment and he would report in due time.

Some of the aldermen were of the opinion that permits should be issued for repair work as well as new jobs.

This will be taken up later.

Dan Spence Ambulance

Chairman Saunders will investigate and report on the service furnished by the Dan Spence ambulance. It was shown by the report that in the first three months of 1916 58 calls had been responded to by Comstock's, who receive $200 a year for looking after the ambulance.

URGES EVERYONE TO QUICKLY GET ON WATER WAGON

Drink Glass of Hot Water Before Breakfast to Wash Out Poisons.

To see the tinge of healthy bloom in your face, to see your skin get clearer and clearer, to wake up without a headache, backache, coated tongue or a nasty breathe, in fact to feel your best, day in and day out, just try inside-bathing every morning for one week.

Before breakfast each day, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it as a harmless means of washing from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phoshpate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate will cost very little at the drug store but is sufficient to demonstrate that just as soap and hot water cleanses, sweetens and freshens the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the blood and internal organs. Those who are subject to constipation, billous attacks acid stomach, rheumatic twinges, also those whose skin is sallow and complexion pallid, are assured that one week of inside-bathing will have them both looking and feeling better in every way.

Solve Big Problem.

The railway unions of this town have solved the high cost of living. Some time ago a special committee was appointed to purchase food and fuel supplies as required by their members. The committee has handled within the past week two carloads of potatoes, two cars of wood, forty head of cattle, two tons of honey, eight carloads of coal and fifty carloads of hardwood. In a few days it expects a carload of groceries and two of apples. The committee is composed of twenty-five members, representing different crafts, and has saved 30 per cent. on its purchases to date. — The Brantford Courier.

Flowers as Food

Preserved violets are so far the only crystalized flowers the majority of English-speaking people venture to consume, and even these flowers are mostly used for decorative purposes.

Turkish ladies have a favorite sweetmeat of rosebuds boiled in sugar and preserved. In China dried rosebuds are candied. Banana blossom pickled in vinegar is specially liked by the little Japanese ladies, also by Indians, who use it for flavoring jellies and pastries.

A bitter shrub grown in Burmah, and elsewhere, yields small red flowers which the natives put through a process of their own and make into bread.

The lily known as "Thunbergi" is one of the biggest delicacies of the Chinese, and is specially grown for ordinary consumption. They are plucked just before they begin to open, and cooked as a vegetable in much the same manner as we cook spinach, and many people have testified to their excellence.

France	5%	5%	5.63%	5.83%
Other countries	....	2%	2.13%	2.33%

How the common stock of the Canadian Pacific Railway is held has always been an interesting study. During the past few years there has been considerable change in the grouping of the holdings. Baron Shaughnessy, president of the railroad company, has on various occasions furnished The Monetary Times with figures showing in what countries the stock is held and to what extent, and also an analysis of the shareholders' list as it stood on October 1st, 1916. This is compared with previous analyses in the above table.

It must be borne in mind, in analyzing the figures that the capital stock of the Canadian Pacific Railway has been increased several times during the period under review as follows: In November 1909, when $20,000,000 of additional stock was allotted at 125, the amount of stock outstanding was $180,000,000. That would be the amount of stock held by the 24,000 shareholders in January, 1911. A further block of $18,000,000 was allotted in January 1912 at 150; $2,000,000 was sold during 1912 at a premium of $2,860,871.[illegible] and $60,000,000 was allotted at 175 in January, 1913. In June, 1913, August 1915, and at the present time, therefore, the full $260,000,000 of stock has been issued.

In a little more than four years the number of shareholders had increased 24,468, or over 51 per cent. Last year there was a small decrease in the number. In the past few years a remarkable change has occurred in the number of holders. Whereas three years ago there were 27,000 holders of the common stock, there were in 1915 40,468, an increase of 13,468, or 49 per cent. Last year, the number dropped to 40,287, but still a good record. These figures seem to indicate that the so-called small investor has been in the market during the past three years getting Canadian Pacific Railway stock, the large holdings having been sold to some extent and picked up by small investors. The increase in the number of holders was probably made to a large degree during the latter part of 1915, by those who had faith in the strength of the company and the maintenance of the 10 per cent. dividend. This faith was rewarded. The number of Canadian holders has increased over 261 per cent. in the last four years and now stands at 6,531. This is an excellent showing for a country which has done more borrowing than investing.

The number of holders in Great Britain in 1915 was larger than two years previously, but smaller than in 1911. Great Britain probably sold to the United States last year. The French and German holdings have dropped considerably. The volume of shares held by United States investors is not very large, only 10.39 per cent. in 1915, a record which was beaten by Canada, which then held 13.64 per cent. of the total. The United States total has been increased most likely by purchases last year from Great Britain.

The figures in regard to Germany are of unusual interest. In January 1911, and June, 1913, German holdings were 10 per cent. This figure has been reduced now to 5.34 per cent.

WESTERN CANADA'S CROPS

Farmers Enabled to Pay The Original Cost of Their Land

ONE outstanding fact in connection with the wonderful crops that have been harvested in Western Canada is that the prices realized for the crops have in hundreds of cases enabled farmers to pay the original cost of their land. Many instances have come to note of farmers who bought their lands twelve months ago, and with their first crop were enabled to pay the whole cost of the land and still have sufficient left to carry them through the year until another crop.

Land that was bought for from $15 to $20 per acre has produced crops worth from $40 to $75. The prevailing high price of wheat particularly, and other grains as well, has of course been responsible for this to a great extent.

When it is known that many farmers produced an average of over 50 bushels of wheat to the acre it will be easily understood how they made such vast profits this year. These high averages were not confined to any one area but were reported from all over Alberta and many parts of Saskatchewan. The yield of C. S. Noble of an average of 54 bushels 23 pounds of wheat to the acre for 1,000 acres is doubtless a world's record for a tract that large. Mr. Noble a few days ago purchased another 2,000 acres a few miles west of the city of Calgary, and contemplates making it the best stock farm in the West. He never does things by halves and when it is known that he expects to purchase as well some of the best breeding stock obtainable it will be seen that the livestock industry of Alberta will receive no little impetus from Mr. Noble's entry into the business.

Stories are common of farmers who have more than paid the original cost of their land from the proceeds of this year's crop. Many of the automobile firms are unable to get sufficient cars to supply the demand, as practically every farmer is buying at least one of the smaller cars and many of them are purchasing the larger cars. One firm in Calgary sold $200,000 worth of cars during one month of this year, which was a record. Almost every small town now has its garage where all repairs can be made and new parts bought. This, and the general prosperity which it indicates, instigated considerable building activities, and carpenters and builders have been unable to keep up with the amount of work ordered. A great many new elevators are being built this year and this of course has also had its effect on the building trade.

An instance is given of one farmer in the southern portion of Alberta who paid $3,800 for his farm last year. This year he harvested 3,900 bushels of wheat alone, and after his crop was taken off he received an offer of $5,000 for the farm, which he refused. He also realized over $1.50 per bushel for his wheat, or $2,000 more than the total cost of his farm.

Flax has been particularly good, one man in Southern Alberta having a yield of 37½ bushels per acre. This is an exceptional yield, even in Alberta, but on the whole with flax worth $2.25 per bushel it can readily be seen that it is an exceptionally profitable crop.

Yields of 50 bushels and over of wheat were frequent, most of which graded one northern or two northern, and netted $1.50 or over per bushel, according to how early in the season it was sold. Farmers who held until late in the year have reaped the benefit in considerably higher prices for their grain than those who sold during September or October.

Last year Western Canada crops were even better. During 1915 and 1916 the rainfall was considerably heavier than in average years, and this fact has directed attention to the irrigation districts of the province where the same results can confidently be expected every year. The Canadian Pacific Railway Company, which has developed about 800,000 acres of irrigible land in Alberta, is very optimistic as to the future of irrigation farming in that province.

The bank clearings, which are a pretty good business barometer, have increased in some cities as much as 100 per cent over those for the same period last year, and all the western cities and towns show big increases, some of them exceeding all past records. On the whole, the Canadian West is at present experiencing prosperity—prosperity of the solid kind, that has a real foundation, and is not merely the result of speculation or borrowed capital. It is a prosperity of the farmer, the backbone of the country, and when the farmer is prosperous it is merely a matter of time until the money reaches all classes in turn.

FOR SALE OR TO RENT—100 acres of first-class land, situated in the Township of Dummer. All workable land, containing a comfortable house, with bank barn, driving shed, and all necessary outbuildings. We would sell this farm on easy payments or will rent it with the option of buying same.

FOR SALE OR TO RENT—150 acres of choice farm land situated in the Township of Smith, in a very nice locality. This farm has a very comfortable brick house, with a new bank barn and drive shed. Land is all under cultivation with about 82 acres of timber. Owner will rent said farm at $400.00 per year.

FOR SALE OR TO RENT—10 acres of choice land, situated on the outskirts of the city, containing a house which could be made very comfortable, and ten acres of the best land. This place is only about ten minutes walk from the car line and factories. Would make a good place for a market gardener.

FOR RENT—Two and one-half storey red brick house, having all modern improvements; situated in a very choice locality. There is a large stable, with hen house, and a big garden. This house can be rented at $15.00 per month, a very low rent considering locality and class of house.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST LAND REGULATIONS

The sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. Applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at any Dominion Lands Agency (but not Sub-Agency), on certain conditions.

Duties—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required except where residence is performed in the vicinity.

Live stock may be substituted for cultivation under certain conditions.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre.

Duties—Six months' residence in each of three years after earning homestead patent; also 50 acres extra cultivation. Pre-emption patent may be obtained as soon as homestead patent, on certain conditions.

A settler who has exhausted his homestead right may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre.

Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

SPORTING NEWS

SOLDIERS WILL GO TO KINGSTON WITH LEAD OF FIVE GOALS

Artillerymen Another Team Who Could Not Withstand Petes Weight.

Championship hockey, good, bad and what the small fans would describe as punk, appeared on the bill handed out by Depot Batteries and the 247th Soldiers at the ice works last night. There were lightning fast plays, many as smooth as the ice surface; others you could use as a match striker. There were heady plays and there were the ebony variety in sufficient quantities to demonstrate that the Soldiers will have to get down to brass tacks if they wish to continue their silverware hunting expedition with success. The score of 11 to 6 shows a wide margin for the home-ters, which was due to the great work of Bob Armstrong and the Soldiers' good fortune in being a team of huskies who can stand the wear and tear of battle—against a team that is lighter. The local talent did not look much like a machine last night—unless it be a steam roller. At times they wandered about the ice, skating into one another, and sometimes holding three and four men hugging bees that did not become the team either individually or as a septet. And it's a long way to Berlin.

The Petes' defence looked deplorably weak in the first ten minutes of play, when the visitors slammed in a quartet of goals and put the fans into a state of frenzy. They had all kinds of speed and handed out an assortment of stick-handling that was great to behold. But it was only a flash. They were too light and once the Soldiers got going in "any old way to get goals," the artillery men were left behind. All of which, it is hoped, will be an object lesson for the Soldiers.

The scoring summary indicates pretty well who was doing the work, but misses Pat Flanagan, the bouncing rover who was a thorn in the side of the visitors. He stopped them and took his bumps and said nothing. While he does not appear in the scoring summary he contributed to plays that netted goals and helped the locals to victory. Armstrong, who outclassed everything on the ice, might have added to the sum total of tallies had he passed the puck. Thornton, too, had a glorious chance for a score when, on one occasion, he came up the ice with Armstrong and Evans spread out on either side and only one man to pass; he held the rubber, crashed into the visitors' defence man, and the play was spoiled.

Adams and Evans were not up to usual form, due apparently to the style of hockey the Petes were playing. Halpin, too, found the situation not the best and while he got away with some nice plays, he is capable of playing a much better game than he put up last night. LeGros also visibly affected by the prevalent disease, was a nightmare, and was far and wide away from his consistently good work to date.

Referee Burgoyne went about with one eye shut and his decision which sent Armstrong to the penalty coop was crude. Let's hope the whole combination got it out of their system last night and will profit accordingly.

CANADIAN SPORT AND THE WAR

THE hockey season has returned again, and people are discovering that Canada's great winter sport, like the summer sports of the Dominion, is being almost entirely played by the lads who have hardly reached military age. There are, of course, a few senior teams here and there throughout the Province of Ontario, for it is not necessary that the men who cannot go to the front should cease to partake of healthy exercise, but on the whole hockey is not what it was in former years, or what it will be when the war comes to an end. What has happened to hockey this winter happened to lacrosse last summer, and to Rugby in the autumn. Cricket languished first among the games played in the Dominion as the Englishmen left for home as soon as Germany launched itself upon the world. Then the Canadians began to put on khaki and as they lined up by the thousands, their national games began to show the effects. In 1915 there was a great deal of lacrosse played in Ontario, but in 1916 so many players had gone that scarcely a town could produce a team. In 1915, the Rugby clouds were strong, but in 1916 they had ceased to exist. Hockey has fared just a little better because it requires only seven men to make up a team.

All this is as it should be and indicates that national games have a real relation to the national life. Canada has three typical national sports, lacrosse for the summer, Rugby for the autumn, and hockey for the winter. They all demand the same qualities of virile manhood, strength, speed, staying powers, and the ability to think quickly. They can only be played by men who are physically fit, and they have developed a splendid young Canadian type. There were people who used to criticize the amount of sport to be found in a Canadian town. In future they will have to be silent, as our athletes on the firing line have shown the value of games in developing the men of the nations. Persons who declared that the boys who played games took interest in nothing else but were "sporting mad" have seen their mistake. The suspension of the hockey, lacrosse and Rugby in Canada for the duration of the war because of the absence of the players will always remain as a proof that characteristic national sports play an important part in the life of any country and that the interest of the two things are bound up together.

It may be that some stranger in our midst will contradict the statement that Canadians have put aside their sports until the war is ended, basing his assertion upon the report that professional baseball made money last summer in the Dominion. But it must be borne in mind that professional baseball can hardly be considered under the heading of Canadian sport. It might be more accurately described as a peculiar development of American business, as there is a powerful trust in the United States that exports manufactured baseball players, and we have no tariff against them.

Dealing with this subject, the Canadian Courier recently said: "When a Canadian city desires to have professional baseball, the owners of the franchise go over to the United States and gather together a number of men who are making their livings by demonstrating the national game of their own country. They assume the name of the city for which they are 'playing,' though of course the local loyalties of the community mean nothing to them. They will depart as soon as they can demand a higher salary elsewhere, and in the meantime they perform as efficiently as possible, not for the honor of the city, but because they hope some day to receive a better offer from a more important club. Under such an arrangement all the best elements of true sport must of necessity be lacking. A premium is put upon mere victory, no matter how it is attained. Canadians are asked to throw themselves into a mental attitude in which they can become enthusiastic over a bunch of men who owe their allegiance to another flag and another set of public ideals, and who in return for so much money received are willing to uphold for a season or two the glory (?) of a Canadian city.

"The more one examines the characteristics of professional baseball, the more one feels that it is not so much a sport as it is a form of hot weather vaudeville done by carefully trained and high-priced artists. It cannot possibly develope club feeling or any of the spirit that ought to be found in true sport, but it does amuse large and mentally relaxed crowds for an afternoon. In all these respects it is like vaudeville. A professional baseball team has been described as a good advertisement. It would be an equally good advertisement to engage Eva Tanguay and Eddie Foy and to send them through the 'big time' vaudeville circuit billed as 'The Terrors of Toronto.'

"Because professional baseball has continued to prosper in spite of the war, we must not say that Canadians have failed to put aside their sports in the presence of more vital calls. Professional baseball is a recognized form of public entertainment, something quite distinct from a nation's sports. Our hockey leagues, our Rugby unions, and our lacrosse associations are part of our national life, and must reflect the waves of feeling in the nation. They have been sharply affected by the war because they are such a real part of Canada, and the history of the three games must be more or less intertwined with the history of the Dominion."

WOODEN LEG WON A HUSBAND

Happy Man, So Satisfied With Previous Ventures, Made Determination to Stick.

Augustus Hare used to relate how a certain lady was wooed and won for the sake of her cork leg.

One day, not long after her marriage, she was, during her husband's temporary absence, urged by curiosity to open a wardrobe that had always been kept religiously fastened, and found therein, to her terror, two wooden legs, each of which was labeled with the name of a lady, carefully put away on one of the shelves.

Filled with dismay, she sought some mutual acquaintance, to whom she confided her gruesome discovery, only to be assured that, although the false limbs were indeed those of her husband's two former wives, there was no cause for alarm, for her husband, who had originally wedded a one-legged lady, had been so happy in his marriage that, on her death, he had vowed never to mate again save with a wife similarly circumstanced.

A short while afterward he met a lady who fulfilled the required stipulation. Her he courted and won. His second venture, even more felicitious than the first, had caused him, on his beloved partner's decease, to renew his former vow, the outcome of which was his present happy union. This explation calmed the wife's alarm, for she now recognized that the wooden legs were not only mementoes of past but guarantees of future happiness.—London Tit-Bits

TWO OLD PROBLEMS

THE MOVING TRAIN AND THE BULLET FIRED FROM A RIFLE.

A correspondent sends these two questions to the Scientific American:

"First.—If a train was running at a speed of sixty miles an hour and a man is sitting on the back end of this train with a gun that would shoot at the rate of sixty miles an hour and he shoots from the back end of this train in opposite direction, what effect would this condition have on the bullet?

"Second.—If the man with the gun was on the front end of this train and was to shoot back at a man on the back end of train and train to be going sixty miles per hour and the gun would shoot at the rate of sixty miles an hour, what would be the result?"

To which the editor replies:

"First.—In the case you propose the bullet after it left the gun would still move forward with the speed of the train and backward with the speed given it by the powder. Since these two speeds are equal and opposite in direction the bullet would drop to the ground directly under the point where it left the gun.

"Second.—In this case the man at whom the bullet was shot would be killed if the aim was good. This may be made clear perhaps by asking if you could not throw a ball on a train to a man to the rear of the place where you were standing? Could you not toss a biscuit to a person in the next seat in a car either toward the front or rear? If you could toss a biscuit you could fire a bullet in either direction and with the usual result when a bullet is fired. This matter seems very simple to us. We do not know why it causes so much discussion."

Knew Something Was Wrong.

"What's the matter with my looks mother?"

"Your looks?"

"Yes."

"Nothing, except your hat is all askew and your hair most unbecomingly arranged. Why?"

"I knew something was wrong, for I just met Maud on the street and she raved about my perfectly charming appearance."

FARMERS MUST USE BRAIN AND THINK

Agriculture a Basic Industry Requiring Broad and General Knowledge.

Farming is called the basic industry, the fundamental vocation, of Canada. If that be so, and it must be since the best think so, and indeed all classes of our population are agreed upon it, it follows that there rests upon the farmers a public and private duty at all times, but especially at this time, when the allies need food supplies, of farming wisely and thoroughly, of not only being good farmers, but the best. But because farming is fundamental and essential to the existence of all other avocations, there rests upon the whole country the duty of seeing that farming well done is profitable, so profitable as to keep the farmers of average industry and knowledge in their places, and to induce farmers' families to continue in agriculture, and other intelligent and energetic men to go into it, for if it is not profitable people will not undertake it, and the businesses dependent upon it cannot progress, and Canada will not advance. Outside of the highest professions, such as law and medicine, I know of no usual vocation which requires for its real success so much brain use and diversified thought and knowledge as farming. More than a carpenter or blacksmith or other mechanic, more than a motorman, a veterinary surgeon, a storekeeper, and infinitely more than the rank and file of the civil service. They should know in general all that these know in detail, but away beyond that a broad and general knowledge; that is, if they know their business, which places them among the broad-minded and intelligent men of our country. Students and companions and masters of nature, they must have a knowledge of soils, their composition and capacities, and care of grains and grasses, their food values, of plants good and evil, how to foster the one and destroy the other, of livestock and poultry, their breeding, raising and care, of marketing, of times and seasons. They are expected to be qualified for the duties of road overseer, councillor, school trustee, reeve, grand juror, magistrates. They are considered now, as in all British countries, the bulwark and mainstay of all those privileges and rights which have made British people everywhere lovers of their land, lovers of the practical and good, and defenders of freedom. All important as they are, there is no class in the community that have asserted less their interests and their rights. In the beginnings of this province it is only important that the thought and attention of the whole province should be turned to the use of the land and the improvement of the farming occupation.—R. C. Henders, Culross, Man.

An Odd Will.

"If I don't come back I trust you will all agree to divide whatever is in my account. . . . So the longer the Germans let me live the more you will get," was the "will" of the late Private William Wauchope, a Toronto postal clerk, who went overseas with the 15th Battalion. Mr. Justice Sutherland of Osgoode Hall was recently asked to construe the document. Wauchope, who was killed about April 24th, 1915, left several lots, $720 in a bank and $285 due from the Post-Office Department. The "will" was an extract from a letter written by the soldier in England, but an extract from a previous letter sent from Valcartier read: "I can't see what any of them want in my trunk. Anything that is there belongs to me as long as I live and after that I don't care who has it." This extract was also laid before his Lordship, who has not yet given his judgment.

HEADLIGHT PERIL

Toronto, Feb. 8.—It is expected that at the coming session of the Legislature there will be some legislation sought to abate the nuisance caused by the glaring headlights on automobolies. Every auto owner has to admit that there is at present imminent danger, not only to motorists and drivers of vehicles, but also to pedestrians, from the blinding glare of headlights. The farmer on the country road also has a greivance against these headlights.

The County Councils of Lennox and Addington, and Oxford have made recommendations to the Department of public highways regarding these headlights, and have sent memorials to the Government recommending, that in some way the lights be dimmed, or something done to prevent the glare, not only blinding the drivers of vehicles, but also frightening horses.

Damage estimate at $50,000 was done to interior and furnishings of Grace Methodist church in Winnipeg.

J. G. Taylor, general superintendent of the C. P. R. for Saskatchewan from 1912 to 1916, died yesterday in Edmonton, aged 55.

PATTERSON—FIFE

At the George Street Methodist Church parsonage on Wednesday afternoon, Rev. R. G. Pever, B.D., united in marriage Mr. Wm. Everard Patterson and Miss Christine Hazel Fife, both of Indian River.

Mr. and Mrs. Patterson left on the afternoon C.P.R. expres for Western points, and will reside at Indian River.

Rev. F. J. Sawers of Cobourg was a visitor to the city today

The regular monthly meeting of the Peterborough Chapter of the Graduate Nurses Association of Ontario was well attended yesterday afternoon in the Public Library. Dr. Jessie Birnie delivered a very interesting lecture on Women's Franchise. After a hearty vote of thanks by the president. Miss Dixon, the meeting adjourned.

Miss Warren, who lectured at Murray Street Church last evening, was the guest of Rev. R. G. and Mrs. Peever.

LABRADOR MISSION SEEN IN ILLUSTRATIONS BY LANTERN.

The Murray St. Baptist Church midweek prayer meeting last night was attended by a very large congregation. The services were of a union character, members of the George St., St. Paul's, Trinity, St. Andrew's and the Murray St. congregations all taking part.

Th second hour was spent in listening to a lecture by Miss Warren of Ottawa, who gave a splendid description of Dr. Grenfell's mission in Labrador. The address was made exceptionally interesting by the means of over 100 lantern slide views of Labrador scenes.

Committee Meeting

The committee of the whole council will meet this evening and the council will meet tomorrow night.

"Fight to a Finish."

Norman Angell writes in The New Republic that "At this moment the whole course of Allied policy rests far more upon the fashion in which the great mass will answer a simple question of human psychology than upon any question of politics. Will Germans be less or more inclined to 'do it again' if they are now 'punished' by a fight to a finish? You have there a question upon which an observant woman who has brought up half a dozen children and kept her temper is able to pronounce as the most experienced statesman. It is the average Englishman's ideas as to the efficacy of force and punishment, the extent of which his own ordinary judgment has survived the temper of war, and not any expert decision in the intricacies of Balkan politics that will decide the question of continuing the war."

A Musical Treat For Peterborough

The inspired young Russian violinist and 'cellist, Leo, Jan and Mischel Cherniavsky, will be here on Monday Feb. 12, at the Conservatory Hall. They have brought into the field of music something that has never before been discernible; this elusive something, if analyzed, is a combination of qualities that have not recently been displayed by visiting virtuosi. Their unconventionality is not so much a rebellion against the interpretative conventions as a spontaneous expression, resulting from deep and concentrated thought, emotional exercise, and unflagging practice of technique. No great artists have proved themselves less slavish in following preconceived notions of how the great masters' works should be interpreted.

Amongst many intelligent musical people the history and traditions of interpretations of great works have been so reverenced that the Cherniavskys' work sometimes comes to them as a kind of shock, but it is one of those shocks that is essential to awaken the dormant intellectuality and emotions of those who have permitted themselves to be moulded into set forms so far as interpretation goes. The world of art must realize that no standard can be set for tomorrow; that ever the imagination must reach out further, getting nearer and nearer to the original concepts of the great old masters. No interpreter can ever claim perfection in his work, and the Cherniavskys have that illumination mentally and spiritually, which perceives that the interpretations of today are comparatively primitive to what they must be in the future, and they have refused to allow their extraordinary perceptive faculties to become obscured by the conceptions of their predecessors. This does not mean that they do not respect the traditions relating to interpretation but they refuse to worship at their shrine. The advent of the Cherniavskys is creating a good deal of excitement in this city, and they are certain to be welcomed by a large audience.

A Patriotic Chinaman.

This pretty little story, which seems to carry the stamp of truth, comes from an officer of the Canadian Patriotic Fund in British Columbia.

In a little town on the Fraser River lived an old Chinaman. He existed by doing odd jobs. When the patriotic fund was formed in that town John came to the chairman and said, "You catchee me job, I givee to help soldier's wife." The chairman, not knowing of any work for John at the time, said that he was sorry but he could not give him employment. A few days later John came again. Once more he said, "You catchee me job, me givee to help soldier's wife," and once again no employment was forthcoming. The third time John came to the chairman. This time his request was somewhat different. "You givee me name of six soldiers' wives; me go cut wood, no chargee," said John. "Me no get job, me no give money, but me cut wood." And so John is now giving a day a week to cutting the firewood for six soldiers' families and thus doing his bit for his adopted land.

THAT VEST POCKET.

What Sonnyboy Will Wear to Holiday Fetes and For "Best."

Trousers and jacket of navy blue velvet make distinguished garb for small boys at dancing class or parties.

SO MANLY.

This suit has the added felicity of a pique vest buttoned like daddy's and fitted with two pockets. The collar is also pique, with a cord and tassel.

For Boys' Blouses.

Take a piece of half inch tape three inches longer than the boy's waist measure. Run in casing of blouse and fasten both ends with just enough stitches to hold them. About the middle of back of blouse rip three or four stitches in casing and pull tape through. Put blouse on the boy, button and pull tape through place you ripped until blouse fits nicely around the waist, then tie in a knot. After taking blouse off fasten the ends of the tape by stitching on the machine.

Frills Are Displaced.

The frill on the blouse, which was so popular last season, has now been wholly displaced by the smooth finish, with touches of band embroidery or beading.

Orange Cream.—Take the well beaten yolk of one egg, one-fourth cupful orange juice, one tablespoonful sugar; cook in double boiler until it thickens, stirring all the time to keep the mixture smooth. Remove from the fire, strain and pour into the white of the egg, which has been beaten dry; beat until creamy. This quantity fills two custard cups.

CLEAN THE SILVER

A Quick Way That Also Spares Your Elbow.

GIVES IT A SATINY FINISH.

The Electrolytic Method Removes Tarnish, the Effect of Sulphur or Rubber, and at the Same Time It Does Not Wear Away the Substance.

[Prepared by United States department of agriculture.]

In the cleaning method recommended the necessary materials are a graniteware cooking utensil deep enough to allow the silverware to be covered by the solution, a clean piece of aluminum or zinc, preferably the former, and baking or washing soda. The solution, consisting of a teaspoonful of baking or washing soda and a like amount of table salt to each quart of water, is brought to a boil in a graniteware or enameled utensil. A sheet of aluminum or clean zinc is dropped in. The tarnished silverware is then immersed in the solution so that it is in contact with the sheet of aluminum or zinc. The tarnish should disappear in a few seconds. The silver object should then be removed from the solution, rinsed and dried with a soft cloth.

Aluminum is much more satisfactory than zinc for use in this cleaning process since it does not become coated with a layer of carbonates, which interfere with the chemical reaction. Zinc does form carbonates and if used must be cleaned frequently in dilute hydrochloric acid. A small sheet of aluminum may be purchased especially for silver cleaning purposes, or a piece of an old aluminum utensil well cleaned may be used. Utensils which would later be used in cooking operation should never be employed in cleaning silverware by the electrolytic method. If very large pieces of silver are to be cleaned and a container is required larger than can be placed conveniently on the stove the hot solution may be poured into such a vessel and the silver object then immersed. The method is most effective, however, when the solution boils during the cleaning process, and efficiency is rapidly lowered as the temperature of the solution falls below the boiling point.

The electrolytic method gives the cleaned silver a satiny finish after several cleanings. If a burnished surface is desired the silver must from time to time be polished lightly with some abrasive polishing material, such as powdered whiting.

Time For Bed.

Mr. Dumley was making an evening call, and Bobby, who was allowed to sit up a little later than usual, put to him the following question:

"Mr. Dumley, do you want to make 5 shillings in ten minutes?"

"Do I want to make 5 shillings in ten minutes?" laughed the young man. "Certainly I do. But how can I make 5 shillings in ten minutes, Bobby?"

"Mamma will give it to you. She told papa that she would give 5 shillings to see you hold your tongue for ten minutes."—London Telegraph.

Garbage Collection

Difficulty has been caused in the collections of ashes by the receptacles being too large or awkward in shape for handling, and by not being strong enough. They should not be of more than two cubic feet capacity or weigh more than 75 pounds when full, and should be sufficiently strong. Neither should they be too small, for this unnecessarily increases the time required in handling and the expense. No other material or refuse shall be mixed with ashes. Table and kitchen waste must be drained and wrapped in paper. All refuse must be placed out for collection before the collector calls.

Householders are asked to carefully observe the regulations, so as to avoid unnecessary trouble for all concerned, and to co-operate to make the work successful.

MORE INFORMATION ON GAS PLANT AND RADIAL RAILWAY

Some Improvements to Both Plants Necessary.

Mayor is Confident People Would Vote For Buy.

The plants of the Peterborough Radial Railway Co. and the Peterborough Gas Co. were the subjects of much consideration at a joint conference of the members of the committee of the whole and the members of the Peterborough Utilities Commission last night.

Mayor Duffus explained that as a result of a meeting with the Hydro-Electric Commission in Toronto, some days ago an agreement had been reached whereby the city would be given both plants for about $420,000 at any time that the municipality desired to take them over. In the meantime if any extensions or improvements are made, the cost will be added on to the price now agreed on. There were certain improvements that were necessary to the gas plant and some extensions to the city railway asked for. None of these would be made without the recommendation of the Council.

Ald. Stratton made a motion that the railway committee investigate and report on the improvements and extensions necessary to the gas plant and railway system. He did not think that the time was an opportune one for the city to take over either of them. He was quite confident that the people would not vote the money even if a profit was shown on the operation.

ANOTHER COLD SPELL ARRIVES

ONE DEGREE BELOW WAS REPORTED FOR THE NIGHT.

52 AT DAWSON CITY.

After a few days of quite moderate conditions, another cold spell has arrived. Last night as a beginning, the thermometer went to 1 below zero. In corroboration of a recent news item in this paper, Kinmount, according to the official reports for January, showed the low figure of 36 below; Haliburton, 34 below; and Bancroft, 33 below; Peterborough's low being 21 below. Dawson City, in the Yukon, takes the grand prize with 52 below, followed by White River (on the north shore of Lake Superior) with 48 below. Temperatures below 40 below were common all through the Prairie Provinces.—W. P.

The Norwood branch of the department of agriculture, which has conducted a weather bureau for the past five years, has compiled the average maximum and minimum temperature readings for the months of January. The statistics show that January of this year is the coldest for five years. The figures are as follows:—

	Average Maximum	Average Minimum
1917	...24.81 above	.42 below
1916	...33.06 above	11.43 above
1913	...32.3 above	17.24 above

Lottie is Fined $50 and Deported

WOMAN WHO LECTURED HERE SENT TO THE UNITED STATES.

Miss Lottie Tillotson, who has lectured in Peterborough, was arrested at Sault Ste. Marie yesterday for breach of the Canadian immigration laws. The woman was fined $50 and deported to the United States.

The woman, who in reality is a citizen of the United States has, it is alleged, had a bad record in Canada. On Sept. 4, 1913, she was convicted in Toronto on a charge of shoplifting and sentenced to six months in Mercer Reformatory under the name of Mary McLean. On July 22 of the same year, on a charge of theft in Hamilton, under the name of Melba Costella, she was given a suspended sentence on two charges and again in the same city, on August 12, 1913, on a conviction of theft, was allowed out on deferred sentence. In her lectures she advertised herself as a native of Hawaii.

PTE. LESLIE HOWDEN IS DANGEROUSLY WOUNDED

Went Overseas With 93rd and Was Hit February 7.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Howden, 201 Romaine street, received word this morning that their son, Pte. Leslie Howden, was dangerously wounded on February 7th, and was at No. 6 Casualty Clearing Station, "somewhere in France." The nature of the wounds was not stated in the War Office report.

Pte. Howden is well known in the city having for some time been employed at Mervin's meat market. He left here with the 93rd Bn. A letter recived from him about three weeks ago stated that he was well. He is 28 years of age, and is a brother of Mr. Bert Howden.

His many friends hope the next report will bear news of an improvement in his condition.

There will be no Sunday night recruiting meeting here this week owing to the impossibility of arranging for the outside speakers and also the absence of the band and some officers in Port Hope, where a recruiting meeting will be held on this night.

The meeting of the 500 Club which was called for this evening has been postponed until next week owing to a delay in completing the lists.

Major O'Flynn leaves in the morning for Port Hope, where he will spend a few days assisting the recruiting in that town.

At Purchase Price of $7512 Fixed by Commission.

The Peterborough Utilities Commission will come into possession of the distributing plant of the Otonabee Power Co. in a few days.

At last night's meeting of the committee of the whole council, it was decided to recommend that the local Utilities Commission purchase the plant from the Government at the price fixed by the Hydro Commission, namely, $7,512.

Mr. T. F. Matthews, chairman of the Commission, stated that a cheque would be forwarded at once and that by March 1 the service would be in complete operation.

Most of the Otonabee Power Co. customers are on flat rate and will now be put on meter service.

TEACHING THRIFT.

WHY SHOULD the schol teachers of this city be burdened with the duty of instructing children in particular branches when that duty properly belongs to the parents? If the young are to be given lessons in saving, the first principles should be imparted at home.

Why stop at the suggestion of penny banks in the schools? Why not teach thrift by giving the pupils lessons in making their own garments and impress into the service some public-spirited tailor who will help on the new work at a financial loss? It is no more just to ask the bankers to make their institutions adjuncts of the public schools than it would be to call upon the tailors, the butchers, the bakers and the candlestick-makers for the same sacrifice.

THE SUN LIFE.

FROM THE ANNUAL statement, published in another column, it will be seen that the Sun Life Assurance Company has closed one of the most successful years in its long history. The local branch, of which Mr. W. H. Hill is manager, contributed in no small degree to this satisfactory showing, having during 1916 written more business than it has in the same period during the past thirty-six years, and exceeded its allotment by a substantial amount.

Last year the officials of the company at headquarters offered a silver cup as an award to the agent in Central Ontario writing the largest amount of business, the prize to become the property of the one who won it most frequently. Mr. D. H. Moore was the winner in May and November, and the trophy is now his. Mr. J. D. Cameron and Mr. Alex Weddell ran him a close race for first place, each of the latter winning the cup once. It is little wonder that with three stars on its staff, the local branch was able to make such an excellent record for 1916.

The company has offered a handsome silver shield for competition during the current year, on the same condition as that which governed the other contest. Mr. Moore has won this trophy for the month of January by bringing in the largest amount of business of any agent, not only in Peterborough, but in the Central district.

The annual report shows that the Sun Life Assurance Company closed the year 1916 with the strongest statement in its history and one fully in harmony with the improved conditions prevailing in general business circles.

The company again maintained its position of leadership among Canadian life companies in amount of new assurances issued, total assurances in force, assets, surplus and income. Assets now closely approximate $83,000,000, an increase of over $8,600,000 for the year. It is noted that the assets of the Sun Life of Canada have more than doubled in the past six years, and have more than trebled in the past nine years, a record of growth little short of phenomenal, and one clearly indicative of financial stability. Assurances issued and paid for during the year totalled over $42,700,000, the largest amount ever received by any Canadian life assurance company. Assurances in force total over $281,000,000. Cash income for the year amounted to nearly $18,500,000, an increase over the preceding year of more than $2,500,000. Surplus over all liabilities and capital now stands at over $8,500,000, an increase for the year of practically one million dollars. Payments to policyholders totalled $7,578,017, bringing total payments to policyholders since organization, $60,254,071.

Altogether the record of Canada's largest assurance company during the past year is striking proof of the essential soundness of the principles of the assurance business on the one hand, and of the conservatism and ability of the company's executive officers on the other.

ALD. SMITH'S SUGGESTION.

WHEN THE Property Committee were discussing the collection of garbage the other night, Alderman Smith made a practical suggestion that is certainly worthy of consideration. He believes that the city should appoint a special agent—a private detective if you prefer that title—to go around with the collectors with the object of ascertaining whether the latter or the citizens are responsible for all this difficulty and jangling over the collection.

Such a plan would necessitate the city's sleuth going over every route, and this would require about a week's time. He could be disguised as a helper, so that the public would have no suspicion of his true status, and so be in a position to comply with the law for the occasion. Such an agent could ascertain definitely the true condition and furnish the Property Committee with information which would enable them to end for all time the ceaseless friction between the collector and the citizens. It is a difficult matter to apply a remedy until it is first ascertained where the fault lies.

HON. BOB AND HIS CRITICS.

HON. ROBERT ROGERS, Minister of Public Works, told Judge Galt, sitting as a commissioner in Manitoba, that a member of the judiciary who accepted pay for such services was to all intents and purposes a grafter. The Judge counters by declaring that Mr. Rogers' testimony is not worthy of credence, thus showing that even the judicial fraternity, whether sitting as judges or as commissioners, are largely human after all.

The grave charge made by Judge Galt against a Minister of the Crown has been made the subject of a debate in the House, and the question of the right of judges to sit as commissioners has been revived. While no one disputes seriously the regularity of a judge taking such a position, the matter of his accepting extra compensation for this class of work is still open. The lawyers themselves, as usual, fail to agree. Some contend that the commissioner should be allowed to set the price of his own services, others that he should discharge such duties free of charge. In a matter in which the profession is so vitally interested, outsiders should be called upon for a ruling.

The Ottawa Citizen demands the retirement of Mr. Rogers from public life. The Minister counters by declares that the Citizen attacks him because the proprietor of that paper attempted to sell him a site for the posoffice in Montreal, but Mr. Rogers turned down the proposition because he considered the property too high and not suitable for the purpose.

Is there such a thing as unbiased criticism of public men?

PLENTY OF MEN.

IT IS ESTIMATED by those who are in a position to speak with authority that there are more men of military age in Peterborough today than there were at the beginning of the war. The increase in the industrial output and the high wages paid in the munition plants and in other lines, accounts for this condition. A gentleman in a public position, the duties of which call for a close acquaintance with the people, said to The Review yesterday that not so very long ago he knew nine out of ten of the people whom he met on the streets. He believes that now he is unable to recognize ten per cent. The stranger within our gates is certainly in evidence.

An unusual incident occurred in a hardware store on George street yesterday. A lady customer, unable to speak English, was making a purchase, and the clerk was obliged to conduct the transaction in the French language. The lady was, of course, from Quebec, and the family to which she belongs came to this city to find employment on war contracts.

There is plenty of material from which to select men for the 247th Battalion. The trouble is to get the young men to realize their duty. It is certainly too bad that while so many of the native-born young men of this city are making the sacrifices which the crisis demands, their places in private life are being taken by able-bodied young slackers from other places.

OPINIONS OF OTHER EDITORS.

In a Dickering Mood.

(New York Sun.)

Just at present Germany is acting as if she would be willing to trade off a certain amount of victory for peace—at least enough peace to rest up in so she could go out after more victory.

The Only Way.

(Chicago Tribune.)

Justice to the individual and safety to the state absolutely requires general compulsory military training in peace time and compulsory service in war.

Hindenburg.

(Buffalo Express.)

If it was Hindenburg who decided on this new order for submarine frightfulness, he would better return to the defence of the Mazurian lakes. His qualifications for directing naval matters shone best there.

An Anomalous Word.

(Baltimore American.)

Pac[illegible] is an anomalous word, for fist is the last thing [illegible] exponent of this philosophy would resort to. [illegible] is more accurate.

Lame Plea.

(Hamilton Herald.)

Vorwaerts, the German socialist organ, pleads humanity as an excuse for submarine savagery. It is necessary in order to stop the war, says Vorwaerts; it is an evil done that good may come. How does it excuse the frightfulness in Belgium, we wonder? That started a few days after the war began; and it was every bit as horrible as the submarine savagery.

Talking in Superlatives.

(Ottawa Journal-Press.)

Kaiser Wilhelm is preaching that "the entire German people" are "in holy wrath" at the rejection of my peace offer."

If any British leader were to talk about "holy wrath" in the British people his relatives would have his head examined to see if it were cracked.

George Did It

(St. Thomas Times.)

Italy has called more troops to the colors. This is one of the first consequences of the recent conference at Rome, where Premier Lloyd George again has exhibited the power of his personality. His own enthusiasm, resolution and energy have the quality of arousing similar forces in those that come within the field of his magnetic influence.

The Poor Man's Butter.

(Hamilton Spectator.)

When butter sells at forty-five cents a pound and the buttermakers of Canada are unable to produce enough to meet the home and foreign demand, why should not a substitute be tolerated selling for about half the price, and quite good enough for cooking and even for eating in families unable to purchase and use the higher-priced article as freely as they would like? If the demand is greater than the supply, the butter makers cannot suffer; their product will continue to demand the higher price. It seems almost like a dog in the manger policy for some industry to try to exclude another, neither meeting the need itself nor allowing anyone else to do so.

NEW RULES GOVERNING REQUESTS FROM CANADIAN SOLDIERS

Hon. A. E. Kemp, Minister of Militia, has issued a memorandum regarding methods of dealing with personal requests concerning soldiers serving overseas with the Canadian Expeditionary Forces:

Commissions for Men Overseas

Every opportunity is given to deserving men to qualify for commissions, both in England and at the front, and the only way an application can be considered is when it is made by the soldier himself to his Commanding Officer, by whom it must be recommended. It will then be forwarded through the usual official channels. A printed application form is available which the soldier can obtain from his Commanding Officer for this purpose.

Commissions in Canada

The authorities in England have definitely asked that no further requests of this nature be forwarded, as every opportunity is given to deserving men to qualify for commissions in England and France, and they are all needed there. An application may be made by the men concerned to his Commanding Officer for permission to qualify in England or France for a commission.

Return of Officers to Canada

All experienced junior officers row in England and France are required there. As regards seniors officers, the authorities in England have arranged to inform the department of Militia and Defence, Canada, of any surplus of such whom they recommend and can spare for return to Canada.

Requests for Promotions

The military authorites propose and intend making all promotions, according to efficiency and seniority, and records of all officers and men are carefully kept, with a view to assisting proper selection in this respect. The officer or man concerned must first be recommended for promotion by his superior officers.

Transfer from One Unit to Another

Such transfers are very disturbing to the efficient carrying on of the work of the army and can very rarely be considered for the reason that a man who is already trained in one branch of the services, and wishes to be transferred to another, has to be trained all over again at the public expense, and his services are lost in the meantime. In any event the application must be made by the soldier himself to his Commanding Officer to be by him forwarded through the usual official channels.

Discharge on Medical Grounds

The soldier himself should apply to his Medical Officer, who is the proper person to judge of the merits of the case, who has ample authority to deal with it and whose recommendations are invariably followed.

Leave on "Compassionate Grounds"

In the homes of soldiers who are absent, there occur what might be termed the inevitable tragedies of life, in the serious or fatal illness of members of their families. Under these circumstances the quite natural desire arise on the part of the relatives to have the soldiers return home and numerous requests are made to this effect. Such cases form the major portion of those coming under this heading.

While these cases are very distressing they are, unfortunately, the unavoidable incidents of war, and it is obviously impossible, where so many thousands of men are concerned, to accede to any of these requests except in cases of the most extreme urgency.

In such cases, application should be submitted to the Officer Commanding the Military District in Canada where the case arises, who will cause the same to be investigated and forwarded with his recommendations to Headquarters at Ottawa. The application should be accompanied in each instance by definite information and satisfactory evidence of the facts stated, endorsed by one or more responsible persons besides the relatives who can vouch for the facts.

Leave to Canada During Convalescence

All cases of this nature are receiving careful consideration from the authorities in England, and those requiring a prolonged period of convalescence or treatment are returned to Canada on leave as soon as arrangements can be made for their transport

When Medically Unfit

If any man cannot be usefully employed overseas, he will be returned to Canada in due course by the military authorities in England. It should be borne in mind that a large number of men are needed and are being used in less exacting military duties in England and on lines of communication.

Soldiers Under Military Age

A certified copy of the man's birth certificate should be forwarded to "The Secretary, Militia Council, Department of Militia and Defence, Ottawa," for transmission to the authorities in England.

WAGES PAID IN ALASKA

The scale of wages paid for various kinds of labor in Alaska has at last become standardized in large measure.

Before the government of the United States began the construction of railroads in the territory two years ago the wage paid was generally a matter of agreement between employer and employe without much reference to any recognized standard except in the mining industry. Within the last five years wages in that industry have ranged from $5 to $7 a day for eight hours' work. Prior to five years ago the wages of miners were somewhat higher, in some instances running to $10 a day.

When the government entered this field as an employer of labor a regular scale was fixed for the different classes of railroad labor. The scale in several instances was not more than half what it should have been, measured by public opinion in Alaska. The dissatisfaction finally culminated in a strike, but not before it had been seized upon by many Alaskan employers as an excuse for reducing wages in private employments. The government at Washington sent its conciliation and arbitration commission to Alaska with power to fix a uniform wage scale. This was done, resulting in a general increase of from 35 per cent. to 90 per cent. more than the scale first fixed.

The lowest wage now paid by the government is 46¾ cents an hour to track men or section hands. Civil engineers receive from $150 to $200 a month and board; chainmen and rodmen, $3.50 a day and board. The cutters get from 14c to 16c a tie on the ground, for which the government pays the tie contractor 37½c each for first class ties and 32½c for second-class ties delivered at the track. Brakemen and firemen are paid $5 a day for eight hours, and the same rate of pay for extra time. Locomotive engineers receive a flat rate of $200 a month; bridge carpenters, 75c an hour, and railway clerks from $150 to $200 a month. Drillers get 75c an hour, and powder monkeys or blasters $7 a day.

Outside of government employment the following scale of wages is customary in coast towns, and slightly higher in the interior: Stone and brick masons, $1 an hour; painters, $1 an hour; teamsters, $5 a day; timber fellers, $4.50 a day; buckers, $4, and swampers, $3.50; cooks, in camps of from 10 to 20 persons, $90 a month, while in camps where 30 or 40 persons are fed the cook is paid from $150 to $200 a month. These employes have helpers who receive from $60 to $75 a month.

Clerks in stores are generally paid according to their capacity, from $80 to $150 a month. Stenographers and typists in offices receive from $75 to $100 a month. Comparatively few Alaskan families keep domestic servants, but persons who serve in that capacity receive from $40 to $75 a month.

Board, according to accommodations, ranges from $10 to $15 a week except in the case of laborers, who pay a rather uniform rate of $1 a day. This entitles them to three meals a day and sleeping quarters in a bunk house. Laborers furnish their own bedding.

Work is plentiful at the wages given.

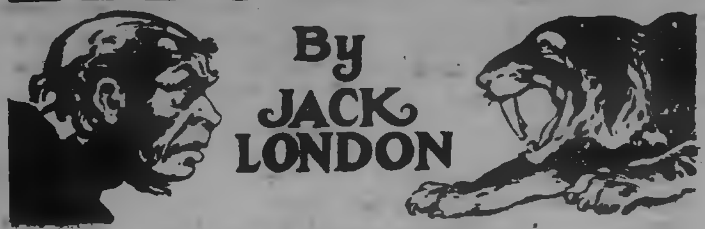
BEFORE ADAM



By JACK LONDON

Copyright, 1907, by the MacMillan company.

And as I watched him I felt in my own being, in my very muscles themselves, the surge and thrill of desire to go leaping from bough to bough, and I felt also the guarantee of the latent power in that being and in those muscles of mine. And why not? Little boys watch their fathers swing axes and fell trees and feel in themselves that some day they, too, will swing axes and fell trees. And so with me. The life that was in me was constituted to do what my father did, and it whispered to me secretly and ambitiously of aerial paths and forest flights.

At last my father joined us. He was extremely angry. I remember the outthrust of his protruding underlip as he glared down at the wild pigs. He snarled something like a dog, and I remember that his eyeteeth were large, like fangs, and that they impressed me tremendously.

His conduct served only the more to infuriate the pigs. He broke off twigs and small branches and flung them down upon our enemies. He even hung by one hand, tantalizingly just beyond reach, and mocked them as they gnashed their tusks with impotent rage. Not content with this, he broke off a stout branch and, holding on with one hand and foot, jabbed the infuriated beasts in the sides and whacked them across their noses. Needless to state, my mother and I enjoyed the sport.

But one tires of all good things, and in the end my father, chuckling maliciously the while, led the way across the trees. Now it was that my ambitions ebbed away, and I became timid, holding tightly to my mother as she climbed and swung through space. I remember when the branch broke with her weight. She had made a wide leap, and with the snap of the wood I was overwhelmed with the sickening consciousness of falling through space, the pair of us. The forest and the sunshine on the rustling leaves vanished from my eyes. I had a fading glimpse of my father abruptly arresting his progress to look, and then all was blackness.

The next moment I was awake in my sheeted bed, sweating, trembling, nauseated. The window was up, and a cool air was blowing through the room. The night lamp was burning calmly. And because of this I take it that the wild pigs did not get us, that we never fetched bottom, else I should not be here now, a thousand centuries after, to remember the event.

And now put yourself in my place for a moment. Walk with me a bit in my tender childhood, bed with me a night and imagine yourself dreaming such incomprehensible horrors. Remember I was an inexperienced child. I had never seen a wild boar in my life. For that matter I had never seen a domesticated pig. The nearest approach to one that I had seen was breakfast bacon sizzling in its fat. And yet here, real as life, wild boars dashed through my dreams, and I, with fantastic parents, swung through the lofty tree spaces.

Do you wonder that I was frightened and oppressed by my nightmare ridden nights? I was accursed. And, worst of all, I was afraid to tell. I do not know why, except that I had a feeling of guilt, though I knew no better of what I was guilty. So it was through long years that I suffered in silence until I came to man's estate and learned the why and wherefore of my dreams.

CHAPTER III.

THERE is one puzzling thing about these prehistoric memories of mine. It is the vagueness of the time element. I do not always know the order of events; nor can I tell, between some events, whether one, two, or four or five years have elapsed. I can only roughly tell the passage of time by judging the changes in the appearance and pursuits of my fellows.

Also I can apply the logic of events to the various happenings. For instance, there is no doubt whatever that my mother and I were treed by the wild pigs and fled and fell in the days before I made the acquaintance of Lop Ear, who became what I may call my boyhood chum. And it is just as conclusive that between these two periods I must have left my mother.

I have no memory of my father than the one I have given. Never in the years that followed did he reappear. And from my knowledge of the times the only explanation possible lies in that he perished shortly after the adventure with the wild pigs. That it must have been an untimely end there is no discussion. He was in full vigor, and only sudden and violent death could have taken him off. But I know not the manner of his going—whether he was drowned in the river or was swallowed by a snake or went into the stomach of old Saber Tooth, the tiger, is beyond my knowledge.

For know that I remember only the things I saw myself, with my own eyes, in those prehistoric days. If my mother knew my father's end she never told me. For that matter I doubt if she had a vocabulary adequate to convey such information. Perhaps, all told, the folk in that day had a vocabulary of thirty or forty sounds.

I call them sounds rather than words because sounds they were primarily. They had no fixed values to be altered by adjectives and adverbs. These latter were tools of speech not yet invented. Instead of qualifying nouns or verbs by the use of adjectives and adverbs, we qualified sounds by intonation, by changes in quantity and pitch, by retarding and by accelerating. The length of time employed in the utterance of a particular sound shaded its meaning.

We had no conjugation. One judged the tense by the context. We talked only concrete things because we thought only concrete things; also we depended largely on pantomime. The simplest abstraction was practically beyond our thinking, and when one did happen to think one he was hard put to communicate it to his fellows. There were no sounds for it. He was pressing beyond the limits of his vocabulary. If he invented sounds for it his fellows did not understand the sounds. Then it was that he fell back on pantomime, illustrating the thought wherever possible and at the same time repeating the new sound over and over again.

Thus language grew. By the few sounds we possessed we were enabled to think a short distance beyond those sounds; then came the need for new sounds wherewith to express the new thought. Sometimes, however, we thought too long a distance in advance of our sounds, managed to achieve abstractions (dim ones, I grant), which we failed utterly to make known to other folk. After all, language did not grow fast in that day.

Oh, believe me, we were amazingly simple. But we did know a lot that is not known today. We could twitch our ears, prick them up and flatten them down at will. And we could scratch between our shoulders with ease. We could throw stones with our feet. I have done it many a time. And for that matter, I could keep my knees straight, bend forward from the hips and touch, not the tips of my fingers, but the points of my elbows, to the ground. And as for bird nesting—well, I only wish the twentieth century boy could see us. But we made no collection of eggs. We ate them.

I remember—but I outrun my story. First let me tell of Lop Ear and our friendship. Very early in my life I separated from my mother. Possibly this was because after the death of my father she took to herself a second husband. I have few recollections of him, and they are not of the best. He was a light fellow. There was no solidity to him. He was too voluble. His infernal chattering worries me even now as I think of it. His mind was too inconsequential to permit him to possess purpose. Monkeys in their cages always remind me of him. He was monkeyish. That is the best description I can give of him.

TO DEVELOP THE FIGURE

To develop the figure and correct round shoulders, well bathe to the waist in cold water every morning, if you do not take a cold tub. Then with a skipping-rope skip for five minutes in front of an open window before you put on your corsets. Then stand straight up, heels together, stretch your arms out in front of you as far as they will reach, with the tips of fingers together; then, with mouth shut, spread them slowly open until quite wide apart, then stretch them backward, trying to touch the backs of the hands. Draw in a deep breath through your nostrils all this time. Then slowly bring your arms back to their first position, exhaling the breath through the mouth. Repeat this twenty times morning and night. Every evening massage the chin for a few minutes with this reducing massage lotion: Powdered tragacanth, 10 grains; boric acid, 15 grains; salicylic acid, 5 grains; glycerine, 6 drams; eau de Cologne, 2 ounces; water, 2 ounces. General Wood to Premier Borden

We can admire the splendid spirit and conduct of Canada and her people, and take unto ourselves—we are not entirely dead—a lesson from her free and splendid performance of duty. While suffering and bleeding in this war, Canada appreciates the meaning of the words of Ruskin, a lover of peace, who said that while war is very dreadful, the conclusion is unavoidable: that all great works and deeds have their origin among fighting people. When nations decline to declare their positions, refuse to take any stand on great questions, refuse to say whether these questions are moral or immoral, then the period of decadence begins, the period of money-getting, and it is the beginning of the period of death.—Major-General Leonard Wood, Chief of Staff of the American Army, at the luncheon given Premier Borden in New York.

Willing

But still I think I'd take the job
  Though drawbacks are around it.
One can't have everything his way—
  At least so I have found it.
There's daily trouble, I'm aware,
  Sometimes continued nightly,
But still the place as president
  May not be passed up lightly.

I am not looking for the job,
  Nor yet do I pursue it.
But offer it to me just once
  And see if I'd go to it.
Let others halt and hesitate
  And deprecate the rushing.
But when the mob insists on me
  No one will see me blushing.

Some folks there are who might prefer
  The joy of running buses
Or sitting in the judge's chair
  And smoothing out the cases
Or being harnessed to a trust
  As managing director,
But if they make me follow Taft
  I'll not be an objector.

Some one must sit in Washington
  And run this growing nation.
Some one must fill the place—at least
  That's been my observation.
My hands are tied in other lines,
  But if there is no starter
When it is time to make the race—
  Well, I will be the martyr.

Cupid does not take out a license when he goes hunting. The man of whom he makes game has to do that.

Every officeholder has his trials—and some have their convictions.

SCHOOL LUNCH

In the belief that a hot dish at noon, if only a bowl of milk soup or a cup of good cocoa, is highly important to school children, many schools throughout the U. S. are either supplying a regular hot luncheon to school children or are providing a single hot dish with which the children coming from a distance can supplement the cold food in their lunch baskets. In most cases the children bring money with them and buy the dishes at cost price. Those in charge of the lunch room see to it that nothing is for sale that would be hurtful to the children, and direct them in their purchases so that they will not buy merely sweets or pastry. This overcomes the danger of the child's spending his money unwisely or patronizing an insanitary shop.

The following economical and easily prepared menus have been suggested for the school lunch:

1. Vegetable-milk soup, crackers, rolls, fruit, plain cake.
2. Meat and vegetable stew, bread and buttes, sweet chocolate.
3. Boiled custard, lettuce sandwiches, fruit, cookies.
4. Dried codfish chowder, crackers, fruit, maple sugar, sandwiches.
5. Bean soup, crackers, baked apples, sponge cake.

In addition, the school can serve hot cocoa, cooked fruits, berries, and liquid or other foods which it is difficult to carry in baskets. Almost any school by the use of paper cups can make good milk available to children at noon. The school can also place on sale good simple cookies, zwieback, or crackers supplied from the outside.

TO WASH SILK STOCKINGS.

If time permits, silk stockings should always be allowed to soak for a while before washing. Put them into tepid water, to which a little powdered borax has been added. Then wash them in a soap lather without rubbing soap directly on the stockings. Pay particular attention to the soles, washing them very thoroughly. Pull the stockings gently into shape before drying. Press with a cool iron on the wrong side or roll them up tightly and evenly without ironing them.

RANCIDITY AND ACIDITY.

Q.—In speaking of cream, butter, or olive oil, is rancidity not the same as acidity?—L. J.

Rancidity is not the same as acidity, although rancid oils, including butter and cream, are usually rich in acids.

These acids do not become rancid until they are exposed to light and air, after which they develop the objectionable flavor and odor of rancidity, the chemical nature of which is little understood.

Pure, wholesome buttermilk may have a high acid content, but none of the characteristics of rancidity.

Pure, freshly churned butter may also have a high acid content, but it can be entirely free from rancidity.

The same is true with respect to olive oil.

Do not confuse the two terms, if through them you are striving to judge the quality of any of these products.

CHEESE SOUFFLE.

Grate a half pound of Gruyere cheese. Mix in a cupful of milk a dessert spoonful of flour; beat four whole eggs and add first he cheese and then the flour and milk mixture. Season with pepper and salt, and put all into a mould. Let it cook in a saucepan of boiling water for an hour and a half. Then at the end of this time put it in the oven for half an hour.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

VEAL BALLS.

Eight ounces of cold cooked veal, three ounces of bacon fried, two tablespoonfuls of cream, three ounces of grated roll, one tablespoonful of chopped parsley, pepper and salt. Pass the meat and bacon twice through the mincing machine. Stir grated roll into cream, add egg, salt, pepper, and parsley, and lastly the meat, mixing all thoroughly. Form into balls the size of a nut, boil for five minutes in soup and serve hot.

A FEW FACTS ABOUT COFFEE.

Q.—Are imitation coffees harmful? Is caffeine harmful? The coffee I buy shines with a brilliant gloss. What is responsible for this gloss and is it harmful?

A.—1. No. 2. Under certain conditions it undoubtedly is. As far as children are concerned, nothing can justify the use of coffee. 3. Your coffee has been "glazed," which means that it has been dipped in a mixture of eggs and sugar or has been roasted with a vegetable oil. Coffee is glazed for two reasons—either to make it keep longer or to conceal inferiority. There is nothing unwholesome about it. Be sure only that the glasing is done by a coffee roaster who does not resort to the very common practice of employing rots and spots for the purpose.

WHAT COTTONSEED OIL IS.

Q.—Just what is cottonseed oil?—J. C.

The seeds of the cotton plant are rich in oil, containing as much as 25 per cent. of it. This oil is refined by a process which gets rid of the rank, objectionable flavors of the raw oil, after which it is ready for those who like it for food.

BREAD AND PARSLEY OMELET.

Soak six tablespoonfuls of grated bread crumbs in six tablespoonfuls of cold milk for ten minutes and season with one-half tablespoonful of salt and one-eighth of a saltspoonful of paprika. Separate the whites and yolks of three eggs and beat until light. Add the crumbs and milk to the yolks with two tablespoonfuls of chopped parsley and fold in the stiffly whipped egg whites. Heat in an omelet pan two tablespoonfuls of butter; turn in the omelet mixture and cook over a moderate heat until well risen. Loosen the sides of the omelet from the pan with a cake turner, turn over into a neat half circle, brown for a couple of minutes on the under side and serve inverted on a hot platter. Garnish with crisp cress and slices of boiled tomatoes.

Keeping Accounts

Have you ever figured out exactly what it costs each day to keep one person properly nourished?

If you keep no accounts it would be quite impossible to make these calculations.

Then, have you any idea what difference the "high cost of living" of the last few years has made? Those who keep accounts say there is an amazing difference. This may mean that the woman who "spends all her money and wonders where it goes to" runs into debt. If not she stumbles along, resenting everything and everyone responsible for the high cost of living. If she had her accounts she could see where it would be best to economize, whether on dress, on service, or furnishing.

Part of Housewife's "Job"

To a woman who has never kept accounts of household expenditure of course, this all sounds very tiresome and unnecessary. But we are wakening up gradually to the fact that woman is a success or a failure in housekeeping, just as glaringly as a man or woman is a success of failure in any other career. It is "up to" a housekeeper to "make good" in her work, and she cannot do that unless she understands the details of her work. Part of her "job" is to spend wisely the money the husband makes, and to do this (wisely) she literally must have some definite idea of where the money goes, the percentage requird for food, clothes, entertainment, service, giving, etc.

THE HOUSEKEEPERS' GUIDE

Watch the advertisements on this page, They will appear every Friday.

RULES TO COOK WITHOUT FIRE

The following directions for making a fireless cooker are given in a Cornell University bulletin on this subject:

A wooden box, a trunk, an ice box, a galvanized iron ash-can, and a wooden candy bucket are among the articles that have been successfully used in the construction of a fireless cooker. If an ordinary box is used, it should be of heavy enough material to permit the use of good hinges and fastenings.

The inside container for the food utensils may be a bucket of agate, galvanized iron or tin. It should have a tight-fitting cover.

Ground cork, sawdust, excelsior, mineral wool, paper torn in small pieces and crumpled, powdered asbestos, shavings, straw, hay, wool, and cotton batting are commonly used as insulators. Mineral wool and powdered asbestos are both good insulators, and have the additional merit of not being inflammable; but they are harder to work with than are the other materials. Gloves should be worn by the person doing the packing, and care should be taken not to allow the material to enter the nose and the mouth. Cork is light in weight and has proved to be the best weight for lining the outer case or covering the inner bucket; it is more durable and efficient than is the lighter weight, and it can be made to fit the curved surfaces more easily than can the heavier weight.

1. Select a box, a bucket or a can of suitable size, and line it with sheet asbestos of one-eighth inch thickness. There should be a close-fitting cover, and this, too, should be lined with sheet asbestos.

Select an inner bucket or kettle with a tightfitting cover and of such a size that there may be a space of at least three inches between the outer box or bucket and the inner bucket. Cover the outside of the inner bucket and its lid with sheet asbestos of one-eighth inch thickness.

3 Pack into the bottom of the asbestos-lined outer box or bucket a layer at least three inches deep of whatever non-conducting material is to be used.

4. Place the asbestos covered inner bucket on the layer of non-conducting material in the bottom of the outer box or bucket, and pack the space between the outer box or bucket and the inner bucket with more of the non-conducting material.

5. Make a cushion of such material as cotton, which, when filled with the non-conducting material, will be at least three inches thick and will, as exactly as possibe, fit into the space between the top of the inner bucket and that of the outer bucket. This cushion may be made by cutting out of the material two pieces of the desired shape and size, and putting them together with a straight strip of the desired width, with extra allowance for seams.

The interior of the fireless cooker should be kept absolutely clean. It should remain over for several hours after use, and it should never be tightly closed when not in use. The observance of these precautions prevents the food from acquiring an unpleasant taste from odors or remnants of food previously cooked.

Breakfast

Scrambled Eggs on Toast Rings—Allow a tablespoon of milk to each egg. Beat well, add the seasoning and scramble over hot water. Cut pieces of toast in rounds with a biscuit cutter. Butter and spread with the scrambled eggs.

Luncheon

Sardines with Tomato Catsup—Remove the sardines carefuly from the box and lay in a frying pan. Add the oil from the can and cover with half a cup of tomato catsup. Let boil up at once, add a tablespoon of lemon juice and serve on crackers.

Dinner

Vegetable Soup Into four quarts of water put a cup each of pared and sliced potatoes, carrots, celery, parsnips and one onion. Simmer four hours.

Virginia Oysters—Melt two and a half tablespoons of butter, add two tablespoons of flour and stir until well blended. Then add a cup of milk and boil until thick. Cover the bottom of a baking dish with hot boiled rice, add a layer of oysters, cover with the sauce and season. Repeat until the dish is full, cover the top with buttered bread crumbs and bake in a hot oven twenty minutes.

Fruit Salad—For the dressing beat two egg yolks and a quarter of a cup of sugar, a tablespoon each of water and vinegar, and boil until thick. When cool add the juice of one lemon and just before serving add a tablespoon of whipped cream

EMERGENCY PUDDING.

Mix and sift one cup bread flour, half a teaspoon salt, and two teaspoons baking powder, and moisten to a soft dough with milk, the amount required being about one-third cup. Drop a tablespoon of dough in a buttered individual mould, using the number required; add a small section cut from a canned peach, cover with another tablespoon dough, and steam ten minutes. Other canned fruit may be used instead of peaches. Serve with any pudding sauce.

LUNCHEON.

Stewed Apples.—Pare, core and quarter six apples; stew until tender in one cup of water. Remove from the fire. Squeeze over them the juice of half a lemon and sprinkle over three tablespoons of granulated sugar and one teaspoon of cinnamon.

HOW TO REDUCE

The following is a well-planned meal, which will not add flesh to anyone wishing to reduce:

Raw oysters or clams.

Roast chicken.

Spinach.

Lettuce.

Stewed apples.

This will give sufficient food to satisfy the appetite and to lend strength and nourishment in needed quantities, without adding an ounce of extra flesh. As this is the menu for a dinner, an excellent luncheon for the following day would consist of left-over chicken minced—but without milk or flour thickening—a fruit salad for dessert, and if a vegetable is desired, stewed celery.

Scientific diet is really a very simple matter. Most women already know the principles, but neglect to make use of them. It is easy enough to stop eating potatoes, even though the rest of the family like and demand them. Simply cook another vegetable for yourself in place of this forbidden one — stewed celery, spinach, turnips, brussels sprouts—something that does not contain starch.

Avoid soups—They are fattening. Instead, eat oysters, raw or steamed, or on the half shell, or with a tiny pot of catsup on the dish to make them into a cocktail. Oysters add no flesh, but nourish and make the meals more delicious. Clams can be used also; and either forms a dish that is ridiculously cheap even for inland families whose oysters come in cans.

Ald. Duncan seconded the motion of Ald. Stratton.

Mr. Matthews thought that it would be a good idea for the city to get a statement from he Government and suggested an independent opinion on the physical value of the two concerns.

Profit by Government

City Clerk Armstrong informed the members that on a valuation of $420,164 a profit of $8,981 had been made by the Government, allowing for a sinking fund depreciation, and interest at 5.2 per cent. The Government had borrowed the money at 4 per cent. and was willing to finance it for the city at the same rate and assist the municipality in every way.

Mr. H. O. Fisk stated that the railway co. had shown a surplus in 1910.

Mr. R. Hicks thought that the city should seriously consider the purchase at once.

Mr. W. H. Moore, K.C., reminded the Council that the Government had expresed a willingness to have the time extended for payment for thirty years after the present loan expired.

Mayor Duffus was quite confident that the people would vote to take the plants over when it was explained to them in a business manner.

Ratepayers Never Think!

Ald. Smith: The ratepayers never think for themselves; they do what someone tells them.

Mr. Moore: They don't have to think when they have a City Council to think for them.

Mr. Hicks thought that it would be a good idea to have a small committee appointed to confer with the authorities on the matter and suggested that Mayor Duffus, the chairman of the commission, the city clerk and the chairman of the railway committee look into it and get all the information available. The Utilities Commission could handle it very nicely if the purchase was made.

It was finally decided to add to Ald. Stratton's motion the recommendation that the city seriously consider the taking over of the gas and railway plants and that the mayor appoint a committee to investigate.

New Sub-Station

Mr. Matthews stated that the Utilities Commission were getting ready to build their new sub station on Sherbrooke Street and if the railway was taken over now it would make a considerable change in the plans for the new building. He also suggested that the city confer with the Hydro Commission in reference to rebate on street lighting, which would be about equal to the taxes which would be paid if the plant was privately owned.

OJANI IS HELD BY THE FRENCH

PARIS, Feb. 9.—North of the Saloniki-Macedonian front, the French have occupied Ojani. The British repulsed the Germans at Kalendra.

If you are suffering from dyspepsia, indigestion or sour stomach you should try a mixture of Salon Pepsin and Iridin.

This is said to be the formula of Dr. Banta's famous prescription which gava him a world-wide reputation.

These powders are sold in Peterborough at Lynch's Drug Store, 168

Issue Patriotic Fund Debentures at Once

The $60,000 Patriotic Fund debentures will be issued at once under the sinking fund plan and the amount paid in $5,000 lots to the fund. The balance will be carried in the city's general account and lessen the overdraft.

The City Trust have not yet come to a decision as to the instalment or sinking fund debentures.

Overdraft of $3700 on Outfall Sewer

Mayor Duffus reported to the committee of the whole council last night that there was an overdraft of $3,700 standing on account of the outfall sewer, and also overdrafts of a small amount on paving contracts of $3 and $4.

The City Trust Commission is arranging to take care of them without the issuance of debentures.

Successful Tea by Patriotic Soc. of St. Andrew's Church

A very successful tea was held at the home of Mrs C. S. McClelland, 301 Boswell avenue, under the auspices of St. Andrew's Church Patriotic League. Many [illegible] called during the afternoon. The cheery, flower-decked tea room made them forget the snow and cold of the outside world. Mrs. McClelland was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Howard Waram and Mrs. J. John. Mrs. McClelland, Sr., was in charge of the tea room. The tea table presented an attractive appearance with its large bowl of red carnations in the centre. The ladies who looked after the guests in the tea room were Mesdames Sills, Latimer, McKone, Briggs and Miss Lucy McClelland. During the afternoon Mrs. R. W. F. E. Davidson and Miss G. Stevens sang and their numbers were much enjoyed. The result was the realization of a substantial sum and a very enjoyable afternoon

OBITUARY

MRS. MARY HOPE

Mary Sanderson, widow of the late James Hope, died at her residence, 184 London St., aged 89 years.

Mrs. Hope was a highly respected citizen of Peterborough for over 60 years. She was born in Scotland 89 years ago and came to this country when a child of six months, with her parents, the late Michael and Mary Sanderson, in the year 1827. She was married to the late Jas Hope of Otonabee in 1852 and had lived in her late residence over fifty years. She had been a subscriber to the Review ever since it started in Peterborough. Deceased was a faithful member of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, taking an active interest in the work of many different societies. She was predeceased by her husband and two sons, George and Frank, some years. She leaves to mourn her loss two daughters, Mrs. M. Thompson, and Matilda at home, and four grandchildren, William of the 11th Batt., in France, Nina and Russell at home, and Mrs. Irons of Chicago; and two great grandchildren, Pearl and Budd

MRS. MICHAEL BURKE

Johanna Welsh, wife of Mr. Michael Burke, 242 Euclid Ave., Ashburnham, died early this morning after an illness of long duration. She was born in Douro 62 years ago and besides her husband is survived by one daughter, Miss Helen F. Burke, at home. Two sisters Mrs. W. Davidson and Mrs. Thos. Fox of New Denver, B.C., and one brother, Edward Welsh, of Douro, also survive her.

The funeral will take place on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock to the Church of the Immaculate Conception, and thence to St. Peter's Cemetery.

REGISTRATION OF BETROTHALS

Representative Clark, of the Lower House of the Michigan Legislature wil go thundering down the ages as the man who strove to put punch into betrothals. The eminent Michigander is appalled by the epidemic of breach of promise cases that is devastating the country, and for which no remedy has yet been found. The trouble seems to be, to his mind, that marriage vows shun publicity and, exchanged as they are for the most part in secret, have little or no standing in a court of law

Mr. Clark would put a end to question popping without registration. When two young hearts discover that they beat as one, and are inclined to make permanent their cardiac synchronism, the county clerk should be called upon to make an official record of the agreement that the enamored have enterd into regarding a prospective marriage. Mr. Clark is the father of a bill making it obligatory for engaged couples to inform the public, through a county clerk, that they are engaged.

The damages awarded in the United States during the past year to plaintiffs of both sexes in breach of promise cases foot up a very large amount. The bright sunlight of publicity seems to be the only agent which the unhappiness wrought by the inconstancy of wooers toward the wooed can be reduced to a minimum There may be a lack of romance about the average county clerk and his environment, but the betrothed who really mean to play square with each other should have no hesitancy about registering their vows and, incidentally exhibiting their good faith by paying a small fee.

What yellow journalism would do if Mr. Clark's campaign against breach of promise cases is successful is a difficult and melancholy problem. But even the sensational press should be willing to make sacrifices.

Praising your rival may be good Christianity, but its poor politics.

Sprinkle a little salt of economy on the tail of riches and they will not fly away.

"Is you husband much of a provider, Malindy?"

"He jes' aint nothing else, ma'am. He gwine to git some new furniture providin' he gits de money; he gwine to git de money providin' he go to work; he go to work providin' de job suits him. I never see such a providin' man in all mah days."

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST LAND REGULATIONS

The sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. Applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at any Dominion Lands Agency (but not Sub-Agency), on certain conditions.

Duties—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required except where residence is performed in the vicinity.

Live stock may be substituted for cultivation under certain conditions.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre.

Duties—Six months' residence in each of three years after earning homestead patent, also 50 acres extra cultivation. Pre-emption patent may be obtained as soon as homestead patent, on certain conditions.

A settler who has exhausted his homestead right may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre.

Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

SPORTING NEWS

MARK STREET CAME INTO THEIR OWN AND DEFEATED CHURCH LEAGUE LEADERS

Three Goals and Popular Win in the Third Period.

The sturdy and hard working Mark Street team jumped into the win column of the Church League last night, by defeating George St., the league leaders, by 5 to 3. The win was a popular one as it was recognized by the patrons of the games that Mark St. lads should not be at the bottom of the pile. They have the best looking team in the league and now that they have started the Easterners may continue to climb. George St. had the score 3 to 1 in their favor when the third period started. Mark St. put in two tallies in short order and with the session well advanced added another.

The teams:—

Mark Street—Goal, Stevens; defence, Wyatt and Hagerman; rover, Cook, centre, Williams; wings, Gillespie and Lipsett.

George Street—Goal, Rutherford; defence, Graham and Peever; centre, Graham; wings, Helson and Head.

Cranfield's Presbyterians lost another game and are now safe and secure in their quest of the cellar championship. They performed fairly well and gave the Trinity-St. Andrews a struggle before taking the count. The score was 3 to 1 and the win ties the victors with George St. for first place.

The teams:—

Knox—Goal, Mahood; defence, Rehill and Doughty; rover, Martin; centre, Jackson; wings, Clark and Wright.

Trinity-St. Andrews—Goal, Pigeon; defence, Greene and English; rover, Henry, centre, Soden; wings, Batten and Tudhope.

HOCKEY

In the Nobel-Peterborough game on Friday, Feb. 2, in which the score was 13 to 5 for Peterborough—

A had score 12 to 5 for Peterboro.

B had score 8 to 3 for Peterboro.

Which winds?

Percentage of score 13 to 5 is .722. A's score shows percentage of .706, while B's score shows .727. According to percentage B wins.

With the Depot Batteries-247th Soldiers, score at 11 to 6 for the 247th. The holder of the 10 to 5 score wins against scores of 11 to 5, 11 to 4, and 10 to 6.

If the score were 6 to 3 and and holders had 5 to 3 and 4 to 3, the holder of 5 to 3 would win.

CURLING

Several of the interrink postponed games were played at the rink last night and despite the large scores, the contests were very interesting.

The rinks and scores were:—

Games Tonight

Brightman vs. Lang.
Dela Fosse vs. Waddell
W. G. Ferguson vs. Foote
Greer vs. Wightman

The Lindsay-Peterborough Cup games will be played here next Friday with four rinks of curlers from Scugogville and four rinks from here will take the trip north.

"Jawn's" Very Funny One

There were a couple of amusing incidents during a Canadien-Wanderer game that the fans missed. The feature one was undoubtedly the effort of old Jack Marshall to get Referee Brennan to allow the Wanderers two goals on one shot. When Roy scored the second and last goal for the Red Bands, one of the Wanderer players knocked Tommy Smith's stick out of his hands. Marshall tried to put up the argument that Smith threw his stick, and wanted the official to count two goals on Roy's shot. The claim even made manager Dickie Boon laugh.

No Pink Teas Wanted

Why is it that when interest in a "croocial" game is small the sport writers hint that the next hockey or lacrosse game is to be a "merry battle" or something warlike? Do Canadians like fighting? Do pants need legs? The same answer goes for both. Canadians like a strenuous game.

A crack in the ice is as bad as a crack on the head.

DISTRICT CUP NEXT BIG EVENT

Secty. G. S. Peacy of the Ontario Curling Association has issued a call for the eight District Cup group winners to meet at Toronto next Tuesday in the finals

The draw will be made Monday night at the Victoria Club, while the Queen City and Toronto ice will be used for the competition. The play will begin at nine o'clock Tuesday morning.

Peterborough rinks are anxious for the battle and are confident of being on top in the final. The skips are Alex. Kay and W. D. Campbell.

WHAT WAR WILL MEAN TO U.S.

(Chicago News.)

War with Germany and its allies if war comes, will mean war for every man, woman and child in the United States. The burden of the conflict will fall upon the whole people, not upon any particular class, party, section or race.

Not every citizen can do his or her "bit" on the firing line, but each can help in some way. There can, and doubtless will be a tightening up, a mobilling of every individual's powers and resources, and certainly there should be—and doubtless will be—a unification of national spirit and purpose, a whole hearted dedication of the individual's life, fortune and honor to the ideal for which America strives and will strive.

There is no time for venom or malice, for idle boasting or for pessimistic criticism of the nation's powers. War is a solemn and awful occasion for consecrated endeavor. War is to be avoided at every cost, except that of the sacrifice of honor. Integrity and humane principles; but when war becomes unavoidable it must be prosecuted to the last full measure of patriotic devotion.

America aspires to be the torch-bearer of civiliation ,and so it must not stumble or fall. To make its accomplishment of victory swift and sure and humane, every citizen must realize that it is his or her personal and vital concern to win, and so do whatever the grim exigencies of the event may require.

The very fact that this spiritual mobilization is taking place may do much, even at the last moment, to avert a conflict which madness apparently has been trying of late to thrust upon the American people.

The man who is in touch with the toothache is out of sympathy with it.

It's surprising how quickly a man recovers from what he imagined was a fatal attack of love.

Sun Life of Canada Sets New Records

RESULTS secured during the year 1916 re-affirm the position of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada as the leading life assurance organization in the Dominion.

Once more it leads the field among Canadian Companies in each of the following respects:

Largest New Business. Largest Business in Force. Largest Assets.
Largest Surplus Earnings. Largest Net Surplus. Largest Income.
Largest Distribution of Life Assurance Benefits.

THE YEAR'S RESULTS

The following large and uniform increases registered during the year 1916 clearly demonstrate the strength of the Company's position and the confidence and prestige it enjoys in the public mind:

	1916	1915	INCREASE
Assets as at December 31st.	$ 82,948,996	$74,326,423	$8,622,573	(11.6%)
Cash Income	18,499,131	15,972,672	2,526,459	(15.8%)
Surplus paid or allotted to Policyholders.	1,110,900	985,487	125,413	(12.7%)
Net Surplus as at December 31st. . .	8,509,865	7,545,591	964,274	(12.8%)
Total Payments to Policyholders. . .	7,578,016	7,129,479	448,537	(6.3%)
Assurances Issued and Paid for in Cash .	42,772,296	34,873,851	7,898,445	(22.6%)
Assurances in Force	281,434,700	257,404,160	24,030,540	(9.3%)

Coincident with the above increases, the Company succeeded during the year in effecting a substantial and important reduction in the ratio of expense, a feature which favourably affects earnings on policyholders' account.

The Company's Growth

OAKLEY—HAMBLIN

The marriage was solemnized at the Methodist parsonage, Campbellford, of Mrs. Sarah Ann Hamblin of Peterborough, to Mr. Joseph Henry Oakely of Percy township. After the ceremony the bridal couple left for Belleville, and after a short honeymoon will reside on Mr. Oakley's farm in Percy.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Forrestell were here this week on their wedding trip. They will reside near Campbellford. Mrs. Forrestell was formerly Miss Minnie Boyle, of Spring Brook.

Lt.-Col. Richard Greer is going to France before his return to Canada early in March. Mrs. Greer during his absence will be the guest of the well-known authoress, Mrs Charlotte Cameron, of London.

Mr. James McNicholl of Saskatoon, who came east on a business trip, visited friends here yesterday.

On Saturday afternoon, Feb. 10, the Peter Robinson Chapter, I.O.D.E., will hold a Valentine Tea and Tea Dansant at the Empress Hotel, dancing from 3 to 5, while tea will be served from 3 to 6. The hostesses will be Mrs. Gomer and Mrs. Widdifield, assisted by Miss Georgie Stevenson, the Misses Hill, Miss Dorothy Allan, Miss Genevieve Sullivan, Miss Marion Harstone, Miss Robena Cumming, the Misses Aylmer, Miss Elinor Collins, Miss Margaret Eastwood and Miss Helen Davidson. Everyone is cordially invited. Proceeds to go, as usual, to the prisoners of war fund.

The teaches' training class of George St. Church will meet this evening at 7.30 in the church parlor.

The Women's Patriotic League of Ashburnham held their monthly meeting on Wednesday afternoon, and the large attendance at both the work and business meeting was decidedly encouraging. Quite a number of letters were read from the boys at the front, acknowledging the receipt of their Christmas boxes, which were all received in good condition. It was interesting to note the comments on the articles enclosed and how they appealed to the different boys. It will be quite a help to the ladies again. Lately the League has been forwarding cheques to the different patriotic societies, but now the workers are turning out in such good numbers that it is hoped to largely increase the output of sewing as well. The resignation of Mrs. J. Craig as conveuor of the buying committee was received with deep regret. Owing to ill-health she was obliged to resign.

The following articles were forwarded for the month of January:

18 suits of pyjamas (Red Cross).
18 bed jackets (Red Cross).
120 socks (Canadian S. C. C.).
14 gauze suits (Canadian S.C.C.).

Dr. T. H. Hassard of Markham was yesterday elected a director of the Clydesdale Horse Association of Canada.

Judge G. M. Roger of Cobourg is in the city.

The Canadian Kitchener League invite the citizens of Peterborough to their St. Valentine's Tea on Wednesday afternoon, February 14th, in the Oriental dining-room. There a bevy of young ladies, the prettiest of Valentines, will be pleased to serve you.

Announcement by Robert Hicks Co.

For some time past we have been obtaining coal from jobbers and from any source we could, to supply the extra demands upon us, but we will not be obtaining coal from these sources now and must depend upon our regular sources of supply to carry out our contracts with our regular customers. We will then be able to reduce the price of coal to our regular customers, subject to any advances in prices imposed on us.

We regret that we are forced to announce to the public that after the 15th inst. we cannot undertake to supply coal to others than our regular customers whom we have agreed to supply. It may be possible that other dealers have arrangements by which they can obtain the coal required to take care of the needs of those customers whom they have usually supplied but who during this temporary famine, required to come to our company for coal.

The trouble with you, sir, is—if you will pardon me for saying so that you think nobody is good enough for your daughter."

"Yes, sir, and that is where we differ so radically. You appear to think anybody is."

"THY WILL BE DONE"

Adieu, sweet child, short was thy stay,
Just looked about, then called away.
Thy angel face we all did see,
But soon we were deprived of thee.

Sleep on, dear child, and take thy rest;
God taketh those he loveth best.

Extremely Severe

Dyspepsia

Halifax (N.S.) Sergeant in the C.E.F. Cured Completely by Dr. Cassell's Tablets.

SERGEANT DUNCAN MacNEIL, of the CANADIAN EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, writing from Europe, his home address is 110, PLEASANT STREET, HALIFAX, N.S., says:—

"For six years I suffered from frequent attacks of Dyspepsia, each attack being more acute than the last. During one of these attacks life would become almost unbearable, and I would have to regulate my diet to liquid foods only, often being in bed for days at a time. I was under the care of a Physician, and tried all the remedies on the market, spending a small fortune, but obtained little or no relief. I became utterly discouraged, and had almost given up all hope of Cure.

"When the war broke out I joined the Expeditionary Force and came to England. I had not been long there, however, when my old trouble returned, and I had to go to hospital. While in hospital a friend told me of Dr. Cassell's Tablets, and I decided to try them. The first box brought such pronounced relief that I continued the treatment. To make a long story short, a complete cure was effected.

"Since taking Dr. Cassell's Tablets I have been through hardships almost beyond human endurance, but not once has my old trouble returned to bother me."

The above is the frank, clear testimony of a Canadian soldier. He has been cured of extremely severe dyspepsia, which even the healthful life of the training ground could not overcome, and he wishes to tell others that he owes that cure to Dr. Cassell's Tablets.

KARLSRUHE BARRACKS BOMBED

ASK AUTHORITY FOR MEASURES TO PROTECT RIGHTS OF NEUTRALS

Wilson Will Not Ask Congress for Declaration of War

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

WASHINGTON, February 10. —In reference to chances of a more pronounced break with Germany, the precise course of the United States has been determined. President Wilson will not ask Congress for a declaration of war, but only for authority to take the necessary measures to protect neutral rights. This would leave the first act of open hostility to Germany's choosing. Convoying merchant vessels by American war craft might be ordered.

NO HITCH AT BERLIN.

BERLIN, February 10.—Ambassador Gerard's train will leave Berlin as scheduled, but will enter Switzerland by way of Singen instead of Basel, as originally planned.

Americans who will travel with the ambassador were informed that their baggage must be at the depot for inspection not later than 11 a.m. today so as to avoid delay and confusion. It is probable the train's baggage capacity will be taxed to its utmost.

TWO BRITISH VESSELS DOWN

ANOTHER NORWEGIAN SHIP IS BELIEVED LOST.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

LONDON, Feb. 10. — The British steamer Mantola has been sunk. The Norwegian vessel Seldakken is believed to have been sunk.

Lloyds announced this morning that the British steamer Lullington had been sunk.

AMERICAN OFF DAUNTLESS IS AMONG FOUND

SURVIVORS OF TORPEDOED SHIP WITHOUT FOOD FOR FIVE DAYS.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

LONDON, Feb. 10. — Three Englishmen and one American negro, members of the crew of the torpedoed steamer Dauntless, were picked up in a small boat at sea by a trawler. The men had been without food for five days. They were taken to a hospital.

NO CHANGE

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

PETROGRAD, Feb. 10. — On the Russo-Galician front, scouting reconnaissances and infantry firing are proceeding.

On the Roumanian front there were no developments of importance.

On the Caucasian front the situation is unchanged.

The special parliamentary committee to consider the care, vocational training and re-employment of returned soldiers will hold its first meeting at Ottawa on Feb. 21.

"See the Chocolate Hero Come"

LT. COL. GREER STEPS DOWN TO GET TO FRANCE

COMMANDER OF SPORTSMEN'S BATT. APPLIED FOR LOWER RANK.

TORONTO, Feb. 9. — The first commander of a Canadian battalion to revert in rank in order to go to the front is Lt.-Col. Richard Greer, of Toronto, says a London cable to the Evening Telegram, from its special correspondent.

Lt.-Col. Greer and Major John Bonhan, both of the Toronto Sportsmen's Battalions, which was broken up for drafts, applied for and received permission from Canadian headquarters to accept lower ranks to take a company drafted from the Sportsmen's Battalion to go to France to join another Canadian battalion.

Col. "Dick" Greer was County Crown Attorney of York when he entered military service to go overseas.

Lt.-Col. Greer, it will be remembered, gave an address here under the auspices of the local Sportsmen's Association when an athletic program was given at the Armories for the 93rd Batt.

LT.-COL. R. M. DENNISTOUN.
One of four officers in England constituting a board which has been formed to deal with the regimental funds of the Canadian battalions, and in particular of those units which have been absorbed.

SUDDEN CALL TO THEO. LUDGATE AT CAMP BORDEN

HEART ATTACK CAUSED HIS DEATH LAST EVENING.

The many friends of Theodore Ludgate a former resident of Peterborough will regret to learn that he suddenly expired of heart failure last evening at Camp Borden where he had been employed since Monday last.

He is survived by one son, Robt. G., of Vancouver, and three brothers, Wallace, of Seattle, Bruce, of Beaver, Pa., and James, of Parry Sound, and three sisters, Mrs. A. Ludgate, of the Hawaiian Islands, Mrs. A. E. Coulthard, and Mrs. R. R. Hall.

The funeral will take place Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the residence of Mr. R. R. Hall, 208 McDonnel street.

Young men have joined the various military units raised in this city, enlisting as privates. Their advancement has been rapid, due either to their own aptitude for military life or to pull. Some of them have reached high rank in a short space of time. These young men have gone overseas with their battalions, and the hopes of their admiring friends were high that a bright military career was opening before them.

* * *

Some of these young men have returned to Peterborough; others are on their way back, unbaptized by fire, unscathed by the bayonet, and unsmitten by the sword of the enemy. If they have smelled the smoke of the exploding shells, if they have heard the roar of the Huns' cannon and seen the flash of the guns, that describes the full measure of the service that they have rendered the Empire, in spite of their professions of patriotic devotion made at the outset of their career.

* * *

There is something seriously wrong in such conditons, either with the system or with the young men themselves. When the Canadian units reach England, the military authorities announce that all officers of high grade who wish to go on active duty at the front must revert to the rank of lieutenant at least in order to be accepted. They cannot retain their high position for the very good reason that trench warfare is something vastly different from anything for which they have been prepared by their training at home. Officers experienced in modern war are required at the front. To the honor of Canada's soldiers let it be here recorded that many officers have accepted these conditions and are now in the thick of the fray, some as lieutenants, others as privates. Men who went overseas as bandsmen have abandoned the musical instrument for the rifle or have taken up the work of stretcher-bearers. It is such men as these who have won the great wars of the world.

* * *

There are other officers, however, who refuse to accept these conditions, and who return home rather than go to the front reduced in rank. Peterborough has sent to the front some of the best soldiers ever enrolled under the Union Jack. Their names are known to every citizen here. Their record is before the world. They have been decorated by their King. Some of them have worked their way up from the ranks by stepping-stones of honorable promotion fairly won. Some are buried on the fields they held so bravely against a barbarous foe. Others are in Canada today bearing honorable scars, but still rendering their country valuable service, and ready to return to France when their superiors say the word.

* * *

If the men who refuse to revert in rank were sent to the front as captains, majors, and the like, they would be the superior officers of the other Peterborough men who have been in the trenches for two years or more and who have acquired invaluable knowledge of modern trench warfare by actual experience. Would there be any justice in putting these under the leadership of men who lacked all save mere theoretical knowledge of the task in hand?

* * *

Canada has, unfortunatel, had too many chocolate soldiers on the military roster. This is a condition which is likely to arise under any system that could be devised. The Militia Departmuet, however, should see to it that no man who refuses to fight except on his own terms is not left on the payroll and that he is not allowed to parade in the garb of the profession, the dignity of which he has lowered. The uniform of the King was never designed for personal exploitation and was never meant to decorate the person of a poltroon who places his own private interests above the welfare of the Empire

* * *

There are men who went overseas as officers who were beyond the age limit. They offered themselves in any capacity for actual duty, but were refused. No one questions their patriotism, no one criticizes them if they return home. They have done what they could, and by serving as officers have released for active duty some men of fighting age.

When the chocolate soldier returns with person intact he will receive no ovation from the citizens. There will be no brass band to play "See the Conquering Hero Comes" when he reaches the city. The society in which he was a shining light is likely to ostracize him. For all of which he has no one but himself to blame. The world loves a hero, but has little use for the man who is a hero only on the parade ground.

* * *

The band that has from the day of its organization been petted and coddled by the citizens is back again in Peterborough. Not a man of them stayed behind to fight. Their instruments are the property of the city, but these could have been sent back by freight to other musicians. Members of other bands that have gone overseas have enlisted, some as fighters, others as stretcher-bearers. It will take something more than music to win this war, and something more than music is needed to get young men into khaki. Anyway, there was a band left in the city and there were non-combatant musicians in uniform before the 93rd returned.

Favoritism in the selection of officers has always been a bar to recruiting. Merit only should enter into the consideration. The man without influential friends at court hesitates before committing himself to a system which is likely to place him in a position inferior to that of another secondary to him in natural fitness and in training.

* * *

When such hothouse officers are kept on the payroll for months, earning more money than many of them can obtain in private life, when they weaken at the final test and decline to submit their well-nurtured persons to the risk of fire, this obstacle to recruiting assumes the proportion of a mountain. The men who get good pay, who are trained at public expense, should certainly not show the white feather when the opportunity comes to make some return for the outlay.

Hundreds of Skilled Tradesmen to Help Railways.

Names Given Twenty-Four Hours After the Call.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

OTTAWA, February 10.—The praltiral value of the man-power inventory recently completed by the National Service Board is now being demonstrated. Sir Henry Drayton, chairman of the Railway Commission, has requisitioned several hundred skilled tradesmen to help transportation difficulties. Within 24 hours of the call the names of hundreds of men capable of solving the situation were in the hands of the railway commission.

BOMBS ARE DROPPED ON KARLSRUHE BARRACKS

Objective of Airman's Attack 50 Miles From French Border.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

PARIS, Feb. 10. — (Official.)—We made surprise attaks last night on enemy posts at Auberive and in the setors of Bezange and Parroy, and took prisoners. There was violent artillery fighting last night on the front between Vaherauville and Caurieres Wood, but no infantry ation.

A German airplane was brought down yesterday near Regnieville-en-Haye by the fire of our special cannon.

Last night one of our viators set forth to drop bombs on railway stations and barracks at Karlsruhe (in German), about 50 miles from the French border). His objectives were attacked. He set forth in a French machine at 10:50 p. m., and returned at :10 a.m. this morning, his mission having been accomplished.

German aviators dropped bombs this morning in the region of Dunkirk, and last night and again this morning on Amiens. There were no victims at Dunkirk. One woman was killed at Amiens. Bombs also were dropped on Nancy and in the region of Pont St. Vincent. One civilian was killed and four were wounded.

BERLIN, Feb. 10. — Heavy fighting is under way in the Ancre valley. The semi-official Overseas news agency says there have been severe artillery and infantry engagements for several days, and the British have attained small successes north of the Ancre at the cost of heavy losses.

ATTACK ON ZEEBRUGGE

Germans Fired Many Shells at Allies' Airplanes.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

AMSTERDAM, Feb. 10. — The Telegraaf says a fleet of airplanes at dusk yesterday attacked the Belgian coast town of Zeebrugge. Germans fired three hundred shells from anti-aircraft guns in an attempt to drive off the attackers.

LOST ALL IN FIRE

Children Thrown from Window to Save Their Lives.

What might have been a serious fire took place in Emily about midnight, when the residence of Andrew Faulkner on the third line, was completely destroyed.

The family were all asleep and escaped in their night clothes. The eldest son bravely stood on duty till all the children, who were sleeping upstairs, were safe. The three youngest had to be thrown from the window into the snow in order to save them.

Mr. Faulkner, in his bare feet, bravely made his way to the barns and turned the stock loose and then protected the barns with water until danger of fire was passed.

He then hitched a team and took the family to the residence of his brother-in-law, Mrs. Thos. Mc-Bride, about three-quarters of a mile distant.

PETERBOROUGH, SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 1917

"NO MEAN CITY."

THE MAN WHO GRUMBLES at the high tax rate year after year will probably always remain as a fixture on the landscape. He is really not such a bad sort after all. The trouble is that he has appointed himself critic-in-ordinary of the civic officials, and sets out to justify his claims to the position. Very often the grumbler forgets, or appears to do so, that the enjoyment of the advantages to be found in urban existence is not to be had without cost. If he lived in a village, things would come easier.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Why is the tax rate in Peterborough so high today, even though it may be many mills lower than in other Canadian municipalities, many of them with less population that this? The reason is not hard to find. Mayor Duffus has studied conditions as closely as any man in the city and has all the facts and figures in tangible form before him. When the Mayor stated to the deputations at the Council meeting the other night that the assessed value of property was not increasing, he was not referring to the value of property actually in existence. The idea that he intended to convey was that during recent years building operations have been practically suspended and there has been no substantial addition in the form of new structures.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

The forefathers of the present generations were frequently out on their calculations, and in their plans never seemed to take into consideration the possibility that Peterborough would outgrow the town stage of corporate existence and blossom into a city. If they had taken a roseate view of the future they would never have consented to have their last earthly remains interred in a plot of ground that was eventually to become one of the main parks in a city and where modern traffic would roll ruthlessly over the graves of the pioneers. The cemetery would have been moved further out.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Economy was the rule with the civic officials of the old days, and the common ambition seemed to be to keep the tax rate down. It is not so many years ago since the rate was less than half what it is today. But the town did not keep up the proper pace in the way of improvements. Peterborough became a city in due time and then the people woke up to the fact that heavy financial tasks confronted them if they were to assume the proper degree of civic importance. The improvements made in the past few years explain the present tax rate. If the people are required to pay, it can at least be said that they have been given full value for their money.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

It is but five years since the first cement pavement was laid in Peterborough, the experiment having been first tried on Chambers street. Now there are miles of streets on which the pavement is up to date in every respect. No city in Canada can show better sidewalks than are to be found here. The aldermen of the past were cautious in the extreme in the matter of building sewers. Modern requirements have called for a tremendous outlay in this respect during recent years. The school buildings in Peterborough, with perhaps one exception, are a credit to the municipality. The charitable institutions and hospitals, the homes for the unfortunate and the helpless, are all that humanity can devise and maintain. In every respect this city is up to date. The trouble is that it was necessary to force the work of improvement in order to bring it to this high state of perfection in a comparatively short period of time.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

The present generation is providing for posterity more beneficently than did the pioneers for those who came after them. But days of lighter financial burdens are in the not very distant future. In a few years a great deal of the bonded indebtedness of Peterborough will be wiped out. Mayor Duffus has at various times explained clearly just when this will transpire in the natural order of human events. If in the meantime no unnecessary expenditure is undertaken, if the city can keep at the head of city affairs a council as careful with the public funds as the one now in office, it will be only six or seven years at the outside before the tax rate will be lower by many mills. And even at that the city will still be in the lead with all the improvements that have been referred to above.

COMPENSATION ACT AND INSURANCE.

THE ANNUAL STATEMENTS published from day to day by the various life insurance companies show that a record business was transacted during the past year. This, too, in spite of the Workmen's Compensation Act, which is supposed to be a rival to the insurance companies, a state organization against private concerns.

Local insurance men say that the Act has not decreased the amount of life insurance issued. All that it has done to affect their business is to reduce the number of liability policies issued. Formerly, the employer of a large number of men took out a policy covering all those on his payroll. In the event of an accident the victim received his wages in full during the period of his disability, and his hospital and all medical expenses were paid.

In this particular, the liability policy is better than the Compensation Act so far as the workman is concerned, as the latter provides only for the payment of fifty-five per cent. of his wages in the event of injury and nothing is allowed him for physician's fees or hospital bills. The one outstanding advantage of the Act, however, is that it does away with all risk of a lawsuit. The allowance may be less than in the other case, but there is no doubt of its receipt.

The Compensation Act provides an income for the dependents of a man killed in an industrial accident. This costs nothing in the way of premiums and does not militate against the careful provider taking out a policy on his life if he so desires.

It is likely that the Compensation Act will be amended at the coming session of the Legislature, and that more liberal allowance will be made, especially with regard to the medical expenses that are incurred by the injured.

WHEAT AND POTATOES.

THE GLOBE, in its market reports of Friday, contains this interesting item: "Winnipeg May wheat closed at $1.69¾; Chicago May wheat closed at $1.68¾."

At this neutral season of the year, when market conditions are normal, if at any time, these quotations furnish a weighty and conclusive comment on the free wheat question.

Referring again to the contention that Canadian potatoes are being shipped to Cuba while every lover of the tubers in this country is at his wit's end to secure a supply, it may be stated that potatoes produced in the tropics ferment soon after being harvested on account of the high temperatures and develop a mild form of dementia among the natives. This has no bearing upon the point immediately in dispute, but could be used in support of a claim that Cuban potatoes were being shipped to Canada and consumed by market experts to their own mental unbalancing.

Some of these days are we to be called upon to listen to a rejuvenated argument in favor of reciprocity with Cuba?

HENRY FORD TO THE RESCUE.

THE SENTIMENTS of the true patriot and useful citizen are regulated by the attitude assumed by the country to which he owes allegiance. Henry Ford has been branded as a peace crank ever since the war broke out because the United States elected to remain neutral. He formulated and financed some Utopian schemes to bring the conflict to a close. Now that there is a likelihood of Uncle Sam taking an active hand in the fighting, the great capitalist is as enthusiastic in the cause of the Allies as any of them.

Mr. Ford has offered to turn his large automobile factories over to the government for the manufacture of munitions and to operate them without one cent of profit. This would mean to him at the present rate of his regular output a financial sacrifice of something like fifty million dollars a year. He agrees, besides, to act as superintendent of the new industry without compensation.

Mr. Ford estimates that one thousand submarines of a certain type can be built daily in his factories. He is not as a rule given to exaggeration, and few will be inclined to doubt his ability to make good this claim. If he does undertake such a work the piratical frightfulness of the Huns will be shorn to a great extent of its terrors, and the efficiency of the Kaiser and his people will be eclipsed. Mr. Ford, who strove vainly to end the war by pacifist overtures, may yet be the instrument of shortening its duraton by months, perhaps years, when he takes up the role for which nature has equipped him and drops his harmless, if ineffective, fads.

THE ROSS RIFLE.

THE GOVERNMENT has stated that the public welfare demands that the full explanation with regard to the Ross rifle be withheld for the rpesent. In some points the Canadian weapon is better than the Lee-Enfield rifle. For one thing, its greater length makes it superior in bayonet fighting.

There are good and sufficient reasons for the proposed purchase of eighty thousand Ross rifles this year, aside altogether from the question of a contract with the company. The $2,600,000 set aside for this purpose is not to be wasted or spent merely in order to keep faith with the manufacturers. That is the point on which the Government prefers to withhold further information just at present as a matter of public safety. The Opposition must know this, and it is unfair for them to attempt to put an evil countenance upon the affair because the Administration is under obligation to refrain from going into details.

The Liberals in the House have not been playing the game fairly in other respects. When they claim that the returned soldiers who are classed as twenty per cent. disabled are being unjustly treated in the pension schedule, they were or should have been perfectly familiar with the reason for this apparent distinction between the nature of the injuries. This, too, is a matter in which the Government is not at liberty to make an explicit statement of facts.

EDITOR'S MAIL

OUR LEGAL CHAMPIONS.

Editor Review: His Worship Magistrate Dumble, in bespeaking the value of the services of Chief Thompson to the city, stated that the Chief acts as attorney for the people in the police court and so saves the city the cost of the services of a regular lawyer.

Suppose the Chief resigned his position, would Magistrate Dumble favor the appointment of another public attorney to look after the interests of the people. There are two now. The services of Chief Thompson as a lawyer are often employed to offset the work of another city official who is supposed to earn his salary as a representative of the people, not as an opposing counsel.

J. L.

WHERE THEY COME FROM.

Editor Review: From an editorial in your paper yesterday you are evidently under the impression that the majority of the strangers within our gates are from Quebec, drawn here by the high wages paid in our factories.

Go to any of the plants in question and you can satisfy yourself that those new residents are from the immediate surrounding country. While times are quiet during the winter months on the farm, they will work here, and make their everlasting escape back to the land in the spring.

FAIR PLAY.

Hardly Hilarious

"The most solemn things in England are not (as you might be inclined to think) such things as funerals and commemoration services, but games. Have you ever seen a porfessional billiard match? The players wear evening clothes. But they wear the coat only that they may take it off before they begin to play. And then they play, in a pool of white radiance, whilst all around them, in a dim religious light, sit rows on rows of silent devotees as at some holy shrine, observing some esoteric ritual.

Not a word is spoken. There is never a smile. From time to time the marker calls the scores as if he were chanting responses. The balls kiss-kiss with a hushed sibilance. It seems all so dignified and awe-inspiring that you begin to wonder what it is you miss, what it is you are waiting for. And then you realize it is either the grand strains of a church organ or the sidesman with the offertory bag.

Once Inman, in a match with Stevenson, miscued, and Stevenson smiled. The reporters on the following morning referred to that startling episode quite rightly, as "a hilarious incident." It need only be added that Stevenson lost that match, and with it the championship. Of course he did. A man of that frivolous cast of mind was obviously no more fit to push balls about with a stick than you are to challenge Ald. Smith to a talking match.

The Girl — All the rest of the family I suppose.

This world would be a pleasanter place if there were not so many fools in it.

—Yes; but it would be more difficult to make a living.

She — They must be engaged. That's her fourth dance with him this evening.

He—That's no sign.

She—Isn't it? You don't know how he dances.

Ethel—I was taken in to dinner by that western gentleman you introduced to me. He was quite gallant and remarked upon my birdlike appetitie.

Her Friend—Well, he should be a good judge on that point, dear; he runs an ostrich farm in California.

"I was preparing to shave a chap the other afternoon," said the Hunter Street barber. "I had trimmed his hair, and from such talk as I had had with him, I judged him to be an easy-going, unexcitable sort of fellow. Bud suddenly his manner changed. Out of the corner of his eye be had seen a man outer whose appearance upset him.

"'Hurry, George,' he muttered to me. 'Lather to the eyes— quick — quick—quick—here comes my tailor!'"

A HERO IS REMEMBERED

LATE LIEUT. HAL GORDON WAS WRITER WITH FUTURE.

"Hal" Gordon, considered by many to be among the most promising of the younger writers connected with Toronto newspapers, is one of the Canadians who fell fighting for liberty whose loss may be described as national. That he would in time have been known throughout the breadth of the Dominion if he had been spared to carry on his work as a writer, few who knew his gifts doubted. When the war broke out "Hal" Gordon was one of the first Toronto writers selected to go to England as a war correspondent, but he was not content to be a mere onlooker at such a time. He was a quiet, thoughtful religious man with a deep devotion to duty, and it was typical of him that he should have enlisted in the ranks for active service. His ability won him rapid promotion, and he was given a commission in the spring of 1915. He was in line for further promotion when he fell fighting on June 13th, 1916.

All that is mortal of the late Lt. "Hal" B. Gordon lies buried in Flanders, but his life, as embodied in the memories of those who were associated with him still "carries on." The building of the Baraca Club of Toronto was the scene of a unique gathering recently, when the assembly-room was crowded with the friends of Lieut. Gordon who had come to hear the tributes paid to his memory by those connected with him in his religious, military, scholastic, and journalistic life.

The occasion was the opening of two fine bowling alleys, the gift of Mrs. N. F. McCormick, of Chicago, a great admirer of "Hal" Gordon. Mrs. McCormick has always taken a great interest in the work of the club, and when she expressed a desire to commemorate by some means the memory of her young friend it was suggested that, if alive, he would have wished to do something that would give pleasure to others. So the alleys, a piece of equipment of which the Baraca Club was badly in need, are dedicated to the memory of the young man, who, when he gave his life for his country at Zillebeke was membership secretary and chairman of the executive of the club.

"I have no regrets. My only sorrow is that I am not twenty years younger that I might go myself," were the words of Lieut. Gordon's father, Mr. H. B. Gordon. They were noble words, adequately expressing the sentiments of all the speakers that "Hal" Gordon's life had been an inspiration to emulate his example of quiet, effective service to his fellowmen.

The only son of Mr. Harry Cooper, the president of the club, is the youngest of the twelve young men belonging to the club who have been killed in action. Mr. Cooper traced the history of the club from the time when Dr. Skinner Gordon, "Hal's" step-mother, had taken in three boys who had been expelled as incorrigible from the Elizabeth street school, and formed a little club for them. The organization developed through a period of the occupancy of an empty stable on Teraulay street, and finally to the assumption in 1911 of the present commodious quarters, costing $19,000.

"Practically all the boys who dug out and concreted our swimming tank," said Mr. Cooper, "are now digging trenches in Flanders. Our motto is 'Young men at work for young men, all standing by the Bible and the Bible school.' When the war broke out there were 90 on the roll, and almost all that number have enlisted—eighty-five in fact, of whom twelve have given their lives."

Thos. Roy Eusby pleaded guilty at Brockville to a charge of bigamy and was sentenced to two years and six months.

Many Canadian Trapshooters

A Montreal writer exclaims: We've found it at last! There's one sport in the world which is conducted for sport's sake alone, and in which the participants don't worry as to whether their competitors are amateurs, professionals, males or females. All the participants are out for sport, and they leave quibbling to golf, tennis, hockey and other pastimes. This millenium of sport is trapshooting—a sport which is growing in Canada to an extent which few have noticed.

The day of "cigar box" rinks for hockey is over.

CANADIAN DRIVER BEST

At harness races at Mount Clemens, Mich., the most remarkable performance in the history of the sport was accomplished by the Canadian driver and trainer, Vic Fleming, of Dundas, Ont. With Battle King he won the 2.30 pace in straight heats on the first day, the 2.10 pace with Mussel Shell in the same order, and with Peter Piper he won two out of three heats in the 2.13 pace. That race was carried over to a third day, when Peter Piper won the deciding heat, and then went on and won the 2.16 class in straight heats. Fleming and his horses thus won four races in a row and twelve out of thirteen consecutive heats. Such a performance calls for supreme physical condition on the part of the driver, as well as of the three horses concerned. The only other race of the two days also went to a Canadian horse.

After having raised the 111th (S. Waterloo) Bn. to a strength of 900, taken it overseas and spent four weeks on the firing line Lieut.-Col. J. D. Clarke is back in Galt.

"JUST LIKE BASEBALL"

FEATURES OF PRO HOCKEY THAT DELIGHTED BILL CLYMER.

Bill Clymer, famous baseball manager, happened into the Toronto Arena one night when a game in the National Hockey Association was in progress. He wanted to see his first hockey game and naturally he expected to behold something queer. But he was soon very much at home. The reason was the coaching tactics of "Jawn" Marshall. As the veteran used a choice flow of rasping talk upon referees, goal umpires, timekeepers, players and spectators alike, "Derby Day Bill" felt at home. It was just like baseball.

Clymer was no mean coacher himself, but the peculiar ability of the Wanderer and Toronto veteran amazed him. He thought that real "kickers" grew only south of the International boundary line, but he was rapidly disillusioned. Marshall's tongue was as sharp and his wit as keen as even Muggsy McGraw of the Giants could have wished.

"It makes me feel like summer again," remarked the visitor to a companion, as the wrath of Marshall descended in a torrent upon a lagging Wanderer player. He fairly danced with fight and delight when Jawn turned to defy the Toronto crowd in the rows of stalls behind the Wanderer bench. He was more interested in the coaching than in the fast and furious play, marvellous as he admitted that to be.

Presently the referee threatened to eject the vociferous coach from the rink and then Clymer's cup of joy was complete. How often he had been shown the gate for just such noisy persistence. Professional hockey, he found, was like professional baseball in many joyous ways.

RILEY HERN NO PATTI

When Riley Hern, former net-minding star of Wanderers, hung up skates, stick and pads he did so for all time. His was no mere Patti farewell. If Riley had wanted to play hockey again, he could have jumped into a 1916 game between Wanderers and Torontos in Montreal. Eddie Livingstone, the Toronto manager, made a serious offer to Riley before the game, tendering the veteran a liberal contract to sign with the Blue Shirted club, and oppose his old team. Hern wouldn't consider the proposition. Livvy was afraid Billy Nicholson might not show him anything, and declared he was willing to take a chance on Hern, even though Riley hadn't taken part in a match for five years.

ANNUAL VOTE OF CENSURE ON SPENDTHRIFT BOARDS MOVED BY ALD. LANGFORD

Educational, Library and Police Departments Should Revise Their Estimates to Lowest Possible Point.

Every Day Like Sunday Now He Declares.

The Board of Education, the Public Library Board and the Police Commissioners have been asked to revise their estimates so as to make them as low as possible.

At the Council meeting last night Ald. Langford severely criticized the boards not controlled by the Council for not paring their estimates as carefully as possible. The school board increase this year was equal to 7-10 of a mill, the debenture rate increase 1 3-4 mills and the police department had raised the salary of its members. He was surprised that the Mayor had departed from his splendid economic platform of last year. He would like to know how much the increase meant on the rate. The police force could be reduced. Every day was like Sunday now. The people expected to pay a little extra during war time, but they also wanted some guarantee that the old rate would be restored at a later date. There was no relief in sight but every department should economize as far as possible to keep down the rate and not hurt the progress of the city.

Mayor Duffus: Don't you think we have done this? We have not started on the rate yet.

Every department would see that its expenditure was kept down. The city had no control over the Board of Education and the Library Board had not come up to their legal demand, which was 1-2 mill. The Police Commissioners have not increased their estimates. The force had been reduced from 13 to 11.

Police Department

Ald. Stratton: Are the commissioners going to fix the salary for the police as reported.

Mayor Duffus explained that the high wages paid in other businesses made an increase in the police department necessary. He had opposed the increase last year but conditions were different now. He did not think that Ald. Langford would stay out all night in all kinds of weather for $750 per year.

Ald. Langford did not object to the salary increase if half the force would do.

Mayor Duffus: It requires a certain number of men to properly police the city. We must be fair to the citizens as well as to the department. The estimates would not be larger than last year. If capable men were required they must be paid reasonable salaries. Increased duties if the United States went to war were anticipated.

Ald. Langford moved that the boards be asked to co-operate in reducing the estimates.

Ald. Stratton, McIntyre and Duncan did not think it would do any good.

Automatic Increase

Ald. Smith was of the opinion that the school board increase was an automatic one except the $1,000 which provided for an increase in the price to be paid for coal and additional area to be heated. He did not think that the increase in the police department would effect the estimates.

Ald. Stratton and Weir could not see how $1,000 would be added to the coal bill when the school board had a contract. Coal might be down to normal when a new contract would be let.

Ald. Dobbin thought that in arranging the estimates all special grants should be left out, and only absolute necessaries figured on. Then if the people insisted on grants accede to their wishes. The aldermen were the servants of the people. When once an item was taken off it shouldn't be restored again.

Mayor Duffus would take care of all the children in the schools. Everything was more expensive. He referred to the Councils in the past, keeping the rate at a lower point than the expenditure called for. Pe- referred to the councils in the past, with a town assessment. The city had finer sidewalks, streets, sewers and parks than any other place of its size in the Dominion.

Ald. Stratton pointed out that the future must be looked to and the rate kept down as low as possible.

Ald. Duncan seconded the resolution of Ald. Langford an dit carried.

COUNCIL COMMITTEE ON THE COAL PROBLEM

Railway Companies Have Confiscated Some Cars Bound for Peterboro.

HOW PRICES ARE SET

Ald. Langford and the members of the Railway Committee will investigate and report on the coal and wood situation in the city. A report was requested by the City Council last night and an immediate inquiry desired.

Mayor Duffus introduced the subject by explaining what action he had taken to relieve the situation in Peterborough. He had been in communication with Sir Henry Drayton, chairman of the Dominion Railway Board, every day for two weeks. Many of the citizens had a wrong opinion of the situation. Reports were in circulation that some of the local dealers had plenty of coal but would not let it out. This was not correct. Some dealers had no coal whatever and those who had were working every day, even on Sunday, to get their customers supplies. The railways were at fault. There were 700 cars of coal just across the border, all consigned to different Ontario points. No one was suffering for want of coal as only small quantities were being delivered. The dealers were making the best of a bad situation. Some of them were delivering coal contracted for at a loss.

Ald. Stratton: Is it correct that dealers are charging $11 a ton for soft coal here?

He understood the highest price in Toronto was $7 or $8. He had purchased a 40-ton car there for $320, or $8 per ton.

Ald. Weir endeavored to throw some light on the subject. They had filled half of a contract for the separate schools for coal and the dealer that had got the other half could not get a supply and the trustees came to his firm. Four letters were written to different mines and the prices, showing cost of duty, freight, hauling, etc., and the best price coal could be delivered in Peterborough for was $9.73. They were told to get the coal. One car was shipped and the railroad confiscated it. The other car must be here in a week or the school will have to close. He would be glad to get a few cars at $8 a ton in Toronto. He did not think that Sir Henry Drayton was doing much for his firm. Up till last week they could keep their customers going, but outside of a few cars of furnace coal had not received coal this week. Plenty of cars were across the line, but he did not know where. The mines will not ship any more coal until the congestion is relieved. The D.L. & W. were getting better delivery than the Erie.

Ald. Worth was satisfied that at present quotations $11 was not too much for a single load of coal. His firm had a contract at $2 per ton at the mines, the same as the Peterborough Fuel and Cartage Co., but could not get delivery except when they agreed to pay $5.50 per ton at the mines.

Mayor Duffus was confident that the men who had contracts were not getting the coal. New dealers were supplied by the mines to get higher prices. One local dealer had had a car on the road since Dec. 20.

Ald. Smith stated that the Wm. Hamilton Co. had only been able to get coal when the car had a munitions tag on it. They had found one of their cars with a tag on it ready to be dumped on the G.T.R. tipple in Lindsay. When the tag was discovered the coal came through. The railways were to blame in 90 per cent. of the cases. They "swipep" coal right and left. The local dealers were doing all they could. The remedy lay in the Government taking the railways over. The wood situation was just as bad.

Mayor Duffus: The Hicks Co. have 26 teams working every day, all that the coal chutes can load.

Ald. Worth wanted to know how it was that the railways could confiscate coal. On two occasions two cars of theirs had been confiscated and the railways always took the coal that was billed at the cheapest price.

Ald. Weir remarked that the R. Hicks Co. had a contract to supply the schools at $5.50 per ton, and he knew that they were putting in coal that was costing over $9.

It was finally decided on a motion of Ald Stratton and Duncan to refer the matter to the Railway Committee, to immediately investigate and report.

BIG ENGLISH PANTOMIME "ALADDIN" BOOKED FOR RETURN ENGAGEMENT.

F. Stuart-Whyte's phenominal success, Aladdin and His Wonderful Lamp, has been secured for a return engagement at the Grand for Saturday, matinee and night, Feb. 17.

There is every reason to believe that the second visit of this wonderful aggregation of Old Country players in the same vehicle will prove as successful as their initial performance in this city, on Jan. 29, when it was necessary to turn people away.

Several new song numbers have been added to the musical part of the entertainment for this series of return engagements, so that the show will prove equally as interesting to those who saw it last time as to those who were too late to get seats.

"Aladdin" has scored such wide popularity that Mr. Whyte has already made arrangements for another pantomime for next season, "Robinson Crusoe," which is also a great English favorite.

MILITARY

Pte. Charlie Mills of Toronto, and nephew of Lt.-Col. Mills, has been killed in action. He was in the Mechanical Transport Section. Another relative, Pte Jack Mills, of the Princess Pats, of Kingston, has been wounded.

Major Gerald Hall of the Canadian Paymaster's Office in England, arrived home on Thursday night on an extended leave.

Major Hall held the temporary rank of Lt.-Col for some time while attached to the pay department. He recruited for the 26th Battery here before going overseas.

Word was received this morning from the Militia Department by Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Morrow, 302 Water Street, that their son, Shoeing Smith Melville Morrow, who went overseas with the Second Heavy Battery of Cobourg, sailed from England on Feb. 2, per S.S. Missanabie, for Canada.

SLIT-SKIRTS BANNED

Viennese Women May Not Wear Them at Balls

Field Marshal Baron Feteke, commander of the Budapesth garrison issued new regulations forbidding women to appear at military balls and similar functions in slit skirts. The Hungarian women, however, refused en masse to attend the ball at the Budapesth casino. The function was consequently postponed. One of the indignant women, in an interview, says: "We obey the command of the mode imposed by Paris or Budapesth but not by the commander of the garrison. We like the slit skirts. Besides, we have got the dresses and we cannot afford to buy fresh ones every few days, like the wives of the generals." She seemed overjoyed at the idea of young officers being forced to dance with women whose age cordesponds with their husband's exalted rank.

Undoubtedly the Industry's Crowning Achievement

From your point of view this announcement is most important.

For herein we set forth the achievement toward which the Willys-Overland organization has aimed for the last eight years.

This achievement in a word is the completion of the gigantic Willys-Overland organization to a point where a comprehensive line of automobiles can be made and marketed under one head.

This means tremendous economies—much greater than ever before.

This means the elimination of all waste, all lost motion and much greater factory efficiency.

This means an even higher grade of cars at much more attractive prices.

All of which means a substantial saving for you on the next car you buy.

For now and for the first time in the history of the automobile business we as one single organization offer the public a full and comprehensive line of automobiles.

This concentration—this greater efficiency—this more effective means of pulling together is going to set a new standard of low priced high-grade automobile values.

For we operate on the basis of—
—one executive organization
—one factory management
—one purchasing unit
—one sales expense
—one group of dealers
—to plan, produce and sell all Overland, Willys and Willys-Knight models.

Buying power is concentrated. Costs are distributed over all these cars. The savings are enormous.

As a result we are producing cars of exceptional quality—and marketing them at unusually low prices.

Every car is built to a rigid standard of performance, comfort and appearance.

The new models are listed in this announcement. They include Overland models from the snappy comfortable $930 Light Four to the beautiful Light Six Sedan at $2220.

They include also the big, handsome Willys-Knights from the Four at $1800, to the super efficient Eight at $2730.

These new models establish price records, value records and performance records which we believe will prove to the public conclusively that the vast economies of vast production are the key note and manufacturing secret of the greatest value for the least amount of money.

AN ENORMOUS STOCK ON HAND IN STORE ROOM

OVERLAND COMPANY HAS $30,000,000 WORTH OF PARTS AND RAW MATERIALS.

Those big companies which foresaw the possible shortage of materials due to the astonishing demand for motor cars, and fortified themselves against that shortage are congratulating themselves today on the fact that they were not caught totally unprepared to cope with present market conditions.

The Willys-Overland Company, the second largest automobile manufacturing organization in the world and the greatest producer of medium and high priced cars, was perhaps one of the least affected of all by this upheaval in the material market. While it is true that all quantity producers of motor cars felt the sudden change, the Toledo concern had taken the precaution to protect itself in a measure against just such an emergency.

Long before prices started to shoot skyward, the Overland had tucked away in its storerooms and sub-cellars huge quantities of raw materials. Today it has more than $30,000,000 worth of parts on hand, fully 50 per cent. of which was bought at before-the-war prices, which guarantees an uninterrupted output of the most complete line of motor cars ever turned out by one organization. This preparedness policy on the part of the Toledo company is responsible, it is said, to a large degree for the high standard of quality which the factory has been able to maintain in its 1917 production, without any extraordinary advance in selling prices.

And, although materal such as steel is hard to get at any price these days, every carload that arrives at the Overland plant is as rigidly inspected as it was when conditions were normal. In order to protect themselves and Overland and Willys-Knight owners, the company employs a staff of expert chemists and metallurgists to test carefully each batch of raw material delivered for use at the factory.

These chemists know that a certain proportion of carbon, together with certain quantities of other elements, when united with pure iron, produce a steel that will stand certain strains. They also know that if the proportion of nickel, manganese, chromium or other elements vary even so much as a fraction of one per cent., the steel will be either too weak or too brittle.

If the samples undergoing inspection come up to the required specifications and pass successfully the tests of the metallurgical and chemical laboratories, the cars from which the samples were taken are accepted by the company. If the samples come through without an O. K., the car or cars are rejected on the spot.

AN IMPORTANT ROLE PLAYED BY DIAMONDS

ARE USED IN BIG OVERLAND PLANT AT TOLEDO.

ON EMERY WHEELS.

Diamonds are sacrificed with generous hand in the interest of mechanical accuracy at the Willys-Overland factory, Toledo, Ohio. Enough of the precious stones to equip a dozen prima donnas with tiaras or necklaces of wondrous splendor are yearly literally ground to nothing on the emery wheels used in finishing those parts of Overland and Willys-Knight cars where accuracy and strength are prime requisites.

These diamonds are used to "true up" the emery wheels. Nothing else is hard enough.

In the wet grinding department, with its hundreds of grinding and milling machines, 300 to 1,000 uncut stones are kept in stock almost continuously. As a rule these diamond stocks are replenished in $15,000 lots.

When a crank shaft or a cam shaft has been "rough ground" it is turned over to the finishing machines. Here the grinding is done by the best available machinery and the best grinders in the department. Utmost care is exercised to see that the parts

ACCIDENTS NOT ALL FAULT OF MOTORIST

Pedestrians and the Drivers of Horses Should Exercise Watchfulness

Education of drivers regarding traffic laws will not entirely suffice to improve local conditions. The driver of the horse drawn vehicle and the pedestrian must also be taught that the automobilist has rights which they are bound to respect. Too many pedestrians now believe that their right to the streets is as good if not better than that of the motorist. This is not true. The only right the pedestrian has to streets is at street intersections and even then an equal burden of care rests upon him.

Any motorist who has driven a car for any considerable length of time can give instances almost without number when accidents were narrowly averted which had their origin through no fault of their own. I know myself that I am more particular as to my brakes than any other part of my car because those brakes have saved me from accidents times without number. On dozens of occasions had I not strong brakes I would have figured in serious, possibly fatal, accidents, and although I cannot recall one instance where the fault was mine, I know that I should keenly feel being mixed up in anything of the kind.

Disregard "Stop, Look and Listen."

Probaly the most common fault of the pedestrian is in attempting to cross the street without looking to see what kind of vehicle is approaching. I know that the pedestrian has an equal right with the motorist to the street at street intersections, but he has no more than an equal right. He must co-operate with the motorist to avoid accident. The easiest way to do that is for the pedestrian crossing the street to look out for vehicles approaching from his left until he reaches the middle of the street and then looks out for vehicles approaching from his right. Too many neglect to stop, look and listen before crossing the street.

Another fault of the average pedestrian is attempting to cross the street at the middle of the block. This practice has been condemned by the safety first commission, but evidently pedestrians do not realize they have no right to this practice.

As long as it continues accidents will occur, however careful the motorist may be.

Drivers Also Are at Fault

Drivers of horse drawn vehicles seem to share the contempt of the pedestrian for the rights of the motorist. While I do not deny that there are many reckless motorists and that some accidents are their fault, I believe that the majority of those in which an automobile and a horse drawn vehicle figure are the fault of the latter. This is largely due to ignorance of these drivers to the rules of the road.

It is customary for drivers of automobiles to give each other signals when they contemplate turning off from a street or when about to turn around. These signals are easily around. These signals are usually given by the hand and are easily learned and used. The drivers of the horse drawn vehicles, however, rarely give any signal of their intention of turning and as a result the whole burden of responsibility is shifted to the motorist. If these drivers would co-operate with these signals there would be fewer of the accidents caused by automobiles which crash into wagons which are turning off a street.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Miss Bessie Read, 356 Park St. was successfully operated on for appendicitis at Nicholls Hospital yesterday and was as well as could be expected today.

The local branch of the Canadian Kitchener League have the enviable record that not one of the thousands of parcels that they have sent overseas has gone astray. They will make another shipment on Tuesday, and their knitters are still at work. Friends are required to buy yarn. The public have always been liberal with their support, and it is expected that the latest appeal will meet with a generous response. Wednesday afternoon a tea will be held in the dining-room of the Oriental Hotel, and in the evening, by the kindness of Mr. and Mrs. Coulson, a card and dancing party will be given. Every cent received at this function will go to provide comforts for the soldiers.

The Business Girls' Club wish to remind their many friends of the Garden Tea to be given by them in the Recruiting Rooms, Simcoe St., with the kind permission of Lt.-Col. Ackerman, on Saturday, Feb. 17, from 3 to 9, the proceeds of which will be used for the patriotic work of the club.

Major White, of Ottawa, who went overseas with the first contingent, and saw duty at the front with the sons of Judge and Mrs. Huycke, and with the late Lieut Harold Matthews, arrived in the city today. He will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Matthews, Water Street.

Miss Wilhelmina Comstock of Brockville is the guest of Mrs. T. F. Matthews, Water Street.

The Kitchener League dance at the Oriental Hotel on Wednesday night promises to be a big success.

Miss Florence Mervin of North Monaghan is visiting Mrs. Yale, Princess street, over the week-end.

Mr. Stanley Richardson is recovering from a severe attack of la grippe.

Commissioner Mapp of Toronto has arrived in the city for special meetings at the Army Temple and is the guest of Adjt. and Mrs. McElhiney. Brigadier Morehen of Montreal will reach the city this afternoon and will be the guest of Mrs. James Richardson, 144 Rubidge St.

There is no definite change in the condition of Mrs. M. J. Dunsford, Rubidge Street, and her son Hobert, who are seriously ill.

Many citizens are welcoming Lt.-Col E. B. Edwards of Edmonton in his visit to the city. He is the guest of Mrs. James Wood, Monaghan Road, and will leave for Ottawa tomorrow night. Lt.-Col. Edwards will return to the city for several days.

CITY'S ACCOUNT GIVEN TO THE TORONTO BANK

INVITATION TO GOVERNOR-GENERAL TO VISIT PETERBORO'.

ON JUNE TOUR.

SEVERAL BYLAWS PASSED CONFIRMING ACTION OF COMMITTEES.

The City Council met last night in special session and passed quite a few by-laws, changed the city's bank account from the Bank of Montreal to the Bank of Toronto, and extended an invitation to the Governor-General and his party to visit Peterborough on his June tour.

The by-laws passed were confirming previous action adopted in committee, for fixing of the special rate of 7-10 mills for the property in the garbage colection area, and also for the raising of Relief Officer Miller's salary from $700 to $800.

The third by-law was the authorizing of the issue of $60,000 debentures for patriotic fund purposes. In the second reading Ald. Langford thought it should read $54,000 for Canadian Patriotic Fund and $6,000 for the Sailors' Relief Fund, the same as the county did.

Mayor Duffus explained to him that the County Council had passed the patriotic grant regardless of the relief funds and were prepared to give a further grant to the Patriotic Fund if necessary. The bylaw passed without amendment.

The Governor-General and his party will be extended an invitation to visit Peterborough on the occasion of his trip through the province, which is likely to be held in June. The suggestion was made by Capt. Burnham, M.P., and Ald. Saunders at the Council meeting last night thought it should be acted on

Ald. Smith moved that the invitation be extended to the Vice-Regal party and that the reception committee arrange for it.

Ald. Worth thought the suggestion good. It brought the city into extra prominence.

The motion carried.

City's Bank Account

At the last regular meeting of the City Council the Bank of Toronto wrote regarding the terms on which they would like to handle the city's account. The offer was a favorable one and Ald. McIntyre fathered a resolution that the offer of the Bank of Toronto be accepted.

Ald. Worth was given some information which led up to the proposed change. This was given to him by Mayor Duffus, after which he expressed himself as being in favor of leaving it with the Bank of Montreal.

Ald. Smith had kept in touch with the matter since it was brought up last fall He referred to the Bank of Montreal coming to the city's rescue when the Bank of Toronto refused the accommodation required. The city had no guarantee that the Bank of Toronto would not do the same thing again.

Ald. Saunders seconded the motion to make the change.

The motion carried on the following division:

For the Bank of Toronto—Saunders, Taylor, Stratton, Duguau, McIntyre, Weir.

For Bank of Montreal—Dobbin, Worth, Langford, Smith.

No action was taken with the request of the St. Catharines Council to memoralize the Dominion Government to put the Militia Act in force, to stop exodus to the United States, and to nationalize public utilities.

A similar request for action from London, Ont., in reference to the town of Kithener met with a similar fate.

Left With the Mayor

Mayor Duffus was given authority to send a deputation to wait on the Government and endorse the Ontario Highways Act and to urge the consideration of the road from Peterborough to Port Hope when the subject was discussed.

The Government intend starting work as soon as finances are in better shape after the war.

Leather Situation Serious.

F. N. Beardmore, Montreal, and E. J. Davis, Newmarket, saw Sir Geo. E. Foster yesterday on behalf of the leather interests to ask that an effort be made to have the regulations relaxed to allow hides to come into Canada. They represented that the situation was serious, that boot leather was reaching impossible prices

GENERAL AND LOCAL NEWS

Ask Patrol Boats.

The Lake Erie Fishermen's Association will ask the Government to place two substantial patrol boats on the fishery protection service in place of the two small ones at present in use.

The thermometer went away below zero last night. This was a reminder that you must have your furnace, furnace pipes and water pipes attended to at once by A. E. Micks, 212 Hunter St. Phone 423.

Banker's Son Falls.

Lieut. Travers Williams-Taylor, only son of Sir Frederick Williams-Taylor, general manager of the Bank of Montreal, was wounded on Feb 4th, while serving with the Imperial forces in Mesopotamia.

Miss G. G. McLean, representative of the Pember store, will be at Peterborough, at the Oriental Hotel, on Wednesday, Feb. 14, with the finest stock of human hair goods for ladies and gentlemen. Miss McLean is capable of suiting every lady and gentleman and will give the best satisfaction to all. Remember the date.

RED CROSS EXECUTIVE.

The executive committee of the Red Cross will meet Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock in the Public Library. Every member is requested to be present.

RUMMAGE SALE.

The ladies of the Murray Street Baptist Church will hold a Rummage Sale of Winter and Summer Clothing and useful articles on February 13 and 14, at 174 Hunter street, opposite the Oriental. Articles may be left at the church or brought to the store on Monday, or, if inconvenient, 'phone 1385.

ST VALENTINE AFTERNOON TEA

Don't forget the Afternoon Tea in the Oriental dining room on Wednesday, Feb. 14. The 247th band will render a pleasing program from 3 to 5 o'clock. Everyone is invited to drop in and enjoy a real good cup of tea and the best of music.

SOLDIERS' SOCKS.

The Canadian Kitchener League will send another shipment of socks to the Peterborough boys in the trenches on Tuesday, February 13th They ask their knitters to please turn in as many pairs as possible by this date.

Age Limit Felt.

Under the new ruling that all buglers must be 17 years of age when they enlist, and 18 when they get overseas, the 215th Battalion (Brantford) Bugle Band will lose about ten of its twenty-five members.

AUCTION SALE.

Mr. G. A. Gillespie will on Monday, February 12, hold an auction sale of his stock and farm implements on the farm which he recently sold and which is situated one mile from the city on the Chemong road. This is an excellent chance for farmers to secure good dairy stock, as some excellent cattle will be put under the hammer. The sale will begin at 1 o'clock sharp. J. F. Thornton is the auctioneer.

Motor Car Tax.

The council of the Kitchener board of trade endorsed a resolution of the Waterloo County board of agriculture requesting the Provincial Government to refund motor car tax to the counties, to be expended on good roads.

The Young Ladies' Mission Band of St. Andrew's Church will hold a St. Valentine's Tea on Friday, Feb. 16, from 4 to 6 and 7 to 10 p.m., in the Sunday School hall. Home-made cake and candy, as well as useful articles will be on sale. A good musical program is being prepared. Everybody is invited to come and help the young ladies in their work.

Submarine Blockade.

The situation caused by the German submarine blockade is being given consideration as far as the sailing of vessels of Canadian register is concerned, by a ships licensing committee appointed by the government to control Canadian steamship transportation.

THE SUPREME SUCCESS OF SUCCESSES

PEG O' MY HEART

By J. HARTLEY MANNERS

The Grand Theatre has for its attraction on Monday evening next Peg O' My Heart, one of the most entertaining successes produced on the English-speaking stage in a decade. The extraordinary success of this play is unquestionably accounted for by its humanity and wholesomeness, two elements which in these days of bizarre mechanical plots and tawdry sensuality are put so far in the background as to seem almost mythological. Peg O' My Heart is from the pen of J. Hartley Manners, who has written some notable successes. The United Producing Company have done more than their share towards making "Peg" the success it is by their careful casting of each role and artistic stage setting. Miss Marion Dentler, the Morosco Star, will again be seen in the title role, some of the other members being William Sauter, Harrison Warner, Miss Katherine Sheldon, Vern Dushayne, Miss Mable Baring and Mr H. Nelson Dickson.

CARD OF THANKS

On behalf of our house I desire to thank the friends of the city for the many kindnesses shown us during the sickness and burial of our mother. May such expression of sympathy and kindness be the blessing of all sorrowing and bereft lives.—R. A. Whattam.

WINDSOR GIVES $10,000

come up to requirements, even to a .0005 of an inch.

This is where the diamonds play their important part. Inasmuch as the slightest imperfection of the cutting surface of the wheel is reproduced on the work, an absolutely trued wheel is necessary in these grinding jobs. The diamond provides a method of making the wheel a true cylinder, and at the same time produces any kind of a surface desired.

Besides crank shafts and cam shafts, wrist pins, spacers, push rods, spring brackets, pump shafts, generators, drive shafts, idler gear studs and steering work gears are parts in the accurate grinding of which the diamond plays an important role.

A 1,000 Year Prophecy.

One ancient prophecy at least would now be fulfilled as an outcome of this war. Nearly a thousand years ago it was foretold that the event which our Jingoes of the seventies refused to contemplate would come to pass. "By the vulgar of every rank" (in Constantinople) says Gibbon, "it was asserted and believed that an equestrian statue in the same square of Taurus was secretly inscribed with a prophecy, how the Russians, in the last days, should become masters of Constantinople." The statue had been brought from Antioch, was melted down by the Latins, and was supposed to represent either Joshua or Bellerophon, "a curious dilemma," as Gibbon puts it. But of the existence of the prophecy there is no doubt.—London Chronicle.

NOTED MUSICIAN OF MONTREAL

Advises The Use Of "FRUIT-A-TIVES", The Famous Fruit Medicine.

MR. ROSENBURG

589 Casgrain St., Montreal,
April 20th, 1915.

"In my opinion, no other medicine in the world is so curative for Constipation and Indigestion as "Fruit-a-tives". I was a sufferer from these complaints for five years, and my sedentary occupation, Music, brought about a kind of Intestinal Paralysis—with Sick Headaches, belching gas, drowsiness after eating, and Pain in the Back. I tried pills and medicines of physicians, but nothing helped me. Then I was induced to try "Fruit-a-tives", and now for six months I have been entirely well.

I advise any one who suffers from that horrible trouble—Chronic Constipation with the resultant indigestion, to try "Fruit-a-tives", and you will be agreeably surprised at the great benefit you will receive". A. ROSENBURG.

50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. At all dealers or sent postpaid by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

BUSY EVANGELIST

Mrs. Barr Has Unique Title to Fall Into the Ranks of Women.

CONDUCTS REAL CAMPAIGNS.

After Two Years of Endeavor She Finds That Her Efforts Have Met Unparalleled Success—A Minister For Fifteen Years In the Society of Friends.

To the Rev. Mrs. T. D. Barr, an Indianapolis woman, falls the unique title of the "only woman evangelist." She is now conducting tabernacle campaigns and carrying a working party of nine members. As far as can be ascertained, the Rev. Mrs. Barr stands alone in this particular phase of religious work. An amazing thing is brought to light in that the Rev. Mrs. Barr holds a Sunday afternoon "men only" meeting in each city where she campaigns. She is a member of the western yearly meeting of the Society of Friends. This is her second year of endeavor in the evangelistic field, and her fruits have been unparalleled. She has recently been conducting meetings in Indianapolis and will soon start a campaign in St. Louis under the supervision of the Women's federation of that city. Mrs. Barr has been a Friends minister, having held various charges in the yearly meeting for the past fifteen years.

SOME NOTES MISLEADING

Many Slight Errors Made in the Translations.

Many English critics are dissatisfied with the translators of the Foreign Office, discovering a variety of errors, or at least of uncouth renderings, in the official English version of the Entente Allies' answer to President Wilson. Similar complaints were heard when the reply to the German note was turned into English and some passages were condemned as ambiguous, if not actually misleading. The American official translation of the latest note, the version given out by the State Department, has likewise been censured; indeed, the London version has been held up by one critic as the better of the two.

There are undoubtedly questionable passages in all of the documents referred to. In the American version of the reply to President Wilson "mepris systematique" becomes "simulating contempt," which is pure nonsense. The other doubtful renderings are less troublesome because they are at least approximately correct, even when awkward. The London version makes the Allied Governments "challenge" Mr. Wilson's comparison between the aims of the belligerents; in the American they "protest" against it. In the French original it is "s'elever contre." Is it possible to say, that either rendering is the better of the two? In the great majority of the passages objected to there is no serious ambiguity; the worst that can be said of them is that they are inelegant.

The Daily Chronicle, of London, expressed the hope, "that American press enterprise would make a rendering of its own." Only in this way, it thought, could we "get an adequate impression of the note's pith and weight." The samples we have seen of the English version are, indeed, lacking in distinction, but the American is no better.

A more serious fault was found in the reply to the German note. It was not merely that the English was clumsy and halting, but that in one place at least it was misleading. This was the passage: "As for the future the disasters caused by the German declaration of war and the innumerable outrages committed by Germany and her allies upon both belligerents and neutrals demand penalties, reparation, and guarantees." The objection was to the word "penalties." In the French it was "sanctions." "As applied to terms of peace," said one critic, "the word is either meaningless, since the penalties will already have been incurred, or else implies a kind of procedure which would make peace next to impossible." Nevertheless, "sanctions" may imply penalties, in a potential sense at least, and perhaps the translator was not so far wrong as his critic fancied.

A much grosser error occurred in the French version of President Wilson's note. Where he spoke of the possible jealousies aroused by "the formation of any more rival leagues to preserve an uncertain balance of power" the official translator unfortunately made him say "toute espece de ligue navale." This, like "simulating contempt," was probably a slip of the pen, but it might lead to serious misunderstanding.

Another serious slip occurred in the French version of a notable speech in the Douma, when the Russian premier was made to say that his country was for "destroying Germany" and rendering her regeneration for some time impossible; when in reality he was merely reiterating the resolve of the Allies to destroy, not Germany, but "German militarism." The Russians seem to have suffered more than any of the Allies from the blunders of translators.

The Fur Seal's Harem.

Fur seals are extremely polygamous and the old males, which weigh from 400 to 500 pounds, "haul up" first on the breeding beaches. Each bull holds a certain area, and as the females, only one-fifth his size, come ashore they are appropriated by the nearest bulls until each "beach master" gathers a harem, sometimes containing more than 100 members. Here the young are born, and after the mating season, the seals which have remained ashore without food from four to six weeks, return to the water. The mothers go and come, and each is able to find her young with certainty among thousands of apparently identical woolly black "pups."

From the ages of one to four years fur seals are extremely playful. They are marvelous swimmers and frolic about in pursuit of one another, now diving deep and then, one after the other, suddenly leaping high above the surface in graceful curves, like porpoises. Squids and fish of various species are their main food. Their chief natural enemy is the killer whale, which follows their migrations and haunts the sea about their breeding ground, taking heavy toll among them.

Not Her Work.

He was a young subaltern, says the London Opinion. One evening the nursing sister had just finished making him comfortable for the night, and before going off duty asked: "Is there anything I can do for you before I leave?" Dear little Two Stars replied: "Well, yes! I should like very much to be kissed good-night." Sister rustled to the door. "Just wait till I call the orderly," she said. "He does all the rough work here."

MORE AMERICAN CAPITAL.

Many Firms Are Establishing Branches in the Dominion.

War business in Canada has considerably augmented the investment of American capital in this country, with a corresponding increase in branch establishments of United States firms. Previous to the war, it was estimated that there were in Canada 450 branch establishments of American firms with an invested capital of $135,000,000. During the past two years these have been increased by 50 more with a combined capital of $15,000,000. Most of these branch establishments have been established in the provinces of Ontario and Quebec, with a few others in such western cities as Winnipeg, Regina, Calgary, and Vancouver.

Among the United States companies which have established branches since the war commenced are makers of the following: Railway accessories, overalls, chemicals, silverware and flatware, automobiles, horse shoes, steel goods, spices, soaps, perfumes, glue, [illegible], pumps, greenhouses, railway [illegible], fuses, boxes, spreaders, stockings, tires, steel, steel products, canned goods, automobile varnishes, belting, store counters, explosives, pulp and paper, sewing machines, grain and elevator machinery, silk and chamoisette gloves, refined nickel, and cottonseed oil products.

Of the total of United States investments of $978,000,000 in the Dominion, $150,000,000 is represented by branch plants. Until 1914, this was the largest item in the list of United States investments here. Since then Canadian securities have been sold in the neighboring Republic in far greater volume than hitherto, and consequently that item now represents the largest United States investment in Canada, branch establishments coming second.

It is believed that a still greater impetus will be given to the location of branch firms of United States establishments in Canada if after the war favorable tariffs are established between the Allies or between Great Britain and the overseas dominions. Such establishments would, under such conditions, be in a much more favorable position to participate in export trade to the allied countries than the establishments in the United States.

Garbage Collection

Difficulty has been caused in the collection of ashes by the receptacles being too large or awkward in shape for handling, and by not being strong enough. They should not be of more than two cubic feet capacity or weigh more than 75 pounds when full, and should be sufficiently strong. Neither should they be too small, for this unnecessarily increases the time required in handling and the expense. No other material or refuse shall be mixed with ashes. Table and kitchen waste must be drained and wrapped in paper. All refuse must be placed out for collection before the collector calls.

Householders are asked to carefully observe the regulations, so as to avoid unnecessary trouble for all concerned, and to co-operate to make the work successful.

By Order,
S. R. ARMSTRONG,
City Clerk.

MARKET PRICES

The market this morning was not very large. There was a good supply of hay and straw and every load sold readily. The wood that was offered was quickly disposed of. The auctioneers enlivened things up at several sales of household effects.

There is no change in the livestock market. Hogs are firm at $13.75.

On the upstairs market eggs were easier, quite a few lots of fresh eggs selling at 45c. A few small lots sold at 50c.

Butter was unchanged at 45c for the choice. A few large lots sold at 42c and 43c.

The quality of fowl offered was generaly very poor and the prices asked were very high. Ordinary barnyard chickens sold at 90c and $1.00. Generally speaking, they sold for 23c 25c per pound.

GREAT CHANGE IS ON THE WAY

DOMINION MUST TAKE ITS PART IN MOVEMENT.

A symposium conducted by a London newspaper on "The Empire After the War" has revealed a remarkable unanimity of opinion amongst representative men from the Overseas Dominions as to the need for re-casting the whole fabric of the British commonwealth and giving all parts of the empire control over their common interests.

Amongst those whose views were secured were Sir Thomas Mackenzie, High Commissioner for New Zealand; Rt. Hon. W. P. Schreiner, High Commissioner for South Africa; Sir Edward Morris, Premier of Newfoundland; Lord Sydenham, ex-governor of Bombay; Lieut.-Gen. Sir Sam Hughes, Canada; Sir Peter McBride, Agent-General for Victoria; Sir Thomas B. Robinson, Agent-General for Queensland, and Sir John McCall, Agent-General for Tasmania.

While these empire representatives differ as to the details of the constitution of the future British commonwealth, they all agree that a fundamental change must take place in the relations of the United Kingdom and the Overseas Dominions as well as the relation of each dominion to all the others. The nature of this change is summarized by Sir Sam Hughes. "In short," he says, "what is wanted is a system of joint control by the whole empire of matters affecting the whole empire, coupled with inviolable independence for the component parts in respect of essential domestic details."

Such a change as this—a change that would leave all the dominions with their present autonomous powers unimpaired and at the same time would give them an effective voice in the issues of peace and war to which at present a cabinet responsible only to British electors commits them—is by no means an impossibility. Sir Edward Morris has no doubts on the point. "I see," he says, "No way easier, simpler, or more direct than the assembly of an imperial convention in London which would formulate and agree upon certain basic principles, these to be recommended immediately to the respective legislatures of the dominions for approval. This should be done at once."

"The time is one pregnant with fate for the whole British commonwealth," says the Vancouver World. "If the principles of British freedom, the self-governing powers, and aptitudes of the British race, are to hold their place in the new world that the war is creating around us, action must be taken at once. There will be no second opportunity. This is Lord Sydenham's view and most people will agree with him. Undoubtedly the British Empire is at the portals of a great opportunity. Will it enter and grasp what is offered it? Or will it remain outside and perish?"

The Working Child.

[Prepared by the children's bureau]

All the speeches on child labor made in congress since the first federal child labor bill was introduced in the spring of 1906 and other printed arguments for and against federal control of child labor which had appeared before June 30, 1916, are listed in two sections of the bibliography on child labor just issued.

Material on practical experiments in training children for industry and in guiding a child to the trade where his opportunities are best and material on the effect of premature labor on the child's health form special sections. Previous bibliographies on vocational training and vocational guidance and other subjects related to child labor, such as mothers' pensions, minimum wage and compulsory education, are noted in the bulletin.

GRATITUDE.

Gratitude is the fairest blossom that springs from the soul, and the heart of man knoweth none so fragrant, while its opponent, ingratitude, is a deadly weed, poisoning the very atmosphere in which it grows.

GREAT PACIFIC PORT

Great Wharves Planned by City and C.P.R. For Vancouver

The Canadian Pacific has plans for wharves at Vancouver which will cost $1,500,000. These plans will dove-tail into those which the city contemplates to carry out at the port. The latter is growing in value and bigness all the time. There is great complaint from shippers of congestion, for Vancouver is becoming a great port. The city is going to spend $5,000,000 on wharf extension, and the railway company, on its own account, has plans for a further extension of the wharves which it will use for its own business. The fleet of the C.P.R. now numbers, all told, over 160 vessels; but it has especially strengthened its Atlantic and Trans-Pacific service in latter years—recognising as it did, the possibilities of increased exchange between this continent and Europe and Asia, an intimacy and largeness of communication which, somewhat hurt by the war, are resuming their urgency and importance from day to day.

Unity of Race

"A better time could not be chosen for promoting the brotherhood of English and French speaking peoples, when there is a closer union of hearts and minds than ever before between the two great mother nations across the sea. This is the time to both preach and practise unity in Canada. Providence, nature, and history alike proclaim our brotherhood," says Lomer Gouin.

FOR SALE OR TO RENT—100 acres of first-class land, situated in the Township of Dummer. All workable land, containing a comfortable house, with bank barn, driving shed, and all necessary outbuildings. We would sell this farm on easy payments or will rent it with the option of buying same.

FOR SALE OR TO RENT—150 acres of choice farm land situated in the Township of Smith, in a very nice locality. This farm has a very comfortable brick house, with a new bank barn and drive shed. Land is all under cultivation with about 32 acres of timber. Owner will rent said farm at $400.00 per year.

FOR SALE OR TO RENT—10 acres of choice land, situated on the outskirts of the city, containing a house which could be made very comfortable, and ten acres of the best land. This place is only about ten minutes walk from the car line and factories. Would make a good place for a market gardener.

FOR RENT—Two and one-half storey red brick house, having all modern improvements; situated in a very choice locality. There is a large stable, with hen house, and a big garden. This house can be rented at $15.00 per month, a very low rent considering locality and class of house.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST LAND REGULATIONS

The sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. Applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at any Dominion Lands Agency (but not Sub-Agency), on certain conditions.

Duties—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required except where residence is performed in the vicinity.

Live stock may be substituted for cultivation under certain conditions.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre.

Duties—Six months' residence in each of three years after earning homestead patent; also 50 acres extra cultivation. Pre-emption patent may be obtained as soon as homestead patent, on certain conditions.

A settler who has exhausted his homestead right may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre.

Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

Swollen Joints

If people who are crippled with swollen joints—wrists, ankles and knuckles—could only be made to realize that the root of their troubles is in the kidneys and the bladder, it would be easy to get them to send for the free sample of Gin Pills and put them on the way to recovery.

In Watertown, N.Y., lives Alexander La Due, aged 73. For years he suffered from Kidney trouble, trying various remedies and doctor's medicine. Then he read an ad. of

Gin Pills FOR THE KIDNEYS

He writes as follows: " . . . . I sent for two boxes. They did me more good than all the medicine I had taken. After I used the first two I sent for two more boxes, and I am satisfied, and also know, that Gin Pills are the best kidney remedy made."

BEFORE ADAM

By

JACK LONDON

Copyright, 1907, by the MacMillan company.

He hated me from the first. And I quickly learned to be afraid of him and his malicious pranks. Whenever he came in sight I crept close to my mother and clung to her. But I was growing older all the time, and it was inevitable that I should from time to time stray from her and stray farther and farther. And these were the opportunities that the Chatterer waited for. (I may as well explain that we bore no names in those days; were not known by any name. For the sake of convenience I have myself given names to the various folk I was more closely in contact with, and the "Chatterer" is the most fitting description I can find for that precious stepfather of mine. As for me, I have named myself "Big-Tooth." My eye teeth were pronouncedly large.)

But to return to the Chatterer. He persistently terrorized me. He was always pinching me and cuffing me, and on occasion he was not above biting me. Often my mother interfered, and the way she made his fur fly was a joy to see. But the result of all this was a beautiful and unending family quarrel, in which I was the bone of contention.

No, my home life was not happy. I smile to myself as I write the phrase. Home life! Home! I had no home in the modern sense of the term. My home was an association, not a habitation. I lived in my mother's care, not in a house. And my mother lived anywhere, so long as when night came she was above the ground.

My mother was old fashioned. She still clung to her trees. It is true, the more progressive members of our horde lived in the caves above the river. But my mother was suspicious and unprogressive. The trees were good enough for her. Of course, we had one particular tree in which we usually roosted, though we often roosted in other trees when nightfall caught us. In a convenient fork was a sort of rude platform of twigs and branches and creeping things. It was more like a huge bird nest than anything else, though it was a thousand times cruder in the weaving than any bird nest. But it had one feature that I have never seen attached to any bird nest—namely, a roof.

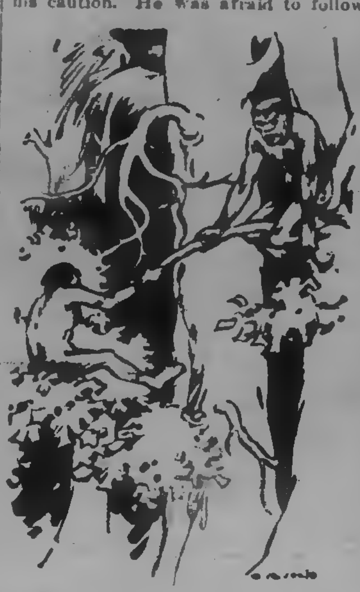
Oh, not a roof such as modern man makes. Nor a roof such as is made by the lowest aborigines of today. It was infinitely more clumsy than the clumsiest handiwork of man—of man as we know him. It was put together in a casual, helter skelter sort of way. Above the fork of the tree whereon we rested was a pile of dead branches and brush. Four or five adjacent forks held what I may term the various ridgepoles. These were merely stout sticks an inch or so in diameter. On them rested the brush and branches. These seemed to have been tossed on almost aimlessly. There was no attempt at thatching. And I must confess that the roof leaked miserably in a heavy rain.

But the Chatterer. He made home life a burden for both my mother and me, and by home life I mean not the leaky nest in the tree, but the group life of the three of us. He was most malicious in his persecution of me. That was the one purpose to which he held steadfastly for longer than five minutes; also as time went by my mother was less eager in her defense of me. I think what of the continuous rows raised by the Chatterer that I must have become a nuisance to her. At any rate the situation went from bad to worse so rapidly that I should soon of my own volition have left home. But the satisfaction of performing so independent an act was denied me. Before I was ready to go I was thrown out. And I mean this literally.

The opportunity came to the Chatterer one day when I was alone in the nest. My mother and the Chatterer had gone away together toward the blueberry swamp. He must have planned the whole thing, for I heard him returning alone through the forest, roaring with self induced rage as he came. Like all the men of our horde when they were angry or were trying to make themselves angry, he stopped now and again to hammer on his chest with his fist.

I realized the helplessness of my situation and crouched trembling in the nest. The Chatterer came directly to the tree—I remember it was an oak tree—and began to climb up. And he never ceased for a moment from his infernal row. As I have said, our language was extremely meager, and he must have strained it by the variety of ways in which he informed me of his undying hatred of me and of his intention there and then to have it out with me.

As he climbed to the fork I fled out the great horizontal limb. He followed me, and out I went, farther and farther. At last I was out amongst the small twigs and leaves. The Chatterer was ever a coward; and greater always than any anger he ever worked up was his caution. He was afraid to follow me out amongst the leaves and twigs. For that matter, his greater weight would have crashed him through the foliage before he could have got to me.



He Was Afraid to Follow Me Out Amongst the Leaves and Twigs.

But it was not necessary for him to reach me, and well he knew it, the scoundrel! With a malevolent expression on his face, his beady eyes gleaming with cruel intelligence, he began teetering. Teetering! and with me out on the very edge of the bough clutching at the twigs that broke continually with my weight. Twenty feet beneath me was the earth.

Wildly and more wildly he teetered grinning at me his gloating hatred. Then came the end. All four holds broke at the same time, and I fell back downward, looking up at him, my hands and feet still clutching the broken twigs. Luckily there were no wild pigs under me, and my fall was broken by the tough and springy bushes.

Usually my falls destroy my dreams the nervous shock being sufficient to bridge the thousand centuries in an instant and hurl me wide awake into my little bed, where perchance I lie sweating and trembling and hear the cuckoo clock calling the hour in the hall. But this dream of my leaving home I have had many times, and never yet have I been awakened by it. Always do I crash, shrieking, down through the brush and fetch up with a bump on the ground.

Scratched and bruised and whimpering, I lay where I had fallen. Peering up through the bushes, I could see the Chatterer. He had set up a demoniacal chant of joy and was keeping time to it with his teetering. I quickly hushed my whimpering. I was no longer in the safety of the trees, and I knew the danger I ran of bringing upon myself the hunting animals by too audible an expression of my grief.

I remember, as my sobs died down, that I became interested in watching the strange light effects produced by partially opening and closing my tear wet eyelids. Then I began to investigate and found that I was not so very badly damaged by my fall. I had lost some hair and hide, here and there. The sharp and jagged end of a broken branch had thrust fully an inch into my forearm, and my right hip, which had borne the brunt of my contact with the ground, was aching intolerably. But these, after all, were only petty hurts. No bones were broken, and in those days the flesh of man had finer healing qualities than it has today. Yet it was a severe fall, for I limped with my injured hip for fully a week afterward.

Next, as I lay in the bushes, there came upon me a feeling of desolation, a consciousness that I was homeless. I made up my mind never to return to my mother and the Chatterer. I would go far away through the terrible forest and find some tree for myself in which to roost. As for food, I knew where to find it. For the last year at least I had not been beholden to my mother for food. All she had furnished me was protection and guidance.

Hopes Women Will Adopt This Habit As Well As Men

Glass of hot water each morning helps us look and feel clean, sweet, fresh.

Happy, bright, alert — vigorous and vivacious — a good clear skin; a natural, rosy complexion and freedom from illness are assured only by clean, healthy blood. If only every woman, and likewise every man could realize the wonders of the morning inside bath, what a gratifying change would take place.

Instead of the thousands of sickly, anaemic-looking men, women and girls with pasty or muddy complexions; instead of the multitudes of "nerve wrecks," "rundowns," "brain fags" and pessimists we should see a virile, optimistic throng of rosy-cheeked people everywhere.

An inside bath is had by drinking each morning before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour fermentations and poisons, thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Those subject to sick headache, biliousness, nasty breath, rheumatism, colds; and particularly those who have a pallid, sallow complexion and who are constipated very often, are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phospate at the drug store, which will cost but a trifle but is sufficient to demonstrate the quick and remarkable change in both health and appearance awaiting those who practice internal sanitation. We must remember that inside cleanliness is more important than outside, because the skin does not absorb impurities to contaminate the blood, while the pores in the thirty feet of bowels do.

THE FITTED ROOM

It will be good news for the Canadian housewife that architects are beginning seriously to consider "fixtures" from her point of view, as well as from the builders' and landlords'. Built-in furniture, we are told, is to become much more general in the future. Its space and labor saving advantages have been eloquently advocated by a well known architect. "It is obvious that furniture which does not project far into a room is a saving of space," he says. "You find how much space is given to furniture when you walk round a room in the dark and see how many things you kick. Saving of labor is effected, because, with built-in furniture, there are no exposed tops for dust to settle on, nor hollows between furniture and floor for it to creep into." The latest designs in the architects' books show drawing rooms with window seats, corner settees, corner cupboards, and even china shelves built into the walls. Drawing rooms have fixed sideboards and side carving and serving tables. Recesses on each side of the fire-place are filled with bookcases and writing tables. Bedrooms have fixed wardrobes, chests of drawers, and wash-hand stands fitted with hot and cold water. Floors are panelled wood with a glossy polish. A few rugs, cushions, chairs, pictures and ornaments are all that is needed to furnish one of these "fitted rooms." When they become general "removing" will be robbed of all its terrors.

THE WOMEN OF FOREIGN BIRTH

MUST BE MADE FREE, HAPPY AND PROSPEROUS.

While something can be done with the men of foreign birth by the men of the farm organizations, the best and most efficient work can be done with the women and children and they can best be reached by women. "It is a great task, and in our minds most of us shrink from it as an almost intolerable burden, but if our men are willing to lay down their lives by the thousand for the British ideal of justice and the right of the weak against the strong, the women of Canada are assuredly ready and willing to live and work for that ideal. After all what is life but work and sacrifice and only they who are willing to lead the way of sacrifice may hope to enter in at the door of love, that love of our foreign population that will in the end make them one with us, a free, happy and prosperous people, worthy of the ideal of freedom for which so much has been poured out in blood and tears."—E. Cora Hind.

Strange Case.

Prof. C. J. Dillon of Manhatten tells of a farmer who met a doctor on the street. "Doc," said he, "if you're out our way this week you might's well come in and see m' wife."

"What ails her?" inquired the doctor.

"Duno. After gettin' breakfast an' fixing the chiduren for school an' churning an' sloppin' the hogs an' doing a little washin'—they's only seven in the family, y'know she plumb declared she'd have to lay down before gettin' dinner! Says sh'e tired out. Kicks about gettin' a Sunday dinner!"

"Yes," said the wise doctor, "I'll come out and see her. It's a strange case."—Kansas City Star.

"How's your boy, Josh, getting on at school?"

"I dunno," replied Farmer Corntossel. "But if he is really as smart as his conversation sounds, he's makin' some of those professors hustle to keep up with him."

HARD PROBLEM FOR ALLIES IN SETTLING FUTURE OF TURKS AND ASIA MINOR

Intrigue of Enver Pasha Undoing of Sick Man of Europe.

ENVER PASHA

AT the present moment Turkey is facing the question as to whether or not the intriguing of Enver Pasha has been the undoing of the Sick Man of Europe. There can be no doubt that Enver Pasha had the biggest opportunity placed in the hands of any one Turkish statesman in recent years. It was expected that he would use his great power and his influential following to bring about radical reforms in Turkey. If he had shown a tendency to follow the lead of modern civilized forces he might have counted on the support of the humanitarian nations that wanted to see Turkey reformed. Instead of that the Young Turks allowed their country to fall under the reactionary influence of Germany. They have perpetrated the worst crimes in the history of the Empire—the Armenian atrocities—and won the detestation of the world. The integrity of the Turkish empire was never so seriously menaced as it is to-day. Of the twenty million inhabitants of Turkey, only about seven millions are Turks, while about twelve millions, or two-thirds of the population, are Arabs. But Turkish misrule can be maintained only as long as the ruling race possesses power and prestige, and the defeats of the Turkish armies promptly led to an Arab rising which culminated in a declaration of independence. After the Allied success, the question of the Straits will be found to have been settled in advance, and the Turk will be compelled, bag and baggage, to move into Asia. Even there, however, his position will be subject to new and serious limitations. Asiatic Turkey occupies a most commanding position, both for war and trade, since it is the link and the bridge which connects Africa with Asia and both with Europe. The strategical position of Asiatic Turkey curiously resembles that of Switzerland, being surrounded by lofty mountains, vast deserts, and the sea. But while little Switzerland dominates by its natural strength and strategical position merely three European States, Germany, France, and Italy, Asiatic Turkey dominates the three most important continents of the world. While Asiatic Turkey is three and a half times as large as Germany, and nearly six times as large as the United Kingdom, its population is quite insignificant.

The economic importance of Asiatic Turkey is very great. It has been the seat of some of the greatest empires and many of the greatest cities of antiquity, whose sites are marked to-day merely by poverty-stricken villages or heaps of debris. The vast wealth of ancient Babylonica, Assyria, Lydia, Media, Persia, Phoenicia, and of the flourishing Greek towns on the western coast of Asia Minor was founded on the broad and solid basis of agriculture. Asia Minor has to-day, in spite of centuries of barbaric neglect, large stretches of good soil and an excellent climate. Agriculture, aided by modern methods of production and transportation, should be able to nourish an enormous population in this favored land and should make it once more highly prosperous. The country is, moreover, rich in minerals, including coal, gold and silver, nickel, mercury, copper, iron and lead, but these resources have so far remained practically untouched. All that Asia Minor needs is a decently honest and capable government to become an exceedingly wealthy and well peopled country. Relegated to their parent home in Anatolia, the remaining handful of Turks may be left to govern themselves. But the broad lands which they have so grossly and cruelly misgoverned will have to pass under other rule. Just how this is to be effected may prove to be one of the most knotty of after-war problems. But it will have to be solved without consulting Turkey, were it for no other reason than a military state in control of Asia Minor might easily become a formidable danger to the peace of the world. Mesopotamia is naturally marked out as a British protectorate, just as France has special interests which should make her sustain in Syria. The organization of a vital and progressive Arab state ought to be among the possibilities of the future, and into its hands would naturally pass the Calinbate.

ROB AND DESTROY

Blazing Torch Hides Deeds of Huns in Belgium.

A prominent trader who through age and sickness was allowed to leave Lille just before Christmas has arrived in Paris, and gives examples of the barbarous practices of which the inhabitants are the victims, says the Paris Matin.

In 1915 the Germans exacted a tribute of £720,000, which the municipality refused to pay. Whereupon the Germans went to the municipal vaults and opened the safes with blowpipes in approved burglar style. Two motor cars were required to remove the bullion stolen from the city's coffers.

When the people were ordered to supply an enormous number of sandbags, they replied that it was impossible. "All right," said the Governor, "we will make them ourselves." Hun soldiers then seized every kind of material, even satins and silks, in the shops and warehouses, and exported them to Germany, where the sacks were made, and the city had to pay the bill.

Some shops have had their entire stocks taken in return for requisitioned notes. If the Germans do not find what they want they take anything they please. Their officers have sent wagon-loads of stuff to Belgium to be sold on their behalf. It has even been known for German traffickers to arrive and open shops to resell to the inhabitants the goods stolen from them by the invaders.

When the population turned a deaf ear to an order to surrender all lead, zinc, aluminum, and copper in their possession in exchange for "scraps of paper" the shops and houses were entered by force and everything seized which contained these metals and despatched to Germany.

About £40,000,000 worth of requisition bonds were stored at the town hall awaiting the day of settlement, but the Germans, in order to escape liability for their receipts, set fire to the building.

One of the most cruel imposts is the tax of 10s, 20s., and sometimes 40s. on dogs. The people of Lille kept their pets for a long time, but finally saw that in paying the hated tax they were giving the enemy weapons to use against their own French soldiers. Then the inhabitants of the stricken city sacrificed their four footed friends.

German Want.

Not only the poor, and those ordinarily just beyond the margin of poverty, but even the middle classes are receiving Government aid in Prussia, according to recent reports.

No other conclusion is possible if the statement of Dr. Lentze, Minister of Finance, in the Prussian Diet is measurably correct. Dr. Lentze said that while at first the Government had made war allowances only to families whose income was less than $525, subsequently it had raised the limit to $825 and finally to $1,125. This last figure includes most of the inhabitants of the kingdom.

The income of Prussia in peace times is distributed among the social classes in about the same proportion as that of the United States. Using the Government statistics of these countries, Professor King of the economics department of the University of Wisconsin divided the two nations into four groups. According to the most recent figures available, only the very rich, composing two per cent. of the population, and a fraction of the upper middle class totalling eighteen per cent. enjoyed family incomes of more than $1,125 in Prussia in 1910.

In fact, in 1910 ninety-six per cent. of the Prussian families had incomes of $600 or less annually. This estimate was quoted by Professor King from "Die Zeischrift des koniglichen preussischen statistischen Landesamts of 1911" in his book on "The Wealth and Income of the People of the United States," published in 1915.

Taking this official report as authoritative, the amazing conclusion follows that at the very least eighty per cent. of the Prussian families are receiving Government aid. Surely no more vivid picture could be presented of the suffering thrust by war upon the entire population not only of Prussia but of all the rest of Germany.

Want Public Works.

Despite the announcement of the Government that expenditures are to be cut to the bone and that the work on the Welland Canal and other big undertakings would cease, requests for the expenditure of public moneys for building railways and public works continue to come in to the Government. Some of the requests show a surprising lack of knowledge of conditions and make one wonder whether these people actually know the country is at war.

The British Government has made a request for 1,500 miles of rails for urgent military purposes in France and Canada is able to supply the whole demand if necessary without impairing to any extent her transportation facilities. This is the result of the railway building programme carried on by the late administration. There is this justification, however, that this extravagant programme was originated and developed in the piping times of peace.

To-day the Government is in receipt of applications for subsidies not only for steam railways, but there is a demand that a new door of expenditure be opened in the shape of subsidies for electric roads.

In view of the tremendous burden of war expenditure the Government has been endeavoring to stop completely the building of public works. It has been trying to concentrate the attention of the people upon the one thing worth while, the prosecution of the war. But the demands for railway building still continue to come in until wonderment arises whether the people who make such demands are not more intent upon these designs than upon the defeat of the Germans.

Women Who Suffer

CAN OBTAIN NEW HEALTH THROUGH THE USE OF DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS.

Every woman at some time needs a tonic. At special times unusual demands are made upon her strength. Where these are added to the worry and work that fall to her lot, weakness and ill health will follow unless the blood is fortified to meet the strain.

Weak women find in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills the tonic exactly suited to their needs. Most of the ills from which they suffer are due to bloodlessness—a condition which the Pills readily cure. These pills save the girl who enters into womanhood in a bloodless condition from years of misery and afford prompt and permanent relief to the woman who is bloodless, and therefore weak. Mrs. Wm. H Wagner, Rosenthal, Ont., writes:—"After the birth of my second child I suffered from troubles which most mothers will understand, without going into details. The doctor who was attending me said an operation would be necessary, but as I dreaded this and as Dr William' Pink Pills had been of great help to my sister I decided to try this medicine, and I can truly say that after using the pills for some time they made a complete cure and made life more enjoyable than it had been for some time. I think every woman suffering from the ailments of our sex should give Dr. Williams' Pills a fair trial as I know from my own case the great benefit that follows their use."

You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

FOR YOUNG FOLKS

Sleepy Time Story About a Very Lively Little Fisherman.

HE WEARS A HANDSOME COAT

Small but Fierce Creature That Is Much Admired by Indians of British Columbia—Sometimes Steals the Farmers' Chickens.

Well, said Uncle Ben, as this is the season when furs are in fashion, I am going to tell you about A FUR BEARER.

The mink is a little animal that is found most anywhere in the northern part of our country.

The creature is about fifteen or eighteen inches long, a relation to the weasel and the skunk and shaped something like they are.

It lives along brooks and rivers in a burrow or hole in the bank. Its food is fish when it can get fish and frogs or small animals when fish is not to be had.

The mink will take birds, and sometimes it will go for the farmer's poultry.

So when a country boy sees a mink near the farm he is apt to try very hard to catch it.

The mink is a cruel little animal itself and can fight bravely if cornered.

The mink is a very fine fisherman. His way of getting the fish is to trot along the bank of the stream until he sees one; then he will dive after it.

He can swim under water as well as the fish, and if it tries to hide under a log or in a grotto under the water the mink swims right after it and, grabbing it in his strong jaws, soon makes short work of it.

The Indians of British America, way up in the far north, admire the mink very much. Indian mothers have a lullaby which they sing to their little ones, and it goes something like this:

See the merry mink there diving
In the water clear and cool,
For the speckled salmon seeking
In the lily crested pool.

Although the fur of the northern mink is much finer than that of the animals found in milder regions, mink can live in almost any of our northern states.

In winter Mother Nature gives the mink a thick and handsome coat, and it is then that trappers set traps to catch him.

No matter how cruel the mink may be, these traps are more cruel still, for the poor beast is held a living captive, sometimes for several days, till the trapper makes his rounds and puts him out of his misery.

ODD PARALLEL IN TWO NOTES

A HITHERTO unpublished summons to peace, addressed to President Lincoln during the Civil War by Emperor Pedro of Brazil, and closely paralleling President Wilson's recent speech before the Senate, is published in The London Post by Frederic Harrison, founder of the Positivist Society. Harrison says that he has had access to unpublished documents in the archives of the United States, and found among them the Brazilian Emperor's communication. The Post heads the article "President Wilson's Pose," and gives it the sub-heading "An Interesting Parallel." Harrison says:

"The language used by his Majesty so closely resembles the rescript to the Senate just delivered by President Wilson that one thinks that the President recently looked up the Emperor's mandate and its words were etched in his mind." Harrison then quotes the following from the Brazilian document:

"I speak in the name of humanity and the neutrals of South America, whose industry and commerce are seriously affected by this most unaccountable war between the States of North America. The Confederate States assure me they are quite ready to discuss terms of peace. . . . . When the aggressive Federals can show the same attitude, peace will be made. It is inconceivable that the mighty State of which I am Emperor should have no part in that enterprise."

(President Wilson, in his message, observed that in his December note to belligerents, he "spoke on behalf of humanity and of the rights of all neutral nations whose vital interests the war puts in constant jeopardy." Wilson went on to say that peace must be followed by some definite concert of power to prevent a repetition of the present war. "It is unconceivable," said the message, "that the people of the United States should play no part in that great enterprise.")

After demanding "to have a voice determining the conditions on which such a peace shall be made permanent," because a peace which did not include Brazil could not prevent a renewal of the war, the Emperor continued:

"There must be peace, I say, without victory. . . . Both of you want the same object and neither of you can get all you want. The foundation of peace is the equality of states, whether they are slave-holding or not, and equality implies freedom."

(President Wilson said: "We shall have no voice in determining what those (peace) terms shall be, but we shall, I feel sure, have a voice in determining whether they shall be made lasting or not. . . . No covenant of co-operative peace that does not include the people of the new world can suffice to keep the future safe against war. . . . . The statesmen of both groups of nations now arrayed against one another have said, in terms that could not be misinterpreted, that it was no part of the purpose they had in mind to crush their antagonists. . . It must be a peace without victory. . . The equality of nations upon which peace must be founded, if it is to last, must be on equality of rights; the guarantees exchanged must neither recognize nor imply a difference between nations great and small").

After defending slave-holding, the Emperor concluded: "I speak for the friends of humanity in every nation. My voice is that of true liberty throughout the world. These are Brazilian principles, Brazilian policies, and they are the sacred principles of mankind."

(President Wilson said: "I hope and believe that I am in effect speaking for liberals and friends of humanity in every modern nation and of every programme of liberty. . . These are American principles, American policies, and they are also the principles and policies of forward-looking men and women everywhere. They are the principles of mankind and must prevail.")

Mr. Harrison adds that President Lincoln did not reply to the Emperor, and is reported to have said to his secretary: "Take no notice of this hypocritical swagger. The devil might as well preach a sermon that the only Godly peace was to give men and nations free play to break the dead decalogue."

Frederick Harrison was born in London in 1831, and is an essayist, historian, and philosopher of world fame. He was called to the bar in 1858.

The Emperor Pedro II. of Brazil, ascended the throne in 1831, on the abdication of his father, but an army revolution in 1889 forced him from the throne.

Very bad.

"The Bermuda onion crop is a failure."

"Pathetic, isn't it?"

"Does the onion tale bring tears to your eyes?"

Affected Him.

"You giddy thing!"

"Horrid! Why do you say that of me?"

"Because you make my head swim."

SUCCESSFUL SURPRISE ATTACKS CARRIED OUT; FRENCH GET PRISONERS

Squadrons of 'Planes Drop Bombs on Stations.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

PARIS, Feb. 12.—Today's statement says: "In the region of Berry-Au-Bac we blew up with success two mines at Hill 108.

"In the Champagne and Argonne, patrols were active during the night. We carried out two successful surprise attacks which enabled us to take prisoners, one in the Argonne and the other in the sector of Hill 304. Everywhere else the night was calm.

"It is confirmed that a German airplane was brought down on Feb. 10 in an aerial engagement in the region of Etouvelles.

"Last night our squadrons dropped bombs on the railway stations at Stenay Dun-Sur-Meuse and Arbies."

MAJOR O'FLYNN OF 247th BATT. MARRIED TODAY

MISS MARJORIE WATERS, OF BELLEVILLE, HIS BRIDE.

A very quiet wedding took place at the residence of Mr. Donald M. Waters, Belleville, this morning, when his daughter, Marjorie, was united in marriage to Major E. D. O'Flynn, of the 247th Battalion. The ceremony was performed in the presence of the immediate relatives.

Major and Mrs. Flynn left on the noon train for Ottawa and other eastern points, and on their return from the honeymoon will take a suite at the Empress Hotel here.

The best wishes of a host of Peterborough friends are extended to the popular major and his bride.

LOYAL TO SIR SAM HUGHES

At the annual meeting of the County Orange Lodge of East Durham, in County Lodge assembled, it was moved by Bro. George McCartney, seconded by Bro. James Paul, and resolved, "That we, the members of this County Lodge, desire to place upon record our unqualified approval of the acts of our friend and brother, the Hon. Sir Sam Hughes. Born in our county, he has added lustre to this old Dominion. By the exercise of his great abilities he was the only man who could enlist, arm and equip an army of 33,000 men and land them on the shores of England in two months. The same untiring energy and devotion to duty have made our beloved land the envy and admiration of the world. We regret that, owing to that lack of loyal support due him, he was forced to resign as Minister of Militia, but it is with a great amount of satisfaction that we find his great talents, assistance and advice are still at the disposal of the Militia Department. We hope he may be long spared to his country, and pledge him our unqualified support."

COUNCIL WILL DEAL WITH THE COAL PROBLEM

SPECIAL MEETING CALLED BY MAYOR DUFFUS FOR TONIGHT.

Mayor Duffus has called a special meeting of Council for tonight at 7.30 to deal with the coal problem and a resolution will be passed for presentation to the Government and the Munitions Board with the request that everything possible be done to solve the difficulties in transportation to release shipments of coal and other materials.

Work at the Peterborough Planing Mills is held up by the non-arrival of ten cars of lumber used in making munitions boxes. The cars have been stalled for more than a month. The Mayor recognizes that much is being done in a general way to relieve the situation, but what is needed at the present moment is a special effort.

PTE. McDONALD DID NOT RETURN TO HIS HOME

CANNOT BE FOUND AFTER ATTENDING MASS.

WAS SHELL SHOCKED.

BELLEVILLE, Feb. 12. — Mr. and Mrs. William McDonald, residing on McDonald avenue, are anxious as to the whereabouts of their son, Pte. Frank McDonald. On Sunday morning last he attended mass at St. Michael's Church, and has not been seen since that time, and no word of him has been heard. Upon enquiry it has been ascertained that the young man went to church, but left during the service, and has not been seen since. He was at the front, and was invalided home, arriving here a few days days ago after spending some time in the convalescent home at Kingston It was thought that he might have returned to Kingston, but upon investigation it has been ascertained that he had not been there since he left for his home in this city. Pte. McDonald,, although only 18 was tall and well built. At the front he suffered from shell shock and other nervous trouble. After being at the home in Kingston he was granted leave to visit his parents. McDonald, when he left home on Sunday last, was attired in his khaki uniform.

War Time Opening of the Legislature

TORONTO. Feb .12. — Premier Hearst states that owing to the war the opening of the Legislature tomorrow will be a very quiet and simple affair. Last year the public was not admitted to the galleries but this year this rule will be relaxed to some extent, though great care will be exercised with reference to parties admitted to the building. The customary reception after the opening will be dispensed with and new gowns and fine millinery will, it is expected, be noticeably absent. It is felt that a society event such as the opening has been in the past would be out of place in the strenuous times of today.

AVERAGE DAILY EXPENDITURE OF GREAT BRITAIN $28,950,000

MISS ORR'S WILL STILL IN COURT

WILL BOBCAYGEON GET THAT BEQUEST OF $10,000?

TORONTO. Feb. 9. —The interpretation of the will of the late Miss Helen Mary Orr, of Bobcaygeon, was argued and judgment was reserved at Osgoode Hall.

Miss Orr left the greater part of her estate for the promotion of Christian Science, and stipulated that the residue was to be used "for God only." Mr. I. F. Hellmuth, K.C., argued that a gift of $10,000 to be used in the interests of the Mother Church at Boston was of as much benefit as if left to St. James' Cathedral. E. D. Armour attacked the will as being hopelessly indefinite. Every man serving God in his own way, he thought, would be entitled to make claim on the estate.

Miss Orr left some $80,000 to various Christian Science interests, $10,000 to the Village of Bobcaygeon, $10,000 to her mother's and father's kin, and $10,000 for the needy of Chicago. The balance of the estate she left undisposed of.

One claimant claims the estate against all the rest, and is attacking the gifts to Christian Science.

LOST THUMB AND FINGER

Garnet H. Dunford of Burleigh Falls, met with a very severe accident a few days ago which might have proved fatal. He had found a dynamite cap and was engaged in taking the contents out of it when it exploded, injurying the first finger and thumb of his left hand so badly that both had to be amputated at the first point. He is getting along very nicely at present.— Lakefield News.

SINKING SHIP SHELLED BY GERMAN SUBMARINE WHEN S.O.S. WAS SENT OUT

Submersible Dived at Approach of British Sloop.

LONDON, Feb. 11 —The British India liner Mantola, of 8,500 tons, with one American citizen, Earl Rice, ship's surgeon, of Porland, Oregon, aboard, was torpedoer without warning 185 miles south-west of Fastnet on Feb. 8. The crew and passengers, except seven Lascars, were saved. Earl M. Rice of Portland, O., ship's surgeon of the Mantola, and the only American on board her, was among the surviors of the torpedoed steamer who arrived in London this afternoon. He gave the Associated Press the following account of the sinking:—

"The first we knew was the sound of a violent explosion which shook the ship from end to end at 1.40 p.m. on Thursday. The sea was fairly rough, but the ship maintained an even keel and excellent order was preserved. Captain Chavas immediately ordered the boats launched. Seven Lascars were killed by the explosion. The remainder of those on board were unhurt. Everybody got safely into the boats with the exception of the captain, the chief engineer and the wireless operator, who were to follow us later.

S.O.S. Calls Fatal

"Nobody had yet seen the submarine and everybody in the boats was peering into the haze in a vain effort to catch a glimpse of the telltale periscope. An hour and a half after the torpedoing the captain, the engineer and the wireless men got the wireless working and began sending out S.O.S. calls, giving details of the position.

"The reply came almost instantly, but from an unexpected quarter. The submarine, which evidently was lying off in the haze two miles or so away, picked up the wireless and began sheling the mantola from 4,000 yards distance, meanwhile approaching at full speed so that the range rapidly decreased. Some of the shells were loaded with shrapnel which burst about the Mantola and around the life-boats. The latter had returned close to the Mantola, but the sailors now put all their muscle into the oars to increase their distance from the submerine's target. Fortunately nobody was hurt by the shells, although everybody was badly frightened.

British Sloop Appears

"By this time the submarine was painly visible to everybody, her guns emitting angry little flashes as they sent their missiles toward the Mantola. A cool-headed passenger on my boat took out a pocket notebook and carefully marked down a cross every time the submarine fired. His record shows that 47 shells were fired.

"The submarine was within 200 or 300 yards of the Mantola when an unidentified vessel began to loom up on the hazy horizon. The submarine commander decided that discretion was the better part of valor, closed his hatches quickly submerged and disappeared, to the unspeakable relief of us all. The new arrival proved to be a British sloop, which gradually picked up the survivors.

"We were in our boat about six hours. The Mantola sank in the evening."

The British steamer Japanese Prince, with many Americans aboard which was sunk by a German submarine, was torpedoed without warning, according to a despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Co. All the crew were landed, the despatch adds.

A torpedo struck the Japanese Prince amidships with a terrific explsion. The crew took to the boats, and were picked up within an hour. Many were injured by the explosion but none fatally.

The 75 men aboard the ship, including 30 American cattlemen, were saved.

THE EXAMINER ANSWERED.

THE EXAMINER, posing in its favorite role as the friend of the public, shed crocodile tears and in its frenzy of remonstrance tore at its locks when it saw the danger of a fuel famine looming up over the horison. In frantic phrases it called upon the Government to do something. In the same breath it assailed the Government for wasting valuable time and burdening the pupablic records with the taking of a national service census. It declared that the move was simply designed to delude the people into the belief that something was being done. The Examiner never believed that the National Service Commission would ever accomplish anything. The cards would be returned to Ottawa, pigeonholed—perhaps with the Laurier navy plans—and that would be the end of it.

Our contemporary has been confounded by the answer. The national service cards are already bearing fruit. Several hundred men, peculiarly fitted for the proposed task, have been requisitioned to help solve the transportation problem. The railways will be able to secure help to move the thousands of tons of freight that have been tied up for lack of labor to handle it. That is the first result of the recent census; it is one which will work directly and promptly to the relief of the people, and others just as effective and desirable are sure to follow.

True to its maxim of "safety first," The Examiner continues its long-distance methods of warfare, refusing to come to close quarters. It dreads a bayonet engagement with all the instinctive terror of the Teutonic soldiery. It blinks inanely at local iniquity while it works up wrath at the spectacle of sin afar off. The transgressions of Jerusalem it regards with a blinded optic, while it shudders at the very thought of the moral depravity of the Samaritans.

The New Brunswick man who sends foodstuffs out of the country is a rascal who, if the Government would do its duty, would get his desserts on the gallows or in the penitentiary. The local dealer who ships out of the city what could be used here escapes without criticism from the George Street arbiter of human events.

It is a safe venture to take a pot-shot at an idle Canadian officer so long as he is in England. The member of the same class sulking in his tent in Peterborough, The Examiner is never able to see, or seeing, it can evidently perceive nothing amiss.

Much would be forgiven The Examiner if it would only consent to refrain from posing as the apostle of public righteousness. The senseless program of unwarranted abuse which it carries on daily against the Conservative party will yet come back to it with all the force of a boomerang. What sort of a campaign does it expect to precipitate in this riding if the other side resort to reprisals? Everyone knows that The Examiner, for the fifteen years that it found itself on the side of the majority, stood as the champion, the apologist and the subsidized defender of the rottenest system that ever has been written into the annals of Canadian political history; that it helped to keep the lid upon a local cesspool, the stenches of which, when the cover was removed by the present Government, polluted the atmosphere from Halifax to Vancouver.

That is the party that would welcome a war-time election! That the journal that would champion their cause, a party and a journal in which the blotches of political wrongdoing are not even healed over!

The only hope left them, the only reason that they are willing to take a gambler's chance in an election, is that their own misdeeds may look dim in comparison with the evil devices of the Kaiser. The Kiel Canal may engross public interest to the exclusion of the one that traverses the Trent Valley.

ALL THAT IS LEFT.

"AND PETER SAID, Master, we have left all and followed Thee," read the aged Scotch pastor in the Sunday morning lesson to his congregation.

Pausing in his reading to gaze over his glasses at a member of his flock who was noted for his self-righteous assertiveness, he added the following comment with characteristic Celtic bluntness: "A puir all Peter. An auld boat and a few fish nets that you were patching up when you answered the call."

The Kaiser says that Germany has decided to stake all in the war. He has done that from the first, and all that he has now left is not really important when compared to what he has sacrificed. A disappointed and half-famished people, a nation divided against itself, one faction clamoring for peace, the other held in line by sheer force, a discouraged and demoralized army, a navy still in prison—that is the all which the Kaiser is ready to risk on a last throw of the dice.

The bully who provokes a peaceful neighbor to combat cries for quarter when the conflict goes against him. When his cry for peace is unheeded, he is forced to rally his last powers to save himself from utter extinction.

ONE WAY TO SAVE.

THE AMERICAN Bankers' Association have united in an advertising campaign, the expense of which is equally borne by those who take part. The advertisement just issued reads as follows:

"Resolved this first day of January A. D. 1917:

"That I need the assistance of a friendly bank in my efforts to attain financial success; and

"That I will prove my thrift by opening a savings account tomorrow in (home town) bank, in which I promise myself to deposit a definite amount not less than once a month?

"Have you made such a resolution? If not, do it today and then keep it."

We hear a good deal of impracticable discussion in Peterborough these days as to the best way to save. Thrift, of course, is desirable at all times, but especially so at the present. The man who has made a practice of saving part of his income is the one for whom approaching old age has no terrors. But the faddist is abroad. The advocate of the penny banks in schools is on the warpath again. Saving is really a very simple matter if an organized system is adopted. Children should be taught to save, and the place where, they should receive their first lessons in thrift is at home. Give a child a toy bank; let him place in it the pennies which he would otherwise expend in the purchase of comestibles; let him place there anything he is able to earn, and at regular intervals, when he has an amount worth while, let him deposit it to his own credit in the regular savings banks. There are lessons in morality, in ethics and in other branches which it is the duty of the parents, and not of the teacher, to impart.

Penny savings banks in schools are so much lumber added to a curriculum that is already too heavy. They are not fair to the teachers or the banks, and create strife and jealousy among the children themselves by making public property of family matters which should be regarded as sacred.

Two children carry money to school, the one five cents, the other a dollar, and a social distinction is at once established. One child knows the financial standing of another. The legitimate system of banking ensures the secrecy which is so essential. One half the world does not know the amount of the bank account of the other.

SPLITTING HAIRS.

GEORGE WASHINGTON, a colored sailor on a British boat torpedoed by the Hun pirates, was at first supposed to be an American citizen, and the United States made some show in the way of clearing its decks for action against the Germans. Then came the word that Washington was born in Alberta and was really a British subject. The American state officials breathed a sigh of relief and thrust back the sword that had been half drawn from the scabbard. That nation is not required to avenge the death of a mere Canadian.

The nation that prates of the freedom of the seas is splitting diplomatic hairs when it considers the nationality of the victims of these wholesale murders by submarines. The nation that professes to be the last word in the code of civiliaztion and humanity should realize its responsibility when tht life of a citizen of any nation is taken while that citizen is in the peaceful pursuit of his own business. The slaves of the South were of an alien race, but they were engaged in the industrial army of the United States.

The Statute of Liberty at the entrance of New York harbor sheds over the water a light which is figuratively regarded as piercing the farthest corners of the earth. That statute would long since have been blown from its pedestal, and the light, actual and metaphorical, snuffed out forever, if the British navy had not for the past three years maintained in very truth the freedom of the seas so dear to the American heart.

How has a once great nation fallen! Not because of any change in the general character of the people who broke the shackles of three million slaves and saved the colonies of Spain from ruthless taskmasters, but because the executive affairs of the nation are for the time being in the impotent hands of spineless and timid rulers.

SUFFRAGETTES AND RECRUITING.

TWO OF THE MOST prominent suffragettes in Ontario are Mrs. A. M. Huestis and Miss Laura Hughes, both of whom have been heard in this city, and they take exactly opposite positions on the question of conscription. Mrs. Huestis believes that no other method will ever accomplish the end in view, while Miss Hughes says that the Canadians will never submit to force. She cannot see why the young men of the country should be deprived of the honor of enlisting voluntarily.

Canadians have had an opportunity to avail themselves of that honor for the past two years and a half. Those who failed to respond are not over delicate on the question of honor, and every effort to arouse them to a sense of duty and to develop them along these lines has been used to the point of exhaustion.

While Miss Hughes is sentimental, Mrs. Huestis is eminently practical.

WESTERN BANKERS ARE SURPRISED BY THE WEST

Directors See The Peace River Development ---Find Branch Managers Alert---Advice to Farmers

The Directors of the Union Bank of Canada, accompanied by a few invited guests, undertook in 1916 a trip of thirteen days of inspection of Western Canada with reference to business conditions and prospects generally and, specifically, with reference to its own branches extending throughout the Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. Their report says: During this trip we met 192 Branch Managers, with whom the Directors discussed very freely their respective local conditions and prospects. The meteing of these Branch Managers (most of them young, vigorous, intelligent men) to some of us was a revelation. We found them uniformly loyal and enthusiastic workers for the good of the Union Bank, well advised as to their own local conditions, and what was required for the betterment of these conditions as respects mixed farming. The paying of greater attention to stock raising, thereby minimizing the risk with which a business or a community constantly stands in peril by reason of depending upon one crop only.

Thrifty Paying Debts

We saw some very wonderful agricultural development at different points and a very noticeable appearance of thrift and prosperity in the purely agricultural districts among the farmers. We also found a very satisfactory condition prevailing in the larger towns and cities of the West with regard to commercial affairs, which seem to have been reduced to dealings in staple articles and necessities of life rather than the luxuries. In these lines there was reported a very satisfactory volume of business. We also found an enormous amount of liquidation of indebtedness, particularly among the farmers, by reason of the exceptionally large crops of grain, with good prices, during the years of 1915 and 1916.

Railways and Courage

The trip was very interesting to many of the Directors by reason of the passing through of so much new and hitherto, to them, unknown territory, and particularly the Peace River country, which seemed to open up an enormous field for settlement at a later date. The Peace River country is now being invaded by the iron trail under the vigorous auspices of Mr. J. D. McArthur, who has extended the rails of the Edmonton, Dunvegan and British Columbia Railway to Peace River Crossing, and it is to be hoped that he will receive a full measure of reward for the courage he has displayed in this undertaking, and, in this connection, it is only proper to state our hearty appreciation to Mr. McArthur for the many courtesies received at his hands during the progress of this trip.

EDITOR'S MAIL

Editor Review: A lady asked me recently if I could not say a good word for the "informal" evening of the Kitchener Club which is to come off on Wednesday next at the Oriental. I replied that I most certainly could and for the West End Club and all other clubs of that kind.

Knitting socks, caps, mitts and mufflers for the soldiers is no joke but they go right home to the hearts of the men no matter what other parts of the anatomy they may be intended for. My first introduction to the work of the Red Cross in France was at Havre where I saw 150,000 pairs of socks all ready to be sent out. The work of all these organizations is similar and it is vital to the interests of the men. There cannot be too much warm woollen material in autumn, winter and spring, here, in Egland and at the front, and, if we look at it an another way, what sort of a fix would the soldiers be in if it were not for these organizations?

Then think of still another point in that connection. The knitters get reports on the socks, etc., direct from the men and there is sure to be no hitch in the work. It is bound to be satisfactory. Whereas regarding things furnished by the Government; there is not much good complaining, since complaints will serve little useful purpose except to come up in Parliament and furnish food for recriminations.

The public outside the personnel of these clubs should attend every entertainmnt which these clubs get up. The least we can do is to back up gladly and in abundance those who are doing such necessary work without show or the thought of reward other than the comfort of the dear lads overseas.

I am only too proud to say a good word for them and the overseas troops would al say a good word you may be sure, Mr. Editor. The struggle grows worse every day and it is the length and increasing horror of it that tests our faith, our constancy and our good works.

NO COUNTRY LIKE CANADA

(Sir Thomas White in Parliament.)

"Ask any financial man in Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, or any other place you like, if two or three years ago he would have believed the Dominion of Canada would pay her own war expenditures, amounting as it does to the tremendous sum of $1,000,000 a day, and would, in addition to that, have been able to provide $250,000,000 for the Imperial Government for purchasing in Canada. He would have laughed at you. Is there any room for national self-depreciation? Has there been no leadership? The prosperity of this country is today abounding. There is no belligerent country in anything like the condition in which we are, finacially, commercially or industrially. Not a man who will work is out of work in this country today; wages are higher than they have ever been, and yet it is said that there is no leadership."

FLAX STRAW OF WEST IS WASTED, HAS USES

In Paper Industry Would Mean Large Extra Revenue to Farmers Throughout Western Canada

The recovery of waste is not alone a problem of raw material, but of bringing science and skill and mechanical power and transportation to bear on that raw material. Given a unity of these elements, what a field is open to utilizing some of the waste of our Prairie Provinces, writes E. B. Biggar. Take for example, straw. More of the grain straw should be returned to the soil as manure, but the native fertility of the prairies tempt the farmer to ignore this, and much wheat and oat straw is burned for fuel in the thrashers, while flax straw which is not so readily rotted, is burned in the field "to get rid of it." Yet it is from flax fibre that linen fabrics and real linen paper are made, so that a raw material of incalculable value is here lost.

No Chance For Textiles

There are difficulties of a rather obstinate nature in the utilization of the flax straw of the Canadian prairies for linen fabrics. Flax in the Canadian West is grown primarily for flaxseed, which is sold for linseed oil and for the making of oil-cake and other forms of animal food. In growing flax for the linen trade the seed is sown thickly, and the main stalk grows long and straight and unbroken by joints, but there is little yield of seed. Then to get the best results flax is pulled by hand, and not cut with a machine. Hand pulling is out of the question in the West. A linen textile industry is not yet in sight in the Canadian West, except in the use of the short fibres in mixed goods and for special purposes such as linen for medical dressings, etc.

Flax as Basis For Paper

The flax as produced in the West may be used in the paper industry, and here, without question, is a flourishing field for a new Canadian industry. The flax crop of the United States in 1915, grown on 2,200,000 acres, yielded twenty million bushels of seed and 1,600,000 tons of straw. The flax crop of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta in 1915, grown on 801,000 acres, yielded 10,559,000 bushels of seed and about a ton per acre of straw—say 800,000 tons. Of the flax crop of the United States, only about 200,000 tons a year are put to any profitable use, so that 1,400,000 tons a year are wasted. Such a tonnage would, it is estimated, make all the wrapping paper used in the country and double the amount of writing paper used in normal trade, and it would give to the farmers of the United States an annual revenue of $5,000,000 from the raw material now wasted.

The prospects in Canada for a new branch of our paper industry are more favorable than in the United States—first, because the paper industry of Canada, relative to population and wealth, is much greater, and second, because the growth and yield of flax in Canada is greater in proportion to the total tilled area, while at present practically no use is made of the flax straw, except in Ontario, which is not now under consideration.

I crawled softly out through the bushes. Once I looked back and saw the Chatterer still chanting and teetering. It was not a pleasant sight. I knew pretty well how to be cautious, and I was exceedingly careful on this my first journey in the world.

I gave no thought as to where I was going. I had but one purpose, and that was to go away beyond the reach of the Chatterer. I climbed into the trees and wandered on among them for hours, passing from tree to tree and never touching the ground. But I did not go in any particular direction nor did I travel steadily. It was my nature, as it was the nature of all my folk, to be inconsequential. Besides, I was a mere child, and I stopped a great deal to play by the way.

The events that befell me on my leaving home are very vague in my mind. My dreams do not cover them. Much has my other self forgotten, and particularly at this very period. Nor have I been able to frame up the various dreams so as to bridge the gap between my leaving the home tree and my arrival at the caves.

I remember that several times I came to open spaces. These I crossed in great trepidation, descending to the ground and running at the top of my speed. I remember that there were days of rain and days of sunshine, so that I must have wandered alone for quite a time. I especially dream of my misery in the rain and of my sufferings from hunger and how I appeased it. One very strong impression is of hunting little lizards on the rocky top of an open knoll. They ran under the rocks, and most of them escaped, but occasionally I turned over a stone and caught one. I was frightened away from the knoll by snakes. They did not pursue me. They were merely basking on flat rocks in the sun. But such was my inherited fear of them that I fled as fast as if they had been after me.

Then I gnawed bitter bark from young trees. I remember vaguely the eating of many green nuts with soft shells and milky kernels. And I remember most distinctly suffering from a stomach ache. It may have been caused by the green nuts and maybe by the lizards. I do not know. But I do know that I was fortunate in not being devoured during the several hours I was knotted up on the ground with the colic.

My vision of the scene came abruptly as I emerged from the forest. I found myself on the edge of a large clear space. On one side of this space rose up high bluffs. On the other side was the river. The earth bank ran steeply down to the water, but here and there in several places, where at some time slides of earth had occurred, there were runways. These were the drinking places of the folk that lived in the caves.

And this was the main abiding place of the folk that I had chanced upon. This was, I may say, by stretching the word, the village. My mother and the Chatterer and I and a few other simple bodies were what might be termed suburban residents. We were part of the horde, though we lived a distance away from it. It was only a short distance, though it had taken me, what of my wandering, all of a week to arrive. Had I come directly I could have covered the trip in an hour.

But to return. From the edge of the forest I saw the caves in the bluff, the open space and the runways to the drinking places. And in the open space I saw many of the folk. I had been straying, alone and a child, for a week. During that time I had seen not one of my kind. I had lived in terror and desolation. And now, at the sight of my kind, I was overcome with gladness, and I ran wildly toward them.

CHAPTER IV.

THEN it was that a strange thing happened. Some one of the folk saw me and uttered a warning cry. On the instant, crying out with fear and panic, the folk fled away. Leaping and scrambling over the rocks, they plunged into the mouths of the caves and disappeared. * * * all but one, a little baby, that had been dropped in the excitement close to the base of the bluff. He was wailing dolefully. His mother dashed out. He sprang to meet her and held on tightly as she scrambled back into the cave.

I was all alone. The populous open space had of a sudden become deserted. I sat down forlornly and whimpered. I could not understand. Why had the folk run away from me? In later time, when I came to know their ways, I was to learn. When they saw me dashing out of the forest at top speed they concluded that I was being pursued by some hunting animal. By my unceremonious approach I had stampeded them.

As I sat and watched the cave mouths I became aware that the folk were watching me. Soon they were thrusting their heads out. A little later they were calling back and forth to one another. In the hurry and confusion it had happened that all had not gained their own caves. Some of the young ones had sought refuge in other caves. The mothers did not call for them by name, because that was an invention we had not yet made. All were nameless. The mothers uttered querulous, anxious cries, which were recognized by the young ones. Thus, had my mother been there calling to me I should have recognized her voice among the voices of a thousand mothers, and in the same way would she have recognized mine among a thousand.

This calling back and forth continued for some time, but they were too cautious to come out of their caves and descend to the ground. Finally one did come. He was destined to play a large part in my life, and for that matter he already played a large part in the lives of all the members of the horde. It was he whom I shall call Red Eye in the pages of this history—so called because of his inflamed eyes, the lids being always red, and, by the peculiar effect they produced, seeming to advertise the terrible savagery of him. The color of his soul was red.

He was a monster in all ways. Physically he was a giant. He must have weighed 170 pounds. He was the largest one of our kind I ever saw. Nor did I ever see one of the Fire People so large as he, nor one of the Tree People. Sometimes, when in the newspapers I happen upon descriptions of our modern bruisers and prizefighters, I wonder what chance the best of them would have had against him.

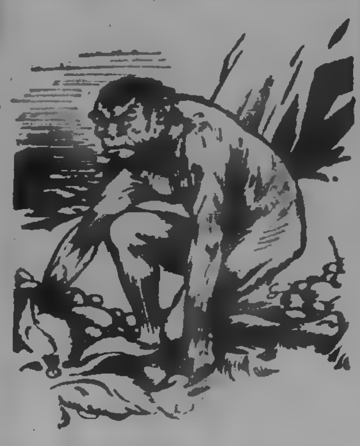
I am afraid not much of a chance. With one grip of his iron fingers and a pull he could have plucked a muscle, say a biceps, by the roots, clear out of their bodies. A backhanded, loose blow of his fist could have smashed their skulls like eggshells. With a sweep of his wicked feet (or hind hands) he could have disemboweled them. A twist could have broken their necks, and I know that with a single crunch of his jaws he could have pierced at the same moment the great vein of the throat in front and the spinal marrow at the back.

He could spring twenty feet horizontally from a sitting position. He was abominably hairy. It was a matter of pride with us to be not very hairy. But he was covered with hair all over, on the inside of the arms as well as the outside, and even the ears themselves. The only places on him where the hair did not grow were the soles of his hands and feet and beneath his eyes. He was frightfully ugly, his ferocious grinning mouth and huge down-hanging under lip being but in harmony with his terrible eyes.

This was Red Eye. And right gingerly he crept out of his cave and descended to the ground. Ignoring me, he proceeded to reconnoiter. He bent forward from the hips as he walked, and so far forward did he bend and so long were his arms that with every step he touched the knuckles of his hands to the ground on either side of him. He was awkward in the semi-erect position of walking that he assumed, and he really touched his knuckles to the ground in order to balance himself. But, oh, I tell you he could run on all fours. Now, this was something at which we were particularly awkward. Furthermore it was a rare individual among us who balanced himself with his knuckles when walking. Such an individual was an atavism, and Red Eye was an even greater atavism.

That is what he was—an atavism. We were in the process of changing our tree life to life on the ground. For many generations we had been going through this change, and our bodies and carriage had likewise changed. But Red Eye had reverted to the more primitive tree dwelling type. Perforce because he was born in our horde he stayed with us, but in actuality he was an atavism, and his place was elsewhere.

Very circumspect and very alert, he moved here and there about the open space, peering through the vistas among the trees and trying to catch a glimpse of the hunting animal that all suspected had pursued me. And while he did this, taking no notice of me, the folk crowded at the cave mouths and watched.



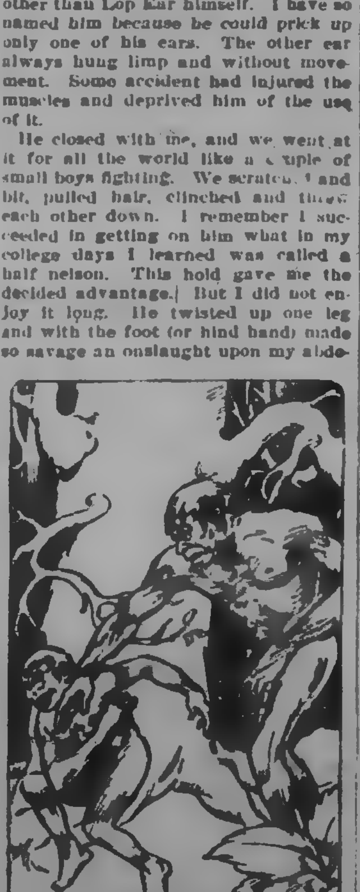
It Was He Whom I Shall Call Red Eye.

At last he evidently decided that there was no danger lurking about. He was returning from the head of the runway, from where he had taken a peep down at the drinking place. His course brought him near, but still he did not notice me. He proceeded casually on his way until abreast of me, and then, without warning and with incredible swiftness, he smote me a buffet on the head. I was knocked backward fully a dozen feet before I fetched up against the ground, and I remember, half stunned, even as the blow was struck hearing the wild uproar of clucking and shrieking laughter that arose from the caves. It was a great joke, at least in that day, and right heartily the folk appreciated it.

Thus was I received into the horde. Red Eye paid no further attention to me, and I was at liberty to whimper and sob to my heart's content. Several of the women gathered curiously about me, and I recognized them. I had encountered them the preceding year when my mother had taken me to the hazel nut canyons.

But they quickly left me alone, being replaced by a dozen curious and teasing youngsters. They formed a circle around me, pointing their fingers, making faces and poking and pinching me. I was frightened, and for a time I endured them, then anger got the best of me, and I sprang tooth and nail upon the most audacious one of them—none other than Lop Ear himself. I have so named him because he could prick up only one of his ears. The other ear always hung limp and without movement. Some accident had injured the muscles and deprived him of the use of it.

He closed with me, and we went at it for all the world like a couple of small boys fighting. We scratched and bit, pulled hair, clinched and threw each other down. I remember I succeeded in getting on him what in my college days I learned was called a half nelson. This hold gave me the decided advantage. But I did not enjoy it long. He twisted up one leg and with the foot (or hind hand) made so savage an onslaught upon my abdomen as to threaten to disembowel me. I had to release him in order to save myself, and then we went at it again.



He Smote Me a Buffet on the Head.

Lop Ear was a year older than I, but I was several times angrier than he, and in the end he took to his heels. I chased him across the open and down a runway to the river. But he was better acquainted with the locality and ran along the edge of the water and up another runway. He cut diagonally across the open space and dashed into a wide mouthed cave.

Before I knew it I had plunged after him into the darkness. The next moment I was badly frightened. I had never been in a cave before. I began to whimper and cry out. Lop Ear chattered mockingly at me and, springing upon me unseen, tumbled me over. He did not risk a second encounter, however, and took himself off. I was between him and the entrance, and he did not pass me; yet he seemed to have gone away. I listened, but could get no clew as to where he was. This puzzled me, and when I regained the outside I sat down to watch.

He never came out of the entrance, of that I was certain; yet at the end of several minutes he chuckled at my elbow. Again I ran after him, and again he ran into the cave, but this time I stopped at the mouth. I dropped back a short distance and watched. He did not come out, yet, as before, he chuckled at my elbow and was chased by me a third time into the cave.

The performance was repeated several times. Then I followed him into the cave, where I searched vainly for him. I was curious. I could not understand how he eluded me. Always he went into the cave, never did he come out of it, yet always did he arrive there at my elbow and mock me. Thus did our fight transform itself into a game of hide and seek.

All afternoon, with occasional intervals, we kept it up, and a playful, friendly spirit arose between us. In the end he did not run away from me, and we sat together with our arms around each other. A little later he disclosed the mystery of the wide mouthed cave. Holding me by the hand he led me inside. It connected by a narrow crevice with another cave, and it was through this that we regained the open air.

We were now good friends. When the other young ones gathered around to tease he joined with me in attacking them, and so viciously did we behave that before long I was let alone. Lop Ear made me acquainted with the village. There was little that he could tell me of conditions and customs—he had not the necessary vocabulary, but by observing his actions I learned much and also he showed me places and things.

He took me up the open space between the caves and the river and into the forest beyond, where in a grassy place among the trees we made a meal of stringy rooted carrots. After that we had a good drink at the river and started up the runway to the caves.

It was in the runway that we came upon Red Eye again. The first I knew Lop Ear had shrunk away to one side and was crouching low against the bank. Naturally and involuntarily I imitated him. Then it was that I looked to see the cause of his fear. It was Red Eye, swaggering down the center of the runway and scowling fiercely with his inflamed eyes. I noticed that all the youngsters shrank away from him as we had done, while the grownups regarded him with wary eyes when he drew near and stepped aside to give him the center of the path.

As twilight came on the open space was deserted. The folk were seeking the safety of the caves. Lop Ear led the way to bed. High up the bluff we climbed, higher than all the other caves, to a tiny crevice that could not be seen from the ground. Into this Lop Ear squeezed. I followed with difficulty, so narrow was the entrance, and found myself in a small rock chamber. It was very low—not more than a couple of feet in height and possibly three feet by four in width and length. Here, cuddled together in each other's arms, we slept out the night.

While the more courageous of the youngsters played in and out of the large mouthed caves I early learned that such caves were unoccupied. No one slept in them at night. Only the crevice mouthed caves were used, the narrower the mouth the better. This was from fear of the preying animals that made life a burden to us in those days and nights.

THE NEW CAMISOLES

HELPS FOR THE GIRL WHO MAKES HER OWN LINGERIE.

It is natural that every girl should crave dainty underwear, but it is usually impossible for the average girl to buy the attractive models shown in the shops. By making her own garments a girl can acquire some of those things which she has long admired.

There is a variety of material from which the home sewer can make selections. Nainsook, fine lawns, silk muslin, crepe de chine and Italian silk are all admirable.

Hemstitching is a successful means for elaborating underwear. It is practical, too, in that it can be done so cheaply by machine, and it wears much better than lace. If one has the time hand embroidery is especially appropriate for underwear, particularly in these days of sheer blouses. An expensive blouse or frock is marred by shabby underwear or underwear which is cheap and showy.

The liberty to wear colored underwear has misled some girls. They abuse the right and make themselves conspicuous by wearing beneath thin bloused camisoles or chemises of brilliant pinks and blues. Now either color in a dainty shade is rather attractive and lends beauty to a blouse or dress.

One little tip in the making of the chemise or camisole may prove helpful to the home sewer. That is to be sure to place the shoulder straps sufficiently over the shoulders to prevent them from slipping, thus causing much annoyance to the wearer. Pin them on first and see if they fit comfortably.

Embroidered shoulder straps are a feature of many new chemises. These are sometimes edged with lace. Ribbon straps are very much in favor too.

A chemise which is so simple that a child could make it is made from a straight piece of material folded in half the length of the goods. The sides are stitched down to within a few inches of the bottom, and the top is finished with beading, lace or whatever one wishes to use. Along the folded line the material is cut to form holes large enough for the feet to pass through. The bottom at the sides can be shaped if desired, and the rough edges can be concealed with lace or beading. A touch of hand embroidery across the front and the addition of shoulder straps are all that are needed to complete the garment.

Cocoanut Cream Candy.

One cocoanut, one and one-half pounds granulated sugar. Put sugar and milk of cocoanut together, heat slowly until sugar is melted; then boil five minutes, add cocoanut (finely grated), boil ten minutes longer, stir constantly to keep from burning. Pour on buttered plates, cut in squares. Will take about two days to harden. Use prepared cocoanut when other can not be had.

For Silk Stockings.

Paraffin rubbed over the heels, toe and soles of silk stockings makes the threads stronger and doubles their wearing quality.

MENDING HUBBY'S CLOTHES

It makes all the difference in the world to the way a man is "turned out" if his wife knows just how to mend his clothes and keep them in order.

Darning That Can't be Seen

If a man tears a jagged rent in a coat, or some other garment, with a look of despair on his face he's almost certain to declare, "Now that coat's done for!" But it is just then that the really clever little needlewoman steps in with a "Not a bit of it, John! I'll be able to mend it so that the rent is scarcely visible!" This is how it is done. First of all, a wee bit of the coat lining is unstitched, and from the small edges of the material left over at the seams a few threads are pulled out. Now comes the most delicate task of all—the darning of the rent with the threads worked in exactly the same direction as the weave of the material.

The Size of the Stitches

Size your stitches so that they are about the same length as those used in the weave of the cloth, and be careful not to draw them too tight. With the tear neatly darned, a damp cloth should be placed over the repair, and then it is pressed with a very hot iron. Be quite sure that the cloth is wet, and don't on any account go on with the pressing after it has become dry, or else you'll make the coat shiny. You'll be delighted and surprised with the result. Truly, it's very difficult to find the rent.

Patches That Last

When repairing men's underclothes, circular patches are by far the most durable. As they are round, they don't strain any of the rest of the garment unduly. Commence by cutting out a round piece of good material; it should be large enough to quite cover any threadbare portions. Then lay your patch in position. Start running stitches in a very tiny circle in the middle of the patch, and continue rounds of these stitches until you have come to the edge of the patch. Such a renovation will last for years.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

BY JOHN W. S. McCULLOUGH, M.D., D.P.H., CHIEF OFFICER OF THE PROVINCIAL BOARD OF HEALTH.

INFANT WELFARE—ARTICLE No. 2.

The Mother.

THE MOTHER should endeavor to maintain her health to the highest point before and after the baby's birth. She should do no heavy work for at least four weeks after the baby's birth. Particularly she should not work out. If she has any headache, puffiness of the face and legs, indigestion or vomiting, she should realize that these are not the necessary accompaniments of pregnancy, but that they are indications of something wrong, and that she should AT ONCE consult a capable physician and have the condition remedied. She should eat easily digested but good substantial food; keep her bowels regular, have plenty of outdoor air, light exercise, and at least eight hours sleep in a well-aired room. People are too afraid of fresh air. Some houses are shut up so continuously that it is a wonder the people living in them can be healthy. After the baby is born the mother's chief care should be directed to her child's welfare.

Nursing the Baby.

The mother's milk is the baby's best food. Nearly every mother should be able to nurse her baby, and she should have every encouragement to persevere in breast feeding for four or five months at least. If she works out she cannot nurse the baby, and as a consequence artificial food, such as cow's milk or the expensive proprietary preparations are used, with the common result that the baby gets diarrhoea and frequently dies. The first great requisite then is, that to the mother must be left the care of the baby.

Artificial Food.

If for any reason the mother is unable to breast feed her baby, artificial food must be used either partly or entirely. Then we are obliged to seek and recommend the best form of artificial food, but before doing so, physician, nurse, and mother must exhaust every means to keep up the breast supply. Do not try to do this by the use of beer, stout, wine, or any form of alcoholics. These articles do not improve the breast food, and besides they are bad for the baby.

The best artificial food is cow's milk modified to suit the needs of the growing child. The milk should be carefully selected. It should be the product of clean, healthy, well-kept cows. Certified milk is expensive, and if such milk cannot be procured then the raw milk should be pasteurised or boiled. Some authorities claim that boiled milk is more easily digested than raw milk. If raw, pasteurized, or boiled milk is used it should be modified as follows:

THE FORMULA—1st Month.

A full-term baby will usually take in twenty-four hours:—

Cream—Two ounces.
Skimmed Milk—Two ounces.
Boiled Water—Twelve ounces.
Sugar of Milk—Six level teaspoonfuls.

The sugar of milk should be dissolved in a few ounces of boiled water. Place this in a pitcher, add the cream, the skimmed milk, and the balance of the boiled water, and stir with a spoon. This mixture should preferably be put in twelve separate bottles and placed in an ice-box, or kept in the pitcher and added to the bottle as used. The baby should during the first month have a bottle every two hours from say four in the morning to ten at night. The food should be warmed by sitting the bottle in hot water to warm it to a comfortable heat. It should be fed through a large rubber nipple which fits snugly over the neck of the bottle. Needless to say it is important that bottles, nipples, and all utensils used should be kept scrupulously clean. Too great care cannot be taken in this regard.

Formula for Second Month:—

Cream—Five ounces.
Skimmed Milk—Five ounces.
Boiled Water—Twenty ounces.
Sugar of Milk—Four level tablespoonfuls.

Formula for Third Month:—

Cream—Six ounces.
Skimmed Milk—Six ounces.
Boiled Water—Twenty ounces.
Sugar of Milk—Four level tablespoonfuls.

Money in Ontario.

Hon. T. W. McGarry, Provincial Treasurer, has sold $2,000,000 ten-year, five-per-cent. gold bonds of the Province of Ontario at 99.578. This is considered an exceedingly favorable transaction for the Province, and having regard to financial conditions at the present time compares well with recent federal and municipal issues in Canada; indeed it is said to be the highest figure obtained during the year for any like issue. The loan was placed by public tender, and the proceeds will be used to carry on to completion several important public works, principally the further extension of the Hydro-Electric system, which has already proved its soundness by meeting all fixed charges together with a stated amount for depreciation and renewals of plant, and withal enabling the Commission to make important reductions in the price of power to many municipalities, where the consumption has brought about a reduction in operating cost.

"Wonderful! How do you account for it?"

"Well, for one thing he didn't go out on the run that day."

WAR FUNCTIONS OF OPPOSITION

"How far does the fact that the nation is at war, and fighting for its whole future, affect the constitutional duty of His Majesty's Opposition? We suggest that this grave fact affects only some of the methods of the Opposition, not its essential principles of action. It is not at all the duty of the Opposition, though the Tapers and Tadpoles of politics are apt to think so, to try to turn out the Government to lower its credit in the country, or to obstruct its acts. Except at those points at which the Opposition considers the Government policy to be seriously in the wrong, and about which the Opposition proclaims an alternative policy of its own, it is the duty of the Opposition—as Wellington and Peel, Russell and Gladstone repeatedly explained—loyally to support the Government, and to maintain its authority. Only when the Opposition considers that the Government is failing not merely to take the right course, but failing also to take the course desired by the electorate, is the Opposition warranted in attacking the very existence of a government which has ceased, as it is claimed, to be carrying out the popular will. Now, with regard to the energetic conduct of the war, the Front Opposition Bench has no disagreement with the Government, and it does not pretend that the Government is not carrying out the wishes of the great majority of the nation. It has therefore, on the main subject of the day, no ground for difference, no justification for any action tending to weaken the Government, least of all for seeking to turn the Government out of office. Moreover, so far as the administration relates to military or naval affairs, and even to the relations with our Allies or our opponents in the war, it is practically impossible to criticize publicly any mistakes or shortcomings without imperilling national interest. Thus, over a large part of the field of action, war suspends the critical function of the Opposition, and puts upon it the patriotic duty of strengthening, instead of opposing the Government."—From "The New Statesman."

Only There is a Difference.

"I notice one thing."

"What is it?"

"A woman always judges of the beauty of a piece of wearing apparel by the price."

"Well, I, too, have observed that when the wearing apparel is his wife's a man applies the price test too."

CAPABLE QUEENS

Royal Ladies Who Could Earn Their Livings

Queen Elizabeth of Belgium, for instance, possesses a doctor's diploma of the University of Leipzig. Besides she is an excellent musician and plays piano and violin with great skill. Failing to obtain jobs in these lines she would make a good taxi-cab driver.

Queen Mary of England paints, sings, and is clever with her needle. Queen Victoria Augusta of Germany is a specialist with the camera and produces a special kind of art photo. Queen Wilhelmina of Holland paints miniatures and porcelain, while Queen Maud of Norway is a distinguished playwright, using the pseudonym of Graham Irving. She is also a competent bookbinder, dressmaker, and painter.

"Carmen Sylva" (Queen Elizabeth of Roumania) is a world-famous poetess and novelist. Helena, Queen of Italy, has jokingly remarked that, in case of need, she could easily earn $400 a week in the music halls of London or New York as an expert swimmer and riflewoman. What is less known, she is a devoted archeologist.

Simple Frock For Little Girl

Simplicity in children's frocks seems to be the fashion, and very sensible it is, as well as beautiful.

The little pinafore frock pictured is of white cotton jean with a band of dark red cotton around the bottom and about the elbow sleeves, headed with dull blue braid of different widths.

A white cap of Turkish towelling trimmed to match the dress gives an individual touch to this little costume which can entirely be made by any mother.

ODDS AND ENDS OF NEWS

BARLEY IN THE WEST

Crop to Which Western Farmers Should Give More Attention

There is hardly any crop which the West can produce more easily and successfully than barley. The average yield over a period of many years has not been large owing to the conditions under which it has been grown, but wherever barley has been given definite and careful cultivation, yields of 50 to 65 bushels per acre are comparatively common. Even at the low prices which have prevailed in recent years, yields such as these would mean a very profitable return per acre. There is every reason to believe that the general price of barley will be higher for some years to come in spite of the fact that there is less of it being used for malting purposes. It is not the high prices paid for fancy barley that would make it an attractive crop to the farmers of Western Canada so much as the demand for it for both bread and feed in countries other than our own. Britain has not only the same need for barley that she had before the war, but a greater need and there is no reason why Canada should not supply that need. Britain likes barley-fed bacon, prefers it to American corn-fed. Canada has the hogs, or can raise them with ease and can raise the barley to feed them with equal ease, so that either as a crop to feed or a grain to export barley is well worth considering. Instead of scrambling to put in wheat on half prepared ground, why not reduce the wheat acreage, give a greater preparation to the land and seed an increased area of barley, using the best and cleanest seed obtainable?—Winnipeg Free Press.

RULED EIGHT TRIBES

Late Hon. Francis Ogletree of Portage Was a Pioneer

The death took place at the family residence of Hon. Francis Ogletree, one of the oldest and most respected citizens of Portage la Prairie, and one of the pioneers of Manitoba. The late Mr. Ogletree came to Canada in 1831, living in the eastern provinces until the spring of 1869, when he started for Manitoba. This journey was made with T. W. Boddy under very trying circumstances, there being no railroad then into Winnipeg. Mr. Ogletree took up land in Portage district and three months later went to Ontario and brought out his wife and family. On March 10, 1871, the first Legislative Council of Manitoba was formed and Mr. Ogletree was one of the members and remained in the Council until its abolition six years later.

Some time after he was appointed to the position of Indian agent which he filled for 20 years. Although his term extended over a troublous period, including the second Riel Rebellion, he never had any trouble with the eight tribes under his jurisdiction. During the years since his settlement in Portage Mr. Ogletree was one of the greatest and most dominating forces in the upbuilding and development of Manitoba.

REPULPING PAPER

How White Paper Can be Reproduced Again by Invention

An inventor in the United States has discovered a means of utilising a waste digester liquor for removing ink and color from waste news and without discoloring the fibre, so that the paper may be repulped. "I have discovered," he says, "that by subjecting waste print paper, either in a pulped state or in the whole, to the action of spent digester liquors, under any temperature, for the space of one hours or more, then washing the pulp with fresh water, all ink or coloring matter that may be in the paper will be entirely removed, and without discoloring the fibres of the mechanical wood pulp, leaving the same fit to be re-made into white apper. If the waste paper be first pulped, it may be charged into a beater vat filled with either of these spent digester liquors, and by the action of the beating engine all ink or coloring matter will be entirely freed from the pulp. The solvent may then be drained off and the pulp washed in fresh water, leaving the same in a state to be remade into white paper."

LABOR MAN AS SENATOR

Telegrapher Robertson Was First Representative in Upper House

Gideon D. Robertson, of Welland, was the first representative of organized labor who was appointed to the Dominion Senate. He was a telegrapher and probably the most influential man in the Canadian railway organizations. The Hon. Mr. Crothers had been anxious to see labor represented in the Senate and the late Harvey Hall was slated for the Upper Chamber, but died just before the appointment was to have been made. The value of the presence of a labor representative in Parliament who does not have to make a deal with any party in order to get elected may be considerable, but the curious anomaly existed in that the labor organizations had contended that the Senate should be abolished. Senator Robertson's appointment was largely the result of services in the settlement of a C.P.R. strike in the West.

Buy at Home

Every day $100,000 is spent by the people of this province, says a British Columbia writer, for goods brought in from the outside - goods which could be purchased at home in quality just as good and for just as little money. Are you doing what you can to remedy this deplorable condition? Do you always ask for Canadian goods, or do you carelessly take what is offered, or, worse still, insist on the foreign article? Create a demand for the home article by refusing to buy the foreign.

LUMBER ORDERS FOR B.C.

British Admiralty Awards Contracts For Over Sixteen Million Feet

Large contracts for lumber, aggregating 16,500,000 feet, exclusive of an open order for all the clear spruce available, have been placed by the Imperial Government with British Columbia mills. Victoria, Vancouver and Chemainus mills will supply two cargoes of railroad ties ordered by the British Admiralty through a San Francisco house, this order approximating 7,000,000 feet. Another order has been placed direct by the British Government for 3,500,000 feet of lumber, 2,000,000 feet of which will be clear fir, the remainder being heavy timbers, which will be shipped through to St. John, N.B., and handled from that point by British transports. In addition a third order has been placed by the Admiralty for 500,000 box shooks, approximating 6,000,000 feet. The total output of clear spruce for airplane manufacture and shipments are being sent overseas as fast as the mills can supply this class of lumber. The new orders are welcomed by the mills because the placing of these contracts with the British Columbia mills will assure steady operation for some months to come.

Dangerous Icy Sidewalks

How many villages, towns and cities have had suits begun against them in the past for injuries caused by icy sidewalks? queries the Western Municipal News. How many know what power the municipality has to remove snow and ice where the property owner has not done so and where they may charge the costs? Use your power, clean the sidewalks, save damage suits.

The Capacious Cow

To be capacious the dairy cow must be long from shoulder to hip bones, have well-sprung and deep ribs, giving sufficient space for the storage of much food. In addition the body should be covered with hide that is soft and pliable, which in turn is covered with hair that is soft and silky. This texture indicates power of digestion, and, coupled with size of barrel, means great capacity.

WESTERN HORSE INDUSTRY

E. W. McLean, of Winnipeg, gave a practical talk on the present and future outlook of the horse market in the West. After sketching the history of horses in Manitoba as conditions were 15 years ago, Mr. McLean said that the three types of horse that he found most saleable were the draft, agricultural and delivery horse. The first should have good feet and legs, weight 1,650 to 2,000 pounds and stand 15.3 to 17 hands high. Agricultural horses were good sellers in the spring; they should range from 15.2 to 16.2 hands and weigh from 1,400 to 1,600 pounds. There was also a demand for farm chunks weighing 1,200 to 1,400 pounds. Delivery horses had to have good feet and legs to stand city pavements, and also plenty of style and action. Light delivery horses should weigh 1,100 to 1,300 pounds. Heavy delivery or express horses from 1,300 to 1,400 pounds.

SANCTITY OF BALLOT

One of the first duties of the newer Canadian citizenship is instruction in the meaning and sanctity of the franchise—not so much its extension as a better appreciation of what it means on the part of those already possessing it. But this, after all, depends in a large measure upon the independence and intelligence of the individual voter, which again depends upon native character and public opinion. Up until quite recently, we citizens generally have never heartily approved of either the independent candidate or vote. Quite frequently we talked of independence, that is, when there was no election in sight, and probably boast of our own independence, but when the elections came along, or any measure came up for public discussion, we scurried away to our several party camps and awaited orders. Independence! Bah! We were so thoroughly wedded to our own particular party that nothing else would do, and we liked to know that when we died the editor of our particular party journal would note in our obituary that we had been a lifelong Conservative or Liberal—rather than to simply state we had been good citizens (though both statements might be said with truth). The fact is, that our party affiliations stood for citizenship. But party loyalty, as we have had it, has too often degenerated into something totally hostile to the true purpose of the secret ballot and its purpose will never be achieved until we recognize the necessity for an intelligent, independent electorate, and have a really consecrated discharge of this greatest of all privileges of citizenship—marking our ballots.—E. K. Marshall, B.A.

WOMEN CHAUFFEURS

Self-starters Tempt Women to Drive Cars

Considering the fact that only a short time ago the sight of a woman sitting at the wheel of a big machine was quite a novelty, the number of lady motorists who now act as their own chauffeurs has increased surprisingly fast. It is not an uncommon thing nowadays to see a woman, in many cases slips of girls, manœuvring big machines through the downtown section during the business traffic hours.

Many things have occurred in the development of the motor car to account for the increase in the number of women drivers. Probably the most important of the new features which have been added to the automobile of recent years and which has done more than anything else to promote the sport of motoring fr the ladies, is the self-starter. The fear that their machine might get stalled and that they would be unable to get it home, prevented many women from taking a chance alone in an automobile.

Now the pressure of a button when a machine "stalls," and the engine is whirring again; the driver slips into low gear, lets in the clutch, and away goes the machine. The knowledge that as long as there is any gasoline in the tank they will be able to start their car, has induced many women to take up the sport.

FOR THE HOME COOK

Cheese Croquettes

Melt three tablespoons of butter, add a quarter of a cup of flour, and two-thirds of a cup of hot milk. When boiling stir in the beaten yolks of two eggs. Remove from fire, add one cup and a half of grated cheese, salt, and cayenne. Cool, shape, crumb, and fry in deep fat.

Curried Chicken Livers

Clean the livers thoroughly. Cook in boiling water for fifteen minutes, drain and brown in bacon fat. Remove the livers, put one ounce of butter with the small quantity of fat left in the pan, and brown in it two level tablespoonfuls of flour. When brown pour in one cupful of hot stock and season with salt, pepper, and curry. Reheat the livers in the sauce and serve at once.

To Make Egg Vermicelli

Take three hard-cooked eggs, one teaspoon of flour, four slices of toast, half a teaspoon of salt, one cup of milk, speck of pepper, two tablespoons of butter; prepare the eggs by general rule, prepare the toast, prepare the sauce (white); separate the yolks from the white, cut the white into fine pieces, a quarter of an inch square, mix with the sauce and pour over the toast; garnish with the yolks rubbed through a strainer over the whole; parsley may be used to garnish.

Tasty Apple Fritters

Beat one egg to a froth till it is very light, add half a cup of milk, two-thirds of a cup of flour, beat until smooth; one teaspoon baking powder, chop two large apples, add to the batter, and fry in boiling lard. Drain well and serve hot, powdered with castor sugar.

Delicious Cocoanut Ice

¼ pound of cocoanut, put into a basin, pour over it two wineglassfuls of milk, let it stand one night to soak. Put into a pan one and a half pound of sugar with one and a half wineglassful of milk; let it simmer till it thickens, stirring all the time; add the soaked cocoanut, boil ten minutes. Pour half on buttered tin, add cochineal to other, then pour on to white. Cut in stripe when cold.

APROPOS of honesty being the best policy, there are those who esteem success as going honesty one better on that score.

Common sense offers the best security for getting on in any undertaking.

The limelight doesn't deter a really energetic, self seeking, determined man from using his best efforts.

The man who does the thinking act isn't often cheered by the gallery gods.

The man who talks a lot about his own good qualities probably recognizes the necessity for thus boosting them.

Some men do as they like, but expect their wives to reverse the operation and like as they do.

Keep on good terms with yourself and you may possibly get an occasional favor.

The inquisitive individual who insists on butting in should not be surprised and hurt at an occasional knockout.

We sometimes think that a dollar doesn't go very far, but most of them get so far away that they never get back.

Probably the salvation of the race is the fact that women just won't keep still.

St. Catharines Police Court has become a quiet place since the Ontario Temperance Act went into effect. The first case for the whole of last week came up on Saturday.

SUCCESS OUTSIDE KUT

LONDON, Feb. 12 (Official).—After a heavy bombardment, a successful assault was undertaken against trenches west of the licorice factory, which Gen. Townhend held throughout the siege of Kut, whereby we secured the factory and 500 yards of enemy trenches.

"As a result of these operations a new line has been occupied on a frontage of over 6,000 yards, and the enemy pushed back for a depth varying from 800 to 1,200 yards. All the evidence shows that the Turks suffered heavily."

Scene from "Aladdin and His Wonderful Lamp," the big English pantomime, which made such a hit here on January 20th, and which returns for two performances on Saturday next. Mail orders are now being received.

Queen Bess' War Loan

Apropos of the great "Win the War" loan in England, a letter written by a famous "Elizabethan Gossip" deals with the great loan of 1598 as follows:—

"The loan of 150,000 L makes many of our citizens shrincke and pull in their hornes, but yet it goes forward, and they must furnish it."

Brantford aimed at $150,00 for the Patriotic Fund and in a three days' campaign made it $158,000.

London Shaves

Coaldealers and their clamorous customers placed their hopes in a heavy Sunday traffic, but the Grank Trunk brought into London Sunday only seven cars of hard coal and three of soft coal. The outlook for the coming week is therefore one [illegible] little alleviation of the trouble [illegible] the coal shortage.

Four anonymous letters have been received at the Chatham post office during the past two days, in each of which threats have been made that the office would be blown up.

THE TRADES AND LABOR COUNCIL

SOME NOTES BY OFFICIAL SCRIBE.

The Trades and Labor Council of Peterborough are to be congratulated on having prevailed upon Mr. J. J. Hartley to once again become its president. It is due in no small measure to his untiring zeal and devotion to the interests of labor that the Trades and Labor Council held the prestige and exerts the influence it does today. In the face of rebuffs and setbacks, not alone from the capitalistic side, that few men would have withstood, he has "stuck to his guns" and fought for the interests of organized labor through thick and thin. It was during his previous years in the chair that the most rapid strides were made in the local Council, and he should have the unflagging and whole-hearted support of every delegate and every organization in his present term of office.

President Hartley has a good live set of officers with him in the following:—

Vice President—A. J. Bolwell.
Cor. sec.—W. Stevens.
Sec.treas—G. L. Myland
Sergeant-at-arms—D. Wires.
Official Scribe—A. B. Meyer.
Auditors—Messrs. Frost, Browne, and Meyer.
Hall trustees—Messrs. J. J. Hartley, H. Gainey, W. Crowe, H. Stenton and W. A. Davis.
Executive—Messrs. Sharp, Wires, and Frost.
Chairman Municipal and Legislative Committee—W. Crowe

Vice-President A. J. Bolwell is president of the Peterborough Typographical Union, and is a rising young labor man of much promise, possessing more than ordinary capabilities. He is one of those who dares to say what he thinks, and act as he thinks.

Secretary W. Stevens, of the Bricklayers and Masons Union, is one of the old "stand-bys" of the Council, and promises in the coming year to out-Stevens Stevens in the amount of work he has mapped out for him.

Locals are hereby requested to insist upon a regular attendance of all their delegates, and any who are dilatory should be deposed.

A full and progressive program will be carried out in the coming year, with particular work for the municipal and legislative committee, under the chairmanship of W. Crowe, and good results are looked for—and will be secured if locals see that their delegates are "live" ones.

The coming year will be the most momentous in the whole history of organized labor, and opportunities are before them now which were never there before and never will be again. If these opportunities are missed now, they will be missed for all time, and the worker will regret not having taken advantage of them.

Next meeting, Feb. 21.

THE DIARY OF A BABY

Yelled fifteen minutes without taking breath.

Pulled out enough hair from his uncle's head and whiskers to stuff a pillow.

Swallowed six buttons and a good deal of a reel of cotton.

Emptied the contents of his mother's workbasket into the fireplace.

Tried to squeeze the head of a cat into a tin cup and was scratched badly in the attempt.

Knocked the head off a fine wax doll belonging to his elder sister by trying to drive a tack into a toy wagon with it.

Broke two panes of window glass with a walking stick which his uncle let him have.

Fell into the coal scuttle and spoiled his new white dress.

Set fire to the carpet while his uncle was out of the room hunting up something to amuse him.

Got twisted into the rungs of a chair, which had to be broken to get him out.

Poured a jugful of water into his mother's best shoes.

Finally, when he saw his mother coming, he ran out to the porch and tumbled off the steps, damaging his little person and tearing a hole a foot square in his dress.

MANITOBA'S GREAT LOSS

THE WESTERN PROVINCE SHOWS HUGE RETURNS IN PRODUCE.

Says an Eastern farm paper: Press comments continue to come to hand which indicate that the New Brunswick Department of Agriculture made no mistake in obtaining the services of Prof. J. W. Mitchell. The Manitoba correspondent for "Hoard's Dairyman" an influential agricultural journal published in the United States, makes the following statement concerning Professor Mitchell: "The retirement of Professor Mitchell from the position of Superintendent of Dairying for the province of Manitoba is very discouraging to the dairy industry of the province. A survey of the development of this industry during the tenure of his office indicates somewhat of his ability, but what indicates most emphatically that he should not be lost is the remarkable improvement in the quality of the dairy products of the province of Manitoba and their gaining popularity in outside markets, and also that he has earned the enmity of unscrupulous milk and cream shippers through his endeavor to enforce the provincial act referring to shipping milk and cream, and in his endeavor to improve the quality of dairy products."

TRAPPIST MONKS' DAIRY PRODUCT

THEIR CHEESE, MADE AT OKA, IS INTERNATIONALLY FAMOUS.

The Trappist Monastery at Oka, Quebec, destroyed by fire recently, has had a singularly disastrous experience, this being the fourth fire from which it has suffered since the inception of this branch of the order back in the forties. The Oka Trappists were located at La Trappe, a pretty village situated several miles inland from Oka, which is a stopping place for the boats plying the Ottawa River. The one hundred Trappists who comprise both fully professed priests and lay brothers conduct a farm of several thousand acres and the buildings now said to be completely in ruins represented the labors of their own hands, supplemented by the work of those whom the monks hire from the outside, for fully seventy men and boys are given constant employment in summer. The cheese, which is their principal product, is sold in immense quantities throughout Canada and the United States.

The group of buildings comprise a large guest house, which is usually full during the summer season, a handsome chapel about sixty feet in width and fully two hundred feet deep; the living quarters of the monks, which include a valuable library, refectory, rest rooms, and the common room; large kitchens and at the top many cells. The quarters reserved for guests were steam heated and lighted by electricity and considering the great care constantly exercised by those about the monastery in safeguarding against fire it seems not unlikely that it may have been caused by some defect in the wiring. All the buildings mentioned were connected and were built of stone.

In the chapel were double tiers of place were two immense volumes, at their religious offices and at every place where two immense volumes, each page highly illuminated, and bound in heavy wood and brass. The books were very valuable and were made by artisans in Belgium many years ago. Around the high altar were several other altars in alcoves, which were used for low masses and in the sacristy were many holy vessels, especially chalices and patens of solid gold. One chalice used on festival occasions was studded with many precious stones and was said to be worth $10,000. Vestments, too, were of a costly character.

Unless some of the outbuildings were destroyed there should be no interference with the making of cheese, as the industry is carried on in a building some distance away, and as are the several other industries including butter making. Poultry raising is conducted in a valley some distance away from the main buildings. The last fire which destroyed the main building was in 1902. Only that spring a large barn where were housed many horses and cows and hundreds of tons of hay was destroyed, entailing a loss of $50,000. All last summer the monks were busily engaged in rebuilding these of solid concrete and steel.

The houses of the order in America besides this one at La Trappe include one farther down the St. Lawrence River, one at Gethsemane, Ky.; Dubuque, Ia., and near Woonsocket, R.I. The latter is an exceedingly poor community and was moved there about fifteen years ago from Tracadie, N.S., after it had suffered heavily from Explained.

"Why do men marry?" queried the curious one.

"Self sacrifice!" snapped the crusty bachelor.

"Don't see how you make that out," protested the c. o.

"Don't? Doesn't it show to the rest of us what not to do?"

A Mystery.

"Perhaps you can tell me."

"What is it?"

"Well, I only go to the woods once a year, and I have been wondering what the mosquitoes live on in the meantime."

Reckless Extravagance.

"Jones is having a hard struggle."

"I thought he was a millionaire."

"He used to be."

"Took a flier in wheat?"

"No, took a ride in a taxicab."

SETTLING THE LAND

AMBITIOUS PLANS OF THE GREATER WINNIPEG WATER DISTRICT.

The Greater Winnipeg Water District is planning a settlement about eighty miles from Winnipeg. The Dominion Government gives the land and consents to a certain deviation from the section lines for the roads. The Provincial Government is to make the physical improvements—roads, drainage, etc. The colonization department will help in the settling of the men and will render aid in various ways in starting them in the development of the land, while the agricultural department will give them advice as to the best use of the land and instruction in various horticultural processes and methods. The Agricultural College will furnish stock and seed at cost and will stand by to give expert advice. The Provincial department of education is very sympathetic also, and it will be very helpful in organizing the school and making it contribute in many ways to the uplift of the community. The Water District will build a bridge across the Birch River and a model school and devote some 40 acres to a community centre, its land settlement agent acting as business agent to direct and help market the products which will be carried by the railroad to the city. The city of Winnipeg will buy the wood cut by the settlers in clearing their farms.

Maimed History.

"Quebec is taking its place as a summer resort for American tourists," Charles M. Schwab said the other day.

"Some of our tourists show in Quebec a remarkable ignorance of history; but, then, the natives in a tourist's presence show a remarkable ignorance of history, too.

"I overheard one morning a dialogue between a native and a tourist before the Wolfe monument.

"'What's this here?' the tourist said.

"'That,' said the native, 'is where a great hero fell.'

"'Fell, eh?' said the tourist. 'Did it hurt him?'

"'Hurt him?' said the native, with a disgusted look. 'Why, it killed him!'"

FOR SALE OR TO RENT—100 acres of first-class land, situated in the Township of Dummer. All workable land, containing a comfortable house, with bank barn, driving shed, and all necessary outbuildings. We would sell this farm on easy payments or will rent it with the option of buying same.

FOR SALE OR TO RENT—150 acres of choice farm land situated in the Township of Smith, in a very nice locality. This farm has a very comfortable brick house, with a new bank barn and drive shed. Land is all under cultivation with about 82 acres of timber. Owner will rent said farm at $400.00 per year.

FOR SALE OR TO RENT—10 acres of choice land, situated on the outskirts of the city, containing a house which could be made very comfortable, and ten acres of the best land. This place is only about ten minutes walk from the car line and factories. Would make a good place for a market gardener.

FOR RENT—Two and one-half storey red brick house, having all modern improvements; situated in a very choice locality. There is a large stable, with hen house, and a big garden. This house can be rented at $15.00 per month, a very low rent considering locality and class of house.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST LAND REGULATIONS

The sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. Applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at any Dominion Lands Agency (but not Sub-Agency), on certain conditions.

Duties—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required except where residence is performed in the vicinity.

Live stock may be substituted for cultivation under certain conditions.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre.

Duties—Six months' residence in each of three years after earning homestead patent; also 50 acres extra cultivation. Pre-emption patent may be obtained as soon as homestead patent, on certain conditions.

A settler who has exhausted his homestead right may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre.

Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

OKE QUARTETTE WIN THE MUG

MERCANTILE CUP AGAIN CHANGES HANDS.

Walter Oke wrested the honor of holding the Mercantile Cup from Percy Fitzgerald's rink on Saturday when his select four won the contest by one shot.

It is customary for the first challenge in to be accepted and this was Ross Dobbin, who failed to show up and the second challenger on the list was Walter Oke and his confidence carried him through.

Vice-Skip Fitzgerald, who was away at a District Cup practice, was represented by Geo. Benor, who skipped a clever game.

Rinks and score:

H. Dearle	A. L. Lillaly
W. J. Henry	John Lowes
W. G. Morrow	T. Brightman
Geo. Benor	W. J. Oke
(Skip)—12	(Skip)—13

CURLING

The two Tankard skipts selected a rink on Saturday night and gave Skip Alex. Kay a real try-out and the result has put every confidence into the District Cup representatives. Skip Kay used his full rink and trimmed the senior bunch bp two shots.

The rinks and scores were:

J. H. Metheral	A. Webb
P. D. Fitzgerald	A. Archibald
E. G. Patterson	R. M. Waddell
A. C. Kay	W. M. Lang

ABE ATTELL'S CAREER

Abe Attell, who failed in his attempted come-back, first claimed championship honors in 1901. Young Corbett and Terry McGovern had both outgrown the featherweight division, and the title was left vacant. The young San Francisco Hebrew, who was still a few weeks short of his 20th birthday, decided it was a good time to set up in the championship business. Harry Forbes, who had lost the bantam title to Frankie Neil in 1903, disputed Abe's claim, and they were matched to fight in St. Louis Feb. 1, 1904. Abe put Harry to sleep in the fifth round, but along in October Brooklyn Tommy Sullivan challenged him to battle for the featherweight honors, and stopped him in five rounds at St. Louis. In 1908 Abe got back at Sullivan, putting him to sleep in the fourth round at San Francisco, and held on to the title until Feb. 22, 1912—Abe's twenty-eighth birthday—when Johnny Kilbane lowered his colors in Los Angeles.

Love may be blind, but it's foolish to attempt to work off a paste diamond on a girl under the impression that you have hypnotized her by your good looks.

GLUE THEM TO BASES

MATT. KILROY'S GREAT PITCHING TRICKS FURNISH A STORY.

No other pitcher in all history held the base runners so close to the bags as did Matt Kilroy. In one game when Kilroy was at his best the score was 1 to 1 in the ninth, a man on first. Two men had already paid the penalty of venturing but a single step off the initial sack. The captain dashed into the coacher's box.

"Hey, fellers," he shouted, "we've got to have this game. I'll fine any man who gets ketched $50."

The base runner stood stock still on first. The next batter's hit to right field fence sent the runner to third. Kilroy made a throw or two to first and then, wheeling whipped the ball to third and caught the runner red-handed a single step off the bag.

"Does that fine go, Cap?" asked one of the fans in the third base bleacher seats.

"You bet it does," snapped the leader, and he meant it, too; but after a night's sleep he decided to overlook the offence, for it was one of Kilroy's boasts that no base runner dare take two steps off a bag when he was pitching.

RULES AND REGULATIONS GOVERNING THE DAILY REVIEW CANADIAN MAP DRAWING COMPETITION

The competition is open to all children under 15 years of age in the County of Peterborough. The subscription price of 25c for The Daily Review for one month must accompany each entry. Upon receipt of application the candidate will receive a number. This number must be used instead of name and address when sending in drawings. Candidates may send in as many drawings as they please. Assistance may be given candidates to help them learn how to draw maps, but the maps submitted to the judges must be the unaided free-hand efforts of the candidates. The drawings submitted must not exceed 16in. by 20in. in size. No tracing of any kind will be allowed. The decision of the judges will be final.

All entries must reach The Review Office before 6 p.m. on March 10th, 1917.

Congregational At Home.

The anniversary "at home" of the George Street Methodist Church congregation will be held this evening in the Sunday school hall at 8 o'clock. There will be a brief musical program, and an address by Rev. Dr. Scott on "Democracy and the Woman Movement of the Day." The address is highly spoken of. Refreshments will be served.

LAID TO REST.

The funeral of the late Theodore Ludgate took place this morning from the residence of Mr. R. R. Hall to Little Lake Cemetery. The services were conducted by Rev. T. H. Mitchell, of St. Andrew's Church. The pallbearers were Messrs. Alex. Gibson, R. B. Rogers, T. McWilliams, Wm. Irwin, G. W. Hatton and D. H. Moore.

S. A. Young People.

The young people's campaign of the Salvation Army goes on apace. Great preparations are being made for this week's services, and Rally Sunday at Byersville and Bralley. Tonight at Byersville the Y. P. Locals are holding a special service, to which all are invited.

LARGE AUDIENCES HEAR COMMISSIONER MAPP

Large audiences greeted Commissioner Mapp at the Salvation Army Temple when he spoke Saturday night, Sunday afternoon and Sunday evening, the first two addresses dealing with his work in foreign lands. Sunday afternoon, the commissioner spoke of the work in Japan and told of assurances given him before he left Japan, that the nation would remain the loyal friend of the Allies in their fight for right against might. Sunday evening Commisioner Mapp made a strong appeal for men and women to accept Christ and a number of responses were made.

Police Magistrate Dumble was chairman at the Saturday night meeting and members of the City Council and city departments were present. For the Sunday afternoon meeting Judge Huycke was chairman and Capt. J. H. Burham, who also was on the platform, moved a vote of thanks to the commissioner, seconded by Ald. F. H. Dobbin.

Commissioner Mapp went to Lindsay today.

At the Sunday afternoon meeting the commissioner spoke of Japan's history, dating from 600 B.C., also the population, products, scenery, customs, the social and religious as well as the naval and military side of affairs. For over an hour the commissioner held his audience spellbound and entranced by the wonderful story of that wonderful people and country.

His Honor Judge Huycke, in his own pleasing and beneficial way, made an excellent chairman, and was heartily thanked by Brigadier Moreben on behalf of the audience. A very hearty and vociferous vote of thanks was moved by Capt. J. H. Burnham in his own original way, taking occasion to mention some kind things about the S. A. and its officers, as did also Ald. Dobbin, who heartily seconded the motion.

On the platform supporting His Honor Judge Huycke were Capt. J. H. Burnham, Alderman Saunders, Alderman Duncan (chairman of the reception committee of the City Council, Aldermen Worth, Dobbin, McIntyre, Mr. G. N. Gordon.

PURCHASE OF HORSES

Green and Cruikshank will make their next purchases of horses here on Wednesday, Feb. 14, instead of on Tuesday, Feb. 13, as previously announced. Delay in boats made the change to Wednesday necessary.

RED LETTER DAY

Today, Feb. 12, 1917, the Canadian map-drawing competition will commence. For particulars see Page 7.

HINTS FOR HOUSEWIVES

Wire "Dish-cloth"

Use a wire dish-cloth, which may be bought for a trifle, for cleaning pots. It will save much time.

Stamps Stuck Together

If stamps have become glued together, lay a thin paper over them and run a hot iron over it. Take stamps apart at once.

Making Eyelets

When punching eyelet, place the material over a cake of white soap. This makes a firm edge, which is easily worked over.

Chopped Cheese

When preparing macaroni and cheese, put the cheese through the food-chopper instead of grating it. Much less time will be required.

To Remove Ink Spots

To remove ink spots from wash materials soak the spot with kerosene. Finally rinse with kerosene, then wash as usual.

Keeping Bread Warm

A good way to keep a pan of bread dough warm over night is to set it on a warm soapstone wrapped in a clean flannel.

A Darning Hint

Sew black netting over the hole in stockings and darn in the usual way, but through the meshes, skipping every other one. The result will be a firm, neat darn. If white netting be used, the same idea may be used for knitted underwear.

To Clean a Steel Buckle

Steel buckles and ornaments that have become slightly rusted, may be cleaned as follows: Rub well with sweet oil; let stand for a couple of days, then rub with powdered, as slaked lime, and polish with chamois.

To Test a Broom

When buying a broom, test it by pressing the edge against the floor. If the straws bristle out and bend, the broom is a poor one. They should remain in a solid, firm mass.

To Run Ribbon

To run ribbon through beading, or through a hem, fasten a small safety pin to one end of the ribbon and use as though it were a tape-needle, which is seldom to be found when wanted.

Loose Knife Handles

When knife handles loosen, fill the cavity in the handle two-thirds full of mixed resin and brickdust, then heat the shaft of the knife and press it into its place. Hold it till firmly set.

Enamel Ware Cement

Take equal parts soft putty, finely sifted coal ashes and sifted table salt, mix and pack well into the hole. Place pan on stove with a little water in it until the cement hardens. Afterwards the vessel will hold water as well as ever.

Cleaning Woodwork

Woodwork may be easily cleaned by rubbing it with a little kerosene, polishing well afterwards with clean cloths. If you dislike using the coal oil, use mild soap. Rub dry and polish.

New Shirtwaists From Old

Very good shirtwaists may be made from men's shirts which have been discarded because frayed at the cuffs. Cut the shirt carefully apart, leaving the front opening intact to serve as the front finishing of the shirtwaist.

LEGISLATE FOR SOLDIERS IS FORECAST IN SPEECH

Important Measures By Ontario House.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

TORONTO, Feb. 13.—The third session of the 14th Legislature of Ontario was formally opened this afternoon at 3 o'clock. While short of much of the usual pageantry there was a very large attendance of the public. The galleries were full and seats [illegible] provided on the floor of the House for a number of distinguished guests. The speech from the throne forecasts important legislation to provide for the settlement of returned soldiers on the land, to create a fire prevention department, to authorize construction of provincial highways; to provide for farm loans; the development of hydro-electric enterprises; to regulate co-operate societies, and to provide for votes for soldiers.

On Wednesday the House will adjourn out of respect to the late Hon. J. S. Duff, Hon. J. J. Foy and Mr Sam Armstrong.

MR. WEARING CHAMPIONS CAUSE OF THE 93RD BAND

Secretary of Patriotic League Wrote Minister of Militia Asking for Their Return to Canada.

Editor Review: In an article which appeared on the front page of your paper Saturday last, some discredit was cast upon the men who compose the band of he 247th Batt. This attack was to my mind unfair and unjust.

Only those who have borne the burden of the work of recruiting here can realize what an invaluable aid to this work the band has been. To such an extent was this appreciated that after the organization of the present battalion it was felt that recruiting could not possibly be successfully prosecuted without a band. At that time it was learned that the band of the 93rd Batt., which had been of such assistance in recruiting that battalion, were held in England and engaged in duties which were certainly not anticipated by any of the members when they enlisted. Naturally, those interested in recruiting here made strong representations urging that steps be taken to have the band brought back to the city. Acting under the instrections of the Speakers Patriotic League, I sent the following letter:

Lt.-Gen. Hon. Sir Sam Hughes,
Minister of Militia,
Ottawa, Ont.

Sir: I have been instructed by the Speakers' Patriotic League of Peterborough to write to you asking that if possible the band of the 93rd Batt., C.E.F., be returned here for recruiting purposes.

The Speakers' Patriotic League is doing everything in its power to co-operate with the battalion here in obtaining recruits and feels a very great need of a band. The band of the 155th Batt. was in Peterborough for a few days recently and the help which it gave to recruiting was very noticeable.

It is understood that the instruments of the 93rd Batt. band, which are the property of the City of Peterborough, are stored in England and that the members of the band are still in England. The Speakers' Patriotic League respectfully urges that if possible the band be returned here.—Your obedient servant,

Joseph Wearing.
Sec. Speakers' Patriotic League

As a result the band was ordered back to Peterborough.

From my own personal acquaintance with the men of the band, I can say that no men ever enlisted more prepared to do their full duty. Every man expected to be sent to the front as a stretcher-bearer and most, if not all, are disappointed that they have not been called upon to do the very thing they enlisted for. They are here under orders, which must be obeyed, and if their work is not dangerous, it is the work they have been ordered to do. Even in France there are thousands of men in work not a bit more dangerous. It must not be forgotten, too, that there is not a man in the band who could not earn twice or three times as much in civil work right here. These men are making a real sacrifice and are in striking contrast to some who are not in khaki.

In conclusion, I want to say that the members of the band have well served their King and country in a way that other men could not serve. They have been a credit and a delight to the city. All honor to them.

JOSEPH WEARING.

PETERBOROUGH, TUESDAY FEBRUARY 13, 1917

THE GOVERNMENT'S RECOURSE.

DEFECTS WILL TURN UP in any system that was ever devised, in spite of the precautions taken by the promoters. The recruiting drag-net will miss some shirkers while enmeshing others that were never designed by nature for the career of a soldier. It is easily possible for a government to commission an officer who will crumple into something resembling a discarded suit of clothes when he gets his first sniff of the enemy's powder.

No government can put the proper military spirit in an officer or inspire him with stamina that nature failed to supply. It is, however, within the province of any government, when an officer turns his back upon his duty and flees for the security of home, to cancel his commission at once and strip him of his uniform. Legitimate outlays for war purposes are heavy enough. Parlor warriors should be compelled to do their duty to the extent at least of buying their own clothes.

MUNICIPAL COAL YARDS.

THE HARDER THE WINTER the more certain there is to arise an agitation in favor of municipal coal and wood yards. The arguments used are always plausible. It is contended that the city can take over the business and deliver fuel to the public at cost. Toronto regularly gets the municipal coal yard bug, and there is evidence of the same fever breaking out in this city.

Peterborough or any other city can never hope to do directly any work as cheaply as the same can be completed under contract. The city could, it is true, supply fuel at a lower figure than the private dealer, if the coal and wood were handled by city employes and delivered by city teams, paid, not from the proceeds of the business, but out of the general fund. It is all a question of bookkeeping.

If the city owned the street railway here it could reduce the fare to three cents and make up the inevitable deficit by general taxation. The move would be popular with the man who rides, as his travelling expenses would be partly defrayed by the citizen who never enters a street car.

THE RICH SLACKER.

THE SLACKER is not a specimen born of the present war. There were, it seems, members of the fraternity in the days of the Nazarene, men who shirked what their consciences plainly pointed out as their duty, because the performance of that duty involved financial sacrifice and physical discomfort.

A preacher in one of the city churches Sunday night chose as the subect of his discourse the young man of wealth who sought from the Master the one thing needful. He was able to answer every condition until the final test came. When he heard the words, "Go, sell all thou hast and give to the poor; then follow Me," he went away sorrowing, for he had great possessions. Money, after all, was his idol. He stood squarely between two dilemmas. If he gave all to the poor voluntarily, he would be poverty stricken himself. If he became a disciple the rulers of the synagogue would confiscate his property. The problem was as broad as it was long. His only way to escape was to shun what he believed was the right road. With him the rule of gold was stronger than the Golden Rule. Human nature has not changed since these days. The young man who went away sorrowing to the fleshpots of life was little different from the slacker of the present generation. The latter knows his duty without the persuasion of the recruiting officer. Nine times out of ten he is no physical coward. The obstacle at which he balks is the thought of the discomforts which come with a military career, the unwonted discipline, the severance of home ties, and the like. The more comfortable the living conditions, the greater the strain in giving them up.

Like the young man in the Bible story, the modern slacker goes away from his duty. His conscience is his own accuser and flays him with the lash of remorse. It is moral rather than physical courage that is lacking.

CANADIANS NOT WASTRELS.

WHY THESE PESSIMISTIC pictures of ruin and desolation? Why represent the Canadian people as a race of wastrels and picture them to the world as, when the war broke out, on the verge of bankruptcy? Whatever may be the national sin of this country, it is certainly not extravagance. The figures published yearly by the savings departments of the various banks is all that is required to prove this assertion.

Not long after the war broke out the Government called for a popular loan of fifty million dollars. The people promptly responded with twice that amount. Recently the Government again asked for one hundred and got two hundred million. A people equal to such tasks certainly do not deserve to be described as lacking in thrift.

It is upon such fallacious arguments as these that a local contemporary bases its argument for penny banks in schools. The fact that a man takes his earnings from one bank and deposits them in another is no evidence of his prosperity. If there was half a million dollars in the school banks of the country there would be just that much less money passing through the regular banking channels. The claim that every cent in the school banks is so much war fund will not bear close investigation. In order to promote thrift, it is not necessary to resort to crude methods that will disturb the regular business of banking.

THE TAG IN THE APPLE BARREL.

SOMETIMES a young man with a peculiar sense of humor, while on shipboard, takes a bottle, once filled with ardent beverage but which has achieved its purpose, and places in it a document in which he says something to the following effect: "The ship is sinking. All hands lost. Good-bye." The bottle is assigned to the waves, and in the course of time is picked up on some foreign strand. The alleged joke has been perpetrated so often that no serious notice is taken of it when it is repeated.

Occasionally a producer of fruits and vegetables has the sordid cares of life lightened by a sense of humor. A common bucolic joke these days is to place a note in a barrel or other package of apples or potatoes, giving the price at which it has been sold by the original handler. The lower the price quoted the more pronounced the levity. The original consumer is asked to compare this figure with the price he is required to pay, and as a rule the margin is an alarmingly wide one.

Every year we listen to these stories just as regularly as we do to Christian tales. The figures in the barrel are not always reliable more's the pity. In the first place, the price is seldom known until the package is closed, and no man is likely to open it again for the sake of spreading market intelligence. It is idle to place implicit reliance upon these incidents, as so many newspapers, hard put for political capital, do. All documentary testimony is not evidence. Figures may never lie, but prevaricators often figure, and practical jokers must have their fun. Their display of native wit is hardly substantial enough upon which to base a claim that the Government is lax in its duty when it fails to commandeer all the food supplies in the country.

MILITARY RAILWAYS.

THE MAN under fifty years of age is no longer left with an excuse for not enlisting. There is some branch of the service in which he is almost sure to be accepted if he is really anxious to enlist. If he is not physically fit for regular military duty, the requirements for a place in the forestry or railway construction battalions are less rigid.

Canada has produced some of the best woodsmen in the world. The country also has a small army of railway builders who have been trained in the hard school of actual experience.

The foresters and the railway builders are required in the British army just as badly as are men for the artillery or the trenches. The railroads are essential in order to get supplies to the front, and timber is required to construct the defence works for the troops. These battalions are filling up rapidly, but there is yet room. More railway men are needed and the terms of enlistment are comparatively easy. Every man who enters one or other of these branches is on the same footing as to pay, separation and patriotic allowance, as the man who handles a rifle for his country. He will receive the same consideration from the pension commission when the war is over. Every inducement is offered him to do his bit according to his capabilities.

ALD. LANGFORD AND THE FUND.

ALD. LANGFORD, at Council meeting Friday night, suggested that the city raise $56,000 instead of $60,000 for the Patriotic Fund, this to be turned over in monthly sums to the committee in charge of the distribution. The suggestion received no support, and Ald. Langford's position has been misunderstood by some of the electors.

He is not opposed in any way to the grant, but believes that the burden should be fairly apportioned between the city and the county. The County Council was asked for $40,000, and agreed to pay $3,000 a month. Besides this, the county is to give $4,000 to the Sailors' Relief Fund. Ald. Langford is convinced that the city should follow this lead and reduce its contribution in the same ratio as that adopted by the county, giving $54,000 to the Patriotic and $6000 to the Sailors' Fund. Whatever the personal feelings of the city fathers may be, however able they are individually to pay their taxes, Ald. Langford says that they have obligations to discharge in caring for those to whom an extra mill on the rate is a burden.

THE SANITARY INSPECTOR.

WHEN COUNCIL nearly a year ago had a vacancy to fill in the civic service, they adopted the proper and popular course of appointing a returned soldier to the office of sanitary inspector. That position is again vacant, Sergt. Cooper having been obliged to resign on account of ill-health. There are a number of applicants for the position, not all of them ex-soldiers, either.

The city can surely show its gratitude to and appreciation of the returned soldiers by putting them on the payroll whenever the opportunity presents itself. The fitness of the applicant for the peculiar duties must be taken into consideration, but with such a large number from which to make a selection there should be no difficulty on this score. The job is one which can be satisfactorily filled by a man who has been incapacitated for hard work, and the soldier whose health has suffered or who has been wounded in the service of his country should in common humanity be given the preference.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

"OUR SOLDIER BOYS are fighting hard battles for our sakes," says The Examiner. Well, not all of them.

• • • •

YOU CANNOT DRAGOON people into thrift any more than you can make them truly good by Act of Parliament.

• • • •

THERE MAY BE more talk of war here than in England, but over there is where the war is in all its horrors.

• • • •

AT LEAST the returned slacker is no worse than the honorary colonel or the man with a hyphen in his name and a monocle screwed into his eye.

• • • •

THE RICH YOUNG RULER in the Bible story went away sorrowing, his conscience making him uneasy. Others may come back from Europe in the same state of mental unrest.

• • • •

THE DISCUSSION over penny banks in schools has at least served one purpose. It has afforded a new text and diverted a contemporary from its furious campaign against nationalism that exists only as a nightmare.

• • • •

THEN AGAIN THRIFT is likely to become an obsession and degenerate into miserliness, just as patriotism very often sinks to the level of blatant and bumptious jingoism.

THE GARAGE MAN MAKES A SALE

"What's the idea in looking daggers at my car every time I come in here for gas?" asked the owner of the Big Sicks, driving into the Charlotte street garage.

"I was not looking daggers, as you call it, at your car, Mr. Winkler," replied the garage man. "I was just sizing it up. If it does no harm to make a kindly criticism, I might say that it looks rather chill. I thought——"

"I don't care what you thought! Don't look in that manner at my machine again. I'm very sensitive about this car, far more so than I am about myself. My idea is that a man is known by the car he keeps, and if any one slanders my Big Sicks, he may as well throw down the glove to me."

"No offence, Mr. Winkler. I know how sensitive careful drivers like you are about their cars. A car is looked upon as a member of the immediate family, and I would as soon tell a man his grandfather was a boob, or his brother was a dead beat, as to make a disparaging remark or even cast a discourteous glance in the direction of his motor.

"What I meant to say was that open air driving may not agree with you from now on. The mercury is turning handsprings, and I'm afraid you will take cold riding about in that open car. Now I should like to call your attention to my new line of limousine tops. They fill a long-felt want. By the small payment of——"

"If you have the finest limousine tops in the world, they would go a-begging at 5 cents each as far as I am concerned."

"But think of the advantages, Mr. Winkler. Just suppose you go on driving an open car and contract a severe cold that stays with you. No life insurance company will sell you a policy. Your family will be exposed to great dangers. Your own comfort is also to be considered, Mr. Winkler."

"The last time I heard that talk a man was trying to sell me a beaver overcoat. Forget it."

"Think of the advantages of sitting in your limousine protected from the chilly blasts of the river."

"Let 'er blast."

"Well, it means nothing to me, Mr. Winkler. I am only trying to accommodate my patrons. As Mr. Jones said—Mr. Randolph Jones, you know, the president of the bankers' golf club—when you ride down George street you can see the men who can't afford one of these tops riding down in their open touring cars."

"What's that? What's that? Now, how much did you say I could pay down? And have you an old flivver around that I can use while you are putting a top on my Big Sicks?"

ANECDOTES OF THE FAMOUS

Lord Kitchener did many wise things, but it is doubtful whether he ever did a wiser than when towards the end of 1915 he nominated Lord Derby as chief recruiter for the British, at that time, voluntary army.

No need to enlarge now on that whirlwind campaign of his; a campaign which resulted in the voluntary enrolment of over two million additional recruits in the short space of about six weeks. It was a wonderful achievement, and though it did not prevent the coming of conscription, which, indeed, was inevitable under the circumstances as we now know them, this does not in the least detract from the credit that is due to the man who originated it, and engineered it to its successful conclusion.

For largely its success was due to his own marvellous personality. He has been called a "John Bull" Englishman, and the description is perfectly apt. He is solid, hefty, slightly middle-aged below the girth but quick and active alike in movement and in thought. Seen at an agricultural dinner, one would take him for a typical farmer. His large, round, red face radiates jollity and good nature. His eyes are big and bright and blue, his hair is nearly always rumpled, and he sports a heavy, bristly moustache.

Before he sprang into prominence as "Britain's Boss Recruiter" he was little known to the man in the street. Yet his had been a varied career. As Lord Stanley he was Postmaster-General as far back as 1903-5; he was chief Press Censor during the Boer War; and he has filled, among other responsible posts, those of a Lord of the Treasury, and Financial Secretary to the War Office. He became Under-Secretary for War in July, 1916.

Lord Derby, as is well known, is a close personal friend of the King and Queen, whom he has frequently entertained, both at Knowsley Hall, his Lancashire home, and at Derby House in London. And in this connection it is interesting to note that at the magnificent Derby House ball which wound up the coronation festivities of 1911, Lord Derby led off the dancing with the German Crown Princess, while Lady Derby had for her partner no other than "Little Willie." All right in those days; but to borow the title of a popular novel: "It never can happen again."

By an iron of fate Lord Milner, now engaged with his colleagues in directing the war against Germany, was himself born in that country, and received there his early education.

Nevertheless, he is as loyal to England—his mother's native country and his own by adoption—as any of her sons. His later education he owes to King's College, London, and Oxford University, where he was President of the Union.

The law was his first love, and he was called to the Bar of the Inner Temple in 1881; but he soon turned to journalism. At first he worked as a free-lance, but he was invited by Mr. John Morley, then editing the Pall Mall Gazette, to join the staff of that paper. Mr. Milner, as he then was, worked with him, and aftedwards with his succesor, the famous W. T. Stead, for some time.

Then he threw up journalism for politics, and became Private Secretary to Mr. Goschen, then Chancellor of the Exchequer, a post which he held from 1887 to 1889.

This was the real beginning of his career. The young barrister-journalist developed a quite remarkable gift for finance, so much so that he was presently dispatched to Egypt to reorganize the financial affairs of that country.

Returning to England after having accomplished his task, he was awarded with the post of Chairman of the Board of Inland Revenue. This position he held for five years, until he was promoted to be High Commissioner for South Africa and Governor of Cape Colony.

ARAB CUSTOMS

When entering a house an Arab removed his shoes, but not his headcovering. He mounts his horse upon the right side, while his wife milks the cow on the left side. In writing a letter he puts nearly all his compliments on the outside. His head must be wrapped up warm, even in summer, while his feet sometimes go naked in winter. Every article of merchandise which is liquid he weighs, but he measures wheat, barley and a few other articles. He reads and writes from right to left. He eats scarcely anything for breakfast, about as much for dinner, but after the work of the day is done he sits down to a hot meal swimming in oil or boiled butter. His sons eat with him, but the females of the house wait till he has done. He rides a donkey when travelling, his wife walking behind. He laughs at the idea of walking in the street with his wife or of vacating his seat for a woman. He knows no use for chairs, tables, knives, forks or even spoons, unless they are wooden ones. Bedsteads, bureaus, and fireplaces may be placed in the same category.

FREEDOM OF THE SEAS

(Christian Science Sentinel.)

If, then, the question is asked to what nation or nations can the freedom of the seas be safely entrusted, the answer must be that it cannot fall to the heritage of the weak or of the fearful, or of those who hate. It belongs to the quality of thought which established the rule, "Women and children first," which broke the power of the pirates in the Mediterranean and which stopped the slave traffic in the Red Sea. The fredom of the sea is safe only with those who through much tribulation have grown to a diviner sense both of freedom itself and of the "Peaceful Sea of Harmony."

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

One thing a woman is willing to undergo is a new bonnet.

A little learning is doubly dangerous in a small man's head.

He is a mean father who has his whiskers shaved off because the baby likes to pull them.

HOW A CHILD BROUGHT BEAUTY

Almost every seat in the street car was taken. Men sat with their noses glued to the newspapers. Women looked boredly out of the window at the snow sifting down into the frosty street.

The morning was cold. The car moved with irritating slowness. Drabness and grayness everywhere.

Everybody on board looked to be in an excellent state of preparedness to bite everybody else upon the least provocation.

The car stopped at a corner. A man clambered on with difficulty. He was partly drunk. He had hard work unbuttoning his overcoat and fetching a nickel from his trousers pocket.

The conductor snapped at him to hurry up. The man retorted angrily. They had some unpleasant words, not all of them printable.

The man lurched forward to go through the door. He was negotiating his entrance into the car with some pains when someone said one word to him.

It was a little boy, about 6 years of age. He was nicely bundled up in an overcoat and wore a red tam-o-shanter cap. His little plump legs were sturdily planted apart as he stood in the centre of the aisle. His face was shining, his eyes sparkled, his ruddy cheeks were like red apples. He looked up at the man and said:

"Hello!"

But what he put into that one word! How much good fellowship, and suppressed fun, and rollicking play, and comradeship, and clear, beautiful, human feeling.

The man stopped, looked down at the mite before him, and a change passed over his features. The brute fled, a spirit came. His ugliness dropped from him as a garment. His eyes softened. He smiled. He leaned back against the door jamb and said, and his voice was full of the tenderest fatherhood:

"Hello yourself, you God-blessed, beautiful angel child!"

The child laughed. The conductor laughed. Men looked up and smiled. Every woman awoke to vivid interest and wanted to hug the child.

The car started. The man found a seat. The little boy went back and stood by his mother.

The car rolled on. But its load of humanity was transformed. Something divine had swept every soul in it clean of its doldrums.

Little songs started up in men's hearts, as crocuses pierce the snow in early spring. Gentle thoughts hovered about that company as swallows fly about the eaves at sunset.

Everybody had been converted and became as a little child and saw the kingdom.

All day long that one word echoed in a thousand avenues, and sounded on and on like a silver bell, and even its most distant waves brought peace on earth and good will to men.

Such a work was wrought by one word of pure brotherhood.

And there came to mind the phrase of John Masefield, the last words in his "Good Friday":

"Oh, beauty, touch me, make me wise!"

EDITOR'S MAIL

Editor Review: May I, through your columns, express to the large audience that turned out on such a cold evening as last night to hear the celebrated Cherniavsky Trio, my most sincere regret at the great disappointment caused by their non-appearance.

They gave a concert in Montreal on Sunday night and were coming on from there to Peterborough. I received a telegram from them saying the train was very late, but Port Hope was to keep connection for them, and asking me to have a taxi at the G.T. station to take them straight to the Conservatory Hall. This, of course, I did, and it was a great disappointment to me to get a long distance call while the audience were assembled, to say they were stalled at Oshawa (their luggage is in Peterborough) and could not possibly make Peterborough in time for the concert, and asking me to express to the audience their profound regret at the mishap. Every night is fully booked up until they start for their Australian tour, so we will have to forego the pleasure of hearing these three brilliant artistes. Though I am in no way responsible or to blame for their failing to arrive, I do feel very keenly having for the first time in my experience to break faith with the public, and can only express my warmest thanks to the audience for the kindly and good-humored manner in which they met an awkward situation.

ALDERMANIC PAIRS

Editor Review: Good for our City Fathers! All Col. Ackerman had to do was to mention his Five Hundred Club to them and every alderman promptly became a member, thus pledging himself to the task of getting one recruit for the 247th Batt.

Of course there are a number of aldermen who are too old for actual service as soldiers. There are others, however, within the age limit, and still others with eligible sons. With these the work of carrying out their obligations as members of the Five Hundred Club should be dead easy. I would suggest that such aldermen form pairs, as is often done for voting purposes in the big Legislative bodies. Let these pairs present themselves at the recruiting office and each deliver the other to the officers in charge as his contribution to the strength of the new unit. "You get me, I get you," game as it were. The man with an eligible son can bring the boy down as a sacrifice.

The first morning after my night's sleep with Lop Ear I learned the advantage of the narrow mouthed caves. It was just daylight when old Saber Tooth, the tiger, walked into the open space. Two of the folk were already up. They made a rush for it. Whether they were panic stricken or whether he was too close on their heels for them to attempt to scramble up the bluff to the crevices, I do not know, but at any rate they dashed into the wide mouthed cave wherein Lop Ear and I had played the afternoon before.

What happened inside there was no way of telling, but it is fair to conclude that the two folk slipped through the connecting crevice into the other cave. This crevice was too small to allow for the passage of Saber Tooth, and he came out the way he had gone in, unsatisfied and angry. It was evident that his night's hunting had been unsuccessful and that he had expected to make a meal off of us. He caught sight of the two folk at the other cave mouth and sprang for them. Of course they darted through the passageway into the first cave. He emerged angrier than ever and snarling.

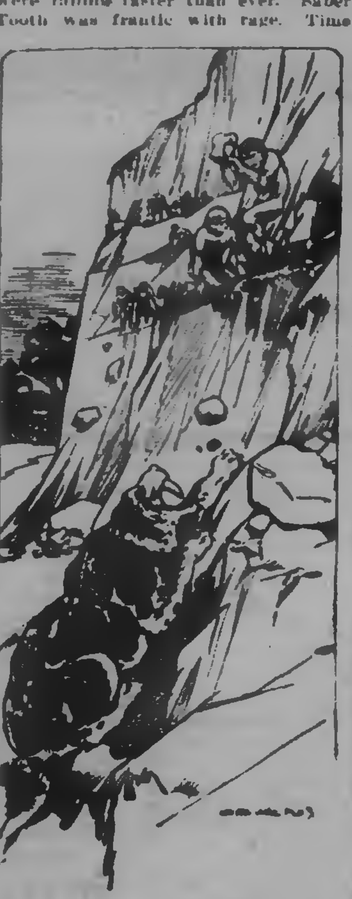
Pandemonium broke loose among the rest of us. All up and down the great bluff we crowded the crevices and outside ledges, and we were all chattering and shrieking in a thousand keys. And we were all making faces—snarling faces; this was an instinct with us. We were as angry as Saber Tooth, though our anger was allied with fear. I remember that I shrieked and made faces with the best of them. Not only did they set the example, but I felt the urge from within me to do the same things they were doing. My hair was bristling, and I was convulsed with a fierce, unreasoning rage.

For some time old Saber Tooth continued dashing in and out of first the one cave and then the other. But the two folk merely slipped back and forth through the connecting crevice and eluded him. In the meantime the rest of us up the bluff had proceeded to action. Every time he appeared outside we pelted him with rocks. At first we merely dropped them on him, but we soon began to whiz them down with the added force of our muscles.

CHAPTER V.

THIS bombardment drew Saber Tooth's attention to us and made him angrier than ever. He abandoned his pursuit of the two folk and sprang up the bluff toward the rest of us, clawing at the crumbling rock and snarling as he clawed his upward way. At this awful sight the last one of us sought refuge inside our caves. I know this, because I peeped out and saw the whole bluff side deserted, save for Saber Tooth, who had lost his footing and was sliding and falling down.

I called out the cry of encouragement, and again the bluff was covered by the screaming horde, and the stones were falling faster than ever. Saber Tooth was frantic with rage. Time and again he assaulted the bluff. Once he even gained the first crevice entrances before he fell back, but was unable to force his way inside. With each upward rush he made waves of fear surged over us. At first at such times most of us dashed inside, but some remained outside to hammer him with stones, and soon all of us remained outside and kept up the fusillade.



Saber Tooth Was Frantic With Rage.

Never was so masterly a creature so completely baffled. It hurt his pride terribly thus to be outwitted by the small and tender folk. He stood on the ground and looked up at us, snarling, lashing his tail, snapping at the stones that fell near to him. Once I whizzed down a stone, and just at the right moment he looked up. It caught him full on the end of his nose, and he went straight up in the air, all four feet of him, roaring and caterwauling, what of the hurt and surprise.

He was beaten, and he knew it. Recovering his dignity, he stalked out solemnly from under the rain of stones. He stopped in the middle of the open space and looked wistfully and hungrily back at us. He hated to forego the meal, and we were just so much meat cornered, but inaccessible. This sight of him started us to laughing. We laughed derisively and uproariously, all of us. Now, animals do not like mockery. To be laughed at makes them angry. And in such fashion our laughter affected Saber Tooth. He turned with a roar and charged the bluff again. This was what we wanted. The fight had become a game, and we took huge delight in pelting him.

But this attack did not last long. He quickly recovered his common sense, and, besides, our missiles were shrewd to hurt. Vividly do I recollect the vision of one bulging eye [illegible] swollen almost shut by one of the stones we had thrown. And vividly do I retain the picture of him as he stood on the edge of the forest whither he had finally retreated. He was looking back at us, his writhing lips lifted clear of the very roots of his huge fangs, his hair bristling and his tail lashing. He gave one last snarl and slid from view among the trees.

And then such a chattering as went up. We swarmed out of our holes, examining the marks his claws had made on the crumbling rock of the bluff, all of us talking at once. One of the two folk who had been caught in the double cave was part grown, half child and half youth. They had come out proudly from their refuge, and we surrounded them in an admiring crowd. Then the young fellow's mother broke through and fell upon him in a tremendous rage, boxing his ears, pulling his hair and shrieking like a demon. She was a strapping big woman, very hairy, and the thrashing she gave him was a delight to the horde. We roared with laughter, holding on to one another or rolling on the ground in our glee.

In spite of the reign of fear under which we lived the folk were always great laughers. We had the sense of humor. Our merriment was Gargantuan. It was never restrained. There was nothing halfway about it. When a thing was funny we were convulsed with appreciation of it, and the simplest, crudest things were funny to us. Oh, we were great laughers, I can tell you!

The way we had treated Saber Tooth was the way we treated all animals that invaded the village. We kept our runways and drinking places to ourselves by making life miserable for the animals that trespassed or strayed upon our immediate territory. Even the fiercest hunting animals we so bedeviled that they learned to leave our places alone. We were not fighters like them; we were cunning and cowardly, and it was because of our cunning and cowardice and our inordinate capacity for fear that we survived in that frightfully hostile environment of the younger world.

Lop Ear, I figure, was a year older than I. What his past history was he had no way of telling me, but as I never saw anything of his mother I believed him to be an orphan. After all, fathers did not count in our horde. Marriage was as yet in a rude state, and couples had a way of quarrelling and separating. Modern man, what of his divorce institution, does the same thing legally. But we had no laws. Custom was all we went by, and our custom in this particular matter was rather promiscuous.

Nevertheless, as this narrative will show later on, we betrayed glimmering adumbrations of the monogamy that was later to give power to and make mighty such tribes as embraced it. Furthermore, even at the time I was born, there were several faithful couples that lived in the trees in the neighborhood of my mother. Living in the thick of the horde did not conduce to monogamy. It was for this reason, undoubtedly, that the faithful couples went away and lived by themselves. Through many years these couples stayed together, though when the man or woman died or was eaten the survivor invariably found a new mate.

There was one thing that greatly puzzled me during the first days of my residence in the horde. There was a nameless and incommunicable fear that rested upon all. At first it appeared to be connected wholly with direction. The horde feared the northeast. It lived in perpetual apprehension of that quarter of the compass. And every individual gazed more frequently and with greater alarm in that direction than in any other.

To Get Good Seed

To put farmers in touch with good seed supplies will be the air of the Ontario Department of Agriculture through the district representative officers. It is found that the seed in the counties is sufficient for the country's needs, but the difficulty is one of distribution. The department is preparing to advertise that farmers who have seed for sale should forward samples to the department, giving information as to the varieties, price, and particularly with regard to quantity of seed they have, and those who wish to purchase seed also should acquaint the department with their wants.

Proposed Loan

At a special meeting of the Cobourg Town Council and the Board of Trade a communication was read from the latter, asking the Council to introduce a by-law to be voted upon by the electors, providing for a loan of 510,000 to the Cobourg Felt Company, to be repaid in ten annual installments of $1,000 each. The Council referred the matter to the by-law and finance committee and the townsolicitor, to prepare a proper agreement and by-law to be submitted to the ratepayers at as early a date as possible.

Home-made Boots

The report that boots for Canadian soldiers are being purchased in England is officially denied at the Militia Department. The troops in England are being supplied with Canadian-made boots, and there is no intention to adopt a new policy with regard to their footwear.

County Clerk Dead

Mr. Arthur M. Chapman, County Clerk of Hastings County and Clerk of Sidney Township, died in Belleville yesterday afternoon after a brief illness. Deceased was 46 years of age, and for 22 years was station agent on the Central Ontario Railway at Frankford, where he was born. Deceased was vice-president of the Ontario Municipal Association and secretary-treasurer of the Provincial Municipal Railway Tax Association.

$19,000,000 FROM PEOPLE OF CANADA FOR PATRIOTIC FUND IN THREE YEARS OF WAR

OTTAWA, Feb. 9.—The people of Canada have contributed $19,000,000 to the Canadian Patriotic Fund—an amount that would have been held unbelievable to be raised by voluntary contribution before the war. The official figures up to January 1, 1917, now given out, total over $18,000,000. The month of January has brought the amount up to $19,000,000.

Ontario easily leads in money as well as men. Ontario's contribution up to January 1 was $8,824,090. The contributions by provinces are as follows to that date:—

Alberta	$1,064,047.30
British Columbia	1,354,185.35
Manitoba	114,440.52
New Brunswick	629,591.73
Nova Scotia	728,052.75
Ontario	8,824,090.21
Prince Edward Island	73,112.40
Quebec	4,499,671.59
Saskatchewan	929,533.49
Yukon	25,570.45
Total	$18,047,295.79
Great Britain (London)	2,241.30
United States	12,798.86

Bank interest and other items bring the total up to the amount mentioned. Manitoba has its own organization and works separately from the other provinces, raising its own funds and providing for its own soldiers.

Peterborough city and county have given approximately $235,000 in three years, made up as follows:

	City	County
1915	50,000	5,600
1916	65,000	20,000
1917	60,000	36,000
	$174,000	$61,600

HASTINGS NEWS

(Special Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Feb. 13.—Evangelistic services in the Methodist Church Hastings will close Sunday, Feb. 18. Miss Morton will preach morning and evening. The evening service will be her farewell. Each evening bright, interesting services commence at 7.45. On Friday evening the evangelist's subject is Character building. Don't fail to hear this important subject.

Mr. Hetherington of Seymour passed away on Sunday, Feb. 11. Funeral services were held at his late residence Tuesday. Interment at Centre Cemetery.

Mrs. (Dr.) Hes is ill with the grippe.

The District Epworth League of the Campbellford District will be held in the Methodist Church, Campbellford, on Monday, March 5, afternoon and evening. Mr. W. L. Clark of Leamington will occupy a prominent place on the program.

"Everyone who goes to Niagara," says a novelist, who has recently come to America, "hears some absurd, ridiculous and inept remark there. You stand and gaze at the falls, profoundly moved, and then, of a sudden something is said, and the effect of the grandeur goes forever.

"The day I first saw Niagara, a man touched my arm as I looked up at those white waters. I turned to him. He had the smile of the confirmed joker.

"'It seems a shame,' he said, 'to see all this going to waste.'

"'What are you?' I said, 'an electrical engineer?'

"'No,' he answered, 'a milkman.'"

COAL AND LUMBER ARE URGENTLY NEEDED HERE

Resolutions Passed by the City Council.

Peterborough City Council met last night and passed resolutions that will considerably strengthen the Government's hands in demanding that the railways take immediate action to relieve the situation so that industries will not have to shut down by reason of a shortage of coal and supplies, nor will the people generally suffer during this cold spell for want of fuel.

Mayor Duffus in opening the meeting stated that he had called the emergency meeting to pass two resolutions, one dealing with the coal question and the other dealing with the Peterborough Planing Mills Co., who were compelled to shut down for lack of lumber. The coal situation was acute in Peterborough and while no suffering had resulted up to the present, yet there was no telling what would happen if the cold weather continued for two weeks. There were 22,000 cars of coal between Buffalo and the mines waiting hauling. Sir Henry Drayton was at the frontier to size up the situation and take what steps possible to relieve the congestions. The fault seemed to lie entirely with the railways.

The following resolutions were passed:

Coal Shortage

Whereas there is a serious scarcity of coal in the city of Peterborough and the citizens in their residences, schools, hospitals and manufacturing industries, including factories in which munitions of war are being made, are on the verge of being absolutely without coal;

And whereas, in residences and public institutions especially, the situation is aggravated by the severely cold weather;

Be it resolved, that this Council apply to and urge the Board of Railway Commissioners for Canada, the Government of Canada and the Imperial Munitions Board to take any and all action that they can to have the railways move to Peterborough the coal that is and has been and will be on the way to Peterborough and thus avoid serious suffering by the people and the immediate closing down of the factories of the manufacturers of munitions and others.

And that a copy of this resolution be sent to the Chairman of the Board of Railway Commissioners, the Premier of Canada and the Chairman of the Imperial Munitions Board.

Peterborough Planing Mills

Whereas several cars of lumber for the manufacture of boxes for munitions were shipped from Macadam Junction on the 4th day of January last on the Canadian Pacific Railway in cars Nos. 42216, 44397, 129554, 45820, 58816, 57098 nd 271564, and on the Grand Trunk Railway in cars Nos. 260044 C.G.R., 18157 P.R. and 61758 S.P.;

And whereas none of the said lumber has yet been received and the factory is in the position that it has had to close down;

Resolved, that the Board of Railway Commissioners of Canada, the Canadian Government and the Imperial Munitions Board be requested to take active steps to endeavor to have the said cars forwarded in order that the factory may proceed with the manufacture of the boxes.

CON. RYAN ABSENT

Cornelius Ryan was arrested on Saturday for being drunk. He did not appear this morning when his name was called in the Police Court. The magistrate heard the evidence and registered a $10 fine against him. A warrant was issued for his committal to jail when apprehended.

Glass of Hot Water Before Breakfast a Splendid Habit

Open sluices of the system each morning and wash away the poisonous, stagnant matter.

Those of us who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when we arise; splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, lame back, can, instead, both look and feel as fresh as a daisy always by washing the poisons and toxins from the body with phosphated hot water each morning.

We should drink, before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to flush from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary tract before putting more food into the stomach.

The action of limestone phosphate and hot water on an empty stomach is wonderfuly invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast and it is said to be but a little while until the roses begin to appear in the cheeks. A quarter pound of limestone phosphate will cost very little at the drug store, but is sufficient to make any one who is bothered with biliousness, constipation, stomach trouble or rheumatism a real enthusiast on the subject of internal sanitation. Try it and you are assured that you will look better and feel better in every way shortly.

FOWLER'S PEBLO GLASSES

100 Per Cent Better

Hundreds of Dr. Fowler's patrons tell him, in the popular phrase used by so many as a comparison, that with the "PEBLO" Lenses he has fitted them with they can see "twice as well as before." That means that there is a hundred per cent. improvement in their vision since they commenced to wear Fowler's glasses.

MOTHERS HAVE GREATEST STAKE IN THIS COUNTRY

Rev. Dr. Scott Gives This as One of Many Reasons Why Canadian Women Should Have Vote---Admirable Entertainment at George Street Church.

"The person who has the greatest stake in the country is not the man with money; it is the mother who is raising a family of children, and the one with the stake is certainly entitled to the franchise."

That was one of the many points scored by Rev. C. T. Scott of Belleville in his address on Democracy and the Modern Women Movement at the anniversary At Home of the George Street Methodist Church last night. The spacious class room was crowded by an appreciative audience, who heard one of the finest addresses on the subject of equal franchise ever delivered in Peterborough. Dr. Scott's lecture abounded with historical information, was strong in argument and illuminated plentifully with bright flashes of wit.

All the old and familiar objections to giving women the right to vote were dealt with and effectively disposed of. The inconsistence of the law on the subject did not escape review. The British Refrom Bill of 1832 was the first legal enactment against the right of women to vote, when it was specified that none but male persons should have the franchise. In 1867 the franchise was again extended. It was found that while women were denied the right to vote a woman with property could not be compelled to pay taxes, but a test case was heard in the courts and by one of those decisions for which English courts are sometimes noted, woman was a person only when there was a tax to pay and not when the question of voting was involved. In a word, woman was unjustly saddled with all the responsibilities of citizenship while denied the privileges.

Will Women Use the Vote?

There can be no true democracy such as the Allies are fighting for today unless women get the franchise. Will they know how to use it? The best way to induce them to fit themselves for the duties of citizenship is to give them the right to take a share in them. In New Zealand before women had the vote only 70 per cent. of the male electors turned out to vote. Now 90 per cent of them vote and the same percentage of women exercise the franchise at the election. The British Dominions in which women vote lead the world in social and moral reforms. They are first in peace and first in war as well, for it was New Zealand that among the dominions made the first contribution to the British Navy, and Australia and New Zealand have sent more men to the front in proportion to their population than any of the Allied nations. Women will vote for war when war means a struggle for truth and justice.

The home will not be neglected if women vote. Laws protecting womanhood will never be adequate until women have a chance to insist that the criminal code be recast.

Dr. Scott went into every phase of the subject and the frequent bursts of applause testified to the fact that he had the audience with him.

At the close of his address he was tendered a vote of thanks on motion of Mr. B. F. Ackerman and Mr. H. G. Walker, not only for his address last evening, but for the excellent anniversary sermons which he preached Sunday.

Rev. R. G. Peever presided and Rev. B. Greatrix of St. James Church gave a brief address in which he complimented the congregation upon their progress, a condition naturally following the ministrations of such a pastor as Mr. Peever. Excellent solos were rendered by Mrs. J. Renwick and Miss Gallagher. Mr. J. H. Renwick acted as accompanist.

Dainty refreshments were served by the ladies at the close of the entertainment.

TOWNSHIP DID NOT LINE UP TO AGREEMENT

JUDGMENT IN LOCKIE VS. NORTH MONAGHAN ACTION.

Judge Huycke today gave judgment in the famous case of Lockie vs. the township of North Monaghan. Two claims were made by the plaintiff: First, that a roadway of the township was on his land, and therefore the township was guilty of trespass. In this Judge Huycke directs a non-suit.

In the second, the plaintiff contended that the township had not lived up to an agreement made to furnish him with a water supply. The court found that the township had failed to live up to the agreement, and gave $350 damages with costs to the plaintiff, and also gave an injunction restraining the township from shutting off the water supply. The township has until July 1st to make the structural arrangements necessary to fulfill the terms of the injunction.

The usual stay of thirty days was granted.

D. O'Connell and Joseph Wearing acted for the plaintiff and Peck and Kerr for defendant.

SPORTING NEWS

TEAM WORK BY 247TH LEADS TO VICTORY AT KINGSTON

Will Now Play Third Round With Oshawa.

SCORE WAS 9-8

The 247th silverware chasers defeated Kingston on their home pasture last night and will now play Bill Bradley's Oshawans in the third round. The score last night was 9 to 8, the Petes leading the first period by 4 to 3, holding the artillerymen to a count of 5 to 5 at the second period and winning out by a one-tally margin, a very creditable performance for the Central Park squad. Bob Armstrong scored six of the nine goals. As anticipated by the fans, generally, and the Soldiers themselves, the Kingston lads put up a hard argument. The larger ice surface and the rounded corners gave them better opportunity to use their speed and let loose a number of tricky plays, the result being a whirlwind game from start to finish.

The Petes played a better game in Kingston than they did here last Wednesday night. Bunching and collisions were absentees and the general team work of the locals showed a big improvement. The referee gave the opinion that the contest was the fastest exhibition of the winter pastime he had handled this season, the class being head and shoulders above senior O.H.A. hockey.

A neutral report on the game says:—

KINGSTON, Feb. 13.—The 247th Batt. of Peterborough captured the second round series by a total of 20-14 by winning last night's game here from the Depot Batteries by a score of 9-8. It was easily the best game of the season and the large crowd enjoyed the class of hockey immensely. Armstrong was the best man on the ice, showing speed and stick trickery which amazed the crowd and bewildered the local team. Halpin was also a big factor in the Peterborough win, his rushes being prominent.

The game was a very close checking affair and was hard all the way. From the time Merchant was injured in the last period they played six-man hockey, but even at that style Peterborough had the edge.

In the first period Peterborough had the margin on the play and led by 4-3. When the second period was completed it was a tie, 5-5. And the last frame was a nip and tuck affair, with the honors almost even.

Summing the struggle up, we think tht Peterborough looks good enough to travel several notches in the O.H.A. race, and the team that beats them will be the winners of the Intermediate series, for last night they played clean, fast hockey and the fact that their men were on the ice throughout proved a big advantage in the battle.

The line-up was:

Peterborough—Goal, Legros; defence, Halpin and Thornton; rover, Flannagan, centre, Armstrong; left wing, Evans; right wing, Adams.

Depot Batteries—Goal, Tobin; defence, Tubman and Spence; rover, Grimes; centre, Burnett; left wing, Burke; right wing, Merchant.

AT OSHAWA NEXT FRIDAY

The Soldiers will journey to Oshawa on Friday night to play the first of the home-and-home games in the third round with the Bradley contingent. The date of the second game has not been announced, but it will probably be next Monday or Tuesday night.

The Oshawa team is credited with being fast, and capable of going a long way with any team, being strong on the forward line and on the defence, having Childs in goal, one of the best netmen in the business.

Mrs. Newcom— Before we were married you said that my slightest wish should be your law.

Mr. Newcom—Exactly, my love; but you have so many various and well-developed wishes that I am as yet unable to decide as to which is the slightest.

PETERBORO CURLING CLUB THRICE WINNER OF CUP

The two rinks representing Peterborough in the District Cup finals left for Toronto last night with every confidence that they will come out on top, and carrying with them the best wishes from curlers as well as the citizens generally.

Peterborough won the cup on three previous occasions and from the way this year's rinks have been playing it will take breaks in luck to prevent them from bringing the coveted trophy back to Peterborough again.

In all their practice contests against Tankard skips and selected rinks they have been winners and both skips rejoice in the confidence of their teams.

The rinks that won for Peterborough before were:

1908

M. Tooley, W. M. Lang, R. M. Waddell, H. Foote (skip).

L. Hall, D. Hall, Dr. Eastwood, C. E. Frost (skip).

Defeated the Toronto Granites.

1910

W. G. Read, R. Hicks, Wm. Lang, H. Foote (skip).

L. Hall, W. Taylor, T. Brightman, J. E. A. Fitzgerald (skip).

Defeated Brockville by ten shots.

1911

W. G. Read, R. Cameron, A. Moore, Wm. Lang (skip).

W. P. Adamson, W. D. Campbell, E. L. Bowes, T. E. B. Yates (skip)

Defeated Palmerston by a score of 30 to 21

The Peterborough rinks this year are:—

J. H. Metheral, P. Fitzgerald, E. G. Patterson, Alex. Kay (skip).

R. L. Dobbin, A. Archibald, R. P. Best, W. D. Campbell (skip).

FEARED FOXY PETES MIGHT PUT ONE OVER

KINGSTON'S EXPLANATION FOR PLAYING SEVEN MEN TO SIX.

(Kingston Standard.)

The hockey realm was sadly twisted last night when the local juniors defeated Peterborough 17-2 and captured the round by a grand summary of 23-4, thereby earning the right to play the winners of Aura Lee-De Lassal group in the third round. As we said, everything was topsy-turvy and as disappointing as a rainy night is to the boy about town. First and foremost among the sad features was the fact that Referee Hewitson travelled via G.T.R. He arrived at the rink at 3 p.m. and at 9.15 sounded his "lunch" bell. It was some lunch for the local birds but they made it even more undigestive to the fan by injecting some burlesque into the desert. The other disappointing feature was that Peterborough arrived with only six men. This caused a controversy. Some fans got quite warm despite the zero weather. Views were opposite. Some favored a six-man game while others thought that Peterborough was putting something over. The management of the local team decided to take advantage of the rule and play their full team against six and that is the way it went. We do not think at the six-man game Peterborough would have been able to make it dangerously close, for Graham and Montgomery were the only players on the team and at one time laying six to our five we scored. But, we do think that for the benefit of those who paid their kale, and there was a goodly crowd, that Kingston might have played six men, as they were in no danger of defeat, and even numbers would have procided a more interesting brand of hockey.

The winners were by far the superior quality. Peterborough had speed but lacked team play while on the other hand Kingston had both of these important qualities, using a two and three-man play. Both teams back checked hard for about two-thirds of the game. Graham, of Peterborough, was easily in a class by himself. He has speed and great stick art and was a Trojan for work.

Montgomery was a tower of aid to his team and played a strong game both offensively and defensively. He suffered an accident in the second period, which necessitated his retirement, the muscles of his back at the base of the spine being torn by a bump into the boards following a shot. He was able to accompany his comrades home and Dr. Hanley said he did not think any serious results would follow

PRICE OF "THUNDERER" RAISED TO FOUR CENTS

LONDON, Feb. 13.—The London Times announces that as a consequence of the increasing restrictions on newsprint paper it has raised its price to four cents a copy. It says the recent increase to three cents did not affect its circulation. The newspaper will maintain its size and limit its circulation, and with a view to this end will again raise its price if necessary, even to fourteen cents, which the paper sold at prior to 1836.

It is the intention of The Times to encourage a house-to-house loan circulation.

RETURNED SOLDIERS AND A. R. MEN SEND IN APPLICATIONS.

CITY HALL NOTES.

The property committee will meet tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock for the purpose of appointing a sanitary inspector.

It is understood that there are quite a number of applications for the position, some of them from returned soldiers, some from men who have AR buttons. Police Sgt. Kidd, who withdrew in favor of Sergt. Cooper on a previous occasion, is an applicant for the position.

The duties of the office are increasing every year and from the remarks made by Mayor Duffus a rigid inspection of milk and the dairies that supply the citizens with milk will be insisted on.

The Board of Health will meet this evening at 8 o'clock

The Board of Works will meet tomorrow evening at 9 o'clock.

A prairie fire gave the Calgary firemen a run, while at Banff a winter carnival is in full swing.

Important Notice

TO ALL

BOYS AND GIRLS

UNDER FIFTEEN YEARS OF AGE IN THE COUNTY OF PETERBOROUGH

EARN WHILE YOU LEARN

This is the biggest, most interesting, instructive and profitable competition of the kind on record.

It is open to all boys and girls under fifteen years of age in Peterborough County.

BEAUTIFUL WRIST WATCHES

Awarded for the most accurately drawn maps of Canada.

Never before have the boys and girls of Peterborough County been offered the opportunity to enter a competition that contained so many advantages and inducements.

AN EQUAL CHANCE FOR ALL

No favoritism can be shown as each competitor is known only by a number. Drawings will be judged and prizes awarded according to merit.

Competitors divided into three classes according to age, thus affording all an equal chance—

- Class Number One
  - Under 15 years and over 12 years of age.
- Class Number Two
  - Under 12 years and over 9 years of age.
- Class Number Three—
  - Under 9 years of age

WIN a Beautiful Wrist Watch in the Canadian Map Drawing Competition which the Peterborough Daily Review commenced yesterday, February 12th.

"OPPORTUNITY"

They do me wrong who say I come no more
When once I knock and fail to find you in:
For NOW I stand outside your door
And bid you wake and rise to fight and win.

BOYS AND GIRLS

Opportunity stands outside your door and bids you wake and rise to work and win one of these beautiful 15-jewel Swiss lever movement, stem wind and stem set,

Silver Military Wrist Watches

which are being given away for a few hours' work—The Canadian Map Drawing Competition.

This is your opportunity—Don't fail to take advantage of it.

WHAT YOU HAVE TO DO

Fill out the entry blank, and bring or send it to us, together with 25c to pay for one month's subscription for The Daily Review. Notify your teacher, your parents, your friends that you have entered this competition. Ask them to assist you in your efforts to win a prize. You will be surprised to find how anxious they will be to help you. If your parents are already subscribing for the The Daily Review and are not prepared to extend their present subscription, get busy and secure the subscription of your uncle, your aunt or one of the neighbors.

Enrol today. Do not delay. Do it now!

TO WIN A PRIZE

Make a Free-Hand Drawing of the Map of Canada, showing the chief cities, principal rivers, lakes and mountain ranges. The Maps must be free hand drawings and the unaided work of the competitor. No tracing of any kind will be allowed.

RULES AND REGULATIONS GOVERNING THE DAILY REVIEW CANADIAN MAP DRAWING COMPETITION

The competition is open to all children under 15 years of age in the County of Peterborough. The subscription price of 25c for The Daily Review for one month must accompany each entry. Upon receipt of application the candidate will receive a number. This number must be used instead of name and address when sending in drawings. Candidates may send in as many drawings as they please. Assistance may be given candidates to help them learn how to draw maps, but the maps submitted to the judges must be the unaided free-hand efforts of the candidates. The drawings submitted must not exceed 16in. by 20in. in size. No tracing of any kind will be allowed. The decision of the judges will be final.

All entries must reach The Review Office before 6 p.m. on March 10th, 1917.

Soldier Gets Work

Corp. E. Wackett who was wounded on April 15 in the battle of Ypres, and was the first soldier to return to Kitchener from active service, has been appointed to a clerkship in the customs port in that city. He has recovered the use of his limbs sufficiently to enable him to undertake clerical work.

St. Valentine's Afternoon Tea

The date is Wednesday afternoon, February 14. The place is the Oriental Dining Room. The event is the St. Valentine's Tea, to be given by the Canadian Kitchener League. The proceeds are for the Peterborough boys in the trenches. Come and take a share in the noble work. The assistance of everyone is necessary. You will enjoy a social time and the boys will more than appreciate a warm pair of socks. From 3 to 5 o'clock the 247th Band will render the best of programmes.

Schools Closed

Owing to the non-arrival of a sufficient supply of hard coal Suddaby school at Kichener is closed. Judge W. M. Reade advocated the closing of schools and churches until the coal situation is improved. The homes and industries should receive the first consideration, he declared.

HARD TO FIND WORKERS FOR THE PETITIONS

ASKING LEGISLATURE TO GRANT SUFFRAGE TO WOMEN.

The petitions on equal suffrage which the Local Council of Women are circulating for presentation at this session of the Legislature have not been completed as the women are also busily engaged in patriotic work, and it is difficult to find workers who can spare the time on the petitions. They must be in the hands of the central committee early in March.

Col Ackerman will have an informal talk with the members of the local council at their meeting on Thursday afternoon, when the question of women and war work will be discussed.

Trustees—James Hickey, P. Milloy T. H. McGarrel, R. Sheehy, F. McPherson.

KITCHENER LEAGUE PATRIOTIC DANCE AND CARDS.

This event should appeal strongly to those looking for an opportunity towards helping financially this great cause, on account of the proceeds being used in buying necessary comforts for our boys in the trenches. It is impossible to personally sell tickets to all those likely requiring them, but they can be had at the different banks or purchased on the night of the entertainment, which will be held at the Oriental Hotel on St. Valentine Evening, this Wednesday, Feb. 14th, at 8:30 o'clock. Tickets, including lady and gentleman, are very reasonable for one dollar, and those coming unescorted, half price. There will be lots of card tables for those not wishing to dance. No doubt any one attending this patriotic function will not be disappointed.

The gas situation in Hamilton is more serious than at any time this winter, and unless there is an immediate abatement of the present severe weather stories of great distress and suffering may be looked for.

GOOD PRICES AT SALE OF STOCK

HOLSTEIN PURCHASED FOR $50 TWO YEARS AGO BROUGHT $130.

Mr. J. F. Thornton held a highly successful sale of stock on the farm formerly owned by Mr. G. A. Gillespie in Smith, and now owned by Mr. Edward Sanderson. The sales aggregated $4,000. Four thoroughbred cows brought from $155 to $200 each, ten grade cows averaged over $100 and registered cattle brought prices in proportion.

Eleven horses and colts brought good prices. When Mr. Gillespie bought the farm from Mr. Sanderson two years ago he also purchased a mare, which has since raised three colts. The four animals were sold yesterday at a profit of $320.

Mr. Gillespie bought a grade Holstein cow from Mr. Sanderson with the farm, the price being $50. Yesterday Mr. Sanderson bought back the same cow for $130.

THEATRICAL

J. Hartley Manners' delightful comedy "Peg O' My Heart," was presented to a large audience by the United Producing Co. at the Grand Opera House last night, and nothing but words of praise was given to the presentation. Miss Marion Dentler as "Peg" kept the audience in roars of laughter with her witticisms garnished with the proper O'Connell brogue. Mr. William Sautes, who took the part of "Jerry," the disguised executor and trustee of Peg's fortune, filled the role of that difficult office and also the easier one of lover to the satisfaction of all. The rest of the company were well chosen for their parts, particularly Miss Mable Barring, whose changeable disposition caused as quick a change in her feeling of the audience towards her. Another specially good feature was the short waits between acts.

The manager, Mr. H. Nelson Dickson, announced the hockey score, and was loudly applauded when he stated that the 247th team had defeated the Depot Battery in Kingston.

NOTICE

Garbage Collection

Difficulty has been caused in the collections of ashes by the receptacles being too large or awkward in shape for handling, and by not being strong enough. They should not be of more than two cubic feet capacity or weigh more than 75 pounds when full, and should be sufficiently strong. Neither should they be too small, for this unnecessarily increases the time required in handling and the expense. No other material or refuse shall be mixed with ashes. Table and kitchen waste must be drained and wrapped in paper. All refuse must be placed out for collection before the collector calls.

Householders are asked to carefully observe the regulations, so as to avoid unnecessary trouble for all concerned, and to co-operate to make the work successful.

By Order.
S. R. ARMSTRONG.
City Clerk.

Sanitary Inspector Wanted

Applications addressed to "Ald. J. Saunders, Chairman Property Committee," and endorsed "Application for Position of Sanitary Inspector," will be received at the office of the undersigned up to 5 o'clock p.m. on February 14, 1917, for the position of Sanitary Inspector of the City of Peterborough. Applicants are requested to state qualifications and salary expected. Full information may be obtained at this office.

S. R. ARMSTRONG.
City Clerk.

PARLIAMENTARY NOTICE

Friday, the twenty-third day of February next, will be the last day for presenting Petitions for Private Bills.

Friday, the second day of March next, will be the last day for introducing Private Bills.

Thursday, the fifteenth day of March next, will be the last day for receiving Reports of Committees on Private Bills.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

The A. B. C. Club of St. John's Church will hold a Valentine night for its members and patronesses on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in the school house. All are asked to bring thimbles.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Macdonald have returned from Chicago, where they were visiting Mr. Robt. Stuart.

The Mark St. Ladies' Aid Society are arranging for a presentation of the comedy, "The Village Doctor" on Tuesday, March 13.

At the regular meeting of the Mothers Club in the Y.M.C.A. parlors on Wednesday at 3 p.m., Mrs. T. F. Matthews will give an address on the Red Cross. Members and friends are invited.

Mrs. G. L. Hay wishes to announce that the contributions to the One Cent a Day Club of the Ashburnham Red Cross Society for the month of January amounted to 4,570 cents, making a total to date of 112,266.

Mrs. F. C. Neal went to Toronto today.

Will the ladies interested in the playgrounds movement (and who is not?) kindly remember the collection of rags to be made in the spring by the Playgrounds Committee. Keep a paper bag or box in the kitchen or in the sewing room and see how soon it will be filled. Put in anything clean—cotton, woollen or linen. Keep another for the scraps of clean paper. Don't rob the incinerator and keep the newspapers for other patriotic work, but just see how the remaining pieces mount up. You will be surprised and delighted to find that your "bit," costing you nothing, will be of considerable value in helping on a good work. Old rubbers and scraps of metal also will be acceptable.—Annie E. Mowat (For the Playgrounds Committee of the Local Council of Women).

Rev. Dr. Scott, anniversary speaker and lecturer at George St. Church returned to Belleville today.

There will be the usual work carried on at the Peterborough Progressive Club rooms on Wednesday but the business meeting will be postponed until next month.

Mrs. (Dr.) Wildman of New York is in the city attending the funeral of the late Mr. Kennin.

Mr. D. O'Connell of Toronto is in the city.

Mr. G. A. Gillespie went to Toronto this morning to attend the Legislature.

Capt. Thomson, who, with Mrs. Thomson, has been visiting at St. Mary's, has returned to the city. Mrs. Thompson stayed over for a few weeks.

Miss Moore and Miss Dawson, of Richard Hall & Sons, left today for New York.

Mr. Gordon Galvin, Spirit River, Alberta, who came east for a visit with friends, is in the city. He will also visit in Lakefield.

MISS ADA L. WARD

Will give her popular lecture, "London in War Time," in George St. Methodist Church Wednesday evening, Feb. 21. Proceeds in aid of soldiers' comforts.

STANDING COMMITTEES FOR CHILDREN'S AID

Four Applications for Position of Superintendent.

The Children's Aid Society met in the Bank of Montreal Chambers yesterday afternoon, and it was one of the best attended executive meetings that the Board has ever held. It will be noticed from the list of those present that here were many new faces at he meeting, and they were warmly welcomed by President Peck on behalf of the members. Those present were: Mesdames Gibbs, Montgomery, Stocker, Howard, McElhiney, Hopwood, Messrs. Parsons, Wearing, Edgar, Howard, Thompson, Spence, Dr. D. C. King, Mayor Duffus, Rev. R. B. Grobb and Adjt. McElhiney.

The president reported that Dr. Amys desired to pass around the honor of being physician to the society, and it was decided to ask Dr. D. C. King to accept the office, which he gladly did.

A vote of thanks was ordered sent to Dr. Amys, who has given his services free to the society for fourteen years.

Standing Committees.

The following standing committees were appointed for the year:

Legal Committee—Jos. L. Wearing (chairman), G. N. Gordon, E. L. Goodwill, E. A. Peck.

Home Committee—All the ladies of the Board.

Purchasing Committee — W. A. Howard (chairman) and Mesdames Gibbs, Stocker, Hopwood and Howard.

Accounts Committee, to deal with all accounts submitted to the society —Father Phelan (chairman), Adjt. McElhiney and W. A. Howard.

Finance Committee, for the purpose of providing funds to carry on the work of the society—Adjt. McElhiney (chairman), Messrs. Pennefather and Green (vice-chairman).

Visiting Committee, to consist of two members of the Board each month and to be nominated from time to time by the secretary.

Accounts To Be Paid.

Chief Howard presented the report of the purchasing committee, recommending the payment of the following accounts:

Review Ptg. Co.	$ 17.50

New Executive Members.

Rev. R. G. Peever, B.D., and Dr Amys were elected members of the executive committee.

Plenty of Work.

Mr. C. A. G. Spence, the society's agent, gave a verbal report for the month of January, showing that he had travelled about four hundred miles on society work and had investigated eighteen complaints. He had received fourteen applications for children. The formation of branches of the society in Norwood and Havelock had also been made. The necessity for a lantern and slides for organization meetings was pointed out, but Adjt. McElhiney kindly offered the use of his lantern if the society furnished the gas, and the difficulty was removed.

The Superintendent.

The resignation of Miss Colson as superintendent of the Shelter was accepted, to take effect as soon as arrangements can be made, and the matter was left in the hands of a committee composed of Mesdames Hopwood, Gibbs, Stocker, Montgomery, McElhiney, Howard, and the president and secretary to fill the position either temporarily or otherwise.

Four applications for the position were received:

Mrs. William Henry.

Mrs. E. Read, 492 Bonacord St.

Mrs. S. F. Touchburn, 20 Benson avenue.

Mrs. Robt. Karney, 322 Water St.

Rev. R. B. Grobb, president of the Ministerial Association, promised to arrange for the children of the Shelter to be visited at least once a month by one of the city ministers.

APPOINTED

MRS. M. READ IN CHARGE AT SHELTER FOR CHILDREN.

Mrs. M. Read, 492 Bonacord street, was appointed superintendent of the Children's Shelter at a meeting of the special committee of the Children's Aid Society yesterday evening.

The ladies of the house committee speak in the highest terms of the qualifications of Mrs. Read, and feel confident that she will be able to continue the good management so ably and satisfactorily conducted by Miss Colson.

TRENT CANAL CLAIMS WILL BE HEARD AT COURT HOUSE

Before Judge of Exchequer Court on Monday February 26---Claims For Damages Above Buckhorn Dam Aggregate Over $10,000---No Law Costs for the Claimants.

The trial of the Trent Valley Canal claims for damages above the Buckhorn dam, on Feb. 26, before the Judge of the Exchequer Court at the Court House, Peterborough, promises to create a great deal of interest. No less than three separate valuators were sent up by the Government into this district in connection with these claims, but no satisfaction having been forthcoming the plaintiffs appealed to the Government into this dstirte taol Federal member for West Peterborough to take the matter up. He got a fiat enabling the claimants to go into the Exchequer Court and sue the Government of Canada. On Dec. 6, 1915, the Acting Deputy-Minister of Justice wrote Mr. Burnham, M.P., as follows:

"I suggest in order to save expense and trouble that you select one of these cases which you think would be a good test case and that we proceed to the trial of that case before any of the others are proceeded with. I do not, of course, intend that either party shall be bound by the judgment with regard to the other cases, but the trial of one case would probably enable us to secure a ruling on the points of law applicable to the others."

Accordingly the case of Mr. Hopwood was selected and on Feb. 26, Hopwood vs. The King will be proceeded with at the Court House. As will be seen by the above letter of the Department, all those interested in this case should be present and if their claims are not immediately afterwards sent in to the Government, in case Mr. Hopwood wins his suit, they will undoubtedly be barred as this claim means the winding-up of this long standing dispute one way or the other.

Claims Aggregate Over $10,000

The total amount of claims above Buckhorn would probably aggregate $10,000 to $15,000, and depend upon whether or not in the year 1912 the new dam that was then opened was higher and had fewer spillways than the old dam or not. Previous to 1912 all the old damage claims had been paid in connection with the Buckhorn dam, but the erection of this new dam, which is stated to have been some eighteen inches higher than the old dam, has given rise to a number of new cases. A great deal of testimony will come out. It it alleged that not only was there a very high freshet in 1912, but high winds against stream as well and that there were the cause of the damage. The claimants say that whilst there was an unusually high freshet, that the damage would have been much less if it had not been for the height and narrowness of the dam, and this is said by them to be the measure of the damages. There will be a large number of witnesses, no doubt, as all the claimants are interested. There will be no expense, no law costs to anybody as the member has succeeded in getting the Government to meet the claimants half way in this matter before a duly constituted court, so that there will be no talk of political payments for damages, and so that if the Government is compelled to pay it will be by a duly constituted court of the land. There is considerable excitement over the case and no doubt there will be a large crowd in attendance.

PTE. L. HOWDEN DIED DAY FOLLOWING WOUNDS

Pte. P. A. Elston is Reported Wounded in Right Leg.

The strength of the 247th Battalion today is 173.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Howden, Romaine Street, were officially informed today that their son, Pte. Leslie Howden of the original 93rd Batt., died of wounds Feb. 8. He was admitted to hospital the preceding day and the report on his condition said he was dangerously wounded.

Pte. Philip Audrey Elston, who enlisted for overseas service in the first Canadian contingent, is today reported wounded in the right leg by gunshot on Jan. 18. He is the son of Mrs. Mary E. Elston, Walkerfield Ave., and a brother-in-law of Lieut. J. V. McEelderry of the 247th Batt.

An important meeting of the Speakers' Patriotic League will be held tonight at the Patriotic Rooms at 8 o'clock. Important business will come before the league and every member is urged to be present.

Chancellor A. L. McCrimmon of Toronto will address a recruiting meeting to be held in the Grand Opera House on Sunday night. An effort is being made to have Major Harry Hodge of Campbellford here also. Lieut. Brittain, adjutant of the 247th, will tell of his experiences overseas.

Lt.-Col. Ackerman anticipates a good attendance at the meeting of the Five Hundred Club to be held in the recreation rooms of the Armories tomorrow night. The ladies are invited to be present and join the club. The lists are completed and ready to hand out to the club members.

Sergt. Fred Jamieson spent the week-end at home here. He returned to Belleville yesterday morning.

Pte. Geo. Connors has been promoted to sergeant according to today's orders.

Sergt. Stanley has received orders that Saturday will be the last day for recruiting men for the 256th (non-combatant) Batt., so that men who are prepared and ready to join the ranks of the unit have only till the end of the week to make the plunge. Sergt. Stanley has recruited 20 men for the battalion, the latest additions to the ranks being Sherman Blewett anl Albert Roy, Oliver Smith, Wm. A. Gunn, City, and Moses Smoke, an Indian of Roseneath.

OFFICIAL RETURNS ON ELECTIONS IN U. S.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—President Wilson was formally and officially declared re-elected today when Congress in joint session, as provided by the constitution, canvassed the electoral votes of the States as presented and certified the official returns, which give Wilson and Marshall 277 electoral votes, and Hughes and Fairbanks 254.

STATES MAKES AN INQUIRY

MAROONED AMERICANS DETAINED IN ASIA MINOR.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14. — Another enquiry was sent by the State Department today to Ambassador Elkus at Constantinople to develop why he has not been able to report about marooned Americans detained in Asia Minor.

BERLIN REPORTS, BRITISH WERE DRIVEN BACK

GAINED FOOTING SOUTH OF SERRE AFTER ARTILLERY FIRE.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

BERLIN, Feb. 14. — An official announcement issued today says British troops yesterday on the north bank of the Ancre River, after most violent artillery preparation, continued attacks, employing strong forces of infantry. Before noon two attacks were made south of Serre, both of which were repulsed in hand-to-hand fighting. Enemy detachments which gained a footing before our front were driven away at the point of the bayonet.

Our artillery directed an effective annihilating fire against further reinforcements north of the Ancre, and in the afternoon south of the Ancre, which were observed to be held in readiness.

ENCOUNTERS BY PATROLS; ENEMY FAILS

GERMAN AVIATOR DROPS EXPLOSIVES ON DUNKIRK.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

PARIS, Feb. 14. — Patrol encounters occurred last night in the region of Soissons and in the Champagne near Tahure, says today's official report.

In Lorraine one attack by the enemy in the sector of Baccarat was broken up by our fire.

In Alsace, east of Metzeral, we made a successful surprise attack and took prisoners.

Elsewhere on the front there was intermittent artillery fighting.

This morning a German aviator dropped bombs on Dunkirk. There were no victims and no damage was done.

In the vicinity of Pompey Meurthe Et Moselle bombs were dropped. Two civilians were killed and two were wounded.

REVOLUTION IN CUBA

Lansing Tells Revolutionists New Government Would Not be Recognized.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 14. — Representatives of the Cuban Liberal party, which has established headquarters here, declare that a revolution in Cuba is in full swing and that they have won some important victories.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14. — Secretary Lansing sent to the Cuban people today a warning that any government that might be established by revolt could not be recagnized by the United States.

MAYOR DUFFUS WOULD PUT SANITATION DEPT. IN HANDS OF B. OF H.

Sanitary Inspector is Now Under Two Masters.

MEMBERS AGREE

When general business was taken up at the Board of Health last night Mayor Duffus in referring to the duties of the sanitary officer, stated that he ha[illegible]en the work of the Board of Health considerable thought and had come to the conclusion that the appointment of the sanitary officer and all work of a sanitary nature tending to a clean, healthy city, should be under the control of the Board, and not under the city property committee. The sanitary officer was under two masters, which was always unsatisfactory. He would have the board let the garbage contracts, regulate the night soil collection, have charge of the incinerator employees, see that the milk supply of the city was coming from dairies, the strict regulation of the domestic ice supply and any matter whatever that might come under the head of sanitation.

Dr. Amys, M.O.H., suggested that in addition to this, the board should have the licensing of restaurants, milk vendors, icemen, butcher shops, laundries and eating houses. He gave a report on the condition of some restaurants or cafes as he found them a short time ago.

Mayor Duffus: Give the owners a notice of the improvements required and if they do not make the changes in a reasonable time, close them up.

Ald. Duncan thought the Mayor's suggestion to place the control of all health matters in the hands of the board was a good one. It made considerable work and he would not care to be chairman, but it was a right move. It would make no difference to the city in the matter of expense as the members of the Council controlled the board. The estimates would be transferred from one department to another. It would be a good recommendation to next year's council if it could not be done this year.

It was finally decided on a motion of Mayor Duffus and Mr. Murty to ask the city council to consider the advisability of making the change.

The Peterborough Utilities Commission will be asked to have the city water tested by the board's officers in order to save expense to the city. The board were of the opinion that it was unnecessary for two inspections to be made and the one made should by the Medical Health Officer.

Board Will Collect

Chairman Duncan drew attention to the fact that there were many accounts owing the city for services rendered people at the Queen Mary Hospital. Some of them were collectable and others not. Many of these accounts would have been paid had the matron power to collect the money.

In future Miss Reid will collect whatever money is due from patients desiring to pay on leaving the institution. Payments may still be made to the city treasurer if more convenient.

William Brown was the only tenderer for the ice supply at the Queen Mary Hospital. He will do the work for $44. It cost $42.50 last year.

Accounts Passed

The following accounts were ordered to be paid:

Pet. hardware Co.	.35
Bell Telephone Co.	.70
G. A. Pringle	3.93
J. M. Fanning	22.25
Dicksons'	12.20
Thos. Hooper	5.00

E. J. Jopling & Son	15.70
Wm. Brown	3.92
Grant & Thorpe	1.30
Utilities Commission	15.00
Review Printing Co.	9.10

There were present Chairman Duncan, Mayor Duffus, Dr. Amys, Ald. Saunders and T. Murty.

MENTIONED IN SIR D. HAIG'S DESPATCHES

A late issue of the Canada Gazette prints an extract from the London (England) Gazette of January 2 last, stating that a despatch has been received from Gen. Sir Douglas Haig, G.C.B., commander-in-chief of the British armies in France, by the Secretary of War, London. The commander-in-chief states:

'I have the honor to submit a list of names of those officers, ladies, non-commissioned officers and men, serving, or who have served, under my command, whose distinguished and gallant services and devotion to duty I consider deserving of special mention."

Following is a list, filling quite seven columns of the Gazette. Among those mentioned are two from Peterborough, Lieut. Claud H. Rogers and Lt.-Col. T. W. H. Young.

Long before the institution of that reward for valor in the field, the Victoria Cross, the highest honor, and a coveted one, that could be bestowed on the British officer or private was to be mentioned in the despatches. That the many enrolled in the list well deserved the distinction cannot be doubted, and a remarkable thing is that of those specially mentioned are none of the nursing sisters who have done things the most heroic and inspiring on and adjacent to the battlefields of the Somme.

PETERBOROUGH, WEDNESDAY, FEB. 14, 1917

MR. WEARING TO THE RESCUE.

THE REFERENCE to the return to Peterborough of the 93rd Band, which appeared in The Review on Saturday has called out two letters of protest, one by Mr. Joseph Wearing, which was published in this paper yesterday, the other from Thomas R. Blunt, of the band in question, a communication which appeared yesterday in a local contemporary. We prefer to deal with Mr. Wearing's letter. He writes as the secretary of the Patriotic League, so that what he says has an official tone. We beg to suggest that Mr. Blunt carefully peruse what Mr. Wearing has written, and then ask himself whether his case has been improved or not.

Mr. Wearing says that when the 247th Battalion was organized, it was learned in Peterborough that the members of the 93rd Band were engaged in duties in England which were certainly not anticipated by any of the members when they enlisted.

Quite so. Letters received from the English training camps about that time conveyed the additional intelligence that these new duties were distasteful and that the men had expected and felt like insisting upon going to the front as a musical unit. Not every man who enlists in Canada gets a congenial line of duty when he reaches England. The good soldier will, however, bear his lot without a murmur.

Mr. Wearing, as secretary of the Patriotic League, wrote the Minister of Militia, asking that the band be sent back to Peterborough. A mother, hearing that her son was doing fatigue duty at Otterpool, might send in a similar request, pleading for the boy's release. Even if the military authorities acceded to the request, the young man would not be in duty bound to avail himself of the chance to return.

There were two bands in the city when Mr. Wearing wrote to General Hughes, one of them a military unit led by a man in the uniform of a lieutenant. The other, the Salvation Army Band, offered its services to the League for recruiting duty. Both bands were under obligations to the city, as each had received a civic grant. Was there any necessity for bringing a third musical organization to Peterborough? There was work for the 93rd Band in England, judging from Mr. Wearing's statement, even if the duties were such as the members had not anticipated when they enlisted.

The slackers of the city are always willing to avail themselves of an excuse, however flimsy. More than one young man in this city has been heard to say that the country did not need men very badly when it could afford to send a band on a trip across the ocean and bring them back again while there were already two such organizations in the city. If General Hughes had been familiar with the local situation, the probability is that the members of the 93rd Band would still be in England.

If any private citizen in this district has been active and useful in recruiting work, Mr. Wearing certainly has. No one knows better than he does that a band is only a slight factor in recruiting. Music may have charms to tame the savage breast—but even the excellent renditions of the 93rd Band cannot stir patriotic enthusiasm in the bosom of the slacker. And with that efficient organization here, the recruiting campaign for the 247th Battalion has been considerable of a disappointment.

Why waste time in discussion that will lead nowhere? Why not face the situation bravely and admit that recruiting by the brass band method is dead? Mr. Wearing and the other members of the League surely were at least half convinced of that fact when they sent for the band. The Empire needs more men and different methods must be adopted to secure them. Let the ornamental and lay figures in military circles be set at some task that will really count. The slacker in mufti is after all a more desirable citizen than the shirker and loafer in uniform. If a man is physically fit for service then let him serve. If he is not, if he has tried and been found wanting, then let him be released for civilian duty. A man not up to military standards may be able to make munitions and earn from $3 to $5 a day. In heaven's name give him a chance to serve his country in that capacity and do not keep him tooting a brass horn or pounding a drum. Let him take the place of some man who, when he reaches the fighting zone, will not be sent back because he is not up to the physical standard.

There has been too much music and parading, too much ineffective oratory, all wasted energy, since the war broke out; too many pap-fed hangers-on, too many seeking their own ends rather than concerning themselves with the welfare of the country. Let the people wake up, drop all their petty strifes and jealousies and make a strong and concerted effort that will accomplish something of the purpose in view. Canada needs more crash of firearms and less blare of trumpets, more plainly-clad privates and fewer wall-flower officers.

SERVING TWO MASTERS.

THE SANITARY INSPECTOR has always worked under unusual difficulties. In the first place, the very nature of his duties is such that their faithful discharge is sure to make him unpopular with a large number of householders. He has always worked under two masters, the Board of Health and the City Council. The chances are that when he carries out the behests of one he displeases the other body. Mayor Duffus makes a practical suggestion when he proposes that the inspector work under the direction of the Board of Health.

All the duties of the official have to do with public health, and experts in this department are the proper parties to direct his energies. One of the most important of all his responsibilities has to do with the sale of milk. No man should be allowed to sell milk in the city until his dairy premises and surroundings have been passed upon by the inspector. This is a matter which has recently been more or less neglected. While the price of milk is so high, the consumer should at least be given the assurance that what he pays for is up to standard.

THE LEGISLATURE OPENS.

IT IS HARD TO GATHER any idea of the real business likely to come before the Legislature, from what is said in the Speech from the Throne, although that is supposed to outline the work that the Government will undertake. Usually the most important legislation that comes up during the session is never referred to.

Enough has been given in the official speech at the opening of the Legislature yesterday to warrant the belief that important matters are to be dealt with. First and foremost, the Province is to provide for the returned soldiers, and at the same time solve the problem of people drifting from the country to the cities. Production is to be encouraged by every means that the Government can employ. The forest wealth of Ontario is to be protected by an improvement in the system of fire prevention. Attention is to be given to the development of hydro-electric and the construction of provincial highways. Altogether the legislation foreshadowed is of an important nature.

No reference is made in the Speech from the Throne to two important matters that are sure to come up for discussion—the Ontario Temperance Act and woman's suffrage. The former measure will beyond a doubt be the subject for many a debate. The antis have long ago abandoned all hope that the measure will be modified in their interests. If any amendments are added, those are almost sure to be in the direction of tightening up the provisions of the Act.

Two private members have given notice of motions dealing with women's franchise. One of these would give married women the municipal franchise, while the other goes the length of conferring upon them the right to vote for members of the Legislature. Spinsters are ignored in each proposition.

The equal suffragist societies of the Province will during the session present their petitions for the franchise, and this will compel the Government to deal with the matter in one way or the other.

WAR ON AMERICAN CONTINENT.

IT MAY BE that the theatre of the European war is to be extended to the American continent sooner than even the most pessimistic ever imagined was possible. Carranza, the president of Mexico, is supposed to be in the pay of the Kaiser. British capitalists own extensive oil fields at Tampico, Mexico, from which the navy's chief supply of fuel is derived. If Carranza took over these fields and stopped the output, the effect on the Allies' cause would be nothing short of disastrous.

Washington has received information that the British propose to send a detachment of troops to Tampico to protect the oil fields and insure their uninterrupted operation. There will be no objection to this course under the Monroe Doctrine, so long as the European troops do not seek to make conquest of territory. The point has been settled in similar cases that have arisen in business transactions between European powers and various South American republics.

Any trouble that the British are likely to meet with if this step is really taken will be forced upon them by the Mexicans, and not by the United States. Carranza would not be likely to submit quietly to what he would regard as an invasion. If he attacked the British guardians of the oil fields, the result is not hard to imagine. The American continent would soon ring with the sound of armed strife, and Canada would have serious military duties to discharge on this side of the Atlantic.

THERE ARE SAID to be one hundred thousand victims of the drug habit in New York State, but this probably included the gullible citizens who dreamed that Wilson ever meant to fight.

There is not much difference between sinking merchant ships without warning and hospital ships on sight. Germany has announced its intention to do both.

BRITAIN FINDS PAYING WORK FOR HER DISABLED SOLDIERS

An old British industry that is being revived as a result of conditions due to the war is that of herb-growing. The London Times in an articles dealing with the revival says:—

"Herb-growing has seized the imagination of many people with gardens, and also of many local Councils throughout the country. A short time ago it was announced that the Queen had become a patron of the newly-formed Norfolk Herb Growers Association, and that both the King and Queen were greatly interested in encouraging the cultivation and growth of herbs at Windsor.

"When war broke out it found the wholesale drugists entirely dependent on Central Europe for the herbs needed for their drugs. Yet before 1870 this had not been the case, and the manufacturing chemits had been glad of small parcels from growers all over the country, particularly the southern and eastern counties. Germany put this valuable and interesting business in her own pocket by exercising her undoubted genius for organization. She made it easy for the manufacturing chemists to buy dry herbs in bulk and by means of centralized drying depots gradually ousted the small home producer in England.

"Now that German herbs are no longer available and manufacturing chemists have to return to the home producer, it is not proposed to follow the methods of the seventies, but to put herb-growing and herb-drying on a proper commercial basis so that it may prove a valuable industry after the war, when no one will feel any desire to trade with the Central Powers.

"This project has been made possible by the quiet and thorough work of the National Herb Growing Association, which owed its origin last Spring to a committee of ladies, who were first concerned with the fact that there was likely to be a dearth of drugs in the hospitals if something was not done. Begun in a small way, it has now grown into an important organization, whose objects are the revial of systematic collection, cultivation and marketing of medicinal and sweet herbs as a rural industry. In the early months of its working there was something rough and ready about its methods; herbs were dried in laundries, brick kilns, greenhouses and other makeshift places, so that the need might be quickly met. Now that the industry has spread it is about to be put on a well-ordered and organized basis.

"Practically the whole of the herbs used for drugs in this country are purchased by a few large firms of wholesale druggists, who in their turn supply the drugs to the chemists throughout the kingdom. These wholesale firms will only buy in large quantities, so that co-operation among small growers who would only have small parcels of certain herbs to offer is essential.

"The National Herb Growing Association feels, as a body, that there can never be a return to the pre-seventy methods, and that if the industry is to be kept and made profitable it is best done by putting all the organization on a linked-up basis. The small herb-growing associations will find trading easier by joining in, and will also save capital by not sinking money in their own drying sheds or having to pay wages and coal bills, and the railways are promising good terms for the association's consignments.

"The best system is thought to be to have the country mapped out in areas and to have drying centres at intervals of, say, 100 miles, where the drying could be carried out to a standard chosen by the wholesale druggists and to which the different growers could send their herbs, where they would be graded and sorted as to quality, weighed and sent in bulk to the wholesale chemists, thus saving a multiplicity of small transactions to buyer and seller.

"What the small grower wants above all is advice, and this is being made available in many wys. Private owners with large gardens in a good many districts have told their gardeners to find herbs suitable to the soil of the district and plant them, so that the small growers in the neighborhood may have the advantage of seeing what herbs suit the soil and how to deal with them. The Town Councils of Torquay and Hastings, among other places, have given ground to grow herbs.

"Since the association was formed a year ago it has built up a membership of over 2,000 and has formed numerous branches all over the kingdom for drying and collecting herbs. The small growers are coming in owing to the fact that the scope of the association is national and does not benefit pecuniarily any particular group of persons. There is a trade section and an educational section, the latter being very wide in its scope. It includes instruction in the preparation of herbs for the drug market, elementary botany, lessons on the value of plants often wasted, and in the organization of remunerative work which can be carried out by widows, disabled soldiers and others without outlay of capital. This prepares the way for the formation of new village industries.".

WHY MOTHERS CRY AT WEDDINGS

"Wasn't Sally Trimble's wedding splendid?" remarked Mrs. Mendleton, enthusiastically. "There was not one hitch in the whole ceremony."

"I liked all of it but one thing," said Mendleton. "Why did Mrs. Trimble cry so?"

"The mother usually cries at weddings," observed Mrs. Mendleton. "She lost her daughter, you know, by Sally's getting married."

"Lost her?" asked Mendleton. "No such thing. She gained a son and goodness knows how many cousins and nephews and uncles and aunts. I think a mother ought to be a good loser."

"Still, people feel sorry for the mother who loses a daughter."

"They ought to," responded Mendleton. "She is entitled to sympathy. If a baby gets sick in the night it is the mother who has lost her daughter who is summoned by phone by the new son and who hikes for the scene at 2 a.m. with a bottle of ipecac and hot water bottle and joggles the child of the lost one on her knee face downward until the pains desist.

"It is the mother of the lost one who sterilizes the baby's milk, heats the baby's blanket and rocks the baby to sleep if she can when it is important for her lost daughter to go to the theatre or the woman's club or the bazaar or to accompany her husband on a business trip.

"It is the mother who has lost her daughter who meets the payments on the house, auto, phonograph, piano or baby buggy when for some reason the son can't come across.

"It is the mother who cooks the meals when the maid leaves, and who puts the card in the window for the iceman.

"It is the mother who keeps the phone and the gas meter and the electric lights in the house when hard times come a-knocking. It is the mother who keeps away the wolf.

"She is the original Santa Claus, too. The coat that is warmest, the hat that is finest and fanciest and the $5 gold piece in the toe of the stocking come from her."

"Dear, dear," said Mrs. Mendleton. "I never thought of that. Maybe that's why Mrs. Trimble cried.

EDUCATION OF THE FARMERS

In a survey of agricultural conditions in Dundas County, Ont., conducted by the Commission of Conservation in 1916, the subject of education is reported on as follows:

Ninety-eight per cent. of the four hundred farmers visited had attended public school only, and one per cent. had attended high school. None had attended college, and one of the four hundred had attended business college. Ninety-two per cent. of the farmers' wives had attended public school only. Three per cent. had attended high school, and none had attended business college.

Nine per cent. reported the children as having school gardens, while 22 per cent. reported having a home garden under the supervision of the teacher. Forty-seven per cent. stated that they had attended a short course in agriculture, and 93 per cent. were in favor of short courses for the young people. Many of these short courses consist of judging classes in seed grain and live stock, held in various parts of the country, to which all farmers are invited. Ninety-seven per cent. were satisfied with the schools as at present managed.

If the farmers' training is to be improved, the improvement must evidently be made in the training in the rural school. Hence the wisdom and advisability of making the rural school training as efficient, adequate and suitable as possible to prepare the young men and young women for real life in the country. The teaching of agriculture should occupy a more prominent place on the rural school curriculum than at present.

Wit and Wisdom

"Is Bigins a patriot?"

"Yes. But he's the kind that would be more useful in a school of elocution than in a training camp."

"Why are children so much worse than they used to be?"

"I attribute is to improved ideas in building."

"How so?"

"Shingles are scarce, and you can't spank a boy with a tin roof."

First Manufacturer—Your factory is very well equipped, but you can not hold a candle to the stuff I turn out.

Second Manufacturer—And what do you manufacture?

First Manufacturer—Gunpowder.

"My boy," said the successful merchant, "never let your capital lie idle. Remember that money talks but it doesn't talk in its sleep."

Madam—Have you any references?

The French Maid—Zee husband of ze lady where I last worked he give me an automobile.

As a matter of fact your neighbors think just as disagreeable things about you as you think about them.

After the wedding ceremony the newly-married pair sought their new cottage home. Then the bride held her wedding ring to her ear, as children hold shells when listening for the "waves."

"What are you doing?" asked her husband.

"Listening to the music," was the prompt reply of the lady, who had certain suspicions about her new ornament.

"Music? Who ever heard o' music in a wedding ring?" scoffed the man.

"That's as may be," retorted the bride; "but have you heard a brass band play?"

WISDOM OF BABIES

Little Henry had been sent to the drug store for a bottle of seltzer and returned with a bottle half empty.

"Why, Henry," said his father, "this bottle is not half full. Was it in that condition when you go it?"

"No, sir," replied the truthful boy. "It was full when I started, but I met a cat on the way home."

Mother—I wonder how this book got in such a horrible condition.

Little William—I heard papa say it was too dry for him, so I poured water on it."

A pupil in the junior department surprised his teacher recently by describing a circle as "a straight line that is crooked all the way round."

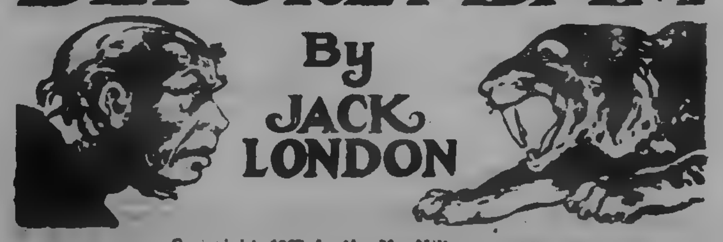
BEFORE ADAM



By JACK LONDON

Copyright, 1907, by the MacMillan company.

When Lop Ear and I went toward the northeast to eat the stringy rooted carrots that at that season were at their best he became unusually timid. He was content to eat the leavings, the big tough carrots and the little ropy ones, rather than to venture a short distance farther on to where the carrots were as yet untouched. When I so ventured he scolded me and quarreled with me. He gave me to understand that in that direction was some horrible danger, but just what the horrible danger was his paucity of language would not permit him to say.

Many a good meal I got in this fashion, while he scolded and chattered vainly at me. I could not understand. I kept very alert, but I could see no danger. I calculated always the distance between myself and the nearest tree and knew that to that haven of refuge I could outfoot the Tawny One or old Saber Tooth did one or the other suddenly appear.

One late afternoon in the village a great uproar arose. The horde was animated with a single emotion, that of fear. The bluff side swarmed with the folk, all gazing and pointing into the northeast. I did not know what it was, but I scrambled all the way up to the safety of my own high little cave before ever I turned around to see.

And then across the river, away into the northeast, I saw for the first time the mystery of smoke. It was the biggest animal I had ever seen. I thought it was a monster snake, up ended, rearing its head high above the trees and swaying back and forth. And yet somehow I seemed to gather from the conduct of the folk that the smoke itself was not the danger. They appeared to fear it as the token of something else. What this something else was I was unable to guess. Nor could they tell me. Yet I was soon to know, and I was to know it as a thing more terrible than the Tawny One, than old Saber Tooth, than the snakes themselves, than which it seemed there could be no things more terrible.

Broken Tooth was another youngster who lived by himself. His mother lived in the caves, but two more children had come after him and he had been thrust out to shift for himself. We had witnessed the performance during the several preceding days, and it had given us no little glee. Broken Tooth did not want to go, and every time his mother left the cave he sneaked back into it. When she returned and found him there her rages were delightful. Half the horde made a practice of watching for these moments. First, from within the cave, would come her scolding and shrieking. Then we could hear sounds of the thrashing and the yelling of Broken Tooth. About this time the two younger children joined in. And finally, like the eruption of a miniature volcano, Broken Tooth would come flying out.

At the end of several days his leaving home was accomplished. He wailed his grief unheeded from the center of the open space for at least half an hour, and then came to live with Lop Ear and me. Our cave was small, but with squeezing there was room for three. I have no recollection of Broken Tooth spending more than one night with us, so the accident must have happened right away.

It came in the middle of the day. In the morning we had eaten our fill of the carrots and then, made heedless by play, we had ventured on to the big trees just beyond. I cannot understand how Lop Ear got over his habitual caution, but it must have been the play. We were having a great time playing tree tag. And such tag! We leaped ten or fifteen foot gaps as a matter of course. And a twenty or twenty-five foot deliberate drop clear down to the ground was nothing to us. In fact, I am almost afraid to say the great distances we dropped. As we grew older and heavier we found we had to be more cautious in dropping, but at that age our bodies were all strings and springs, and we could do anything.

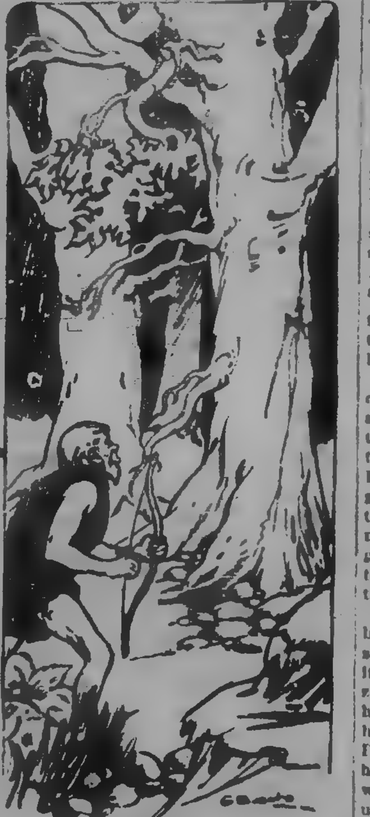
Broken Tooth displayed remarkable agility in the game. He was "it" less frequently than any of us, and in the course of the game he discovered one difficult "slip" that neither Lop Ear nor I was able to accomplish. To be truthful, we were afraid to attempt it.

When we were "it" Broken Tooth always ran out to the end of a lofty branch in a certain tree. From the end of the branch to the ground it must have been seventy feet and nothing intervened to break a fall. But about twenty feet lower down and fully fifteen feet out from the perpendicular was the thick branch of another tree.

As we ran out the limb Broken Tooth, facing us, would begin teetering. This naturally impeded our progress, but there was more in the teetering than that. He teetered with his back to the jump he was to make. Just as we nearly reached him he would let her go. The teetering branch was like a springboard. It threw him far out, backward, as he fell. And as he fell he turned around sidewise in the air so as to face the other branch into which he was falling. This branch bent far down under the impact and sometimes there was an ominous crackling, but it never broke, and out of the leaves was always to be seen the face of Broken Tooth, grinning triumphantly up at us.

I was "it" the last time Broken Tooth tried this. He had gained the end of the branch and begun his teetering, and I was creeping out after him, when suddenly there came a low warning cry from Lop Ear. I looked down and saw him in the main fork of the tree crouching close against the trunk. Instinctively I crouched down upon the thick limb. Broken Tooth stopped teetering, but the branch would not stop, and his body continued bobbing up and down with the [illegible] leaves.

I heard the crackle of a dry twig and, looking down, saw my first Fire Man. He was creeping stealthily along on the ground and peering up into the tree. At first I thought he was a wild animal, because he wore around his waist and over his shoulders a ragged piece of bearskin. And then I saw his hands and feet and more clearly his features. He was very much like my kind, except that he was less hairy and that his feet were less like hands than ours. In fact, he and his people, as I was later to know, were far less hairy than we, though we, in turn, were equally less hairy than the Tree People.



How Was I to Know That Death Lurked In That Bent Piece of Wood?

It came to me instantly as I looked at him. This was the terror of the northeast, of which the mystery of smoke was a token. Yet I was puzzled. Certainly he was nothing of which to be afraid. Red Eye or any of our strong men would have been more than a match for him. He was old, too, wizened with age, and the hair on his face was gray. Also he limped badly with one leg. There was no doubt at all that we could outrun him and outclimb him. [illegible] never catch us; that was certain.

But he carried something in his hand that I had never seen before. It was a bow and arrow. But at that time a bow and arrow had no meaning for me. How was I to know that death lurked in that bent piece of wood? But Lop Ear knew. He had evidently seen the Fire People before and knew something of their ways. The Fire Man peered up at him and circled around the tree. And around the main trunk above the fork Lop Ear circled, too, keeping always the trunk between himself and the Fire Man.

The latter abruptly reversed his circling. Lop Ear, caught unawares, also hastily reversed, but did not win the protection of the trunk until after the Fire Man had twanged the bow. I saw the arrow leap up, miss Lop Ear, glance against a limb and fall back to the ground. I danced up and down on my lofty perch with delight. It was a game! The Fire Man was throwing things at Lop Ear as we sometimes threw things at one another.

The game continued a little longer, but Lop Ear did not expose himself a second time. Then the Fire Man gave it up. I leaned far out over my horizontal limb and chattered down at him. I wanted to play. I wanted to have him try to hit me with the thing. He saw me, but ignored me, turning his attention to Broken Tooth, who was still teetering slightly and involuntarily on the end of the branch.

The first arrow leaped upward. Broken Tooth yelled with fright and pain. It had reached its mark. This put a new complexion on the matter. I no longer cared to play, but crouched trembling close to my limb. A second arrow and a third soared up, missing Broken Tooth, rustling the leaves as they passed through, arching in their flight and returning to earth.

The Fire Man stretched his bow again. He shifted his position, walking away several steps, then shifted it a second time. The bowstring twanged, the arrow leaped upward, and Broken Tooth, uttering a terrible scream, fell off the branch. I saw him as he went down, turning over and over, all arms and legs it seemed, the shaft of the arrow projecting from his chest and appearing and disappearing with each revolution of his body.

Sheer down, screaming, seventy feet he fell, smashing to the earth with an audible thud and crunch, his body rebounding slightly and settling down again. Still he lived, for he moved and squirmed, clawing with his hands and feet. I remember the Fire Man running forward with a stone and hammering him on the head, * * * and then I remember no more.

Always during my childhood at this stage of the dream did I wake up screaming with fright—to find often my mother or nurse, anxious and startled, by my bedside, passing soothing hands through my hair and telling me that they were there and that there was nothing to fear.

MARTYR TO PAINS IN THE BACK

Halifax, N.S., Jan. 15, 1916.

About eight months ago I read your advertisement in one of the Halifax papers offering a free sample of Gin Pills for the Kidneys. WOMEN LAWYERS SEEN IN FOREIGN LANDS

Their Right to Practice Law Questioned in Europe

While in this country lawyers have been particularly sympathetic to women, and may be said as a profession to have fought less than others against admitting them to such a share of law practice as they could obtain by their merits, it would seem that the reverse has been the case in Europe. There appears to exist still in many European localities a decided reluctance to admitting women to practise law. In addition to a list of questions lately sent out [illegible] the suffrage paper, Jus Suffragii, [illegible] to which revealed the above fact, recently a number of illustrations of the same feeling have been published in European papers.

For instance, the High Court of Roumania has rejected Mme. Ella Negnitai's appeal against an adverse decision on her right to practise law as a barrister. England likewise excludes women from the bar, although its Australian dominions have long admitted them. In Norway, of course, women are admitted even to the judge's bench, not to mention the jury box, and this results, it is said, in justice to women and girls being more uniformly done.

In Denmark women may practise law. Madame Magnussen, who was the first to be admitted to the Danish bar, succeeded in having the law altered in 1905 after she had passed her examination, and she found that she was disbarred from practising. Since then several women have followed in her footsteps. Madame Magnussen and her husband recently have been studying English legal procedure at Oxford and in the London law courts, with a view to the [illegible]ing introduction of oral plead[illegible] all the Danish courts, where at present all pleading—save in the Court of Appeal and [illegible] the special court for maritime and commercial cases—is done in writing.

A little learning is doubly dangerous in a small man's head.

RIGHTEOUSNESS PLACED BEFORE PEACE BY T. R.

Roosevelt Condemns Barbarity of Germans.

When the great European war commenced it was no uncommon thing to hear Canadians express themselves as glad that Theodore Roosevelt was not President of the United States. They feared that he might prove erratic and unsympathetic in his feelings toward the allies and their cause. "America and the World War" a volume in which the ex-President expresses his opinion of the catastrophe, will indicate to many that they have misjudged him. In Canada we have been surprised to find leaders of a strong democracy considering first of all how their country can make as much money as possible out of the terrible events going forward in the Old World and protesting only when some action of the belligerents threatens to decrease their profits. Mr. Roosevelt makes it plain in his articles that his first consideration would have been righteousness. It need hardly be added, therefore, that he does not approve of the attitude of President Wilson towards Belgium. He believes that the example of the famous neutrals of the parable, who went by on the other side rather than help the man who fell among thieves, is not one which a nation aspiring to take its place among the great civilizing forces of the world should follow.

He says: "I put peace very high as an agent to bring about righteousness. But if I must choose between righteousness and peace I choose righteousness." Side by side with this high note he places his belief in preparedness for self-defence. He takes a logical position somewhere half-way between the ultra-pacifist and the man who glories in everything that makes for militarism. He takes the very sane position that it will be impossible for the leading nations of the world to lay down their arms so long as there exists one brutal and arrogant power that has no conscience or sense of honor to restrain its ambition. He points out again and again that the high national standards, the love of peace and the advanced civilization of the Belgians could not save them when a depraved and powerful nation willed to destroy them. Treaties were powerless, and Great Britain would have shared the fate of Belgium if it had not been for her mighty fleet.

His idea of the way the great nations may ensure peace is a follows: "From the international standpoint, the essential thing to do is effectively to put the combined power of civilization back of the collective purpose of civilization to secure justice. This can be achieved only by a world league for the peace of righteousness, which would guarantee to enforce by the combined strength of all nations the decrees of a competent court against any recalcitrant and offending nation. Only in this way will treaties become serious documents."

TO GUARD KIN OF SOLDIERS

DOMINION-WIDE ASSOCIATION VERY ACTIVE.

The Associated Kin of the Canadian Expeditionary Forces have put into motion Article 8 of their Objects and Obligations, which reads: "To assist all rightful claimants and the authorities in bringing about the prompt payment of legitimate pension claims, insurance and patriotic allowances."

One piece of this activity was the launching of an appeal to a judicial decision dismissing the action of Mrs. Lancaster against the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company for the recovery of $1,000 insurance on the life of her husband killed at the front, the technical point being that her husband lived outside the limits of Toronto, whereas his application named his residence as Toronto. It was a technical point and one that the Association Kin of the Canadian Expeditionary Forces proposed to fight out to the end so that destitute widows and orphans throughout Canada of soldiers and sailors fighting at the front might not be deprived of any of their rights through technicalities.

The Associated Kin of the Canadian Expeditionary Forces originated in London, Ont., through the efforts of Mr. Gordon Wright. It quickly spread to many points in Ontario—Woodstock, Ingersoll, St. Catharines, Thorold, Welland, Niagara Falls, Owen Sound, Chatham, Kincardine, Southampton, Collingwood, Kitchener, Whitby, Cornwall, Prescott, Brockville, Galt, Wiarton, Guelph, Stratford, Brampton, Brantford and many other points in a few months. The Constitution of the Association provided that each local organization shall elect delegates to a Provincial and in turn the Provincial to a Dominion, thus making a Dominion-wide force devoted to the cause of their relatives defending the Empire and to personal active and continuous efforts to secure recruits so that their own relatives will not think that people in Canada are abandoning them to their fate in Flanders.

WHY HE DESERTED

German Soldier Was Horror-stricken at the Devastation in Belgium

A German deserter who said at first that he had been forced over the border by Belgian francs-tireurs, appeared before the commandant of Sluis, Holland, and wanted to be interned. In his statement he said:

"I am tired of war, tired of being driven to the slaughter like one of a herd of cattle, tired of being at the mercy of men from whom all humanity has passed. What business have we in Belgium, after all? Why must we Germans bring this good natured people to ruin and misery? I won't do it any longer. I must say good-bye to my country, but what of that? I have strong arms and can work and nobody will ever say that I am a coward."

He was asked: "Dislike of war—that is your sole excuse for deserting?"

"Oh, no, there is another—something that made me almost crazy with the horror of it all, for I have a wife and two dear daughters. I was quartered in a house near Blankenberghe, where a mother and her daughter lived. One night I heard a terrible noise. A sergeant and a soldier had forced an entrance to the house under pretext that there was a light, and the women woke me by their screaming. I jumped out of bed and rushed upstairs, asking the men what they wanted there.

"The sergeant was maddened by my interference, and promised me a punishment. This made me mad also, and I knocked him down the stairs. This was enough for the other man as well. But, the next day, I received an order to appear before the courts, and I deserted. Now, I feel myself another man, and not an instrument of murder. I shall not go back to Germany!"

RUSH FOR WEALTH

Broker's Failure in Business Leads to Happiness Through Strange Inheritance

BY GERTRUDE MARY SHERIDAN

Warren Talcott took a last look at the long counting room that had once been his, but was so no longer. Some men were erasing the sign, "Talcott & Co., Stocks and Bonds," from the glittering plate glass windows. He passed the elevator starter, who halted him by gently catching his arm.

"I've heard of it, Mr. Talcott," he said, his voice quivering. "Sir, my wife didn't sleep all night over it. She says there's a room for you under the roof you helped us save all your life long, if you'll take it."

"Thank you," nodded the broker. "Tell your wife it's such people as you that make a man think there's some good in the world."

Men turned and noted the tall, graceful figure as Talcott passed. There was always something royal in his bearing. Even with "Failure" written that day against his business career, a dauntless courage showed in his kindly, steady eye.

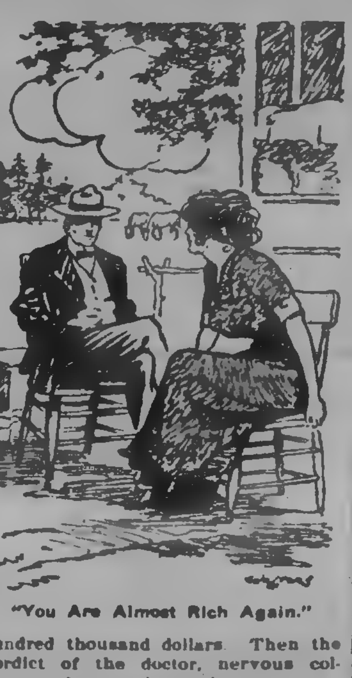
A bootblack whom he had started in business ran after him, winning the ever indulgent smile of the generous broker.

"Mr. Talcott," he said hurriedly, "I've got a savings bank book that says three hundred dollars. I want to loan it out, you see—"

"I see you are a good, loyal friend," interrupted Talcott, placing a gentle hand on the shoulder of the grateful cripple.

The speaker walked rapidly from the business center. Finally he sought the most secluded corner of an humble restaurant and sat down—to think.

Frame and face relaxed as he drew out his pocket book. It contained only a few dollars, all that was left of a magnificent fortune. His mind ran back over the past few months. He recalled the warning of his doctor—overwork. He remembered how he had one day given a wrong order. Another when the floor of the stock exchange had gone all black before him, and he had made a confused error in business judgment and lost over two hundred thousand dollars. Then the verdict of the doctor, nervous collapse, and now—the crash



"You Are Almost Rich Again."

Anyhow, he had paid dollar for dollar He tried to think of hard work, a constitution rebuilt, but never again the mad rush for wealth, holding in the end only bitter dust and blight.

Talcott had brought half a dozen letters from the office. He opened them in turn. Five were of no consequence. The last one startled him. It announced that an old pensioner of his, James Gregory, living in another city, had died leaving him his entire estate—"apply at once to Dockkery & Bates, attorneys."

Twenty-four hours later the senior member of that firm escorted the broker to a secluded city court. In the center of a vacant lot stood a large covered wagon. It had windows like a house and was divided into three living compartments. Seated on the grass reading from school books were three small boys. Near by was a young lady of about eighteen. She was sewing and four little girls were copying her industry.

"Mr. Gregory has left you two horses and that wagon, with all hands included," said the lawyer, grimly. "In addition, here is the deed already recorded in your name, to a six hundred and forty acre tract of wild land a hundred miles from here, up near the pineries."

"And this is my legacy!" murmured the perplexed Talcott.

"Exactly. Miss Gregory will explain the details," and the lawyer left him.

Talcott advanced towards the young lady and introduced himself. He fancied he had never seen so kindly and peaceful a face. Her simple story was soon told. Her dead father, an eccentric, had taken in charge, gradually, some homeless orphans. For them and herself he had worked, traveling about the country in the wagon and doing odd jobs as a tinker.

When the broker asked her as to her plans for the future, she only looked helplessly and pathetically at him.

Warren Talcott did some thinking. Then, as if he had suddenly and refreshingly come to the threshold of an odd, new, inspiring life, he realized that his pensioner had made him his legatee, confident that his old friend would work out the problem aright.

They talked for over an hour. Bluntly Talcott told of his real situation. He suggested a plan. He needed rest, a change, the doctors had said. Here it was, ready made to order. They would go to "the farm," as he called it. It was their only tangible inheritance. He went away for a time, sold his watch and other jewelry, handed a roll of bills to Miss Gregory, and said:

"There is room for me with the boys. You must be the purse bearer, and housekeeper. The motive of your father's life was to save these poor little outcasts. It is a noble purpose. I shall try to continue his plan."

Talcott went to sleep that night feeling the great load of a broken past lifted from his mind. The odd, the new, the unknown life attracted him.

He awoke with a headache the next morning. The reaction had come. By noon he had a fever, by nightfall he was delirious.

For him the next twenty days were a blank. He awoke to find himself, weak and emaciated, lying on a bed in the boys' end of the wagon. He glanced from the window. As far as his eyes could reach was a level emerald stretch—grass, flowers, trees everywhere.

Outside two of the boys were carrying a pail of water. They passed out of sight around to the other side of the wagon. From that direction there came the clang—clang of metal sounds. Talcott tried to arise. He sank back weakly with a groan. Instantly from the wagon living room a light form came into view. It was Miss Gregory.

Wonder-eyed and grateful, Talcott learned how the brave little woman had nursed him, had carried out the plan of the journey to "the farm." Here they were, the children industrious and happy, and oh! such grand fortune, and her eyes danced as she told him of it.

"A railroad is building right through your section," she explained, "and the wagon stands on the new town site. A man has been here daily to see you about selling him some of the property."

The man appeared next day. He looked Talcott over shrewdly. Then he said:

"I see you are a keen business man, so I'll talk sense. I am a land speculator. I'll give you ten thousand dollars for a quarter section, and fifty per cent. of what I make on another quarter section selling town lots."

"You mean," replied the broker, gently, "twenty thousand dollars and seventy-five per cent."

"I guess I've figured wrong," said the speculator. "You're up to snuff. Well, I'm ready to trade."

"And what is your plan now, Mr. Talcott?" asked the motherly guardian of the little coterie of children a few days later. "You are almost rich again."

"I shall build a nice roomy home," answered Talcott, "and we will all grow up with the country. My dear, good nurse and true friend, I have found hope and ambition where I thought there was nothing but despair. I have found love, too. Will you share the new home, as my wife?"

And when the blushing, lovable Audrey Gregory answered "Yes," Warren Talcott felt that he stood at the portal of a veritable Eden.

DRIVE THE TURK OUT OF EUROPE

MUST BE DONE SOMEHOW SAYS PHILADELPHIA NEWSPAPER.

Among the peace terms set forth by the Allies is the following demand: "The expulsion from Europe of the Ottoman Empire, which has proved itself so radically alien to western civilization." May the Allies be able to enforce that demand! says the Philadelphia Inquirer. The unspeakable Turk is a blot on the face of humanity. His capital of Constantinople has been the sink spot as well as the danger spot of all Europe. There can be no lasting peace until he is driven out. It has been the ambition of Russia to annex Constantinople. Whether in the end she is allowed to do this, or whether the city and port shall be internationalized, the fortifications of the Dardanelles razed and the straits neutralized—which would be a better plan—the Turk must vacate. A monster of iniquity, of barbarity, of cruelty, his power must be ended.

FAILURE OF PROPAGANDA

"NOT A SINGLE DOCUMENT" FOR FRIENDS OF THE ALLIES.

The sum of $26,000,000 has been spent in the United States since the war began, under German authority, for propaganda work, destruction of American property, furtherance of strikes, and purchase of American papers, according to an estimate of Mr. G. H. Putnam, head of the American Rights Committee. Mr. C. C. Megger, German Consul-General at Cincinnati, wrote to Mr. Putnam protesting against the charges of German brutality in Belgium and asserting that "Americans have been misled by their newspapers, which have been hired by English money."

Mr. Putnam, in replying, cited the above facts, and added that while he received a great mass of German propaganda material he had not "received a single document from the British, French or Italian representatives They are content to permit the justice of their cause to stand for itself. The statements presenting the cause of England and France have come to me from individual correspondents on the other side of the Atlantic."

RUM ONLY WHEN ORDERED

Canadian Soldiers May Take Cocoa Instead, Says War Office

Some question has arisen as to the circumstances under which rum is issued to the Canadian troops. Official inquiry brought this reply to the Ottawa Government: "The War Office definitely informs me that rum is only issued to the troops at the discretion of the general officer commanding on the recommendation of the medical officer, and that when an issue of rum is ordered for troops serving with the expeditionary forces in the field, individual soldiers who have an objection to the spirit may be supplied with cocoa or chocolate in lieu."

EXTRA FOOD SUPPLIES STOCKED IN BRITAIN

Experts Find Nation Cannot be Starved.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14—A study of the food situation in the British Isles by experts here shows that there is a reserve sufficient to last two months if the imports were cut off entirely. France is almost a self-sustaining nation, but could not help Britain. There is every reason to believe that the armies in the field could be fed even if the blockade of the British Isles was complete and effective.

Ordinarily this amount of imports would require about 11,500,000 tons gross of shipping. There is no doubt in the mind of the experts who have reviewed the situation carefully that Great Britain will be able to get the greater portion of this tonnage past the German submarines.

Probably one ship out of every four carries a large amount of food, but for every ton of food that goes to the bottom Great Britain orders a ton from one of the score of nations that are supplying her and the chances are that the second ton will arrive safely, although it may possibly be late a month or two.

The discrepancy in time probably has been overcome by Great Britain's far-sightedness in laying in large reserve stores of food, which she has been doing practically since the start of the war.

The findings of the experts may be summarized as follows:—

That Great Britain's food supply is more than half dependent on imports, the remainder being produced in the British Isles.

That Great Britain must import 16,500,000 tons of foodstuffs this year to support her armies and keep her civilians supplied with the necessities of life.

That for Great Britain to obtain this amount of foodstuffs, approximately 11,500,000 gross tons of shipping carrying foodstuffs alone must enter British ports this year.

That less than 15 per cent. of all ships transporting cargoes to the British Isles carry foodstuffs and that probably the food ships sunk by the Germans bear the same ratio to the total number of cargo ships sunk.

That England has a food supply on hand which will last probably two months if not a ton of food reaches England.

These conclusions are based on an exhaustive study of statictics of the food supply, the shipping, food imports, losses because of submarine sinkings, construction of ships to replace those sunk, ships withdrawn from cargo carrying trade by the British Admiralty, small ships usually used for coast trade put into the ocean trade because of the war, and other necessary factors.

FOWLER'S PEBLO GLASSES

100 Per Cent Better

Hundreds of Dr. Fowler's patrons tell him, in the popular phrase used by so many as a comparison, that with the "PEBLO" Lenses he has fitted them with they can see "twice as well as before." That means that there is a hundred per cent. improvement in their vision since they commenced to wear Fowler's glasses.

DOCTOR WINS TWO CROSSES

MILD MANNERED ENGLISHMAN TWICE DECORATED.

In Captain Arthur Martin-Leake, who won the Victoria Cross twice and who is therefore the first and only recipient of the clasp to go with the most coveted of all honors, the Empire is proud to possess a remarkable man. If the public's conception of the average V.C. is a jack-booted, fire-eating warrior whose path may be crossed only in fear and trembling, it would be grievously disappointed to meet this extremely modest, unassuming Hertfordshire doctor whose deeds have set the whole Empire a-ringing with his name. "He was always a quiet fellow," writes one who knows him well. When a small boy at Westminster he was one of the few boys whom his house master, now head of a very famous public school, allowed to play with his children, in itself splendid testimony to the lovableness of his nature."

At games he was undistinguished at Westminster, he seems to have indulged only in riding and shooting. Of a studious turn, he grew up a most keen observer of nature and consequently a lover of animals, as afterwards to be evidenced during his residence in one of the finest shooting areas in India.

It was in October, 1899, that the public career of Captain Arthur Martin-Leake, V.C., may be said to have begun. He threw up the post of house surgeon of the West Herts Hospital at Hemel Hempstead to go out to the South African War as a trooper in the Herts Imperial Yeomanry. When they returned he stayed on as a surgeon-captain in the South African Constabulary, with which corps he won the V.C. at Vlakfontein on February 8, 1902, assisting a wounded officer under the fire from 100 yards of forty Boers, who between them, hit him three times. When water was brought to the eight men wounded at this time and place, seven had their drink before Martin-Leake wetted his lips. He then went home, invalided; received the cross from the hands of King Edward VII., was operated on by Sir Victor Horsley; studied while convalescing and gained the letters F.R.C.S. after his name; took up the post of administrative medical officer to the Bengal-Nagpur Railway in 1904; obtained leave and went to the Balkans War of 1912-13 with a British Red Cross unit; went to England and back to the Balkans again, hostilities having been resumed, with another unit; then permitted himself short leave before returning to India, only to hurry back for the present war and much-added lustre to his name. That, briefly, is his dashing career.

SHALE TO TAKE PLACE OF COAL

USED IN STOVES AND FURNACES AND FOUND TO BE GOOD FUEL.

FOREST, Ont., Feb. 14—Requests have been made to Hon. Roche, Superintendent General of Indian affairs, and Hon. E. L. Patenaude, Minister of Mines, to make extensive tests of a huge bed of oil shale on the Kettle Point Indian Reserve, on the Lake short north of here, with a view to using the shale as a substitute for coal till the present fuel shortage is relieved.

It is expected the tests will be made, and M. Y. Williams, of the Geological Department, has arrived in town from Ottawa. The shale has been tried by people here in stoves and furnaces and declared to be a good fuel. The extent of the deposit is so great and the depth so great that a large section of the province could be supplied.

HATCHING EGGS FOR SCHOOLS

FROM POULTRY DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE.

The Department of Education in a circular to the teachers of the Public and Separate Schools state that by an arrangement with the Poultry Department of the O.A.C., Guelph, eggs for hatching can be supplied in a limited quantity for May delivery at 50 cents a doen in 100-egg lots to pupils of schools in which classes in agriculture are maintained. The eggs are from an improved Barred Rock bred-to-lay strain, and the introduction of this breed into the rural districts is likely to prove of lasting benefit to the whole country.

If the teachers are willing to take this matter up in connection with their classes, they should communicate with Professor Graham at the O.A.C., and secure at one shipment the number of eggs required for their schools. It is suggested that part of the cost (say one-half) be borne by the school board and part by the pupils, thus placing the cost to the pupil at so reasonable a figure that the project will be within reach of all.

RUINS CALLS FOR REVENGE

ONE OF THE LAST LETTERS BY THE LATE MAJOR BENNETT.

Lieut.-Col. George P. Bennett, formerly superintendent of colonization roads for the Ontario Government, who went the front with the Canadian contingent, wrote to friends in Canada shortly before he was killed in action. He was a major in the 57th Regiment, Peterboro', but so anxious was he to get to the front that he accepted a captain's commission at Valcartier. After arriving at the front he was made major, and was later promoted to the rank of battalion lieutenant-colonel. The letter was dated from his dug-out, the "Royal Cecil."

"We have long ago forgot principles in this war," he wrote. "Principles be hanged. It is very hard to make the uninitiated understand, but if you people at home could take but one look at the devastation, destruction and suffering of the poor inhabitants of this beautiful, peaceful country—and it's getting worse and worse the further we get into Belgium, caused so wantonly by the Allemandes—you would need no further reason to urge us on than revenge. It may be uncivilized to be vindictive, but God only knows why he allowed these people to be simply crucified by the Germans.

"Beautiful homes—and they are beautiful in every sense of the word—splendid old red brick buildings, churches, fields, cultivated away beyond the comprehension of a Canadian farmer, a land blessed with plenty and a contented and industrious people, positively ruined. Not a building but it is smashed. It would make your heart sore to see the waste, never, never to be restored. Who wants to talk principles? Not me. I'll give it to these destroyers in whatever form it may come, and give it hard and quick."

YOUTHS WHO BURGLED SECOND HAND STORE WILL BE WHIPPED

Two juveniles were sentenced to be flogged, at the police court this morning, when they were found guilty of stealing two watches from a local second-hand shop.

The police were notified by one of the boys' mothers that burglars had been in the house and attacked her boy with a knife. Investigation resulted in the discovery that the boys were in possession of the stolen watches and that they had concocted the story to account for severe cuts and scratches on their hands. The two prisoners are nearly sixteen years of age, and the Magistrate ordered a flogging and that they report to the Chief of Police once a week for the next year.

INCREASES FOR TOWN OFFICIALS AT LINDSAY

LINDSAY, Feb. 14.—The question of raising the salaries of certain town officials was dealt with at last night's meeting of the Town Council, and after much discussion a small increase was given Mr. D. Ray (Town Clerk), Miss F. Currie (Treasurer), Miss Young (Assistant Treasurer), and Mr. R. Douglas (Sanitary Inspector).

The salary paid to the Clerk last year was [illegible] with an additional $360 which he receives from the Waterworks Commission, making a total of $1,200. Mr. Ray was voted $100 more, which will make his salary $1,300.

Miss Currie, who receives $630 a year from the town and $270 from the waterworks, was voted $100 more.

Miss Young receives an advance of $55 per year, which makes her income $575 per year.

Sanitary Inspector Douglas was granted a $50 raise, or a salary of $525 yearly.

WOULD NOT ALLOW HIM TO SPEAK

SERGT.-MAJOR DOUGLAS IS GIVEN COOL RECEPTION AT PORT HOPE DANCE.

That Sergt.-Major Douglas, one of the 2nd Battalion who blazed the trail at Langemarck and other now war-famous battle grounds, was refused permission to speak at a patriotic dance held in Port Hope, is the report emanating from that town, where it is said there are plenty of eligibles who prefer the light fantastic to the glory of the khaki.

Officers and the band of the 247th Battalion, and Sergt. Stanley, recruiting officer for the 256th noncombatant unit, have spent a week in Port Hope. Sergt. Stanley got the only recruit. Recruiting efforts were carried out with tact and reason, but to no avail. The shirkers decided to stay at home.

On Friday evening of last week the patriotic dance was held, but Sergt.-Major Douglas received a very frigid reception—a poor tribute to his gallant action in enlisting from Port Hope immediately after the outbreak of the war and his share of the taking of the hard knocks that the Hun gave the first Canadians.

SEVEN IMMENSE FISHING AREAS

CANADA'S GREAT INDUSTRY HAS SEVEN DISTINCT DIVISIONS.

A bird's-eye view of Canada's fisheries may be afforded by dividing the country into seven fishery divisions: (1) Atlantic deep-sea fisheries, embracing the famous Cod Banks, from which are taken cod, mackerel, haddock, halibut, herring, hake, seals and whales of annual value of $12,000,000. (2) The estuaries and inland waters of the Maritime Provinces and Quebec, producing lobsters, clams, oysters, salmon, shad, gaspereaux, striped bass, smelts, fresh water salmon, trout, lake trout, pickerel, etc., annual value of $4,000,000. (3) The Great Lakes and tributary waters, producing whitefish, pike-perch, black bass, maskinonge, catfish, etc., $3,000,000 annually. (4) Northwest waters, from Lake of the Woods to Lesser Slave Lake, producing whitefish, sturgeon, tullibee, pike, gold-eye—an excellent fresh water herring—and caviare, value, $1,000,000. (5) Rocky Mountain Plateau, embracing little developed fisheries, including salmon, whitefish, trout, grayling, etc. (6) Pacific Coast fisheries, including the great salmon canning and curing industries, the immense halibut fisheries, black cod, etc., value $14,000,000. (7) The Hudson Bay and Peri-Arctic division, embracing whale, walrus, sea trout, herring, sturgeon, cod, salmon, etc.—the richest whale and walrus grounds in the world.

EXPERT ADVICE TO FARMERS

THE MAN WHO PLOUGHS STRAIGHT MAKES BEST PROGRESS.

Hon. Valentine Winkler, Minister of Agriculture, Manitoba, in an address to farmers referred to the difficulties with which farmers had to contend with in the early days and said there were certain districts where farmers at one time found it impossible to grow wheat without it being subject to danger from frost. This proved a blessing in disguise as it forced them to build stables and go in for the production of live stock, he said. "This had the result of so improving the districts that they were now growing the best possible crops with the danger from frost almost eliminated." He asserted farmers who plowed straight invariably obtained the best results, not that the straight furrow made the difference, but the man who was careful to plow straight was more likely to be careful in other directions than he who plowed crooked. It would not do, he said, to grow wheat all the time, but it was imperative they should have rotation of crops and go in for mixed farming. He declared it is necessary to summerfallow land and to plow deep in the soil in the fall rather than light in the fall and deep in the spring. He spoke of the necessity of re-introducing as much nitrogen in the land as possible. This could best be done if after sumerfallow, clover or alfalfa, is sowed, he said.

—Briggs seems to be a temperance crank of the extremest kind.

—I should shay he is! Why, he won't have anything to do with stocks because they frequently take a drop.

"Has your college education been any practical value to you?"

"You bet it has. If it wasn't for my experience in track athletics I'd have to leave my house five minutes earlier every morning in order to catch the 7:58," replied the commuter.

A little truth goes a long way—if it is stretched.

A Stained Blouse

When a white blouse is stained under the arms, let it soak for half an hour in warm water to which a little ammonia has been added. No soap should be used, as it only sets the stain. Wring out, and if the marks have not quite disappeared, squeeze a little lemon juice on to the stain and rinse in clean, warm water. Then wash in the ordinary way.

No Linked Arms Now

Next evening you are taking a stroll count the couples walking arm-in-arm. Probably you won't need the fingers of both hands to get them all enumerated; but if you start counting all the couples not linking arms you will need a mechanical figurer, an investigator says. In the good old days of long ago couples walked arm-in-arm, even married folks. Now the man has his hands in his pockets or crossed behind him, while his fair companion's hands are all by their lonesome several feet away from his arm. Reason? "It's the fashion" they say.

FOR SALE OR TO RENT—100 acres of first class land, situated in the Township of Dummer. All workable land containing a comfortable house, with bank barn, driving shed, and all necessary outbuildings. We would sell this farm on easy payments or will rent it with the option of buying same.

FOR SALE OR TO RENT—150 acres of choice farm land situated in the Township of Smith, in a very nice locality. This farm has a very comfortable brick house, with a new bank barn and drive shed. Land is all under cultivation with about 82 acres of timber. Owner will rent said farm at $400.00 per year.

FOR SALE OR TO RENT—10 acres of choice land, situated on the outskirts of the city, containing a house which could be made very comfortable, and ten acres of the best land. This place is only about ten minutes walk from the car line and factories. Would make a good place for a market gardener.

FOR RENT—Two and one-half storey red brick house, having all modern improvements; situated in a very choice locality. There is a large stable, with hen house, and a big garden. This house can be rented at $15.00 per month, a very low rent considering locality and class of house.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST LAND REGULATIONS

The sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. Applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at any Dominion Lands Agency (but not Sub-Agency), on certain conditions.

Duties—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required except where residence is performed in the vicinity.

Live stock may be substituted for cultivation under certain conditions.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre.

Duties—Six months' residence in each of three years after earning homestead patent; also 50 acres extra cultivation. Pre-emption patent may be obtained as soon as homestead patent, on certain conditions.

A settler who has exhausted his homestead right may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre.

Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.

SPORTING NEWS

TOOK CURLERS BY SURPRISE

NEVER EXPECTED EARLY DEFEAT OF DISTRICT CUP RINKS.

Gloom thick and heavy pervaded the curling rink last night, when it became generally known that the local rinks had lost out in the first round of the District Cup. It was totally unexpected and will go down as one of the biggest surprises to Peterborough curlers. But such is the fortune of the game. Some of the best curlers in the game were eliminated early in the Tankard competition.

The rinks and scores for Peterborough and Waterloo were:

Waterloo	Peterborough
C. O. Hemphill	R. L. Dobbin

FITZGERALD-BOTTUM SHIELD GAMES TO-DAY

Four rinks of Peterborough curlers went to Bobcaygeon this morning to play the first round of the Fitzgerald-Bottum Trophy series. The skips selected to go were Messrs T. Brightman, T. F. Matthews, J. E. A. Fitzgerald and W. J. Thompson.

The curling contest for the Lindsay-Peterborough Cup will be played on Friday, four rinks from each place visiting each other.

In Lindsay Messrs. Lang, Waddell, Campbell and Kay will skip against Messrs. Beal, Carley, O'Connor and Weatherup.

In Peterborough Messrs. Sisson, Wilford, Little and Gregory will skip for Lindsay against Messrs. Morrow, Matthews, McDermid and J. H. Ferguson.

Owen Sound has sent an invitation to the local curlers to take part in a Bonspiel on Feb. 20-21.

Dr. Wighitman's rink is the winner in the second group in the inter-rink contests. He has 80 points to his credit with no penalties. Skip Sturgeon is second with 60 points to his credit with 8 penalties.

There is one postponed game in the inter-rink series to be curled tonight between Skips Giroux and Taylor.

OSHAWA HERE MONDAY NIGHT

FOR SECOND GAME IN THE THIRD ROUND ENGAGEMENT.

Oscar Bernhardt of Bradford has been given the job of handling the third round brace between Oshawa and the 247th, the first game to be played at Oshawa on Friday night and the return fixture here next Monday night. The old rink will surely creak with the pressure of the crowd that will follow the Soldiers in the battle here.

Th rink management may be interested to know that the fans feel that a better service should be given at the Brock Street entrance now that the interest and attendance has increased.

PIONEER LACROSSE

Were the Ninetieths or Moonlighters the Champions in 1893?

It doesn't take very much to start an argument, but it requires a lot of patience to end one. Harry Walton, a pioneer sportsman of the West, suggested that the old Ninetieth lacrosse team of Vancouver was the best aggregation in captivity around 1893. This claim brought forth a storm of protest from New Westminster, and on behalf of the old timers of the royal burg, Mr. H. L. Edmonds, police court magistrate, himself an old-time star, came to bat with the information that the Moonlighters of New Westminster had anything beaten in lacrosse in 1893, playing that season without a defeat. Seven times did the Moonlighters parade on the field and seven times their opponents were beaten. Only one goal was scored against this famous team. All of which goes to show that they must have had some pretty nifty lacrosse teams in the early days and interest must have been keen when many years later we find those old timers engaged in an argument over the merits of those pioneer teams.

C. A. Cawthorpe, member for Biggar, was formally expelled from the Saskatchewan Provincial House upon motion of Premier Martin.

BOYS AND GIRLS

UNDER FIFTEEN YEARS OF AGE IN THE COUNTY OF PETERBOROUGH

EARN WHILE YOU LEARN

This is the biggest, most interesting, instructive and profitable competition of the kind on record.

It is open to all boys and girls under fifteen years of age in Peterborough County.

BEAUTIFUL WRIST WATCHES

Awarded for the most accurately drawn maps of Canada.

Never before have the boys and girls of Peterborough County been offered the opportunity to enter a competition that contained so many advantages and inducements.

AN EQUAL CHANCE FOR ALL

No favoritism can be shown as each competitor is known only by a number. Drawings will be judged and prizes awarded according to merit.

Competitors divided into three classes according to age, thus affording all an equal chance—

Class Number One
Under 15 years and over 12 years of age.
Class Number Two
Under 12 years and over 9 years of age.
Class Number Three—
Under 9 years of age

WIN a Beautiful Wrist Watch in the Canadian Map Drawing Competition which the Peterborough Daily Review commenced Monday, February 12th.

"OPPORTUNITY"

They do me wrong who say I come no more
When once I knock and fail to find you in:
For NOW I stand outside your door
And bid you wake and rise to fight and win.

BOYS AND GIRLS

Opportunity stands outside your door and bids you wake and rise to work and win one of these beautiful 15-jewel Swiss lever movement, stem wind and stem set,

Silver Military Wrist Watches

which are being given away for a few hours' work The Canadian Map Drawing Competition.

This is your opportunity—Don't fail to take advantage of it.

WHAT YOU HAVE TO DO

Fill out the entry blank, and bring or send it to us, together with 25c to pay for one month's subscription for The Daily Review. Notify your teacher, your parents, your friends that you have entered this competition. Ask them to assist you in your efforts to win a prize. You will be surprised to find how anxious they will be to help you. If your parents are already subscribing for the The Daily Review and are not prepared to extend their present subscription, get busy and secure the subscription of your uncle, your aunt or one of the neighbors.

Enrol today. Do not delay. Do it now!

TO WIN A PRIZE

Make a Free-Hand Drawing of the Map of Canada, showing the chief cities, principal rivers, lakes and mountain ranges. The Maps must be free hand drawings and the unaided work of the competitor. No tracing of any kind will be allowed.

RULES AND REGULATIONS GOVERNING THE DAILY REVIEW CANADIAN MAP DRAWING COMPETITION

The competition is open to all children under 15 years of age in the County of Peterborough. The subscription price of 25c for The Daily Review for one month must accompany each entry. Upon receipt of application the candidate will receive a number. This number must be used instead of name and address when sending in drawings. Candidates may send in as many drawings as they please. Assistance may be given candidates to help them learn how to draw maps, but the maps submitted to the judges must be the unaided free-hand efforts of the candidates. The drawings submitted must not exceed 16in. by 20in. in size. No tracing of any kind will be allowed. The decision of the judges will be final.

All entries must reach The Review Office before 6 p m. on March 10th, 1917.

AMERICAN SHIP REPORTED DOWN

WAS SUNK BY SUBMARINE BUT THE CREW WAS LANDED.

BRITISH LOSE THREE.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

LONDON, Feb. 14.—The American schooner Lyman M. Law, was sunk by a submarine on Monday, according to a despatch from the Stefani Agency of Rome. The crew, including eight Americans, is reported to have been landed.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—On the basis of news despatches, the Government began seeking official information of the destruction of the American schooner Lyman M. Law, by a submarine, to determine at once how the case affects the delicate situation between Germany and the United States.

LONDON, Feb. 14.—The British steamship F. D. Lambert has been sun; also two British trawlers, according to Lloyds.

Pinafore Rehearsal

Pinafore rehearsal tonight at Conservatory Hall. Chorus and orchestra at 8 o'clock

RED LETTER DAY

Today, Feb. 12, 1917, the Canadian map-drawing competition will commence. For particulars see Page 7.

Col. Edwards at Murray St.

Col. E. B. Edwards, who has been spending a few days in Peterborough, has been prevailed upon to speak at the midweek service at Murray St. Church tonight. His many friends will be glad of this opportunity of meeting and hearing one who was in years past such a factor in the building up of the Baptist cause in this city.

POULTRY MEETING.

The Annual Meeting of the Peterborough Poultry Association will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in the Labor Hall. All members are requested to attend. A. BRAULT, Secretary.

The Young Ladies' Mission Band of St. Andrew's Church will hold a St. Valentine Tea in the Sunday School Hall on Friday, Feb. 16th, from 4 o'clock to 6 and from 7 to 10. Home-made candy and cake as well as useful articles will be on sale. A good musical program is being prepared. Everybody is invited to come and help the young ladies in their work.

Lottie Did Not Return.

Not long ago Police Chief Thompson received communications from Commissioner Sherwood, Ottawa, advising him to be on the lookout for Lottie Tillotson, the woman who at Sault Ste. Marie last week was fined $50 and deported to the United States. But while the Chief kept the woman in mind, she did not reappear in this city; in fact, she gave it a wide berth. When the Hawaiian lecturer visited Peterborough about two years ago she was not then marked by the police authorities.

WHY SHOULD YOU OR YOUR

Friends and relatives not turn out en masse and help the young girls of the I.O.D.E. in their effort to comfort the brave boys who are prisoners of war. Buy your tickets now from the girls; if they have missed you, look them up. Grand, next Tuesday, Feb. 20.

Regular Meeting.

The regular monthly meeting of the W. M. S. of George Street Methodist Church was held in the church parlor on Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mrs. Stinson occupied the chair in the absence of Mrs. Kendry. The program was very interesting. Mrs. Wood and Mrs. Freeman sang a duet, and readings were given by Mrs. Meserve and Mrs. Curtis. Owing to the severe weather the attendance was small.

CANADIAN PRISONERS IN GERMANY

Do you know that by attending the play of the Turning Point, given by local talent, under the auspices of the Peter Robinson Chapter, I.O.D.E. at the Grand on Tuesday next you are personally helping Peterborough boys who are prisoners of war in Germany?

A Garden Tea

In the midst of this zero weather, come and enjoy a cup of tea in "Cupid's Garden" at the Recruiting Rooms, Simcoe Street, on Saturday, Feb. 17, from 3 to 9 p.m. The proceeds will be used by the Business Girls' Club for patriotic purposes.

RAIDS BY CANADIANS BIG FACTOR

GEO. METCALFE RECOMMENDED FOR SANITARY INSPECTORSHIP

Applications for the Position Number Eighteen.

SALARY $900

Geo. Metcalfe will be recommended to the City Council for the position of the sanitary inspector, by the property committee.

At a meeting of the committee held last night to consider the matter 18 applications were received and voted on by the elimination process, and the final vote was for Geo. Metcalfe and C. S. Stapleton, and the vote was a close one, standing four to three.

The applicants were:—

J. D. Deyell, V.S., 135 Lansdowne Street. (Ret. soldier).

Frank Russell, 182 Hunter Street —$1,000.

R. J. Mahood, 823 George St.—$700. (Ret. soldier.)

R. B. McGill, Peterborough, $1200.

J. G. Drummond, 566 Wolfe St.—$825.

Geo. W. Powell, Peterborough—$750 and $100 expenses.

Geo. Metcalfe—$900.

James Deline. Brownton—$875.

Hector J. Neil, 697 George St.—$600. (A.R.)

William Henry—$700 and expenses.

F. Hillier, 195 Park St.—$800.

J. Gates, Sr.—$800.

Chas. Nicholson—$1040.

W. A. McIlmoyle—$800. (Ret. soldier.)

C. S. Stapleton—$900 and expenses.

Henry Smith, 461 Elm Street —$700.

Wm. Fair, 568 Sherbrooke St.—$[illegible]00 and expenses.

W. H. Meldrum—$720.

Mayor Duffus, following out his idea suggested at the Board of Health on Tuesday evening, moved that all the application and all matters pertaining to sanitation and health of the city be turned over to the Board of Health.

Ald. Saunders thought that the property committee was quite capable of handling the duties as they now stood.

Ald. Smith was opposed to allow any further expenditures to get out of the control of the council.

Mayor Duffus pointed out that the Board at present was controlled by a majority of the council members and the council had the appointment of every member of the board. The work could be carried out more efficiently under one head and the Medical Health Officer should be consulted. He was satisfied the work would be done more economically and would not be so neglected.

Ald. Dobbin seconded the Mayor's motion, remarking that it was a step in the right direction.

New Fads Tiresome

Ald. Langford was of the opinion that the proposed change would complicate matters. The people were tired of new fads. The city had got along all right under the old system of night soil collection.

Ald. Smith and Ald. Langford moved an amendment that no change be made and the amendment carried on the following division:

For the motion — Mayor Duffus, Ald. Dobbin, Ald. Duncan.

Against—Ald. Saunders, Taylor, Smith and Langford.

After the vote Mayor Duffus remarked to the chairman, "Now that you are bound to carry out the night soil collection I hope you will make a good job of it."

The first vote eliminated all but three of the applicants and in the second the vote stood as mentioned.

Ald. Saunders and Taylor were appointed a committee to draw up a by-law which would satisfactorily solve the night soil collection problem.

The by-laws from a number of Ontario cities have been received by City Clerk Armstrong. They all adopt the old system of licensed scavengers.

Mr. Metcalfe is a well-known contractor. He has taken the dairy course at the agricultural college and is fully qualified to test milk.

PROMOTED CAPTAIN

Harold Hill Wins His Laurels on Field.

Hats off to Capt. Harold Hill. The young officer who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hill, has been promoted to the rank of captain in the 38th Batt., with which unit he has been playing the man's part in the shell-swept front in France. The news, which will be received with much satisfaction by Capt. Hill's friends, will not be a surprise, as everyone who knew him and was intimate with his record at the Collegiate Institute, not only in his studies, but also in the various branches of sport in which he was interested, having always been expecting great things of Harold Hill. The promotion is without doubt well merited.

TWO SHIPS SUNK

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

LONDON, Feb. 15. — The sinking of the British steamer Cilicia, 3700 tons, and the British steamer Ferga is announced by Lloyds.

MET DEATH IN ATTACK

Officer's Report on Death of Pte. Hatcher.

Pte. Harold Hatchier died with his face to the enemy. His parents have received a letter from an officer of B. Co., 21st Batt., who writes:

Dear Mr. Hatchey: I very much regret to inform you that your son was killed in action during an attack on the enemy trenches on the morning of Jan. 17.

He was a fine lad, and we all mourn his loss. His body was brought back and buried at the military cemetery, the service being conducted by Capt. Kidd (our chaplain).

He did his duty nobly and I am sure gave his life cheerfully for our just cause. Some personal effects I have collected and they will be sent you in due course through the usual official channels. Please accept my deepest sympathy; he was a fine little chap.—Yours faithfully,

G. S. Bowerbank, Major.

WILSON NOT YET READY FOR CALL TO CONGRESS BUT IT MAY BE SOON

Will Depend Entirely Upon Circumstances

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15. — While it still was indicated that the accumulation of violations of American rights might lead President Wilson to go before Congress at any time, it was stated today that he has made no definite plans for taking such steps immediately. When he will go before Congress, it was said, will depend entirely upon circumstances. Opinion grew among officials, however, that such a step would not be long deferred.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15. — The steady accumulation of violations of American rights by Germany made it appear possible yesterday that President Wilson would go before Congress to ask authority for further protecting lives and property without waiting for a serious disaster which might shock the country. There were no indications, however, that he believed the time for such a step had come, and it again was stated authoritatively that he would move deliberately and with full appreciation of all the consequences involved.

Official reports of the sinking of the American schooner Lyman M. Law in the Mediterranean by an Austrian submarine added to the tension, for, while the act is believed to have been illegal, no lives were lost, and the vessel apparently was warned. The incident was not looked upon as one in itself sufficient to hurry the development of the situation.

SAYS GERMANS HAVE MORE MEN THAN AT FIRST

EVERY MAN OF MILITARY AGE NOT ON MUNITIONS NOW IN THE ARMY.

MUCH BLUFF ATTACHED TO "500 SUBS" STORY.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

LONDON, Feb. 15. — An Amsterdam despatch to The Times quotes an American just arrived from Frankfurt as saying that having ordered every man of military age not engaged in munition work into the army, the Germans now have more troops than at the beginning of the war. Life in Frankfurt is very hard for people, he says. Any other population would rebel, but the Germans can stand anything. He also says that the stories current about the immense number of German submarines is a bluff. He claims to have information that there were not two hundred under-seas boats available.

SAILING SHIP SUNK BY SUB.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15. — The British sailing vessel Ainsdale, from Buenos Aires for England, was stopped by a submarine 180 miles off Cape Clear, off the Irish coast, on February 5th, and sunk after the crew had abandoned her.

Ambassador Page at London advised the State Department of the sinking today.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN FRANCE, Feb. 16—The past thirty hours have witnessed three British raids. Two of them were conducted by Canadians, who invented the practice of trench raiding which has spread throughout the British army. These raids added to the steady progress by the British on both sides of the Ancre. The coldest weather of the war on this front has not stopped the constant worrying pressure which the British seek to exert upon the Germans. Old soldiers say there is nothing quite so valuable as these minor operations for keeping troops in fighting trim, while nothing is so depressing and injurious to the morale as the constant defensive which the Germans have endured all winter opposite the British lines.

Haig's policy has been one of unceasing bombardment, punctuated by daily raids and minor attacks, resulting in a constant stream of prisoners and inflicting a heavy toll of casualties on the Germans.

TOOK 47 PRISONERS

In their biggest raid the Canadians captured 47 prisoners of the 11th Bavarians, who came into the lines yesterday. The Canadians remained in the German trenches for more than an hour and left them completely wrecked. Their most important work was probably the blowing in of four mine shafts, by which they sealed in living tombs scores of Germans who were tunneling toward the British lines. The Germans tried to cut off the Canadians with a double barrage fire, and then attacked, but they only succeeded in inflicting a few casualties.

BOARD OF WORKS WILL ASK FOR AN APPROPRIATION OF $35,000

An Increase of $6000 Over Demands of Last Years.

$1000 More for Oil on Streets to Kill the Dust.

The estimates for the year 1917 for the Works Department were thoroughly debated at the meeting of the Board of Works held last night. The money required for the department is about $6000 more than last year, made up principally of extra repairs, the reflooring of the Hunter street bridge being one item. A thousand dollars was added to the purchase of oil for the streets. Street cleaning will cost about $500 more owing to the labor wage, and in many other items unavoidable increases were explained to the members by the city engineer.

Last year an appropriation of $3,200 was made for the C. P. R. foot bridge, and it was found necessary to use the money in order to do work of an absolutely necessary nature.

It will be seen from the comparative statement of the estimates for this year and the expenditure of last year how the money was spent.

Every member of the committee urged the greatest economy, and the estimate for the department was finally fixed at $35,000, a cut of $880 which will be taken off the new culvert item.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

PARIS, Feb. 15.—(French Official.) — "Between the Oise and the Aisne we made a surprise attack yesterday on enemy trenches in the region of Puisaleune. Detachments pushed forward as far as the second German line, blowing up defence works and shelters and inflicting appreciable losses on the enemy.

"In the Champagne there was violent artillery fighting during the night in the sector of Tourbe, and considerable patrol activities in the regions of Vailly, east of Soissons, Caurieres Wood and to the southwest of Chauvoncourt. We took prisoners.

"Yesterday morning a German airplane was brought down in a combat. The machine fell in flames within lines between Custines and Morey.

"Yesterday and last night squadrons bombarded with success aviation grounds at Colmar, Varennes and Matigny railway station and Athies and encampments at Eurchy."

STARS AND STRIPES ORDERED DOWN

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15. — Official word has been received here that Brand Whitlock, U. S. minister to Belgium, has been ordered by the German authorities to lower the American flag over the U. S. Legation at Brussels.

CASUALTIES IN RAIDS NOT AS GREAT AS NUMBER OF PRISONERS

LONDON, Feb. 15.—Major-General Maurice, chief director of military operations at the war office, who has returned from France, said today that since the beginning of the year trench raids by British forces have netted a gain of over three-quarters of a mile in depth on a front of ten thousand yards, with the capture of two thousand Germans, and have greatly encouraged British troops. The total casualties in these raids had not been as great, he said, as the number of German prisoners.

PETERBOROUGH, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 15, 1917

THERE ARE OTHERS.

YOUNG PETERBOROUGH officers have returned from Europe wounded. The war-shattered remains of others were brought back in caskets that a worshipping public covered with flowers before they were laid away in the cemetery.

"PATRIOTIC DANCES."

THE YOUNG MEN of Port Hope held a dance in that town. In order to draw a crowd and couple patriotism with pleasure, they dubbed the entertainment a "patriotic dance." Events that transpired during the evening justify the suspicion that the fun was fast and furious and the joy more or less unrefined.

A recruiting officer who went to the dance to make an address in favor of enlistment was denied an audience. The young men in that hall were evidently averse to having the hilarity marred by a homily on their duty as citizens. Why should they leave home for the hardships of military life while there were dances to attend and girls silly enough to endure the terspicorean embraces of such specimens of humanity?

Judge Huycke should be sent with all speed to Port Hope to talk to the girls of that town in the same fatherly fashion which he assumed when speaking in the Grand Opera House here recently. He asked the girls of Peterborough to refuse to dance with the slacker or to appear in public in his company. It is plain that in Port Hope there is a crying need for that style of advice.

A British flag used to decorate a ball-room filled with light-footed and equally light-headed shirkers is a flag that is outraged. The word "patriotic" is misplaced grievously when it is employed to designate such an entertainment. It is making game and commerce of loyalty. There are legitimate patriotic dances and other entertainments—one was held in this city no later than last night—but the promoters and the guests were of a vastly different ilk to those who refused to listen to a recruiting speech at Port Hope.

A MATTER OF DOUBT.

THE OTTAWA CITIZEN quotes an editorial which appeared in The Review the other day dealing with the speech of Hon. Robert Rogers in Parliament, in which that doughty cabinet minister replied to the strictures of Justice Galt, and incidentally devoted some attention to the attitude of The Citizen with regard to his own public career. This quotation is headed "The Premier's Untruthful Colleague." Just at the moment we are unable to decide whether it is our veracity or that of Mr. Rogers that is impugned. Our contemporary should be more explicit. It is only a consciousness of moral rectitude that inclines us to the opinion that it is the Minister of Public Works at whom the shaft is aimed. It is the cold truth that is required to discomfit not only Satan himself but the entire Opposition press, as well as those papers that, under a false banner of independence, attack the Borden Government.

THE MAN WHO THINKS AND ACTS.

MAYOR DUFFUS has always had a proper estimate of the responsibilities which are associated with the office of chief executive of the city. He is radical enough to be progressive, while at the same time he is conservative enough to be safe. He is an official who thinks first and then acts, reversing the process which appears to be popular with some public men. The mayor has made a study of municipal problems, and few if any men can give him any new information on the financial conditions of the city. He has always worked to keep down the tax rate and has busied himself on behalf of the personal welfare of the people besides.

No man can say that Mayor Duffus on the last lap of his official term has suffered any loss of energy. He is, perhaps, just a trifle more active than he was during his first term, something that cannot be said of every one of his predecessors. The Mayor has approached the big public men of the day in the interests of the citizens with tact, it would appear, seeing that he has generally secured what he went after. When the city stood to lose $9000 in taxes by the Government's purchase of local utilities, the Mayor saved that sum for the ratepayers. When a deputation representing the entire province waited on the Dominion Cabinet to discuss the high cost of living, it was Mayor Duffus who, in his speech, suggested the very plan which the Administration adopted.

When this city was threatened with a fuel famine, Mayor Duffus did what he could to speed up the transportation companies, and he called Council in special session in order to send an official memorial to the Government asking for executive action.

There is yet a great local work in which the Mayor can take a leading part and so round out his public career. The cry from the authorities at Ottawa and Toronto is for more production. Private residents in all the urban centres are asked to cultivate every inch of available space in their yards during the coming summer. "A kitchen garden in every back yard" has become another slogan, born of the war.

So far as the yards of private houses are concerned, the matter rests with the people themselves. There is, however, a vast amount of vacant land within the city limits, land that every year produces a light crop of taxes and an abnormal growth of burdocks and other noxious weeds. They are not only a financial loss, but constitute so many eyesores on the landscape.

These vacant lands could be cultivated under municipal control. The experiment has been tried with success in other cities for the past three decades. In Peterborough the trouble would be the scarcity of labor, but the owners of the lots might be induced to grant the free use of them to any enterprising citizens who would agree to raise thereon potatoes and other vegetables. It would be an easy way in which to get their holdings freed of weeds. Hundreds of bushels of potatoes could be raised in this way. Even if the city undertook the work, the enterprise could by careful management be made to cover the outlay. The products of the impressed lands could be sold at the cost of production.

It may be Peterborough's peculiar good fortune that at this particular time, when such a policy commends itself, that there is at the head of city affairs an energetic executive like Mayor Duffus.

Another work cut out for the Mayor is to see that no householder in Peterborough is suffering for lack of fuel while there are hundreds of cords of excellent wood piled up in the local yards. If the dealers are unable to deliver this fuel fast enough to supply the demand, the city should undertake the work, charging up the cost to the seller.

PRIZES FOR KITCHEN GARDENS.

THE HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY gives valuable prizes every summer for the best-kept lawns and flower gardens. Everyone knows what an incentive this is to the citizens to improve the appearance of their premises. A prominent local business man suggests to The Review that prizes be offered for the best kitchen gardens cultivated in Peterborough during the coming summer. He says that he knows of at least three public-spirited residents who will be willing to give $50 each toward such an object.

Could anything be projected more likely to encourage production among the masses and to help on a proposition which has governmental sanction? The Review invites the public to use its columns for the discussion of this matter in which everyone is so vitally interested.

RETURNED SOLDIERS AS FARMERS.

SIR WILLIAM HEARST, Premier of Ontario, can be depended upon to take care of the soldiers from this Province when they return from the front. It is his purpose to settle as many of these, who prefer that mode of life, upon farms in New Ontario and in the older sections. Sir William represents a constituency in the north and one of his ambitions is to see that section made into a prosperous and populated farming community.

The soldiers who will save the nation, however, should not be asked, when their military work is done, to take up the role of the pioneer and rescue another nation from the wilderness. They have certainly done, or will have done, all that can reasonably be demanded of men in a lifetime. If any of them desire to take up farming as a vocation at the close of the war, there is plenty of room and plenty of opportunities for them in Old Ontario.

In this Province a large percentage of the arable land has not been properly cultivated for years owing to a lack of labor. That condition prevails right here in Peterborough County. One man on a hundred-acre farm—and there are many such instances—is practically helpless. He would be much better off, the country at large would be infinitely so—if he were on a farm of say ten acres, and cultivating it according to modern intensive methods.

The one great inducement to country life is to own a home. The reason so many men are averse to working as hired servants on a farm is the dim prospect of ever being able to purchase a farm of their own. One hundred acres of land at present prices is beyond the reach of the majority. Twenty-five acres or less would be a dicerent proposition. The farms in Ontario are too large and the production per acre is less than half of what it is in countries where the farmers have small holdings and follow modern methods.

The Government of Ontario has a splendid opportunity to do something of real value to the ex-soldier and at the same time build up the Province. Many a farmer would sell out if he could get anything approaching the value of his property. The scarcity of help makes prospective purchasers shy of investing. The Government could buy up farms, divide them into small lots, placing a returned soldier on each, and carry him over the first stages of the enterprise. The new farmer would soon be in a position to repay any advances that had been made to him, and in time he would become owner of the property. There would be nothing of charity in such an arrangement. The men who are fighting their country's battles today are not looking for anything of the kind, but in simple justice they are entitled to every consideration.

HOW CONSCRIPTION WOULD WORK.

THE GOVERNMENT could raise 50,000 recruits without friction by putting the Militia Act in force, drawing the number in fair proportion from all sections of the Dominion. This could be done, too, by calling out only those of the first class, or men from 18 to 30 years of age.

If these recruits were put through a course of military training, the chances are that at least 35,000 of the number would voluntarily offer to go overseas. The training would be sufficient to inspire them with the proper amount of patriotic enthusiasm. Hundreds of young men hold back from enlisting for the simple reason that they are disinclined to take a leap into the dark. They have no idea of what a military life means. Actual experience would convince them that it is not without its attractions.

OPINIONS OF OTHER EDITORS.

Keynote of Hun Attitude.

(Buffalo Express.)

"We want to show that we are not barbarians," is said to be the keynote of the German attitude toward Americans in Germany. With all due appreciation of the personal courtesies, of which there are such gratifying reports, it must be said that Germany cannot do that while she continues to sink Belgian relief ships and neutral and passenger vessels without regard to life.

Canada and the Beef Problem

WITH the price of beef and other meats soaring to hitherto unheard-of heights, and every newspaper carrying stories about the future prices of boots and shoes and other articles made of leather, there may be a modicum of comfort to be taken from the fact that the farmers and ranchers of Western Canada are now turning their attention to cattle and stock raising to an extent that would not have been believed possible a few years ago.

The modern farmer is very wide awake, and especially those of the three prairie provinces of Canada, and naturally as soon as he saw the prices of livestock soaring on the large world markets he began to pay more attention to stock raising, gradually finding as he did so that by combining it with the grain production he was able to make two profits where he hitherto had one.

According to the figures given in the Census and Statistics Bulletin issued by the Department of Trade and Commerce at Ottawa, all three of the western provinces show large increases in the number of livestock raised in 1916, as compared with 1913, the year previous to the war. Although there had been a slight gradual increase in the years immediately preceding 1913, all classes of livestock except swine show greater percentage of increase in the years after the commencement of the war than those previous. The figures for hogs show a decrease, due to the several large war orders received by some of the western packing firms from the Allies. One firm alone is said to have received an order for ham and bacon that called for 350,000 head of hogs.

The increase in the number of sheep is one of the outstanding features of the government report. The increase, approximately 30 percent, which is very gratifying. Many of the smaller farmers of the west have started small flocks of sheep, as they have found out that the climate was very suitable to them, provided a certain amount of shelter was supplied during the short periods when the weather might otherwise be too severe.

There are several large flocks in the west, and the success that the owners of these have met with has prompted the smaller farmers to start flocks. As an excellent price was obtained for wool this year, ranging as high as 36 cents a pound, and averaging ten pounds of wool per animal, the industry thus received another impetus. One sheep owner in Alberta was offered $12.00 per head for his entire flock of 6,000 head. He refused the offer and also another of $7.50 per head for 1,600 lambs. A short time after refusing these offers he purchased another 500 ewes.

The report estimates that there are at present 2,048,354 cattle in the three western provinces, 565,709 being milch cows and the balance beef and other cattle. This shows an increase of nearly 15 percent over 1913, and also the very large number of beef cattle that have been marketed during the past couple of years must be taken into consideration. Many large war orders were filled in Western Canada.

The Dominion and Provincial Governments and the Canadian Pacific Railway, through its Agricultural and Animal Industry Branch, have all aided the farmers in every possible way, and have published broadcast literature showing the best results that have been obtained on the various experimental and demonstration farms. The Canadian Pacific has several of these farms throughout the West, with an expert in charge of each, and at every cattle sale these farms are represented by animals of a very high class, both for breeding, milch and beef animals. The experts in charge of these farms will at all times aid in any way they can the farmer who seeks advice with reference to the best stock to go in for and also the proper way to secure the greatest results.

As an instance of the demand for good breeding stock, eighty-one head of shorthorn cattle realized $27,620 at a sale recently held at Calgary, Alta. The top price obtained was $885, which was paid for a thoroughbred bull, while the average price was $340, and when it is known that 65 of these animals were under eighteen months old, it will be seen that they were a fine lot of animals.

While there is no prospect of an immediate reduction in the price of meat as a result of the increased interest displayed by the farmers of the west, the prairies of the Canadian West have unlimited room for the raising of all kinds of livestock, and with the farmers taking a greater interest in livestock than ever before, Canada is destined to play a large part in solving the meat problem which the world now faces, and which is likely to become still more acute at the close of the war when European countries will be buying animals to replenish their herds.

ANECDOTES OF THE FAMOUS

Lord Curzon of Kedleston, whose engagement to be married, says Pearson's, was publicly announced the same day that saw his appointment as a member of the War Council of Five, was born just on fifty-eight years ago, and is the son of a clergyman.

Educated at Eton, where he earned a reputation for scathing repartee that made him both feared and respected, he graduated at Oxford University, where he was President of the Union, and began his diplomatic career as Private Secretary to the late Lord Salisbury.

This was the stepping-stone to greater things, culminating in 1899, in his becoming Viceroy of India. His reign there is remembered for his conflict with the military authorities which ended in his establishing the civil power as supreme.

He also founded the Indian Imperial Cadet Corps for training as officers sons of the great native ruling families. The innovation was strongly resented by the old school of Anglo-Indians. Nevertheless, the experiment has been amply justified, these self-same cadets he caused to be trained are now gallantly leading their countrymen to battle and dying on many a hard-fought field for England and the Empire.

Very early in his career he was christened "the young man in a hurry." And it is a fact that his energy is tremendous. He takes himself, too, very seriously. Lord Curon possesses the old Medal of the Royal Geographical Society for explorations in Central Asia.

Wit and Wisdom

A farmer whose land had never been drained made up his mind to look out for another farm. Meeting his landlord, he said:

"I'm gaun to gie up this farm; naebody cud grow onything on't."

Landlord—I'm sorry to hear it. If I take five shillings off the acre will you stop on?"

Farmer—'Deed, no; land like that shud never be let by the acre, but by the gallon.

"Why is there no word in our language with which a girl may describe her future husband without losing her self respect? 'Affianced' takes us back to the days when lovers sat on a horsehair sofa clothed in antimacassars—the sofa was, I mean, of course, and turned down the gas in the cut-glass chandelier. 'Betrothed' is the penny story at its worst; 'the gentleman who is walking me out' is clumsy; to shorten it to 'my perambulator' leaves the meaning obscure.

Andy Donaldson, a well known character of Glasgow, lay on his death-bed.

"I canna' leave ye thus, Nancy," the old Scotsman wailed. "Ye're ower auld to work, na' ye couldna' live in the workhoose. Gin I dee, ye maun marry anither man, wha'll keep ye in comfort in yer auld age."

"Nay, nay, Andy," answered the good spouse; "I cou'dna' marry anither man, for whit will I dae wi' twa husbands in heaven?"

Andy pondered over this, but suddenly his face brightened.

"I ha'e it, Nancy!" he cried. "Ye ken aul John Clemmens? He's a kind man, but he's no' a member o' the kirk. He likes ye, Nancy, an' gin ye'll marry him, 'twill be a' the same in heaven. John's no' a Christian, and he's no' likely to get there."

Poor Father!

A DAILY NOVELETTE.

Wildo Grenitch, the great geometrician, sat in the dining-room of his home at Horsewon trying for the first time to eat spaghetti. It was in May, 1580, and Grenitch's great work, "Angels and Things," was already in its seventh edition.

"Thunderation!" he exclaimed. "I can't eat this miserable thing!"

And he desperately wound another foot of it around his fork and raised it rapidly in the direction of his mouth. But with lightning speed it uncurled, and, smiting him on the left cheek, twined lovingly in his whiskers.

"Foiled," he cried, angrily, and, being a man of uncommon tenacity of purpose, he made one more attempt. He wound two and a half feet on his fork as tight as he could get it and for the eleventh time tried to get it to his mouth. And for the eleventh time it uncurled viciously, slapping him juicily in the right eye.

"Out with you!" he shouted, and hurled dish and all out of the dining room window. But e'en before it had alighted on the lawn to sprout and later develop into a lovely spaghetti bush, Wildo Grenitch had conceived his great idea. Rushing up into his laboratory, he took a yard of wire and made the first watch spring.

FIRE WASTE ON FARMS

The Insurance Department of Minnesota in a recent bulletin listed the following causes for the fire waste on farms;

Absence of fire-fighting appartaus.

Absence of lightning-rods.

Defective flues and stove-pipes and stoves and stove-pipes too near wood.

Carelessness with matches and the use of the ordinary parlor match.

Smoking in barns and out-buildings.

Careless use of lanterns and lamps.

The use of glass lamps instead of metal.

Carelessness with gasoline; also with kerosene, which is often used in starting fires

The great amount of frame construction.

The use of wooden barrels for ashes!

"You seem to enjoy working with a lawnmower."

"Yes," replied Mr. Chuggins. "It's a good deal of relief to slow speed along with a machine that doesn't burn gasoline or have to be cranked up."

One of the most popular forms of light exercise is falling in love.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

Honesty is the best policy— for all your neighbors.

Some men seem to think that a woman's mission is submission.

Success in any enterprise consists largely in knowing when to quit.

When a man is in love for the first time he thinks he invented it.

Don't worry over a mistake that can be corrected, but go to work and correct it.

It is easier to make a mountain out of a mole hill than it is to convince some people that they are wrong.

Unless a woman is looking for trouble she has no business to look sympathetically at a married man when his wife is present.

CHAPTER VI.

MY next dream in the order of succession begins always with the flight of Lop Ear and myself through the forest. The Fire Man and Broken Tooth and the tree of the tragedy are gone. Lop Ear and I, in a cautious panic, are fleeing through the trees. In my right leg is a burning pain, and from the flesh, protruding head and shaft from either side, is an arrow of the Fire Man. Not only did the pull and strain of it pain me severely, but it bothered my movements and made it impossible for me to keep up with Lop Ear.

At last I gave up, crouching in the secure fork of a tree. Lop Ear went right on. I called to him most plaintively, I remember, and he stopped and looked back. Then he returned to me, climbing into the fork and examining the arrow. He tried to pull it out, but one way the flesh resisted the barbed head, and the other way it resisted the feathered shaft. Also it hurt grievously, and I stopped him.

For some time we crouched there, Lop Ear nervous and anxious to be gone, perpetually and apprehensively peering this way and that, and myself whimpering softly and sobbing. Lop Ear was plainly in a funk, and yet his conduct in remaining by me in spite of his fear I take as a foreshadowing of the altruism and comradeship that have helped make man the mightiest of the animals.

Once again Lop Ear tried to drag the arrow through the flesh, and I angrily stopped him. Then he bent down and began gnawing the shaft of the arrow with his teeth. As he did so he held the arrow firmly in both hands so that it would not play about in the wound, and at the same time I held on to him. I often meditate upon this scene—the two of us, half grown cubs, in the childhood of the race, and the one mastering his fear, beating down his selfish impulse of flight, in order to stand by and succor the other. And there rises up before me all that was there foreshadowed, and I see visions of Damon and Pythias, of life saving crews and Red Cross nurses, of martyrs and leaders of forlorn hopes, of Father Damien and of the Christ himself, and of all the men of earth, mighty of stature, whose strength may trace back to the elemental loins of Lop Ear and Big Tooth and other dim denizens of the younger world.

When Lop Ear had chewed off the head of the arrow the shaft was withdrawn easily enough. I started to go on, but this time it was he that stopped me. My leg was bleeding profusely. Some of the smaller veins had doubtless been ruptured. Running out to the end of a branch Lop Ear gathered a handful of green leaves. These he stuffed into the wound. They accomplished the purpose, for the bleeding soon stopped. Then we went on together back to the safety of the caves.

Well do I remember that first winter after I left home. I have long dreams of sitting shivering in the cold. Lop Ear and I sit close together, with our arms and legs about each other, blue faced and with chattering teeth. It got particularly crisp along toward morning. In those chill early hours we slept little, huddling together in numb misery and waiting for the sunrise in order to get warm.

When we went outside there was a crackle of frost under foot. One morning we discovered ice on the surface of the quiet water in the eddy where was the drinking place, and there was a great how do you do about it. Old Marrow Bone was the oldest member of the horde, and he had never seen anything like it before. I remember the worried, plaintive look that came into his eyes as he examined the ice. (This plaintive look always came into our eyes when we did not understand a thing or when we felt the prod of some vague and inexpressible desire.) Red Eye, too, when he investigated the ice, looked bleak and plaintive and stared across the river into the northeast, as though in some way he connected the Fire People with this latest happening.

But we found ice only on that one morning, and that was the coldest winter we experienced. I have no memory of other winters when it was so cold. I have often thought that that cold winter was a forerunner of the countless cold winters to come, as the ice sheet from farther north crept down over the face of the land. But we never saw that ice sheet. Many generations must have passed away before the descendants of the horde migrated south or remained and adapted themselves to the changed conditions.

Life was hit or miss and happy go lucky with us. Little was ever planned, and less was executed. We ate when we were hungry, drank when we were thirsty, avoided our carnivorous enemies, took shelter in the caves at night and for the rest just sort of played along through life. We were very curious, easily amused and full of tricks and pranks. There was no seriousness about us, except when we were in danger or were angry, in which cases the one was quickly forgotten and the other as quickly got over.

We were inconsecutive, illogical and inconsequential. We had no steadfastness of purpose, and it was here that the Fire People were ahead of us. They possessed all these things of which we possessed so little. Occasionally, however, especially in the realm of the emotions, we were capable of long cherished purpose. The faithfulness of the monogamic couples I have referred to may be explained as a matter of habit. But my long desire for the Swift One cannot be so explained, any more than can be explained the undying enmity between me and Red Eye.

But it was our inconsequentiality and stupidity that especially distresses me when I look back upon that life in the long ago. Once I found a broken gourd which happened to lie right side up and which had been filled with the rain. The water was sweet, and I drank it. I even took the gourd down to the stream and filled it with more water, some of which I drank and some of which I poured over Lop Ear. And then I threw the gourd away. It never entered my head to fill the gourd with water and carry it into my cave. Yet often I was thirsty at night, especially after eating wild onions and watercress, and no one ever dared leave the caves at night for a drink.

Another time I found a dry gourd, inside of which the seeds rattled. I had great fun with it for awhile. But it was a plaything, nothing more. And yet it was not long after this that the using of gourds for storing water became the general practice of the horde. But I was not the inventor. The honor was due to old Marrow Bone, and it is fair to assume that it was the necessity of his great age that brought about the innovation.

At any rate, the first member of the horde to use gourds was Marrow Bone. He kept a supply of drinking water in his cave, which cave belonged to his son, the Hairless One, who permitted him to occupy a corner of it. We used to see Marrow Bone filling his gourd at the drinking place and carrying it carefully up to his cave. Imitation was strong in the folk, and first one and then another and another procured a gourd and used it in similar fashion, until it was a general practice with all of us so to store water.

Sometimes old Marrow Bone had sick spells and was unable to leave the cave. Then it was that the Hairless One filled the gourd for him. A little later the Hairless One deputed the task to Long Lip, his son. And after that, even when Marrow Bone was well again, Long Lip continued carrying water for him. By and by, except on unusual occasions, the men never carried any water at all, leaving the task to the women and larger children. Lop Ear and I were independent. We carried water only for ourselves, and we often mocked the young water carriers when they were called away from play to fill the gourds.

Progress was slow with us. We played through life, even the adults, much in the same way that children play, and we played as none of the other animals played. What little we learned was usually in the course of play and was due to our curiosity and keenness of appreciation. For that matter, the one big invention of the horde during the time I lived with it was the use of gourds. At first we stored only water in the gourds, in imitation of old Marrow Bone.

But one day some one of the women—I do not know which one—filled a gourd with blackberries and carried it to the cave. In no time all the women were carrying berries and nuts and roots in the gourds. The idea, once started, had to go on. Another evolution of the carrying receptacle was due to the women. Without doubt some woman's gourd was too small, or else she had forgotten her gourd. But be that as it may, she bent two great leaves together, pinning the seams with twigs, and carried home a bigger quantity of berries than could have been contained in the largest gourd.

So far we got and no farther in the transportation of supplies during the years I lived with the folk. It never entered anybody's head to weave a basket out of willow withes. Sometimes the men and women tied tough vines about the bundles of ferns and branches that they carried to the caves to sleep upon. Possibly in ten or twenty generations we might have worked up to the weaving of baskets. And of this one thing is sure—if once we wove withes into baskets the next and inevitable step would have been the weaving of cloth. Clothes would have followed, and with covering our nakedness would have come modesty.

Thus was momentum gained in the younger world. But we were without this momentum. We were just getting started, and we could not go far in a single generation. We were without weapons, without fire and in the raw beginnings of speech. The device of writing lay so far in the future that I am appalled when I think of it.

Even I was once on the verge of a great discovery. To show you how fortuitous was development in those days let me state that had it not been for the gluttony of Lop Ear I might have brought about the domestication of the dog. And this was something that the Fire People who lived to the northeast had not yet achieved. They were without dogs. This I knew from observation. But let me tell you how Lop Ear's gluttony possibly set back our social development many generations.

Well to the west of our caves was a great swamp, but to the south lay a stretch of low, rocky hills. These were little frequented for two reasons. First of all, there was no food there of the kind we ate, and, next, those rocky hills were filled with the lairs of carnivorous beasts.

But Lop Ear and I strayed over to the hills one day. We would not have strayed had we not been teasing a tiger. Please do not laugh. It was old Saber Tooth himself. We were perfectly safe. We chanced upon him in the forest early in the morning, and from the safety of the branches overhead we chattered down at him our dislike and hatred. And from branch to branch and from tree to tree we followed overhead, making an infernal row and warning all the forest dwellers that old Saber Tooth was coming.

We spoiled his hunting for him, anyway. And we made him good and hungry. He snarled at us and lashed his tail, and sometimes he paused and stared up at us quietly for a long time, as if debating in his mind some way by which he could get hold of us. But we only laughed and pelted him with twigs and the ends of branches.

This tiger baiting was common sport among the folk. Sometimes half the horde would follow from overhead a tiger or lion that had ventured out in the daytime. It was our revenge, for more than one member of the horde, caught unexpectedly, had gone the way of the tiger's belly or the lion's. Also by such ordeals of helplessness and shame we taught the hunting animals to some extent to keep out of our territory. And, then, it was funny. It was a great game.

And so Lop Ear and I chased Saber Tooth across three miles of forest. Toward the last he put his tail between his legs and fled from our gibing like a beaten cur. We did our best to keep up with him, but when we reached the edge of the forest he was no more than a streak in the distance.

I don't know what prompted us, unless it was curiosity, but after playing around awhile Lop Ear and I ventured across the open ground to the edge of the rocky hills. We did not go far. Possibly at no time were we more than a hundred yards from the trees. Coming around a sharp corner of rock (we went very carefully, because we did not know what we might encounter) we came upon three puppies playing in the sun.

THE WOODEN PACIFIC FLEET

VANCOUVER AND SEATTLE SEE STRANGE NEW CRAFT.

In view of the considerable number of wooden ships which have been and are being constructed at the Pacific coast, the question has arisen regarding the sailing vessel as a permanent factor in the business of ocean shipping. Before the war the construction of sailing vessels had ceased almost entirely, even in France, Norway and the United States, which were the principal countries retaining any great volume of sailing tonnage. One of the results of the war was a renewed activity in the building of auxiliary craft. The Pacific Coast-Australian lumber trade in particular has interested itself in constructing wooden sailing vessels installed with auxiliary motors. It is predicted now by shipping interests that these new wooden craft, equipped with crude oil engines, will soon displace the old four-masted barkentines and schooners, and may offer effective competition to the modern cargo steamer, used almost exclusively before the war.

IN-A-HURRY DISHES

Novel Sausage Dish

Take 1 lb. of sausages, which are sold in 1 lb. bundles, separate them, and remove skin with a knife. Have crisp breadcrumbs ready, and roll each sausage into breadcrumbs, put into hot pan, and brown on both sides, then serve with poached eggs.

Cheese Pudding

Take 1 teacupful of breadcrumbs, 1 ounce of grated cheese, 1 egg, 1 pint of milk, and pepper and salt. Whisk all thoroughly together, and bake in a quick oven for ten minutes. This is very quickly made and is excellent.

Railway Pudding

Take 1 teacupful each of flour and of sugar, 2 eggs, 2 tablespoonfuls milk, 2 teaspoonfuls baking powder. Beat sugar and eggs together, then add flour, baking powder, and milk. Mix thoroughly, and bake in a flat tin in a hot oven for 10 minutes.

Savory Toast

Grate as much cold cooked liver as required. Put into small pan with a little butter, pepper, salt, dessert spoonful Worcestershire sauce, and enough gravy to make it moist. Let it get hot only. Spread between slices of hot buttered toast. Cut into squares or fingers and serve.

Potato and Cheese Rolls

Take some cold mashed potatoes, 1 egg, a little milk, seasoning, and grated cheese. Mix potatoes and cheese with pepper and salt, and moisten with beaten egg and a little milk. Flour hands, and shape into rolls. Then lay on baking tin. Brush over with egg, and brown in moderate oven. Onions or cold meat chopped may be used instead of the cheese.

Eggs in Gravy

Pour into a baking tin a teacupful of good brown gravy. When hot, break into it very carefully 4 or 5 eggs. Season lightly with pepper, salt, and a pinch of mace. Sprinkle over them a very thin covering of breadcrumbs. Bake in a fairly hot oven for 5 minutes. Then with a slice lift the eggs carefully and put each on a round of hot buttered toast. Pour the gravy into a small pan. Stir into it a tablespoonful of catsup and a teaspoonful of moistened cornflour. Boil up and serve hot.

Delicious Fish Toast

Take ¼ lb. cold fish, pound it with a piece of butter, a little pepper, salt, mace, and a teaspoonful of chopped onion, than add a tablespoonful cream. Put it in a lined saucepan, add the yolk of an egg, and stir till quite hot. Pile the mixture high on buttered toast. Sprinkle some fine breadcrumbs over. Put a little butter on top, stand in a very hot oven for 8 or 10 minutes, and take out and serve at once.

CLEANING HINTS

When aluminum pans become black and dull-looking, rub them with a soft cloth which has been dipped in lemon juice. Rinse in warm water, and they will shine like new.

Carpets

When sweeping carpets, remember to sweep the way of the grain. To brush the wrong way is not only bad for the carpet, but it tends to brush the dust in instead of out.

The Smell of Paint

Most people object to the smell of new paint. When a room has been newly painted, it is a good plan to place some hay in a pail of water and leave it in the room for a few hours. You will find that the smell will have completely vanished.

A Dusting Hint

Don't use a feather duster, as this only make the dust fly into the air and settle somewhere else. A chamois leather makes an ideal duster; but if the furniture is very dusty or greasy, a soft rag wrung out of soapy water should be used first of all. Then finish off the furniture with the leather wrung out of cold water.

A Use For Newspapers

An old newspaper makes an excellent pad for polishing windows and mirrors. Dip the paper in methylated spirits, and go all over the window with it, and you will be delighted to find what a brilliant polish results.

To Wash Blankets

After washing and drying woollen blankets, hang them on a line in the open air and beat them well with a carpet beater. This raises the fluff, and the blankets will look almost as good as new for years if they are treated in this way every time they are washed.

For Oak Bedsteads

Boiled linseed oil is excellent for cleaning oak bedsteads. A very little oil should be applied on a clean rag and rubbed thoroughly into the wood. Polish with a clean, soft duster, and the oak will have a highly polished surface.

To Clean Matting

Try using bran for cleaning your matting. Tie the bran in a bag, dip the bag into clean, warm water, and rub the matting briskly with this. Then wash it off with a cloth wrung out of warm, salt water. This freshens it up beautifully.

Shabby Leather

Shabby leather chairs are very much improved by the following treatment: Take one pint of boiled linseed oil, stir in one pint of vinegar, and let it settle. When required, shake well and pour a little on a soft cloth. Rub this well into the leather. Keep turning the flannel as it gets dirty, and afterwards rub the leather with a soft duster.

Bright Brass

Next time you are cleaning brassware of any kind, try using lemon juice. Cut a lemon in half, dip it in coarse salt, and rub it thoroughly over the surface of the brass until all the stains have disappeared. Then rinse well in warm water, and polish with a soft duster and a little finely powdered bathbrick.

Polishing Furniture

Remember that too much furniture polish is just as bad for the furniture as too little. Only just enough is required to cover thinly the surface of the furniture. The real secret of obtaining a high polish is to have a number of clean polishing cloths—old pieces of silk make nice finishing ones—and use plenty of "elbow grease."

Holland Blinds

First of all brush the blinds to free them from dust. Then spread a blind on the table, lengthwise. Sprinkle plentifully with clean sawdust, and go over it gently with the palm of the hand until about half a yard of the holland is covered. Use fresh sawdust to each piece, and rub it well in. When the whole of the blind is covered, brush it off and polish with a clean duster. You will find that the blinds will be as stiff and clean as when new.

To Whiten a Table

If the kitchen table becomes stained and blackened, try cleaning it with bathbrick. Crush the bathbrick—taking care not to make it too small—damp the table with hot water, and sprinkle with the bathbrick. Now make some soapsuds and scrub the table in the ordinary way, using a fresh supply of water for rinsing. The table will look beautifully white after this treatment.

To Clean Wallpaper

First of all go over the walls very lightly with a clean duster to remove any dust. Then divide a stale loaf into parts, take the crust in your hand, and, beginning at the top of the paper, wipe it downwards until the dirt from the paper and the crumbs fall together. Don't attempt to clean more than half a yard at a stroke, and after doing all the under part, go round again, beginning a little above where you left off. The paper will look like new when you have finished.

LIGHTNING IN HOUSES

WHERE MOST DANGEROUS PLACES IN A HOUSE ARE.

The records show that when unprotected houses are struck by lightning people are injured or killed in almost every conceivable location in the house. It seems that there is no place in a house to which lightning will not penetrate, although many statements to the contrary have been made.

Some places in a house are undoubtedly more dangerous than others, however, among such being the vicinity of stoves, places between masses of metal on the exterior of the building, and metallic masses in the interior, whether earthed or not, and near chimneys.

An example of a place between metallic masses would be between a down spout and a steam or hot water radiator. Other dangerous places in a house during a thunderstorm are at telephones, or touching screen doors or other metallic bodies which connect with the exterior of the building.

Increased Production

Let us all catch the main idea that more production is possible. Live men are now on the executive agricultural jobs in the Western provinces. It should be an important part of their political gospel to preach production. If men, willing to farm, are deserving of help to farm and produce, the State should endeavor to do more than it has done in assisting to dig the riches out of the soil.

COLONISTS AND WHAT THEY OWE

NOT CONTENT TO LEAVE FIGHT TO THE MOTHERLAND.

It is too readily assumed, says the Nineteenth Century, that the sister-nations have "come to the assistance of Great Britain." The colonists insist, on the contrary, that they are fighting a battle which is their own, and to put the matter otherwise hurts their sensitive pride and appears to exclude them from the common citizenship which they claim as a birthright. They were, and are, content to leave the actual conduct of the campaign in the hands of the statesmen of the Motherland, and, though their patience has been repeatedly sorely tried, they have shown exemplary restraint in criticism.

Courage Day After Day

A Canadian artillery major writes: "I think the most wonderful thing of all were the Canadian stretcher-bearers, who would work right out under the fire without taking any apparent notice of the shells bursting all around. There was no place they would not go; some of them seemed to bear charmed lives. They did not do this just once, but kept at it day after day as long as their units remained in the line. It is not possible to describe the work of some of them. They should all have V.C.'s."

WAS HERO AT COURCELETTE

MAJOR LAVIOLETTE IS ONE OF CANADA'S DARE-DEVILS.

A hospital car of the Military Hospital Commission brought back to his home Major Lambert Dumont Laviolette, M.C., who was paralyzed from the waist down as the result of wounds. Capt. F. H. McQuay, of the Army Medical Corps, looked after the gallant officers on the journey from St. John, and immediately on arrival at Bonaventure station in Montreal, Major Laviolette was taken to hospital. Major Laviolette, who was known by his men as "the daredevil," was second in command of his battalion at the Courcelette fight and was hit by machine gun fire. Carried to the rear by his men, his life was despaired of for some time, but wonderful surgical work in English and French hospitals pulled him through.

The military career of this officer is a striking one. He was a private in the ranks of the 65th Regiment when war broke out, and immediately took a course in the McGill C.O.T.C. and joined another battalion as a lieutenant under Lieut.-Col. Gaudet. At first he acted as transport officer, but at his own request was transferred to the firing line and given the position of scout officer. He was rapidly promoted, being successively captain and commander of a company, then major and finally second in command of the battalion. He was once wounded previously, and was awarded the Military Cross for gallantry. His brother was also overseas, having gone with the battalion raised by Lieut.-Col. Dansereau, since broken up into drafts.

"But, madam," expostulated the lawyer, "your husband is earning only twelve dollars."

"What's that got to do with it? I thought the government provided the alimony, same as the separation allowance."

MISTAKE BY NELLY

Thought She Saw Her Lover Kiss Another Girl and Was Peeved.

BY AUGUSTUS GOODRICH SHERWIN.

The ice on the river was burnished by the bright sunlight till it shone like a sheet of gold. The air was like new wine. Half a hundred happy persons hovered about, and Nelly Blair was the center of her own little group of select friends.

There was a pout upon her lips and a discontented, almost angry expression in her eyes. She stamped her little foot till the skate blade rang.

"I will never speak to Lisle Jordan again!" she declared. "I have a good mind to send him back the engagement ring."

"Don't be foolish, Nelly," advised her sister. "You are making a great big mountain out of a very small mole hill."

"Big? Little?" gasped Nelly, her eyes full of tears. "I saw him skating away from everybody with one of the new academy girls. His arm was around her, and I am sure I saw him kiss her."

"Did he see you, Nellie?" inquired her sister.

"He acted as if he didn't want to see me," cried the vexed girl. "He was to be here to skate with me two hours ago and—"

"Why, there he is now, Nelly; there is some mistake. He must have just come from home."

But Nelly was not in hearing now and soon she was out of sight. She had glanced just once at an approaching figure. It was her lover, with his skates over his shoulder.

Nelly was soon far from the general throng. Every moment she felt more abused and perverse. When she came to where the river divided, she took the far western branch.

Here the ice was a clear, brilliant sheet, scarcely marked. Nelly rested for a moment. Then she casually noticed a man coming her way. He wore a very fancy skating costume, and his progress was the rarest poetry of motion.

Nelly drew back timidly. The stranger was a foreigner, with jet black eyes and a waxed moustache. He lightly kissed the tips of his fingers, he smiled and bowed with an excess of courtesy.

His Progress Was the Rarest Poetry of Motion.

"Beautiful, very beautiful," he said, and Nelly was more astounded than ever. He described a wonderful circle on one foot, and then, with a flourish, made a series of quick whirls.

Nelly gasped and flushed at the audacity of the man. Plainly he had written on the ice with wonderful skill a name.

It was: "Nelly."

"How dare you!" flashed forth the little lady, but, with a delighted laugh, the expert skater was off on a long glide, and farther away Nelly saw him once more write that name on the glassy surface of the ice.

"Oh, dear! I am the most friendless and forlorn being in the world!" burst forth Nelly. "Everybody is cruel to me."

The expert skater was maneuvering between the spot where Nelly was and the junction of the rivers. Nelly was really frightened at the impertinent, airy fellow, as she judged him. She got out of his way by skating on. Finally she espied a cut-off leading to the other river branch. It had steep clay sides, and Nelly started along it.

Crack—swish—crack, crack! Nelly uttered a sharp, sudden cry of dismay. The frail rubber ice was bending under her weight. Then one foot went through it to the ankle. She darted for shore, but though at every step her feet broke through, she gained the bank.

A driftwood log was there, and Nelly sat down on it, breathless and with wet feet. All her sudden temper was subdued. How lonesome it was! How foolish she had been! In regaining the main river she might incur no actual danger, but her feet might sink in deeper.

"There is no Lisle to find me," mourned the dejected maid. "I suppose all men flirt. I wish—I wish I hadn't run away. Oh, dear!" and Nelly burst out crying.

She looked up at the sound of clanging skate blades and crackling ice. Her lover was coming towards her. She could read the anxiety and solicitude in his pale, earnest face. In his expertness he evaded breaking through the ice.

"Why, Nelly," he cried, in a glad, relieved tone. "I feared I should not find you. If it were not for a skater I met who had seen you come this way, I might have searched for hours. And in trouble, too, poor little girl!"

"Yes, I am in dreadful trouble," sobbed Nelly. "Was it a man in a fancy costume you met?"

"Yes, a stranger—looked like a foreigner."

"He is a bold, bad man," blazed out Nelly. "He smiled at me, and—and deliberately wrote my name on the ice. I never was so affronted in my life."

"He did, eh?" flared up Lisle, in his turn. "Well, we'll see about that. Now, little girl, I'll carry you over the rubber ice here, and we'll just go and bring that impertinent fellow to time."

Nelly nestled in his arms so gladly that she forgot all her pet grievances.

"Now you must skate to keep from freezing, dear," advised the thoughtful lover. "I must get you home just as quickly as possible."

"Oh—I am not the least bit cold, and I don't mind the wet one bit," declared Nelly, with a joyous thrill at being under such lovable protection again.

"Ah, there is that insolent fellow!" exclaimed Lisle, as they came to a bend in the river and the man who had so frightened Nelly was in view. "You wait here while I attend to the gentleman."

"How strong, how brave is Lisle!" enthused Nelly, as she watched her lover approach the object of her complaint. Then, to her astonishment, instead of a stormy collision there was a perfectly friendly meeting. The stranger bowed and showed the most extravagant courtesy. Lisle skated back to Nelly, his face in a broad smile.

"Why," he observed, "there is, of course, only one Nelly in the world to me, but there are two Nellys mixed up in this skating experience."

"What do you mean, Lisle?" asked Nelly bewilderedly.

"That gentleman yonder and his wife are a roller skating team who are here with a vaudeville company. He was simply practicing on ice skates. His wife's name is the same as yours, and he was delighted to find he was able to write it on the ice."

"Oh, dear! what a foolish girl I have been," said Nelly.

"Your sister told me of your mistake about myself," pursued Lisle.

"Mistake?" repeated Nelly.

"Yes, dear. The person you mistook for me was a college friend, Jack Delmar. I loaned him my outfit this morning."

"Oh, Lisle! can you ever forgive me for doubting you?" almost sobbed Nelly. "That Jack Delmar, though, is a bold fellow—I saw him kiss the girl with him."

"Why not? She is one of the seminary girls, and Jack is engaged to her. I tell you, Nelly, Jack is a fine fellow."

Nelly nestled closer to her lover, subdued, contrite, but immensely happy. Then she glanced up archly, and said:

"And you are a fine fellow, too, Lisle!"

He was not averse to the delicate hint, and their kiss of reconciliation was as well the kiss of peace and perfect understanding

Fad Became Big Industry.

A Missouri woman has made what started out to be a fad into an interesting vocation. She has always had a fondness for beads, and years ago when traveling in Europe began a collection of fancy beads.

Though beautiful beads of rare coloring were to be bought, she wondered at the lack of taste shown in stringing them. She brought beads from Venice, Dresden and Russia and for her own satisfaction experimented in making them into necklaces. She then began to teach women in a small Missouri town to string beads according to her designs and color scheme. She now has over fifty helpers, and her necklaces are in demand. They are not at all expensive, but are decorative.

She goes abroad every year, and one of the pleasures of her travels is hunting about for odd and unusual beads, which she has so far found in nearly every country of the old world. Some of her beads have histories, and many were found in famous little curio shops.

Cured His RUPTURE

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely cured me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no lost time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell, but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation, if you write to me, Eugene M. Pullen, Carpenter, [illegible] Marcellus Avenue, Manasquan, N.J. Better cut out this notice and show it to any others who are ruptured — you may save a life or at least stop the misery of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation.

AN APPEAL TO THE EMPLOYERS

SIR EDMUND WALKER ON PROBLEM OF THE RETURNED SOLDIER.

Sir Edmund Walker, President of the Candian Bank of Commerce, writes: "We have to consider what we owe to the man who has fought to defend our lives, our property and our liberty, and we have to consider how to prevent the disorganization of industrial society when the soldiers come back in large numbers and the making of army supplies has come to an end.

"To-day, every employer of labor, manufacturer, merchant, banker, or whatever his calling, should be considering how he can employ a few partly disabled men, and thus do something more in carrying the burdens of the war. All the ingenuity of this ingenious age should be employed, no matter at what cost, to enable the wounded soldier to earn his own living—which will not affect any pension he may receive.

"For obvious reasons we shall hope that many of the returned soldiers will take up land. The manner of selecting such land so that communities of loyal men shall be planted in every province, of caring for the soldier-farmer in his early years of settlement, and of lending him money for improvements, is of prime importance."

Sawdust as Fuel

Unable to obtain coal sufficient to keep the fires going the University of Ottawa officials have been keeping their buildings heated by burning sawdust during the past few days. This they secure from a mill in Hull, across the river. There are about 300 families in the city without coal.

Lawyer — You say you want this damage suit pushed through with the utmost speed?

Client — Exactly. I have a child six weeks old and I want the money to pay his college expenses.

EVERY MAN WHO FIGHTS IS OLD ENOUGH TO VOTE

Soldiers' Franchise Bill Introduced in Legislature---Honor for the Dead---Women May Get Franchise

TORONTO, Feb. 15. — The legislation for extending the vote to soldiers, foreshadowed in the Speech from the Throne, was introduced in the Legislature by Hon. T. W. McGarry yesterday. The measure is simple in object. It confers the right to vote in Provincial elections upon every British subject, whether he has attained the age of 21 years or not, serving anywhere in the naval or military forces of Great Britain, Canada, or other British possessions or in the military or naval forces of any of the Allies of Great Britain.

The bill provides for the necessary registration of soldiers under Manhood Suffrage Registration, or upon the Voters' Lists, in order to carry out the intent of the Legislature.

Under the Act as proposed, it will be possible for a youth of any age to vote provided he is in uniform. No restriction in that direction is contemplated at present. "If the military authorities think he is old enough to wear a uniform, that is enough for us," stated Hon. Sir Wm. Hearst, after the adjournment of the House. The Prime Minister did not believe, however, that many young fellows under eighteen would be voting under the legislation. The rigid exclusion of youths under eighteen was a safeguard, and in the case of boys who slipped in early in the war they would be nearly of age before the war was over.

Honors for the Dead.

The Legislature was in session for but an hour, the time being taken up almost entirely by the expression of tributes to the memory of the late Hon. J. S. Duff, Hon. J. J. Foy and S. H. Armstrong of Muskoka. Immediately after routine business had been disposed of Sir William Hearst moved the adjournment of the House as an expression of respect to their late colleagues.

Women May Get the Vote.

The Ontario Cabinet is reported not to have yet definitely made up its mind as to woman's suffrage, but there is a growing sentiment in the corridors that the ladies will have their claims conceded. It is known that there are members in the Government who privately are heart and soul with the franchise seekers, and quite a number of members on the Conservative side, who were previously opposed to votes for women now make no secret of their belief that, in view of the valuable services rendered by the ladies in connection with the war, to grant the franchise would be a just concession.

Premier Hearst is not credited with having been in the past so resolutely opposed to the women's claims as his predecessor was, and there is also a feeling among the Conservatives that the party would gain by extending the vote at what they consider this, the psychological moment.

EXTENSIONS TO RADIALS PROPOSED

HYDRO ENGINEER TO COME TO THIS CITY FOR A CONFERENCE.

The Hydro Electric Commission of Ontario will be asked to send their engineers to Peterborough and discuss the advisability of making extensions to the street railway system, with the railway committee of the council.

The railway committee held a meeting last night and the extensions to the street railway were talked over. The necessity for giving railway service to the residents in the north west end of the city a better connection on Park St. South, and East City were all carefully considered. On a motion of Mayor Duffus and Ald. Worth it was decided to ask the commission to continue the railway down Monaghan road from Charlotte Street to Henry Hope Co., the Park St. line to Lansdowne St., the Jackson Park or another line to give connection to that section of the city around the Normal School and East City.

The railway committee have completed their end of the details in connection with the C.P.R. footbridge and the work is now in the hands of the Board of Works. The C.P.R. have already been sent a cheque for $1800 to cover the cost of the iron work.

The freight and coal situation was reported on and the Mayor is in touch with the Dominion Railway Board daily and it is hoped that the service to the local industries will be much improved in a day or so.

Ald. Langford suggested that no new street work be undertaken until the engineer had made a report on the necessary repairs and reported on them, with an estimate of the cost. He thought the estimate could be kept down to $30,000

Ald. Weir was agreeable to do whatever the committee agreed on. The appropriation could be cut by leaving out all new work and not adding to the street oiling area.

Ald. Smith: Let the appropriation be $33,000 and call it square.

Ald. Duncan thought that $35,000 would be about enough.

Ald. Dobbin thought that $35,000 would be a fair estimate

Ald. Worth did not believe in cutting the estimate if it covered work necessary to be done. He was opposed to the idea of allowing an appropriation for one item to be exceeded. He pointed out that the appropriation had been kept down low last year by using the C.P.R footbridge money for deficiencies in other places.

Chairman Weir suggested that the City Engineer and himself visit each ward with the ward representatives and decide on what work would be done. A small committee could see more and give better satisfaction than the whole council going over the city as in past years, sizing up the situation in one trip. It was not satisfactory.

All. Worth suggested that the committee go over the streets after a rainstorm. The bad spots would then be easily discovered.

Ald. Duncan's motion that the estimates stand at $35,000 carried.

WILSON NOT YET READY

cent. of American commerce with Europe is carried on American ships, the sailing of vessels of other nationalities in many instances have either been cancelled or postponed, and therefore the result of the ruthless submarine campaign in time will result in far-reaching disturbance of the industrial life of the United States.

Preparations by the government for any eventuality still are going forward without interruption. Much importance is attached to the work of the Council of National Defence, which is holding daily sessions for the purpose of learning at first hand from Americans of experience what provision must be made to co-ordinate American resources. E. S. Stettinius, of J. P. Morgan and Company, New York, was again before the council yesterday furnishing information gained from experience as head of his firm's huge transactions in war orders for the Entente Allies.

Arming of U. S. Shipes.

It was stated during the day that it was entirely possible that the government would take no steps towards actually furnishing arms to American ships unless and until the President decides he should go before Congress.

While the State Department takes the position that the government has the right to furnish the guns, other questions which make the situation more complex have arisen. The greatest of these is the determination of the President to do nothing which might give Germany the excuse in any trouble which may follow to place the responsibility upon the United States.

Consul Treadway, at Rome, forwarded despatches yesterday showing that the schooner Law was sunk by "an Austrian submarine without flag," apparently by placing a bomb aboard after the vessel had been stopped.

Most serious of the aspects of the case of the Law is the statement that the submarine was Austrian. In replying to the queries that will be sent to Vienna as to the facts of the sinking, it is thought more than probable that Austria may make some statement which will precipitate the expected break with that country. Officials have admitted that Austria has sent a submarine note identical to European ports. No serious effect from this condition will be felt, however, until lapse of sufficient time for ships remaining in American ports to have gone to Europe and returned. While only approximately ten per with Germany's, but so far this country has held off from extending the severance of relations to that country.

The question of the armament of American merchantmen seemed to be temporarily disposed of by the official statement that there were no guns in this country to be had by ship owners unless the government provided them, and the strong intimation that the President expects to go before Congress again before committing the government to a policy furnishing arms. President Wilson is said to feel that he promised Congress he would consult that body again before he took the next step towards protecting American lives and property on the high seas, and that official participation in the armament of merchantmen would constitute such a next step.

The re-detention by Germany of the 72 American sailors brought in as prisoners on the prize ship Yarrowdale will result in a peremptory demand for their release within a few days.

SMITH APPOINTMENTS

The second meeting of the council of the township of Smith was held in the county council chambers at Peterborough. All the members were present, with Reeve McKee in the chair. The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

The collector's roll was presented, showing that all taxes had been collected with the exception of $426.70, mostly due by non-residents.

On motion, the roll was received, and the treasurer was instructed to return the $234.70 (chargeable to lands) to the county treasurer.

A letter requesting a grant to the Children's Aid Society was received from Asst. Sec. Spence. It was decided that $10 be granted.

Mr. George Simpson addressed the council, and stated that he wished to purchase some trees on the 5th concession. The reeve instructed Councillors Moore and Middleton to make suitable arrangements.

Mr. C. Hancock was present and stated what steps had been taken by the council regarding the bill presented by Mr. Cann. Reeve McKee pointed out that the council could not legally pay the account.

Bylaw No. 751 was passed making the following appointments:

Dr. Morgan, M. H. O.

Messrs. J. A. Young and R. J. Edmison, auditors; salary $10 each.

C. O. Northey, assessor, salary $130 and postage.

John Chittick, collector, salary $120 and postage.

Thomas Black, sanitary inspector.

The treasurer was instructed to pay the following accounts:

Sherman Roseboro, rebate statute labor, $6.00.

John Chittick, salary and postage, $130.00.

J. W. Kelly, Regis. fees, $20.40.

Wm. Brown, gravel, $5.25.

H. Roseboro, 6 days work on road, $9.00.

D. Sullivan, rebate on dog tax, $3.00.

After verbally appointing roadmasters and poundkeepers, council adjourned to meet again on March the 6th at 10 a.m.

JAPAN STANDS BY CHINA IN BREAK WITH GERMANY

TOKIO, Feb. 15.—In connection with the Japanese approval, now confirmed, of China's action in supporting the attitude of the United States towards Germany on the submarine question, it is further stated that Japan has promised China all possible support, including the maintenance of order in China where German influence is considerable.

China's protest to Germany, says the Japan Times, may be taken as a prelude to China's eventual participation in the war on the side of the entente.

Japan's special rights and interests in the Far East, adds the newspaper, have been affirmed by the entente.

OUTSIDE SERVICE MEN ARE BEING DISMISSED

Notice to Single Men Appears in Pay Envelopes.

OTTAWA, Feb. 15.—Outside service employes of the department of railways and canals who are presumed fit for military service are being dismissed the end of the month. Notices to this effect were received yesterday by some of the employes when they received their pay envelopes, and it is understood that the whole outside service of this department will be embraced in that order. The department was recently augmented by the addition of a number of clerks taken on to expedite the work of the Quebec and Saguenay railroad when taken over by the Government. These are now being released in the first batch to be let out. This order applied only to single men.

HESITATION

DOES NOT PAY

Some people hesitate to have their eyes tested, because they are practically convinced they need glasses, but are afraid of appearances. That kind of hesitancy does not pay. Eyes that need help are surely worth helping. They get worse if the strain goes on, and Dr. Fowler's extremely neat gold mounts and beautifully transparent "PEBLO" Lenses rather add to than detract from the appearance.

A PATRIOTIC SOCIETY FOR APSLEY LADIES

(Special Correspondence.)

APSLEY, Feb. 15. — A meeting of the ladies of the village and surrounding country was held at the home of Mrs. E. W. Gardner Tuesday of last week for the purpose of organizing a patriotic society. The following officers were elected:

President—Mrs. E. M. Gardner.
Vice-Pres.—Mrs. S. Carr.
Rec. Secretary—Mrs. W. Lean.
Corres. Secretary—Miss Grant.

At the next meeting other lines will be extended and officers elected. Yarn has been distributed among all the ladies willing to assist in knitting for those who are offering the supreme sacrifice for us. A large amount of work has been done previous to this organization, both in knitting and in Red Cross work under the supervision of Mrs. Gardner.

We are sorry to learn of the illness of Mrs. F. Younge.

Mrs. W. Staples and Miss E. L. Clegg spent last Wednesday at Mr. S. Windsor's auditing the books of the municipality.

Mrs. Robert Hales and daughter, Muriel, of Southey, Sask., who have been spending the past two months among relatives here, left on Saturday to visit friends at Peterborough and Campbellford before starting on their return trip.

A wedding of interest to many in this locality took place at Peterborough on February 1st when Miss Stella E. Hales, eldest daughter of Mrs. R. Hales, of Burleigh, was united in marriage to Mr. Wm. Gordon Johnson, of Otonabee. Miss Hales, when residing here, was one of Burleigh's most popular young ladies, and we extend to the young couple our best wishes for a prosperous and happy wedded life.

Mrs. Esau Tucker left Saturday last to spend a couple of weeks' visit with relatives in Peterborough and Toronto.

Miss Mildred Kilborn of Burleigh is visiting friends in Anstruther.

Mr John Lean, Jr., of Toronto, is visiting at his home here.

Price of School Books

Hon. Dr Pyne, Minister of Education, speaking with reference to the increase in cost price of book paper and the possible effect on the price of text books, declared: "We are going to have school books here at the same price."

Mr. G. F. Harington was a visitor to Toronto this week.

Mr. T. Burnham was in town on Wednesday.

Mrs. W. J. E. Gillot was a visitor to Westwood last week.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Johnston and daughter Alexandria were visitors to Port Perry last week.

Rev. and Mrs. Joseph Wilks were visitors to Peterborough on Sunday.

Born—In Millbrook on Sunday, Feb. 11, 1917, to Mr. and Mrs. A. Clarke, a daughter.

Born—In Millbrook, on Tuesday, Feb. 13, 1917, to Mr. and Mrs. A. Whiteside, a daughter.

Mrs. E. McConnell of Lindsay is a guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Nattrass.

Dr. and Mrs. King of Peterborough were guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Allen on Wednesday.

Miss Nesbit was a guest of her parents in Newtonville over Sunday.

The many friends of Mr. J. D. Fair will regret to learn that he is seriously ill at his home in Toronto.

Dr. Lee will preach from the following subjects on Sunday: 10.30, The Breastplate of Righteousness; 7 p.m., Three Men on a Hill; 2.30 p.m. at Garden Hill, The Stars in Their Courses.

Dr. H. A. Turner was a visitor to Toronto on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Givens are visiting their daughter, Mrs. (Dr.) Ellis in the States.

In Grace Church on Tuesday evening Rev. J. Wilks gave an address on My Experiences in Darkest Africa. The meeting was opened by Canon Allen, who read an appropriate Scripture lesson and offered prayer. An offering was taken for missions and the proceedings closed by the saying of the Benediction by Rev. A. G. E. Westmacott.

The missionary prayer meeting in connection with the league last Monday night was a great success. Four of our missionaries were cleverly impersonated by young men, and the little Chinese girl, supported by Mrs. Walsh's S.S class, was represented by Eileen Higgs, who sang a native Chinese song. Prayer was offered for each in turn and the whole service was unique and inspiring. A special musical evening will be given next Monday night, Feb. 19.

The basket social and entertainment held at Trinity Parish Hall on Thursday, Feb. 8, was a decided success. There was a large attendance and all enjoyed themselves thoroughly. Mr. W. Porteous conducted the sale of baskets and the autograph quilt, which together brought in the sum of $110.05. Songs by Mr. H. Tollett and E. Mason, chorus by the choir, duet by Lila and Marjory Fallis, address by Canon Allen, tableau by three girls entitled "Way Down Upon the Swanee River," were highly appreciated. Mrs. H. Tollett was the efficient pianist. The amusing farce, Who's Who, or All In a Fog, proved most laughable and entertaining.

Messrs. W. J. Kinsman and J. W. Wood, church wardens, deserve great credit for their work in arranging the program.

Mr F. Whitehouse and Mr. F. Clarke of Peterborough will give several violin and banjo selections at the Red Cross concert to be held in the Town Hall, Millbrook, on Tuesday evening, Feb. 20. New War Loan

The third domestic war loan will be floated next month. The amount and terms of the loan will not be finally settled until immediately before the issue is made. It is probable, however, that it will be practically along the same lines as the two preceding issues namely, for one hundred millions, netting a little more than 5 per cent. interest. Conditions as to amount and interest rate will depend on prevailing conditions next month.

Montreal Climbing Up

The third day's work in the Montreal campaign to raise $2,500,000 for the Patriotic Fund and Red Cross Society realized $349,247, a total for the three days of $2,451,582, including the city's grant of $1,000,000. It is anticipated that the subscriptions will run over $3,000,000 by the end of the campaign.

PETERBOROUGH MARKETS

The local market was fair all week despite the very severe weather. Hay was offered in fair quantity and sold readily at unchanged prices. A few loads of extra good timothy brought a little more than usual. There is a good demand for straw.

Several loads of live stock were shipped out this week to Toronto and Montreal. The market in these places is good, owing to the scarcity of butcher cattle.

Hogs are very firm and sold at $14 for local delivery.

Eggs are increasing in supply and prices are dropping on all the markets.

Good fat fowl will find a ready sale at fair prices. There was not a sufficient supply of chickens of good quality to equal the demand last Saturday.

HORSE MARKET

TORONTO, Feb. 14 — Toronto's horse trade was rather quiet this week, a[illegible] situation is exerting an effort in this business as well as in the cattle trade. There were 100 to 125 remounts secured at the French army inspections held during the week at the Repository. Two or three loads were sold for different points in Saskatchewan and the Western trade is expected to assume larger proportions during the next two months. There was a healthy trade at the Union Yards Stock Exchange, with most of the horses being disposed of at private sales. Shipments are larger for this week.

Local trade is quiet, with only a few odd horses being picked up.

The local dealers, Messrs Green & Cruickshank, held an inspection for horses for the French army on Wednesday and Thursday. Some fine animals passed the required examination.

BURIAL OF A CANADIAN HERO

SIMPLE, GRIM DETAILS OF DEATH AT FRONT.

A Canadian officer wrote: "To-day I was at the burial of a captain in the Second Division, and perhaps that is one of the saddest things one could look at. It was in a little cemetery at the side of the road which has sprung up like a western town. The graves are touching each other, colonels and privates side by side; just a rude cross with the name on it. And on the road beside it a great stream of traffic. He was killed up the line this morning. They brought him up to the graveside on a stretcher. Privates and officers stood around with hats off. There was a general mixed with us.

"The body was wrapped up in an old blanket, without any formality. As they lifted it up off the stretcher to lower it into the grave and the chaplain read the service I noticed that the canvas of the stretcher was red with his blood and it trickled back into the mud. I looked up over the hills and you could see the guns still flashing. On the road, the little parties of men passing, the officer in charge would give the command 'Eyes right!' and salute, and then it was all over, and forgotten; except that perhaps somebody would say later on, 'Oh, Bill, so-and-so was killed.'"

GEN. CURRIE ON VERDUN BATTLE

CANADIAN LEADER'S ADMIRATION FOR FRENCH.

Among twenty British officers chosen for a visit to Verdun was Maj.-Gen. A. Currie, commanding the First Canadian Division. The party went to study the scene of the French successes and the military genius that had achieved them. Every facility was given them by the French authorities. The plan of action was first studied and this was followed by a visit to the battlefield. The British officers were given every opportunity of studying the campaign in minute detail and of having it explained to them by experts.

Gen. Currie stated that if it had been possible to increase his already profound admiration of the French soldier it would have been accomplished during this three days' visit. The officers all came away with a deeper realization of the wonderful tenacity, "the holding-on power" as he expressed it, against tremendous odds. In the first German attack the Germans had all the best observation posts which made the magnificent French successes all the more difficult to achieve.

No matter how dull trade may be in other lines of business the whip manufacturer has a snap.

The Unlucky Pearl

Pearls are never used in engagement rings, probably being debarred by the ancient superstition of "tears." One of the loveliest of the modern engagement rings is composed of a large white diamond with a carefully planned design carried into the shanks wrought in small white diamonds. The effort to introduce the diamond wedding ring has not met with widespread success. However, when such rings are chosen, they are very narrow and comprise a circle of closely set white stones in a platinum mounting. The edges of the mounting are hand carved. Unless the bride's finger is of a regular size these rings must be made to order, as they cannot be enlarged. Those who make selections for their jewel cases from semi-precious stones may be attracted by a pink American stone called the spodumene. Pink jewels, however, not excepting the really radiant pink pearl, have never been as popular with women as blue jewels.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST LAND REGULATIONS

The sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. Applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at any Dominion Lands Agency (but not Sub-Agency), on certain conditions.

Duties—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required except where residence is performed in the vicinity.

Live stock may be substituted for cultivation under certain conditions.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre.

Duties—Six months' residence in each of three years after earning homestead patent; also 50 acres extra cultivation. Pre-emption patent may be obtained as soon as homestead patent, on certain conditions.

A settler who has exhausted his homestead right may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre.

Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

FOR SALE OR TO RENT—100 acres of first-class land, situated in the Township of Dummer. All workable land, containing a comfortable house, with bank barn, driving shed, and all necessary outbuildings. We would sell this farm on easy payments or will rent it with the option of buying same.

FOR SALE OR TO RENT—150 acres of choice farm land situated in the Township of Smith, in a very nice locality. This farm has a very comfortable brick house, with a new bank barn and drive shed. Land is all under cultivation with about 32 acres of timber. Owner will rent said farm at $400.00 per year.

FOR SALE OR TO RENT—10 acres of choice land, situated on the outskirts of the city, containing a house which could be made very comfortable, and ten acres of the best land. This place is only about ten minutes walk from the car line and factories. Would make a good place for a market gardener.

FOR RENT—Two and one-half storey red brick house, having all modern improvements; situated in a very choice locality. There is a large stable, with hen house, and a big garden. This house can be rented at $15.00 per month, a very low rent considering locality and class of house.

PLAY GAME ON TUESDAY NIGHT

It is impossible to make a change in the date of the second game of the third round series between the Soldiers and Oshawa and the contest will be played on Tuesday night. This date will conflict with the presentation of The Turning Point at the Grand Opera House, but it cannot be avoided.

CURLING

The Carew Cup, which has been the property of a number of provincial curling clubs since it was donated for competition by Mr. John Carew, M.P.P., at the great bonspiel at Lindsay three years ago, is now the property of the local curlers.

Brampton curlers held the cup until Tuesday when a local rink comprising Skip L. V. O'Connor, W. E. Reesor, R. Butler and F. Williams journeyed to the capital of Peel county and tried conclusions with the redoubtable Skip Thauburn. The result was a victory for the O'Connor rink by the tidy score of 15—9.

The news of the victory caused great elation amongst the curlers last night as well as the citizens, who are proud of the work of the victorious rink.—Lindsay Post.

McGILL VS. HARVARD

HISTORIC CONTEST PAVED THE WAY FOR MODERN FOOTBALL GAMES.

"American" intercollegiate football was born in the Massasoit House in Springfield, Mass., Nov. 23, 1876, when the modified Rugby code which forms the basis of the present rules was formulated and adopted by delegates from Harvard, Yale, Princeton and Columbia. Association football was played by Princeton, Rutgers, Yale and Columbia, the collegiate pioneers of United States football, in the early '70s, but each college had its own set of rules up to 1873, when the Princeton, Yale and Rutgers teams agreed on a common code. Harvard had a peculiar combination of Association and Rugby up to 1874, when the Crimson squad adopted straight English Rugby for a game with the McGill University team of Montreal. The Cambridge fans liked the English game so well that it was adopted by Harvard, and in 1875 Harvard challenged Yale to a game of Rugby. The Elis refused to adopt straight Rugby, but a compromise was effected, and the first of the Harvard-Yale contests was played under what was called the "Concessionary" code, Harvard winning.

Princeton took the lead in the movement for the formation of an intercollegiate football league, and the result was the Springfield convention of 1876, which was attended by delegates from Princeton, Columbia, Harvard and Yale. The rules adopted were based on those of the Rugby game, but several changes were made, and since then the football code has been subject to annual revisions. In the original rules it was provided that the result should be decided by the number of touchdowns, a goal being equal to four touchdowns, except that in case of a tie a goal kicked from a touchdown was to be considered better than four touchdowns. It was not until 1883 that the numerical scoring system was adopted, but the values have been changed several times since then.

Lost at Lakefield

BUT BUSINESS COLLEGE TEAM HAD GOOD TIME.

The Business College hockey team and their followers, supported by a goodly following of lady friends, journeyed to Lakefield last night to play a return game with a Lakefield team, and were defeated by 12 to 3, the small ice hampering the College seven. The Peterborough party skated after the game and later had supper at Alford's restaurant.

LANGUAGE OF FLAGS

To "strike the flag" is to lower the national colors in token of submission.

Dipping the flag is lowering it slightly and then hoisting it again, to salute a vessel or fort. A flag of truce is a white flag displayed to an enemy to indicate a desire for a parley or consultation. The black flag is a sign of piracy. The yellow flag shows a vessel to be at quarantine, or is the sign of a contagious disease. A flag at half-mast means mourning.

Fishing or other vessels return with a flag at half-mast to announce the loss or death of some of the men.

Flags are used as the symbol of rank and command, the officers using them being called flag-officers. Such flags are square to distinguish them from other banners.

The red flag is a sign of defiance, and is often used by revolutionists.

Her Unfitness.

"Dearest," he murmured, "I'll try and be worthy of you, although I know I am not fit to tie your shoe."

This was perfectly true. His waist measure was 69 inches.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mrs. Robt. Duncan, mother of Ald. eo. Duncan, fell at her residence on Tuesday night and dislocated her hip. The injuries were of a serious nature and her removal to Nicholls Hospital was found necessary. Her many friends hope for an early recovery.

Mr. W. R. Morris left this afternoon for Windsor to attend the funeral of Mrs. Morris's father, Mr. T. Q. Dench, who died yesterday.

Mrs. A. M. Chalmers and daughter Dorothy have returned to their home at Shelldrake, Mich.

Mrs. W. J. Abraham of East City has returned from Oshawa, where she was attending the funeral of her cousin, Mrs. Jas. Freeman. The deceased lady was the youngest sister of the Rev. Fr. Carr, president of St. Michael's College, Toronto, whose many friends in Peterborough will regret to hear of his bereavement.

Miss E. Brown, of Belleville, was a visitor to the city today

Collegiate Lit.

A regular meeting of the Collegiate Literary Society was held on Wednesday. The president occupied the chair, and opened the meeting by asking for the support of the pupils in the concert which the Literary Society is to hold on March 2. He pointed out that the purpose of the concert was to raise sufficient funds to have framed the pictures of the ex-Collegiate boys who have made the supreme sacrifice, giving their life for their country. A very interesting debate was given, the negative side winning. The program was as follows:

Debate--Resolved, that in the interests of humanity the United States should enter the war on the side of the Allies. Affirmative, Form III., Miss Braund and Chas. Elliott; negative, Form V., Miss Rodman and R. Pakenham.

Piano solo--Miss Baird

Recitation—Miss T. Currie.

Selection—Collegiate Orchestra.

God Save the King.

Judges—Miss Wallace. Messrs. Graham and Kenner

SILK WAISTS.

Silk must be ironed when quite damp or it will have a rough, unfinished appearance. Use a moderately warm iron and place a piece of muslin between it and the right side of the silk. A hot iron yellows silk and gives it a crimped, rough look.

Should the water get dry before it is ironed, dip it in clean, cold water, and roll in a cloth. Do not sprinkle it, as that would make it look blotchy when ironed.

OBITUARY

THOS. Q. DENCH

WINDSOR, Feb. 15.—Thomas Q. Dench, 72 years old, a member of the Canadian Customs staff at Windsor for 27 years, died last evening at his home, 23 Wyandotte St., after an illness of less than a week, from brain hemorrhage.

Mr. Dench came to Windsor 45 years ago from Peterborough. Surviving him are his widow, three daughters, Mrs. W. R. Morris, of Peterborough; Mrs. W. J. Mitchell of New Orleans, and Miss Josie Dench, living at home, and one son, Frank E. Dench, of head office staff of the Canadian Bank of Commerce at Toronto.

MARGARET CATHERINE HUMMEL

Margaret Catherine Hummel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Hummel, died at the family residence, 63 Robinson street, Ashburnham, yesterday afternoon, after an illness of several months. She was nine years of age.

The funeral will take place from the family residence on Saturday at 9 a.m. to the Church of the Immaculate Conception and thence to St. Peter's Cemetery.

KITCHENER LEAGUE DANCE

To the strains of delightful dance music supplied by Messrs. W. Moher and F. Lynch, and amidst bright and congenial surrounding, seventy-five couples who accepted the invitation of the Canadian Kitchener League to their patriotic dance last night, spent a pleasant time at the Oriental Hotel, where Mr. and Mrs. Colson vied with the reception committee of the league in welcoming the guests and making every possible arrangement for their comfort and enjoyment. The dance entailed much hard work and earnest endeavor, and Mrs. J. Knox, president, the ladies of the league, and the gentlemen who assisted, were rewarded to a large degree by the splendid success that attended the function.

The ballroom was appropriately decorated with Union Jacks and Dan Cupids, emblematic of the great cause for which the dance was held, and of the day. Valentine novelties were carried out in the table decorations for the tea in the afternoon, when there was a continuous stream of callers. The 247th band provided music, adding much to the success of the afternoon's program.

The dance program was: Waltz, two-step, fox-trot, one-step, waltz, tag, two-step, rye waltz, two-step, waltz, refreshments, waltz, two-step, fox trot, one-step, waltz, fox-trot, waltz.

The ladies wish to thank Mr. Linton and his committee for their splendid assistance. The committee appreciate very much the kindness of Mr. Frank Whitehouse, who generously loaned the piano. To Mr. and Mrs. Colson the hearty thanks of all are tendered.

The committees were:—

Reception—Mrs. Knox, Mrs. Wm Hartley, Mrs. E. Burnham, Mrs. Perry.

Dance—Messrs. J. F. Linton, W. T. Bellegheim, L. Potvin, W. A. Haslam, R. Hall.

Dining hall—Mrs. M. Hartley, Mrs Lowes.

Refreshments—Mrs. Decker, Mrs. Curtis; Mrs. Coons, Mrs. Whitcroft. Mrs. Pretty, Mrs. McCaul. Mrs Doupe Mrs. Watson, Mrs. Armstrong, and Mrs. Greer, who poured tea.

Cards — Mrs. Beal, Mrs. Clemens, for 500; Mrs. Lawrence for bridge; Mrs. Kearns; Miss C. Flynn, Mrs. Baumer.

Valentines— Misses Lyle, Soden, Wade, Worth, McFarlane, Bryans, Bennington, Lennox, Purvis, Elliott, Decker, Burnham, May, Wall and Knox, who presided over the tea tables in the afternoon and assisted in the evening.

Treasurer—Mrs. J. Kimberley.

Among the gathering were:—

Misses Hazel and Marguerite Fanning, S. Flemming, O. Johnston, B. Bryans, B. Heard, M. Gorman, M. Young, M. McCarthy, Pease, L. Lyle, Gordon, L. Soden, E. Worth, C. Shevlin, K. Bincent, D. LUDENDORFF DISCOUNTS THE UNITED STATES

WAR WILL BE FINISHED BEFORE NATION CAN GET INTO IT.

SUBS. TO WIN WAR.

GERMAN CASUALTIES ARE GREATER THAN REPORTED.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.— An Associated Press despatch from Paris says Americans arriving there from Berlin today regard Quartermaster-General Von Ludendorff as the most important person in the small group surrounding Emperor William, responsible for the German policy. Von Ludendorff believes America cannot be a factor in the present war, which will be finished before she can get into action. This group of personages believes that the submarine war against England will succeed in three months. These Americans say German losses in killed, recently announced officially at a million, are on cautious estimates three or four hundred thousand greater, and the permanently disabled bring Germany's net loss to over two million. Reason for the deportation of Belgians, they say, was Von Ludendorff's expectation of withdrawing from the greater part of France and Belgium before the coming offensive of the Allies.

REBUILDING AT CAMPBELLFORD

WORK STARTS ON MUNITION PLANT.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 15.—Work was commenced yesterday on the rebuilding of the Dickson Bridge Co.'s plant for the manufacture of munitions. The National Manufacturing Co. of Ottawa and Brockville, have purchased a controlling interest but the firm will still be known as the Dickson Bridge Works Co., Ltd. Men are now at work on the reconstruction of the building which was recently destroyed by fire, and Mr. A. H. McKeel, who has charge of the work, will have it completed in record time.

The payroll of the concern formerly amounted to about $4,000 per week.

MR. W. H. LYTLE IS APPOINTED

WILL ISSUE THE LICENSES FOR AUTOMOBILES.

Mr. W. H. Lytle was notified by the department today that he had been appointed auto license issuer for Peterborough and that on account of the scarcity of steel, the companies having the contract have been delayed in the making of the markers. They will, however, be ready for distribution in the near future.

SHIPPING AND HARBOR BOMBED

SUCCESSFUL RESULTS ATTEND ATTACK BY AIR SQUADRON.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

LONDON, Feb. 16. — Naval aeroplanes yesterday attacked the harbor and shipping at Brughes, says an official statement issued today. A considerable weight of bombs was dropped with most successful results. One of our aeroplanes was shot down by a Fokker. The pilot and observer were captured after having burnt their machine. A second Fokker was engaged and destroyed by an escorting machine at a range of 50 yards.

More Hun Barbarity.

A sentence of 12 years' imprisonment has been passed on Pte. W. (Billy) Brooke, son of Mrs. C. J. Brooke, of Ottawa, by the German military autherities. It is believed that Pte. Brooke refused to make munitions, which would be used against the Allies. The charge he was found guilty of was mutiny. On a postcard written on October 18 from Cologne, Germany, Pte. Brooke says: "You will be surprised, I know, to learn that I am confined in a military prison here, having received a sentence of 12 years on a charge of mutiny. Quite an experience, isn't it? As I am allowed to write only to relatives please tell Mr. M—— health and spirits good. Details in letter later. Pte. Brooke was one of the first Canadian division, going to France early in 1915. He was captured at Langemarck. He was first at Celmen Prison camp, then at Celly, and later at Saltau, where the alleged mutiny took place. His father is the late C. J. Brooke, K.C. Apparently stricter regulations are made as to prisoners in the German camps writing home. The relatives of soldiers who had previously received letters regularly, as well as cards of acknowledgment frequently, in the last few months have received only a very few regulation cards. These have been from four to six weeks apart.

P.S. TEACHER THE BRIDE OF CAPT. HAMILTON

MISS R. McPHADEN WEDS R.A.M.C. OFFICER HOME FROM GREECE.

The wedding took place on Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Neil McPhaden, Sunderland, of their niece, Ruth Margaret McPhaden, to Capt. Harold P. Hamilton, R.A.M.C., of the 2nd East Surrey Regt., B.E.F., Greece, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton, Uxbridge. The ceremony was conducted by Rev. J. Gibson. Capt. and Mrs. Hamilton left on the evening train for Winnipeg to visit the groom's brother. On their return Capt. Hamilton leaves to join his regiment.

The bride is a former teacher at the Queen Mary School, and has a large number of friends who will extend congratulations.

If you are suffering from dyspepsia, indigestion or sour stomach you should try a mixture of Salon Pepsin and Iridin.

This is said to be the formula of Dr. Banta's famous prescription which gave him a world-wide reputation.

These powders are sold in Peterborough at Lynch's Drug Store, 16>

RECEPTION

The Ladies' Aid Society of St. Paul's Church intend holding a reception in the school room of the church on Thursday, Feb. 22, from 4 to 6. A silver collection will be received in aid of the flower fund of the society.

MILITARY

Bandsman Henry Boller, who went overseas with the 93rd band, is among the Peterborough men who arrived at Quebec on their return home.

The Speakers' Patriotic League through Messrs. Aylmer and Wearing, last night invited the members of the city council to be present at the recruiting meeting in the Opera House on Sunday night. Seats on the platform will be provided for them.

Mr. Aylmer stated this would possibly be their last great effort in recruiting and asks the citizens to co-operate in the campaign which will be waged next week

Mayor Duffus and the members present at the committee meeting voted unanimously to attend.

The meeting of the Five Hundred Club in the recreation rooms of the Armories tonight will likely be well attended. The ladies are taking considerable interest in the recruiting campaign to be inaugurated next week.

If you are suffering from constipation or sick headache, try Dr. Norvall's stomach and tonic tablets.

Be sure you get the genuine, as they are guaranteed and should they fail to give you relief, return the bottle to your dealer and he will refund your money.

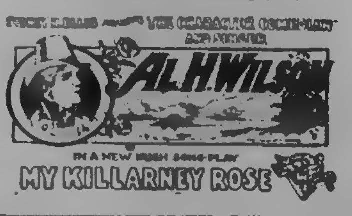
COMING!



ACTIVITIES AT Y.M.C.A.

In the list of officers and committee chairmen published Wednesday the physical work committee, of which Mr. H. B. Cowan has been reappointed chairman, was omitted.

Mr. F. J. Morris, of the Collegiate staff, addressed the Standard Efficiency Boys' Groups on Wednesday evening on Books and Reading. Mr. Morris is a master of the subject of literature and his address proved most interesting and helpful.

Mr. John Crane will address the Senior Collegiate Club on Friday evening on the subject Banking and Insurance. This will be the third of a series of vocational addresses before the club. Supper will be served at 6.15 and the discussion will close at 7.30, so it is hoped that every Collegiate member over 16 years of age will be present.

Mr. G. L. Galley, boys' secretary, is in Toronto attending a conference of the boys' secretaries of Ontario and Quebec.

Children's Aid Receive Grant From Smith Twp.

Out of the 15 municipalities of the County of Peterborough to which Mr. Spence made an appeal for the Children's Aid Society at the beginning of the year, the municipality of Smith is the first to respond with a grant of $10, a cheque for this amount being received by Mr. Spence today from the treasurer, Mr. J. W. Kelly. Needless to say, this action of the Smith Council is greatly appreciated as the society's funds are nearly exhausted and it is hope that the other townships will follow suit.

Perth Gets $22,000

The town of Perth aimed at $20,000 for the Patriotic Fund and raised $22,000. Last year the amount donated was $17,000.

PULP MILLS IN TRENT VALLEY PROMISED BY SIR ADAM BECK

This Would Mean New Prosperity for Landowners in Peterboro County.

The reference in the speech of Sir Adam Beck in the Legislature at Toronto yesterday to the proposal of the Government to extend the present investment of forty million dollars in hydro to one hundred million, and his reference to the building of a great pulp mill in the Trent district following the recent introduction of hydro into the Trent district, ought to attract enthusiastic attenion.

The meeting addressed by Hon. J. Howard Ferguson in the City Hall here will be recalled. It was at this meeting that the demand for Hydro was first made by the delegates assembled there from the whole Trent district, in response to circulars sent out by Mr. Burnham, M.P., who devoted his energies to organizing the movement and to placing before the Government a united request from Eastern Ontario for Hydro. The Government could not introduce Hydro in Eastern Ontario unless the people wanted it, and it was necessary to work up a united sentiment on the project.

The delegates who assembled here were presided over by Mayor Duffus and although it was found impossible to enlist Petreborough as a municipality in this movement, the Meyor assisted to such an extent that all difficulties were overcome.

The immense benefit to the district of gaining the Government's attention to the introduction of Hydro in response to a general organized demand is now apparent. It will be a great thing for the whole Trent district.

The day wil come when the Trent Valley will thank Peterborough for the part it took in this great movement. New industries, radial rural railways, the general use of cheap power by the farmers, etc., will be the beginning of a new era of prosperity.

Ask for Powers

By an overwhelming vote the meeting carried a resolution calling upon the Government to give power to the municipalities to go into the fuel business. It was also decided to apply for legislation permitting the hydro-electric commissions to submit their money by-laws to the people when the municipal councils refuse to do so, and that the provincial commission pay the expenses, providing they are not submitted at the same time as municipal elections.

MAYOR DUFFUS MAY CALL FOR ORGANIZATION

IF TIE-UP ON RAILWAYS IS CONTINUED MUCH LONGER.

Mayor Duffus has renewed communication with Sir Henry Drayton in the interest of citizens and manufacturing concerns who feel the pinch of the coal shortage. Should the situation not be improved immediately the Mayor will call a meeting for the first of next week to discuss the advisability of organizing this district as has been done in Western Canada, in an effort to accomplish something by united effort.

Memorial Window At Trinity Church

A window in memory of the late Rev. T. J. Mansell and Mrs. Mansell, will be unveiled at Trinity Church on Sunday morning when Rev. J. P. Wilson will be in charge of the service. The window is the gift of the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Mansell, and it will be in the north chancel.

$200,000 FIRE AT WINNIPEG

FOUR FIREMEN INJURED WHEN FIVE-STOREY BUILDING BURNS.

SMALL VESSELS GO DOWN IN THE DEEP.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

LONDON, Feb. 16. — Lloyds announce the sinking of the British steamer Longscar, 2,800 tons, the small sailing ship Percy Roy, and a trawler. The British steamer Greenland, 1700 tons, has also been sunk, and the British steamer Kyunsti.

RADIAL CARS HERE FIRST ON AUG. 4, 1893

OFFICIALS OF COMPANY AND CITIZENS ON FIRST TRIP.

With interest added to the street railway by reason of the forthcoming purchase of the system by the city, the question is asked: When did street cars first operate in Peterborough The answer is, August 4 1893. On that date the first car traversed the line, carrying officials of the company and a number of citizens. After some years the railway ceased to be, but the system was operated again in 1904, and has continued to this day.

EMPTY CELLS IN MANY JAILS

THIS CITY AN EXCEPTION WITH SEVEN INMATES.

LINDSAY, Feb. 16.—Mr. Justice Falconbridge, who visited Lindsay in connection with the Supreme Court sittings, inquired of the officials at the Court House if there were any inmates in the jail. On being informed that the cells were empty, the learned judge remarked that the same story was told all over the province.

CAPT. BURNHAM NOT SOLICITOR

APPEARS ONLY AS A DISINTERESTED PARTY IN DAMAGE CASES.

Editor Review: As the case of Hopwood vs. The King for flooding damages will come up shortly, I wish to caution you against the possible error that you might commit in describing me as in any way the solicitor for any of the parties.

The claimants appealed to me as member, alleging that they were being bullied by the valuators, and unjustly treated. As member, I brought the matter to the attention of the Government, and as member I am endeavoring to see justice done to the claimants as a class. I am in no sense nor is anybody connected with me solicitor for the claimants, nor am I paid by anybody. As a matter of fact, I am out of pocket in the matter.

When the case comes up it is quite possible that I may help the claimant to put his case properly before the court, but I will do so wholly as a disinterested party. As a failure to understand this fact might betray your reporter into describing me as a solicitor, I am taking the liberty of seding you this communication to put you on your guard.

U.S. BOY SCOUTS FOR SERVICE IF WAR SHOULD BE DECLARED

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

NEW YORK, February 16. — Six hundred thousand Boy Scouts throughout the United States have been ordered by the National Council of their organization to prepare for active service in the event of war. Their work will be as messengers and orderlies, hospital assistants, signallers and sentries.

BREAK WITH AUSTRIA LIKELY

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

LONDON, February 16. — An Exchange Telegraph despatch from Copenhagen says: The Berliner Tageblatt says negotiations between American Ambassador Penfield and the Austrian Government have been broken off.

WASHINGTON, February 16.—The State Department officials, discussing the report cabled from Paris that Americans had been warned from Washington to leave Austria, said that no instructions to this effect had been sent the ambassador at Vienna. Officials admit that all indications point to a break with Austria, although they are hopeful that it may be averted.

CHURCHES AND SCHOOLS CLOSED

LONDON, February 16.—An Exchange Telegraph despatch from Rotterdam says that church services in Hamburg will not be held after tomorrow, and all schools, theatres and concert halls have been closed owing to the scarcity of coal.

AMALGAMATION IF OVERSEAS UNITS ARE NOT SOON FILLED UP; DRILLS AT NIGHT FOR MILITIA

OTTAWA, Feb. 16. — The calling out of the militia in large towns and cities for two nights of drill every week will, it is understood, be the entering wedge of the Government's new recruiting plans, foreshadowed by the statement issued by Sir Edward Kemp.

Together with the resumption of militia drill there will be an active campaign to bring the militia units up to strength. This, it is understood, will at first be conducted along the lines of voluntary enlistment, with the alternative of applying the Militia Act if enough recruits are not secured in this way.

It is understood that the work of bringing existing incomplete overseas units up to strength and sending the remainder over as drafts is to be pushed with even greater vigor and that there may be some radical amalgamating done if no other way is found of dealing with this matter.

CONCERTED EFFORT ON SUNDAY NIGHT

MAJ. R. P. WATT REVERTS AND IS IN FRANCE

SECOND IN COMMAND OF 93RD IN THE TRENCHES WITH THE BOYS.

Major R. P. Watt, who held the rank of captain in the ranks of the 57th Regiment and enlisted for overseas with the 93rd Battalion, is among the officers of the unit who reverted in rank and are now with the boys in the trenches of France. Major Watt was popular with the rank and file of the 57th and the 93rd, and the lads who are awaiting the signal for the big smash of the German lines have in him a leader to whom they will look up with confidence.

INDUCTION OF NEW MINISTER

REV. C. F. McINTOSH TAKES PULPIT OF CHURCH AT CAMPBELLFORD.

Rev. C. F. McIntosh, M.A., B.D., formerly of Guelph, was inducted into the charge of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Campbellford, yesterday. The Moderator, Rev. Geo. I. Craw, of Springville, presided, the sermon was preached by Rev. E. A. Earchman of Port Hope, Rev. D. A. Thomson of Hastings addressed the minister, and Rev. R. Pogue, city, addressed the people.

A reception was held in the evening, when addresses were given by Rev. Mr. Craw, Rev. Mr. Thomson, Rev. Mr. Earchman, and the local clergy. The ladies of the church presented the new minister with a pulpit gown.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16. — Twelve steamships arrived today from European ports, many of them having left after Germany's declaration of unrestricted submarine warfare.

CHARGE ALLEGES FALSE PRETENCES

FICTITIOUS NAMES GIVEN TO VICTIMIZE FIRMS.

The police arrested a local man today on a charge of obtaining goods under false pretences. About the middle of December the Peterboro Creamery Co. got a telephone order from a customer who gave the name of J. B. Watson, Belleville, for a case of butter. The goods were sent, and when the money was not forthcoming an inquiry was made and no trace of J. B. Watson could be found. The matter was placed in the hands of the police and it is said that the prisoner has been identified as the man who received the goods.

This is one of a number of similar cases in which different firms have been victimized by persons giving fictitious names.

The case will be heard by Police Magistrate Dumble tomorrow morning.

To Boost Enlistment in the 247th Battalion

Major K.G. Lech Home Again From England

Lt.-Col. Ackerman and the Speakers' Patriotic League are looking forward to one of the best recruiting meetings ever held at the Grand Opera House on Sunday night. Every patriotic organization in the city is leading a hand in the campaign for recruits for the 247th which will take place next week.

The meeting will be addressed by Chancellor McCrimmon of McMaster University, Major Hodge of Campbellford, and others. The members of the league, the city council and other bodies will occupy seats on the platform. The 247th band will be present and take part in the program. The books will be issued to the teams in the different sectors at this meeting.

Major K. G. Lech, who left here with the 93rd Batt., arrived home this morning and paid a visit to Lt.-Col. Ackerman at the Armories.

Two recruits were taken on the strength of the 247th Batt. this morning. Both of them were from Coe Hill—Ptes. Richard Gunter and Wm. Crosby.

Corp. W. Jones has been promoted to be sergeant.

The 256th (Railroad Construction) Batt. will finish their recruiting here tomorrow. One new member was taken on today—Pte. W. J. Coughlin of Montreal. The local members will leave here at noon on Monday for Toronto. Sergt. Stanley will remain for a few days to look after the shipment of equipment.

The Five Hundred Club held a meeting last night and arranged to have all members present at the recruiting meeting on Sunday night.

Some confusion and considerable delay in the delivery of cablegrams intended for Canadian soldiers serving in France have arisen, the Militia Department reports, because the messages have been addressed in care of the War Office, London. Such messages have had to be forwarded from England by post. It is pointed out that cablegrams to members of the Expeditionary Force in France may be addressed directly to France and should bear in addition to the number name, and unit of the persons for whom they are intended the words, "Canadians, France." Even these messages, paid for at full rates, may not be forwarded by telegraph in France, and may be subject to some delays in transmission.

LONDON, Feb. 16. — Lieut-Col. F. J. Clarke is attached to the regimental funds board, London. Capt. D. C. Lochean, Winnipeg, has been appointed acting commandant of the Sanitary Section at Shorncliffe. Sergeant G. Darling, Manitoba, and T. A. Blackman, of the Medicals, receive imperial commissions.

Majors F. G. Stanbury, St. Thomas; K. G. Lech, Peterborough, and L. D. Kerr, Manitoba, will return to Canada for disposal of the Adjutant-General.

Word has been received that Pte. Richard Young, of Cordova Mines, who has been "missing" for the past month, has been killed in action. Pte. Young was a son of Mr. John Young of Cordova and enlisted in the Belleville Battalion over a year ago.

Peterborough citizens heard yesterday with a good deal of pride that Lieut. W. W. (Gamey) Stratton, of the Army Service Corps, had been

GERMANS ATTACK IN THE CHAMPAGNE

Claim Gain Half Mile on Front of Mile and Half

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

BERLIN, Feb. 16. — The war office announces that Germans began an attack in the Champagne yesterday, capturing ground half a mile in depth over a front of a mile and a half, and took 858 prisoners. There was heavy fighting on Hill 185.

MEN IN KAHKI MUST NOT WRITE TO THE PRESS

ORDERS TO BATTALION CITE MILITARY LAW ON THE MATTER.

Battalion orders issued today by Lt.-Col. Ackerman draw attention to an extract from military law which forbids an officer or soldier from communicating to the press his views on any military subject without first having authority to do so. The orders are:—

K.R. & O., Extracts from—

An officer or soldier is forbidden to publish or communicate either directly or indirectly, to the press, any military information, or his views on any military subject, without special authority. An officer or soldier will be held responsible for all statements contained in communications to his friends which may subsequently be published in the press.

Fire Alarm

Upon fire alarm bugle being sounded, or any indication of fire, all ranks available will fall in, in mass formation. Headquarters details: If not already there will double to their respective posts, the senior reporting at once for further instructions, sending wherever possible an N.C.O. or man to locate the fire, and whether there is any necessity to prepare for vacation of offices or quarters occupied, taking care that arrangements are made immediately for the safety of equipment, stores or documents, etc. under their charge. The senior N.C.O. in each case will be held responsible that these instructions are strictly adhered to.

Duties—

Orderly officer for today—Lieut. J. F. Strickland.

Orderly officer for tomorrow — Lieut. T. W. Quinn.

INVESTING IN WAR SAVINGS CERTIFICATES

SALES MADE AT THE POST OFFICE WHERE THEY ARE ISSUED.

Many inquiries are being made at the post office in regard to the War Savings Certificates, and a large number have been issued. For $21.50 certificates to the value of $25 are given, for $43 the values received is $50; and an investment of $86 brings $100. The term of the certificates is three years.

OTTAWA, Feb. 16. — About 25,000 war savings certificates have been issued by the Department of Finance since these new securities were first offered about a month ago. In this way nearly two million dollars have been brought into the treasury to aid in paying the Dominion's war expenditure.

The Minister of Finance has been advised that the executive committee of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association has issued a letter to its three thousand members suggesting that the need of saving and the war savings certificates be brought prominently to the attention of their staffs and employes, and that they co-operate by assisting those desirous of purchasing by deductions from payrolls and in other ways. The letter points out that the indirect effect of widespread purchase of the war savings certificates will be to promote the financial and economical stability of the country—a matter of the highest importance to the business community.

The Finance Department has aimed to promote the national savings movement along sound rather than spectacular lines, and the results up to the present indicate the unqualified success of this policy.

New Form of Ether Used in Hospital

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

TORONTO, Feb. 16. — Dr. James Cotton, of the General Hospital, has, according to Superintendent Clarke, invented an odorless, non-irritating form of ether which has been in use for some time at the hospital. It is considered a valuable discovery, as it can be easily manufactured in large quantities, induces anaesthesia without sleep and without subsequent nausea, and is particularly convenient for minor operations.

TEUTON ATTACK REPULSED

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

PETROGRAD, February 16.—An official statement says: "A Teutonic attack against our positions south of the village of Kadarovitsa, southeast of Zlochoff, mentioned yesterday, was repulsed."

BERNSTORFF'S SHIP OFF HALIFAX

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

HALIFAX, February 16.—The Scandinavian-American liner Frederick VIII., with Count Von Bernstorff and staff on board, arrived at Halifax at 10 o'clock this morning and put off to sea again. She will come up the harbor after nightfall.

GUARDING SHIPS AND WATER FRONT

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

NEW YORK, February 16.—Fire on the "City of Stamford," a local freighter, was the occasion of demonstrating what thorough preparations have been made to guard shipping and the water front since the break with Germany. The burning boat was immediately surrounded by fire boats and a fleet of volunteer patrol boats.

WAR LOAN WILL BE SUCCESSFUL

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

LONDON, February 16. — Although no figures of the British war loan, which closes today, will be made public for some weeks, there seems to be no question that the loan will be successful beyond the most sanguine expectations. Two and a half billion dollars is needed to ensure a clean slate for the Government on entering the new financial year. A tremendous effort was made today to bring in every available shilling.

PETERBOROUGH, FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 16, 1917

"EYES FRONT!"

ALTHOUGH THERE IS a scriptural precept enjoining the man who has set his hand to the plow not to look back, but to keep his eyes set on the goal until the furrow is finished, the plowman who turns right-about in the middle of his task is never without his apologist, even though a misguided defence only tends to emphasize the dereliction.

WHEN THE WEALTHY ECONOMIZE.

SOME OF THE PAPERS moralize over the display of rich gowns and expensive millinery at the opening of the Legislature, and ask why this money was not saved and devoted to patriotic purposes.

The money paid out for the attire of the opulent was not wasted or destroyed. It was put in circulation to pay the wages of a small army of workers who would face starvation but for the expenditures of the wealthy. The money will eventually find its way to the war chest. It is when the rich begin to economize that the poorer classes have every reason to feel alarmed.

CAPTAIN HAROLD HILL.

THE PETERBOROUGH soldier who gets into the fighting line never has to revert in rank. His advancement, his mention in the despatches, or his decoration with military honors is only a question of time. Harold Hill, a corporal only a short time ago, is a captain otday, not the product of a hot-house system, but a sure-enough warrior who has earned his promotion by faithful and efficient service. His parents here will be congratulated by their friends, and the citizens generally will appreciate the new distinction which has been brought to the city by one of Peterborough's native sons.

MONEY FOR PATRIOTIC FUND.

THE PEOPLE OF CANADA are still loyal to the core, still set on the great task of carrying on the war until victory has been achieved. The promises made the enlisted men that the dependents left behind would be cared for are to be faithfully kept. Few cities may have decided to raise money for the Patriotic Fund by taxation, but in every municipality where the voluntary system is still relied on the response has been generous. In every place the amount asked for is at least twenty-five per cent. higher than it was last year, but in nearly every town or city heard from the sum subscribed has exceeded what was aimed at. The people as a rule are indifferent neither to their responsibilities nor to their duties.

THE SLACKER WHO FLITS.

THE SLACKER who is possessed of the fear that he may yet be caught in the dragnet of conscription gathers together his worldly goods and flits for the United States. The probability of that country getting into the fray has raised hope here that the slacker may yet be forced into military duty in Uncle Sam's country if the draft is ever resorted to there.

The slacker's foreign citizenship will save him from the American draft, but in case that is put into force on the other side, he will be given his choice of two alternatives. He can either join the American standard or take his departure for his own country.

Like Noah's dove, the slacker may yet be unable to find rest for the soles of his wandering and faltering feet.

A NAVAL BATTLE IMPENDS.

THE KAISER HAS ISSUED a fervent appeal to his navy, hugging the sheltering security of the Kiel Canal, to make one last supreme effort for victory. This confirms an impression that has always existed to the effect that before the war is over there will be fought one of the greatest naval battles the world has ever seen. Crushed on land, as he is sure to be, the Kaiser would be stripped of his navy when peace terms are arranged. Rather than let them become the prizes of the Allies, the Kaiser woul risk his war craft in a final engagement.

The result of such a conflict would not be hard to forecast, but one thing is certain: the loss of British vessels and lives would be frightful, even if the last German ship was destroyed or captured. If the German navy ever does come out for fair combat, the British people have every reason to hope for a victory, but it will be a triumph dearly purchased.

VOTES FOR WOMEN.

THERE ARE two equal franchise bills now before the Legislature, and both are, after all, only private measures. One would give married women the right to vote at municipal elections. A widow or spinster who owns property has that right now, but is deprived of it in the event of marriage.

The other bill would give the vote to these women in elections to the Legislature. Both are an advance on bills introduced in former years. Mr. Rowell himself is now prepared to go the full length, even though he has hitherto favored only a compromise, just as he did on the liquor question until he was able to read the signs of the times beyond any doubt. With naive assurance he now claims credit for the Ontario Temperance Act. He will probably do as much if Premier Hearst responds to the popular demand for equal franchise.

Whatever may be the outcome of the present agitation, the prospect for women's franchise is brighter now than it has ever been in the history of Ontario.

"J. BROWN" BUTTS IN.

"MR. J. BROWN," a name which covers as many identities as the sins that are blanketed by charity, dips into the recruiting discussion, airing views that are all the better for exposure to the fresh atmosphere. He sets out to explain just why recruiting for the 247th Battalion started up under unfavorable auspices. We are forced to agree with him in this contention, seeing that The Review took the same stand, locally and editorially, shortly after the battalion was organized.

"Mr. J. Brown" shows his malice when he attempts to ring a personal element into the debate. His logic fails. His own words can be turned against him to confuse him. Any resident of Peterborough, whether he be connected with The Review, the Board of Trade or the Council, who sent his two sons—all he has of military age—to the front in the early months of the war, cannot in reason be charged with failure to do his bit. His honor is all the brighter because these boys have received official mention from time to time, and one of them has been decorated with the Military Cross for conspicuous gallantry. Would such a man be likely to do anything to keep other young men out of the service, especially when he offered his own services in any capacity.

"Mr. J. Brown" would do well to aim his little poison darts in another direction. He spoils an otherwise strong contention when he descends to personalities.

FIGHTING AND VOTING.

THE BILL INTRODUCED in the Legislature by Provincial Treasurer McGarry giving the vote to every enlisted man, whether he be 18 or 45 years old, has aroused some criticism from the prominent Liberals in Toronto. They are disposed to question the wisdom of such a measure on the ground that a boy of 18 is too young to vote intelligently.

A young man, mature enough for military service, especially when he volunteers for that service, should certainly be given some consideration over the weakling who hangs back. The sponsor of the bill seems to have put the case in a nutshell when he declared that anyone old enough to fight was certainly old enough to vote. The chances are, too, that every man affected by the measure will have attained his majority long before he has a chance to use the ballot.

A prominent lawyer in Toronto, in an interview, declares that better results would be attained at an election if none were allowed to vote before they had reached the age of 25 years. This lawyer would set back the clock of the world by four years to no purpose. Twenty-five is the minimum voting age in Germany, and even the objecting lawyer would hardly, we take it, go so far as to claim that his plan has worked out successfully in the Kaiser's dominions.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

AN ELECTED BODY has no right to dodge responsibility by voting by ballot.

SIR ROBERT AT THE CONFERENCE

When Sir Robert Borden attends the Imperial Conference of 1917, to which he has been invited by Premier Lloyd George, he will speak for Canada with an influence second to that of no other British public man. Imperial statesmen are not insensible of those unique qualities which during late years have made Sir Robert Borden a pronounced personal force in shaping British politics.

The Conservative party came into power in Canada as the result of a national verdict at the polls on September 21st, 1911. The issue in that epoch-making election was the notorious Reciprocity agreement which involved the sacrifice by Canada of her economic independence. That sacrifice was agreed to by the Laurier Government, and an attempt was made to secure a snap verdict from the people before Canada could appreciate the full significance of the proposed departure. With patriotic zeal, Sir Robert Borden threw himself into the fight for the preservation of this nation's full independence. Canada, east and west, responded to his appeal, and he was placed in office as the political head of a nation proud of its conscious individuality.

In the memorable campaign of 1911 the charge was made that the Conservative party "waved the flag." It was repeated with new emphasis when the first great action of Premier Borden was to come forward with a proposal of a definite contribution by Canada of ships for the British navy. Britain's appeal for help based on developing conditions which now have materialized, was repested by the scandalous employment of a constitutional defect. The Senate majority, responsible to Sir Wilfrid Laurier over the heads of the Canadian people and their Government acted brazenly to nullify the timely proposals of Sir Robert Borden. The British people were dumbfounded while the German press enthused.

It would have been a good thing for Canada, for the Empire and for civilization itself if both political parties in the past had been waving the British flag. But the record shows that the Liberal party, which did not scruple at times to wave the German flag, studiously avoided joining hands with Sir Robert Borden in demonstrating an enthusiastic British sentiment. As a direct result, there has never been any doubt in recent years as to which party in Canada was entitled to the support of anti British elements.

Sir Robert Borden will take his seat at the Imperial Conference with the best possible claim to a voice in the proceedings there. He has earned the right to take advantage of this unique opportunity to throw Canada's strength into the balance in the highest interests of this nation, the Empire and the cause. His presence at the Conference will fit perfectly into that scheme of things which promises the best for humanity and the worst for the common enemy of civilization.

Asks That the Sale of Ancient Eggs Be Made a Criminal Offence

At the annual meeting of the Canadian Produce Association held in the city of Montreal last week a resolution was unanimously adopted praying the Government to enact such legislation as would make it an offence to buy or sell eggs unfit for human consumption.

A deputation was appointed to present the resolution to the Minister of Agriculture at Ottawa the following day. It was presented by Mr. A. E. Silverwood, of London, president of the association. The deputation was most graciously received, the minister assuring them that he was quite in sympathy in a general way with the object of the resolution.

The resolution reads as follows:

We, the Canadian Produce Association, in convention assembled in Montreal this day, after careful consideration based upon past experience, present for your earnest and immediate consideration, the folowing resolution, which, in our opinion, will establish the egg industry of Canada on a sound basis and insure for the product a recognized place in the markets of the world:

Whereas, the time has now arrived when Canada is producing a surplus of eggs in excess of its own consumption, and

Whereas, price paid producers, in future, will be largely governed by the price at which the export product can be sold;

Whereas, the present is a particularly opportune time to retain and improve our market as already established in Great Britain;

Whereas, in consideration of the keen competition for this market that will ensue after the war with countries such as Holland, Denmark and Russia, it is of the utmost importance to the industry that the Canadian eggs retain their favorable reputation on the British market for quality and dependability as to grading;

Whereas, our export trade in the past has seriously suffered from lack of standardization;

Whereas, the loss to the egg producers of Canada last year represented millions of dollars because of the marketing of bad eggs and eggs of inferior quality; therefore

Be it resolved that the Honorable the Minister of Agriculture be seriously urged to immediately have suitable legislation enacted to provide and legalize standards for all Canadian eggs, and to provide such inspection as may be necessary to enforce such legislation, and to issue Government certificates, if required; and further,

That this legislation prescribe regulations to provide against the sale of eggs unfit for food, making due allowance for reasonable deterioration, as provided in standards adopted.

THE HOUSEHOLD BUDGET

"Then you really do keep household accounts?"

It was the surprised query by one who has kept house for ten years to one who has done it for half that time.

"Of course I do. I wouldn't know what I was doing otherwise," said the younger housekeeper.

"But how does it help you?" asked doubting Thomasina.

"Don't you see? Instead of my money having me under its thumb worrying and torturing me, it is under my thumb. It cannot go tumbling out every time it takes a fancy to. I know almost exactly what each day is going to cost in housekeeping.

"I remember when I was first married and Bob would bring home the money for me at the beginning of each month. I used to feel so wealthy with all that in my hand that for the next few days I would buy all sorts of unnecessary things. Then by the end of the month we would be living on a daily diet of baked beans and rice. That was what made me decide to keep accounts, because I wanted to know what really did happen. It seems to me strange that girls are never taught those things.

The Budget Plan.

"Of course, I told Bob my troubles, and he said, 'Why don't you keep a budget of your monthly allowance?' Like most girls, I had no more idea what a budget was than a baby would have. I had read rather vaguely about budgets and things that they had in parliament, but I couldn't see how that had anything to do with paying rent and gas bills and buying butter and eggs and beefsteak and so on.

"But Bob said that there could be monthly household budgets just as well as there was an annual budget for the whole country's expense. He explained it very simply. He said it was just a list of things you expected to have to buy in the year, or month or any specified time, and when you added it up you knew how much money you would need.

"Of course, with me it would not be exactly how much I would need but how wisely I could divide up the amount that I knew definitely I would get.

"So for that first month I just kept an account of every cent I spent. It did make me more careful because when you have not a whole lot it makes you feel silly to have to write down foolish things you have spent money on — especially when you realize that the money was not earned by being foolish, but that it all represented good hard work.

The Daily Average.

"Well, at the end of that month the first thing I noticed was that we did not have to take to the beans and rice diet until the very last day.

"Then I went through my accounts carefully, found out how much I had spent on meat and milk and butter, and such things. I brought it down to the average for a day. In consequence, I could see then where I could have saved. Then I made out a list of what I was likely to have to spend on each thing during the month. That, you see, was my budget.

"For the first few months I was usually off a little bit in my calcula- forgotten, too, in my budget to allow the variation of prices governed by the season or by the supply. I had forgotten, too, in my ubdget to allow a margin for special things if anyone was ill.

"But now I can tell almost to five cents what it costs for meat, butter, eggs and all the essential goods for each day. And if we are extravagant one day, I know that we must make up for it the next day.

"You have no idea how interesting it makes the housekeeping. I used to half envy girls who were in business. Housekeeping seemed so stupid beside their work. But now I wouldn't exchange with anyone. And I am always figuring out some way I can save. It is the most delightful feeling to find that you can start a little bank account for our housekeeping, all ready for the rainy day which may come.

THE HOUSEKEEPERS' GUIDE

Watch the advertisements on this page, They will appear every Friday.

CORNED BEEF

Home-corned beef could be used with advantage more frequently than it is in some households, where too much dependence is placed upon pork as an article of diet. Its preparation does not offer more difficulty than does the curing of pork: and some parts of the beef carcass can really be used to better advantage when corned than if used fresh.

The cheaper or thinner cuts from the carcass, such as the rump, flank, shoulder, plate, cross ribs and brisket, are commonly used for corning. The carcass should first be thoroughly cooled before it is cut.

The parts to be corned should be cut into pieces about six inches square. Try to cut the pieces all the same thickness in order to get an even layer when packing them in a jar or barrel. After the meat has been cut weigh out about 10 pounds of common barrel salt for every 100 pounds of meat. Sprinkle another layer of salt and then a layer of meat. Keep on in this manner until the meat is packed. Try to have enough saltpetre left from your brine mixture to cover the last layer.

For every 100 pounds of meat packed weigh out four pounds of brown sugar, four ounces of saltpetre and two ounces of baking soda. Dissolve this mixture in about one gallon of boiling water and let stand until colored; then pour it over the meat in the barrel. Add enough cold water to cover the meat and then weigh the latter down by putting a round piece of clean board and a stone on top to keep all parts in the liquid.

The object in using the ingredients mentioned is as follows: The salt has an astringent effect and will preserve the meat, but if used alone will harden the muscle fibre. The sugar is to soften the muscle fibre and at the same time add flavor to the meat. The small amount of saltpetre is used to retain the natural red color of the meat, which is destroyed if only salt and sugar are used. The baking soda will aid in keeping the brine sweet.

Meat pickled in this way is ready to be used at the end of from 20 to 25 days, but should be left in the brine until used. The vessel with the meat should be kept in some cool place, as the sugar will have a tendency to ferment if it becomes too warm. A cool, well-ventilated cellar is an ideal place to keep it. In case the brine becomes thick and ropy it should be poured off, and a fresh brine put over it. Beef, when properly cured, will keep long into the summer or fall.

BUYING FOOD

Learn the real cost — not how little did it cost, but how much real nourishment was secured with the money spent.

Plan the meals ahead so that one may avoid constant small orders to the tradesmen. Remember that the customer pays for paper bags, string and delivery.

Avoid the expensive meats and other foods, the price of which is high in the early season and lower later, e.g., spring lamb, broiling chickens, early strawberries, early vegetables, etc.

Buy sparingly the foods which are procured more for their taste than their nourishment, e.g., bouillon, many relishes and condiments, many imported or hot-house fruits and vegetables.

Buy Canadian grown and Canadian manufactured foods. There are too many imported jams and canned foods on our grocers' shelves. Leave them there and they will disappear.

People with a garden and the necessary time can greatly lessen the food cost by canning their own fruits and vegetables. Meats also may be canned to advantage when prices are low.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS.

Add a few drops of water to the gasoline used in cleaning clothing and you will have no "ring" about the spot you have cleaned.

Folks have found out that if any kind of vegetable boils down on the stove, it help to lift the kettle out and let it stand in a big basin or pan of water a while. This almost takes out the burned taste and smell.

A funnel makes a handy egg separator. Break the egg into it and the white will slip through, leaving the yolk unbroken.

Put scraps of cold meat through the food chopper and stir these in corn meal mush when making it to fry. This makes an appetizing dish for breakfast.

SOME BUTTER SUBSTITUTES

A so-called butter substitute that may be used for pan frying, for shortening and in some sauces, is made with suet, lard and butter; buy two pounds of leaf lard, two pounds of beef suet and one pound fresh butter. Try out the first two articles as directed below and mix the fats, add the butter while they are still warm. This will give you five pounds of excellent shortening that will be first-class in pastry, cookies, gingerbread and for sauteing, at about 20c a pound.

To try out suet and leaf lard, cut into small pieces and place in the inside kettle of double boiler until the fat is out. Strain through a cheese cloth. The remaining fibres should be returned to the kettle and covered with boiling water and after a few minutes this may be strained. The fat will cool on top of the water in a cake and the latter may be poured off.

All fat should be trimmed from meat when preparing it for cooking, and the frying from pork and especially from bacon should be saved, clarified, and used for certain cookery for which it is superior to lard or butter. This is more than economy, it is comon sense, for "drippings," as housekeepers call this mixture of fats, is highly prized by good cooks everywhere. If you are fortunate enough to have chicken, duck or goose fat, render it out and add it to the mixture. A very little of this answers for browning and for shortening. When particles of meat or other foods are in the dripping let it settle and pour off the top, which will be quite clear in a moment or two. The residue may be saved for soap making. It does not take long to save enough fat scraps to make a crock of soft soap for kitchen use, and this home-made soap is highly valued by the home worker who likes having her hands soft and white.

Some useful hints for use when frying in deep fat are: When fat is put to heat for frying put in a cube of bread. If the fat gets too hot the bread will scorch and you can smell it in time to save the fat. Nothing removes the burned taste from fat that has burned.

When a cube of bread turns golden brown in a minute and a half fat is just right to fry in. Meats and foods that have not been previously cooked should not be fried as rapidly as croquettes and boulettes.

A frying basket is made of wire and fits into the frying kettle. It permits you to lift the cooked food out all at once without breaking it, prevents spilling fat and saves many accidents. One should not attempt to fry without this accessory.

Lastly: Fried food is not more unwholesome than food prepared in any other manner if you work quickly and have the fat hot enough to coat the food as soon as it enters the kettle.

JOHN B. THOMSON IS DEAD AT GRAND RAPIDS

Chief Thompson received a telegram from Sup. of Police A. A. Carroll, Grand Rapids, Mich., stating that John B. Thomson had died there last night, and asking that his brother, Geo. Hamilton, who runs a foundry, be notified. It also stated that a sister, Miss Ann Thomson, lives in this city. The deceased had given his age as 72, and three fingers of his right hand are missing.

Kept Fit Through Two Wars

Ontario Sapper Praises Dr. Cassell's Tablets.

That a soldier should use and praise Dr. Cassell's Tablets is clear proof of the wonderful sustaining power of this great strength-giving medicine. And thousands of service men on and and sea are trusting to Dr. Cassell's Tablets to sustain them through all the hardships of relentless war.

SAPPER A. HARTLEY, OF THE A. COMPANY, CANADIAN ENGINEERS, whose home address is 906, TRAFALGAR STREET, LONDON, ONTARIO, is one of many who have written in praise of Dr. Cassell's Tablets. He says:—"As a constant user of Dr. Cassell's Tablets I would like to add my testimony to their value. I used them when I was in the South African War, and, finding the benefit of them there, have taken them since whenever I felt run down. I always recommend them, for I know they do all that is claimed for them. In my opinion they are the best tonic anyone can take for loss of appetite, poorness of the blood, or general weakness of the system. We have had a lot of hard training here, and some time ago I began to feel the strain, but I got some Dr. Cassell's Tablets, and the boys are surprised at what a difference they made in me. I mean to have some with me always on active service."

Sapper Hartley.

Dr. Cassell's Tablets put new life and vigour into weak, overstrained people. They nourish the nerves, enrich the blood, strengthen the general system, and create that snap and fitness which make life a joy. Take a course of them, and health and vital energy will soon be yours.

GOVERNMENT IS ALWAYS UP TO PUBLIC OPINION

Premier Hearst Makes Significant Statement in Legislatures When Women's Suffrage Was Being Discussed.

TORONTO, Feb. 16.— Women's franchise in tangible form came to the front in the Legislature when Mr. N. W. Rowell surprised the Government by moving an amendment to the Address in reply to the speech from the Throne. This was seconded by Mr. Allan Studholme and was in the following terms:—

"That the following be added to the motion: And this House would respectfully represent to your Honor that in considering the question of the franchise the just claims of women to equal franchis should be recognized; and this House would approve of the immediate enactment of legislation to extend the legislative and municipal franchise to women on the same basis as men."

The leader of the Opposition made an earnest, powerful appeal in support of conceding the vote to women, mentioning that the western provinces had already granted this, and proposals were now before the British Parliament contemplating similar action.

Premier Hearst did not commit himself on the point raised, stating that the proper time for a discussion of the subject and a statement of policy by the Government was when the bills which had already been entered came up for consideration. Sir William added that when the statement of the Government was made the leader of the Opposition "will find that this Government is always abreast of public opinion on every great question, and will do the right thing and do it at the right time."

10,000 CARS OF COAL BLOCKED

DRASTIC INSTRUCTIONS TO HAVE THEM MOVED.

BRIDGEBURG, Feb. 16.—There are in the terminals here and at Black Rock and Welland, as well as along the sidings extending from here to Welland, about ten thousand cars of coal, which the railways have been unable to move out of the tangled thousands of freight cars. These cars have to be moved. Instructions have been issued to the superintendents at the local terminals to prevent trespassers, mostly coal agents, who have been camping in the yards in an effort to locate cars consigned to customers, from entering the yards. The officials say the presence of these agents in the yards does not help the situation, because of their eagerness to bribe railway yardmen in an effort to get their cars shunted to sidings. They have been very generous in handing out money, which the officials have concluded has had a demoralizing effect upon employes.

The Canadian officials say they are anxious to get the coal moving, because the American railways have been warned by the Public Service Commission of Buffalo, that drastic action will be instituted if operating officials do not speedily resort to a shaking-up process in the Buffalo terminals, which are clogged up to a much greater extent than those on the Canadian side of the border. Besides, several thousand cars of coal consigned to Canada, which are in the Buffalo terminals, there are three thousand loaded freight cars which the Canadian railways are unable to handle. They have been there for weeks.

Since the Grand Trunk lacks engines and crews, the Erie, Pennsylvania and Lackawanna have agreed to run their American crews and engines over the Canadian lines as far as Hamilton and Toronto. An effort was made to get the Erie to send engine and crews with a string of loads as far as Sarnia. Efforts in that direction failed.

promoted and given a commission in the Imperial Flying Service.

Mrs. D. J. Perry, Simcoe St., has received word that her husband, Capt. D. J. Perry, of the Canadian Forestry Batt., is suffering from severe bruises and scalp wounds as a result of an accident. The message came from Dr. Morton of the C.A.M.C.

HAMMER USED AS WEAPON?

JAMES INNIS SHOWS SCAR OF BATTLE.

At the Police Court this morning James Innis was charged with assaulting Mrs. Freeborn and a counter charge was made against the lady.

Innis appeared in the witness-box with a nasty scar on his forehead which he stated had been received when Mrs. Freeborn hit him with a hammer. On the other hand, Mrs. Freeborn testified that the defendant came to her store to deliver a case of ginger ale and had thrown her over a pile of boxes when she had tried to hurry him out of the basement.

The magistrate dismissed both cases.

FLOGGING WAS ADMINISTERED

MOTHER WAS NOT STRONG ENOUGH, SO POLICE GAVE THE PUNISHMENT.

The two juveniles who were sentenced to be flogged at the police station on Wednesday have received their punishment, and will report weekly to the chief of police.

Police Magistrate Dumble always gets the consent of the parents or guardian before asking an officer of the court to administer corporal punishment. There is no law on the statute books that gives the court power to impose a sentence of this kind, but, as the Magistrate says, "a good whipping will often do more good than confinement in a cell."

In these two cases the boys were of such an age that the mother was not strong enough to punish them at home.

FINED $2 AND COSTS.

S. S. Joyce, of Havelock, was fined $2.00 and $3.40 costs by County Magistrate Langley for a violation of the village transient traders' by-law.

EXAMINATIONS FOR TEACHERS

SEVEN OUT OF NINE CANDIDATES TOOK OVER 80 PER CENT.

The following names, in order of merit, passed the teachers' training course examination in Old Testament work, in conection with the George St. Methodist S.S.:

Mrs. A. F. Bookhout, Mr. Bruce A. Hamilton, Miss Sarah J. Miller, Miss Jennie L. Belford, Mr. Morley E. Smith, Miss Lottie Middleton, Miss Marion Virtue, Miss Isabelle McBride, Mr. Chas. D. Lathrope.

It reflects great credit on Mr. Ingall, the teacher of this class, when seven out of this number took over 80 per cent., and all succeeded in passing.

MANY PATRONS AWAIT THE SPRING FOOTWEAR---IT'S HERE!

THE J&K SHOE FOR WOMEN

From Many Leading American and Canadian Makers—Including J & K's

Long ago, we purchased this footwear for spring, and greatly impatient were we for its arrival. We were, and are, intensely interested in it, for it is unusually attractive. The designers seem to have laid particular stress on black and white, for tracings of white stitching are revealed on many models. Chocolate and champagne are in favor, also black patent vamps and white poplin uppers. But it is impossible to enumerate them all; hence our invitation for you to visit the Second Floor and share our enthusiasm.

WELCOME AND GARLAND OF ROSES FOR MISSIONARY

J. R. Turnbull Writes of Arrival in India.

Mr. John R. Turnbull, who left Peterborough last fall to take up missionary work in India, in a letter to Mr. I. N. Ackerman, of Norwood, says:—

Hehmadabad, Kaira District,
B.P. India, Dec. 26, 1916

Dear relatives: Esconced in a little bungalow at last in the big Hindu triangle of India. Bullock carts are stirring up the dust in the adjacent main road, while brown babies are romping about the compound. It is wonderful to be really at home

My trip from America was most fascinating throughout. Sixteen days across the Pacific to Japan gave me a taste of billowy weather, and withal, a good rest. In Tokio, Yokohama and Kope I romped about (with the help of a jinrikisha) as curious as a boy at a country fair, looking at shrines, native shops, parks, quaint customs, etc. The passage through the famous Inland Sea was like a visit to the Abodes of the Blessed—islands terraced to the very summit, moonlight on a tranquil sea and balmy breezes.

In Shanghai I expored the aristocratic as well as the humbler quarters, got lost and took a street car (yes, a real street car) at a guess within a mile of the dock. In Hong Kong, the city on a hill, I made splendid connections transhipping to a French mail boat, that called at Indo-Chinese ports, Haiphong, Touron, and Saigon whence comes a great supply of tea for your supper table.

At Singapore the flying and jelly fish disported themselves in a clear sea of green while brown-skinned Oriental youths in canoes dived for pennies. I got off at Colombo and took the train to northern Ceylon, crossing to India in two hours on a fast ferry.

The morning of Nov 23 I first trod on Indian soil and reached Bombay four days later, being delayed a day by the worst flood in thirty years, which necessitated my crossing a certain moist area on a hand-cart pushed by coolies. My big brother met me in Bombay and showed me around the city. It is the second in size in the British Empire and may well be proud of its harbors, hills, boulevards, parks, monuments and colleges

We came north 300 miles and the celebrations began when I stepped from the train on to the platform of the little country station. A native Christian put a garland of roses about my neck and I was driven to the senior missionaries' residence in a two-wheelel carriage, where the native Christians lined the driveway to greet me with songs of welcome. Over the gateway was a golden "Welcome," and strings of flags fluttering from tree to tree about the approach. A wee speech of appreciation was interpreted by my brother Louis and a period of handshaking followed, with much smiling

At present the climate is very agreeable. Christmas day we had tea under the tamarind trees and I am now comfortable in a palm beach suit, but in June and July the heat is intense, ranging from 104 to 112 degrees, even in May.

This is supposed to be the most civilized province in the country, which may not infer much. However, we are very thankful for good mail and railway service. Food is simple but adequate, and canned fruit, etc., can be obtained from Bombay by any who care to have a spree. The Mohomedans conquered India several centuries ago and many ruins of old palaces are scattered in this vicinity, including what the historians say is the original Blue Beard Castle, just two miles away on the river bank.

Language study and getting acquainted with the work keep me from idling. The need among the sick, maimed, blind, ignorant and helpless is great, but He is sufficient

John R. Turnbull

FOWLER'S PEBLO GLASSES

HESITATION
DOES NOT PAY

Some people hesitate to have their eyes tested, because they are practically convinced they need glasses, but are afraid of appearances. That kind of hesitancy does not pay. Eyes that need help are surely worth helping. They get worse if the strain goes on, and Dr. Fowler's extremely neat gold mounts and beautifully transparent "PEBLO" Lenses rather add to than detract from the appearance.
